He quoted Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen as having said in a recent address that in the future war could never bring victory to any nation and that they could solve no problems.

It was his opinion that at present all Centra Europe was a seething caldron of hate and fear and that the only reason there was not active war in the world to-day was lack of funds.

EIGHT BOAT LOADS LOST ON "SPY" DAY

Veteran Sea Captains Recall Former Wrecks of Old Sealing Vessels.

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld., March 24.—Isolated occurrences from Newfoundland's almost limitless history of seafaring are coming to light with increasing frequency as old-timers take their pens in hand to enlighten the readers of the St. John daily papers. A recent letter in the Telegram from Thomas Wells of Little Bay describes the loss of 24 men from the sealing vessel Little Deerhound on "Spy" Wednesday, April 8, 1868. The Deerhound was in command of Captain John Bartlett, great-uncle of Bob Bartlett who took Peary to the Polar regions.

"On that day twelve boats—four men to a boat—left the Little Deerhound. The vessel was in a large lake or bay of water under sealing canvas when the boats were put out. The ice lay in skirts, on which the young seals, after dipping, would enjoy themselves in the warm sun, and cold be easily captured.

"The day was warm and fine up to noon, when wind and snow suddenly burst on the whole fleet like a bolt from the blue. The little Deerhound beat up to the skirt while the water was smooth. But the boats were not there. Evidently they had run for the vessel while she lay to leeward of them. Consequently they missed each other. There were eight boats out, 32 men. Our boat got on board Captain Hopkins, another reached a Carbonear vessel, but the other six boats and 24 men were never accounted for.

REQUIRE $250,000 TO MAKE REPAIRS

Recent Fire Loss at Queen's University Comes at Most Inopportune Time.

(Special to The Examiner)

KINGSTON, March 26—The trustees of Queen's University are looking about for ways and means to restore Kingston Hall, recently damaged by fire. This fire was inopportune for Queen's finances are low. But the standards must be maintained. The hall has long been overcrowded. In ten years the Arts attendance has doubled from five hundred to a thousand. Will the hall be raised another story with dormer windows or will another hall be rearer? It will require $250,000 to extend and make allowance for the future. Where that amount is to come from is the problem that worries trustees. Meantime, it has been decided to make the hall fireproof and study developments that must be decided by May 1st.

FLORENCE CELEBRATES

FLORENCE, Italy, March 25 (A.P.)—The Feast of the Annunciation, recalling the visit of the angel Gabriel to the Blessed Virgin to tell her that she was to become the Mother of Christ, was celebrated here to-day with particular solemnity in the famous Church of the Annuziata, rich with the treasured works of the painter, Andrea Del Sarto.

YOUNG PEOPLE HEAR ADDRESS

Peace River Country Ably Described by Mrs. Alice Relyea.

AT QUEENSBORO.

QUEENSBORO, March 25 (Examiner Correspondence)—An interesting program was given at the Young People's meeting held in the church on Friday night. The principle item on the program was an illustrated talk given by Miss Alice Relyea on the "Peace River country."

Miss Relyea stated that Sir Alexander MacKenzie was the first white man to explore the country west of the Peace River. It was 137 years since MacKenzie made his first journey westward.

Last summer Dr. R. B. Cochrane travelled 1,300 miles through that country and calls it "The Last Great West." He says they saw fields of beautiful grain, prosperous homesteads and growing towns which give evidence of the richness of the soil. He also spoke of the beautiful wild flowers he saw growing almost everywhere. We are told that there was 40,000 acres of land under cultivation and that the 40,000 people in that area are growing more than all Alberta did 24 years ago.

13 Ordained Ministers

The United Church has 13 ordained ministers and 11 students in the two Presbyteries of Grand Prairie and Peace River and last year appropriated $19,450 for the suport of the work there. Rev. C. E. Rogers is stationed at Rolla, which is 65 miles from the nearest railroad station. The log cabin he and his family live in cost less than $400. The work is difficult because the settlers are scattered, twenty miles of wooded land between the neighborhoods of people, the people having homesteaded wherever the land seemed most inviting. This has created problems for the settler, the church and the government, and no more free homesteads are given but the government helps the people to settle on the more difficult areas.

Mrs. John O'Rourke read and explained the scripture lesson from Joshua, 1, 1-18, pointing out the necesity of strong qualities in the people who are appointed leaders and responsibility for inspiring and encouraging others into doing their best day by day for the cause of right. Margaret Leslie gave a missionary recitation which was much enjoyed. Mrs. J. F. Everson gave a paper on rural life and conditions in Japan, setting forth some of the features of farm life in that country from which it was easily noticable that the Japanese have a real struggle for existence and know nothing of the ease, plenty and luxury so prevalent among our Canadian folk.

The hymns used were "Whosoever heareth, shout, shout the sound," "We've a story to tell to the nations" and "A better day is coming." Prayer was offered by the pastor.

Hunt Continues For Missing Air Liner

MELBOURNE, March 25 (A.P.)—The air liner Southern Cloud, missing with seven occupants for four days, still was sought to-day by a score of planes and a thousand men on foot.

After scouring the bush for hours, one party reported they had sighted what they believed were the wings of an airplane in a ravine in the Straghogie ranges about 80 miles from here. With dusk coming on, it was impossible to proceed further and the search in that region will be continued to-morrow.

Wing Commander Charles Kingsford Smith again plunged into the hunt following the installation of a new propeller on his plane to replace the one he broke in a forced landing yesterday.

WOULD BAN DUTY ON FROZEN MEAT.

BERLIN, March 25 (C.P.).—The Berlin Chamber of Commerce and Industry to-day urgently petitioned the Federal Government to reintroduce into the Reichstag the proposal to revive the annual duty free importation of fifty thousand tons of frozen meat.

The Reichstag once before this year has passed this, but the Reichsrat, or State Council, rejected it on March 13. The Chamber of Commerce emphasized desirability of the measure as benefiting the country's foreign trade, particularly with Argentina, and contended that such a small amount could not possibly harm German agrarian interest.

District Churches

FENELLA

FENELLA, March 26 (Examiner Correspondence)—Dr. Margaret MacKellar, missionary to India and at present on furlough in Toronto, was the special speaker at the W.M.S. service in Fenella United Church on Sunday morning.

Starting her address with a short spiritual message she quoted, "It is I, be not afraid." John 6:20. "Mary going early to her Saviour's tomb found it empty." What a calamity it would have been had Mary found the body of her Lord still in the tomb" said the speaker. "We women owe all we have to the gospel of Jesus Christ so we should be ready to do all in our power to send the gospel to those who do not know Him."

Dr. MacKellar told of her work in Central India. She said, "India, which is only two thousand miles from Cape Cameron in the south to Cape Cashmere in the north, has a population of 351 millions, and it has a birth rate of eight millions per year. In Central India there are three million souls under the care of the United Church of Canada and to serve this vast number of people there are ten Canadian doctors. In India, forty years ago, there were eight missionaries and to-day there are eighty missionaries. At that time there were but thirteen native girls in training and to-day there are five boarding schools with from seventy-five to one hundred and fifty girls in each school. The whole time of five W.M.S. missionaries is taken up in these schools.

The children of India have four more commandments to learn than the Canadian children, these having been given to them by Britain and are: "Thou shalt not throw thy daughters into the Ganges; Thou shalt not burn thy widows; Thou shalt not bury thy lepers alive and Thou shalt not marry thy daughters until they are fourteen years of age."

Speaking of her pospital in Neemuch in Central India, Dr. MacKellar said, "It is more important to have hospitals for women, because the men can go to the government hospitals. When building the hospital, it was possible to have a white marble floor in the operating room because a Canadian, Howard MacKenzie, working in Northern India, donated a sum of money and this donation was used for the floor. Inset above three doors of the hospitable are marble blocks, inscribed on which are mottoes in Letters of gold. Over the main doorway so that all may read is written in three languages, 'We wash the wounds and God heals them.' This hospital is built of grey stone, has fifty-two beds with special wards for tubercular patients. There are fifteen trained workers in this hospital. A native medical woman doctor performs ninety-five per cent of the surgical operations. To-day in Central India there are nineteen fully organized churches with more than six thousand converts, besides many secret believers. When remembering your foreign missionaries do not forget those who have died out there in India in service. As their dust mingles with the dust of India that part of India is Canadian; truly it can be said of them, 'They have made the desert blossom like the rose' and 'Greater love hath no man than this, that a man lay down his life for his friend.'

The speaker was introduced by Mrs. A. Nill, circuit president, who presided during the service. T. Gussworth, of Camborne, baritone soloist, contributed a solo "Abide with Us" which was much enjoyed and well rendered. A duet, "God's Calling," was given by Mrs. Frank Down and Mrs. Clark Jewell, adding much to the impressiveness of the service. The scriptural reading, Mark 16:9-20 was read by Mrs. Saul Leach and the offering was taken by Mrs. Bruce Macklin and Mrs. Clifford Leach while the choir was composed of W.M.S. members.

The Colombian Government has just bought four American airplanes.

Customs Union To Go Before League Council

BRITISH PROTEST GOES UNHEEDED, UNION ADVANCES

Bruening Claims Accord is Within Geneva Protocol, Treaty of St. Germaine.

OPEN TO EXAMINATION.

Sir H. Rumbold Told Economic Union Will Take Several Months to Complete.

PARIS, March 26, (AP)—The Austro-German customs pact will be submitted to the council of the League of Nations for its judgment, it was agreed to-day by Foreign Secretary, Rt. Hon. Arthur Henderson of Great Britain and Aristide Briand no matter what attitude Germany and Austria may take.

This information was contained in a statement to the press to-day by a spokesman for the French Government, following a meeting between Henderson and Briand.

It was announced that the two statesmen anticipated that Germany and Austria would decide to pursue their tariff pact negotiations as disclosed by Chancellor Bruening at Berlin yesterday but it was agreed that this would not alter the fact that some one country interested in the Austrian reconstruction protocol of 1922 has the right to submit the customs agreement to the League Council. It was indicated that this country might be Czechoslovakia, which is one of the guarantors of the Austrian loan.

BERLIN, Mar. 26.—(AP)—Despite a British suggestion that Germany and Austria take their projected economic union before the Council of the League of Nations, the two Governments were represented today as firm in their intention to carry out plans to which most of the nations of Europe have taken exception.

Chancellor Bruening, in a Government statement said, told the British Ambassador that the proposed customs accord was within the bounds of the Geneva Protocol and the Treaty of St. Germaine, which pledge Austria to maintain its independence, and that in the opinion of the two Governments there was no reason for the League Council to take up the matter.

Take Months To Finish

The Chancellor informed the Ambassador, however, that such was the detail connected with the accord and that it probably would be two or three months before it could be made effective. The council of the League of Nations meets in May.

He further stated that if other governments wish to examine legal aspects of the accord, Germany and Austria will not object, since there is no reason for them to fear the outcome of such examination but that the accord is purely economic and that the German Government considers it inadmissible to submit the agreement to examination from a political viewpoint.

The statement recalled the Chancellor's words before the German Trade and Industry Association yesterday when he said that both Governments were "determined to proceed on their way with quiet frankness."

Ambassador Calls

Sir Horace Rumbold, the Ambassador, had called at the instruction of Rt. Hon. Arthur Henderson, British Foreign Secretary. He told the Chancellor that Mr. Henderson considered it advisable in the interest of all parties concerned that the Austro-German agreement be discussed jointly and that its conclusion be deferred until after the next meeting of the League of Nations Council which could decide if it would affect the Geneva Protocol and the St. Germaine Treaty.

A similar approach was made by the British Ambassador at Vienna.

STEAMERS COLLIDE

NEW YORK, N.Y., Mar. 26. (CP) The steamer Pacific Cedar which reported early to-day that she had been in collision with an unidentified vessel off Barnegat, N.J., arrived at Sandy Hook, shortly after 6 a.m. on her way to New York.

The ship radioed to the Coast Guard that her lower hold was filled with water after the collision but that she was not in need of assistance and was proceeding to New York under her own power.

ICE IS MOVING FROM HARBORS IN GREAT LAKES

Open Water Visible in Superior and Ports of Lake Huron.

ERIE ALMOST CLEAR.

Fields Reported Between Detroit and Cleveland—St. Clair River Open.

DETROIT, Mich., March 26—Ice fields in the Great Lakes are disappearing under the influence of seasonable weather. Some harbors are clear and ice in others in thawing rapidly, Norman B. Conger, U.S. meteorologist says in the ice report issued here.

Ice is broken up in the Duluth Superior Harbor, the reports says, and the lake is clear of ice fields beyond vision. Port Arthur, Ont., reported from nine to twelve inches of ice in the harbor. No ice fields were reported off Keewenaw Point, while Marquette reported some slush fields in sight. There were no ice fields east of Whitefish Point. The ice continues solid behind Grand Island. Sault Ste. Marie reported an average of 16 inches of harbor ice, which is softening rapidly. The ferry resumed operations March 20

In Lake Michigan, Escanaba had 13 inches of ice in the harbor and there was freezing anew of ice fields in Green Bay, after moving for a time with the winds. The west shore of the lake is free of ice as is the east shore to near Charlevoix. Ice fields two miles wide were reported at Charlevoix and other ice at Beaver Island. The Straits of Mackinac are covered with eighteen inches of ice, heavily windrowed and continuing firm. The field extends beyond vision to the west and east of Mackinaw.

Huron Open

Open water is visible in Lake Huron three miles east of Mackinaw Island and ice extending from Bois Blanc Island to St. Martin's Island is weakening. Cheboygan reported no ice, nor is ice reported along the west shore to Saginaw Bay, which still is solid. Southampton reported ice extending half a mile into the lake, but at Goderich there are no ice fields visible. Port Huron reported ice fields beyond vision to the northeast. The St. Clair river is open to below St. Clair.

Ice is running out of Lake St. Clair, but a field continues at the extreme southern portion. A few fields are reported between Detroit and Cleveland.

Ice has almost disappeared from Western and Southern Lake Erie. Ashtabula reports some small fields. At Erie, the field extends northward for several miles and eastward beyond vision. Dunkirk reports extensive ice fields, with some open spaces, and Buffalo reported conditions varying from day to day.

FINGER-PRINTING FOR CRIME DETECTION INTERESTING STUDY

Robert E. Selby, a Graduate of University of Chicago, Explains Systems.

Practical Demonstrations.

The wonderful possibilities of finger-printing for the detection and prevention of crime was again brought to the attention of The Examiner by a recent interview with a finger-print graduate of Chicago University, Robert E. Selby holds a diploma from his college in recognition of his high standing following a complete course in finger-printing, Bertillon and the rudiments of photography. The Bertillon system was explained as a system of personal identification by recording the dimensions of the human body.

Mr. Selby was a member of the Military Police of the British Army and it was through this means that he first became interested in the science. As a result of his diploma from Chicago and subsequent practice in a private way, he has qualified for the superintendency of a bureau.

He has the complete equipment for latent prints, and is able to classify different photographs for the purposes of references which may lead to the detection of crime or the location of an heir alike.

Practical demonstrations of processes of finger-printing were given by Mr. Selby. A dark powder was sprinkled here and there, and after taking the interviewer's own finger-print, Mr. Selby was able to show just which things had been touched by him and which ones by another person.

This led to a discussion of the possibilities of the science. One or two applications were mentioned. The identification of a dead body may be made very simple if finger-print records have been kept. If prints were placed synonymous with the signatures for a passport, immigration violations would be curtailed to a great extent. Again, if there were continuel robberes being carried out, then the suspect could be finger-printed, and the marks from the safe or the cash box taken. This would prevent a burglar from being at large for a period of several years.

Mr. Selby was enthusiastic concerning the future importance of finger-printing, and expressed the hope that he would soon be in a position to devote his whole attention to the science which he has studied out.

BLIZZARD RAGES IN ROCKY REGION

Mail Planes Held Down and Roads in Many States Blocked.

FEAR WHEAT THREATENED.

DENVER, Colo., March 26. — The Rocky Mountain region was in the grip of a pre-Easter storm to-day.

The gale struck swiftly, howling down upon Montana and Wyoming to sweep snow last night into Colorado and on down into New Mexico. To the West, Utah felt its breath.

Henry C. Hollenbeck, National Parks Airway pilot, was forced down on lava fields south of Spencer, Ida. Airplanes of lines operating east and west through Cheyenne, Wyo., were kept on the ground.

Motorists were warned against attempts at travel. One who started out from Cheyenne for Greeley, Colo., last night managed to buck his way through three miles of drifts, piled up by a 40-mile-an-hour wind, and then fought for an hour to retract his way back.

Sub-zero temperatures were reported for several hundred miles along the path of the storm.

Rain, hail and snow fell intermittently yesterday throughout New Mexico. In Utah the snow melted as it fell, but in the mountains it stuck and deepened as the hours wore on. Some snow was reported as far west as Nevada. Barometic readings were rising in Montana early to-day.

The belated precipitation followed a winter so mild that the condition of winter wheat was jeopardized.

Simple Sport Togs are the Smartest this Season

SPORT CLOTHES MORE SUITABLE

A New Season of Fashions Introduced in the Active World.

SIMPLY TAILORED.

If there is one thing that influences sports clothes more prominently than anything else this year, it is the trend toward suitability to the occasion. It began in the smart resorts of southern France last summer, probably a vigorous reaction against that over-feminity in fashion which tried to force upon us the long sports skirts and such decorative pajamas outfits that they looked as if they belonged in the boudoir.

It had all the evidences of a protest when the smartest of the smart appeared day after day in French fisherman's jersey, beret, and linen or pique trousers that were considered all the more chic for being drenched in salt water and hung in the sun until they were weather-beaten.

The Smart Outfit is Practical.

To-day, the appropriate clothes, the right equipment for whatever you are doing, are the basic requirements for smartness. Take the question of long skirts. You will agree that long skirted tennis frocks are not appropriate. They are not even smart, for nothing can be smart that is out of place, and a long sports skirt is as out of place as an evening frock in the daytime. Three inches below the knee is a comfortable length for sports clothes and it is the accepted rule for this season.

Where strenuous activity is concerned, clothes must be adaptable, and that is the idea behind all sports apparel of to-day. The waistline is normal because it must stay in place while the body is permitted greatest freedom. The matter of sleeves is simple. For tennis where the arms must be free, sleeves are omitted entirely. When they do appear, they are loose and free of trimming so they can be turned up like a man's for real action.

"Freedom" Cry the Mode.

All sports wear is loosely fitted. The smart sports coat looks even a bit too big for its wearer, while in gloves, every smart woman asks for a size or two larger than her measure calls for.

Most important of all is the right material. Fashion has certainly supplied us lavishly this year with true sports fabrics, the linens, the shantungs, the mesh cottons, the knitted fabrics and rough tweeds.

We note that stylists are registering alarm at the prospect of color turned loose so riotously, lest women of not-too-sure discrimination in the matter of effects will indulge in it to their sorrow.

But we greet it with cheers in the sports field, for brilliant shades surely belong to the out-doors, where Nature's vivid summer colors demand all the gayety and freshness that can be achieved in the apparel that embellishes the landscape.

Simple Tailored for Sports.

The return of tailored things to leadership in sports fashions is indicated by the new summer models. The feminine type of dress or suit has given way to plain, well-fitted costumes for spectator as well as active sports. Suits with quite short jackets, and made of flannel, tweeds or knit fabrics are specially favored. Stress is placed on pleats and pleated effects.

Jackets of short bolero effect treated in various ways to give more the effect of the top of a one-piece dress or over-blouse are made of plain material when the dress is printed or of plaid or striped effect when the dress is of plain color.

A very enjoyable evening was spent at the home of Alex Lang, when over a hundred friends and neighbors of the community gathered in honor of his son, Vernon Langs approaching marriage. During the evening Clinton Endicott read an address and Harold Bannon made the presentation of a beautiful Aladin lamp, with parchment shade. Mr. Lang replied with a few suitable remarks. And the festivities were carried on until a late hour. The good wishes of the community go with Mr. Lang and his bride to their new home near Dunsford, where Mr. Lang has rented a farm.

LEAGUE SOCIAL.

Business Session at Havelock Gathering Followed By Games, Singing.

HAVELOCK, March 26 (Examiner Correspondence).— Last night was a red letter night in the history of the Havelock Senior Efficiency League. The meeting took the form of a social evening and an extra good attendance was the result. After the brief service of worship, and the transaction of business, the program opened with a snappy mixed quartette. This was followed by the usual contest, that was won by the Khaki group. Seven tables of progressive crokinole were then played by some of the members, while the remainder enjoyed group games. This very enjoyable meeting was fittingly climaxed by the serving of refreshments and the Mizpah benediction.

Yeast in palatable form

MARMITE, the great British yeast food, is an improvement on ordinary yeast. It is a vegetable yeast extract. And Marmite is much more palatable—has greater concentration and a wider variety of uses. Marmite is the richest known source of Vitamin B.

For adding zest and flavour to soups, stews, gravies, sauces, savouries and dressings, as well as to meat, fish and vegetable dishes, Marmite is invaluable. As a beverage Marmite is delicious and refreshing.

Just Between Us Women

A daily chat with Examiner neighbors conducted by Anne Wilcox

I notice that many of the housewives ordering patterns find it convenient to enclose stamps in payment while many enclose protected coins.

• • • • • • •

And so we will talk for a little while to-day concerning stamps and some good ways to send them in letters—not because I think you are not sending them right, but because there are lots of people who are interested in this subject.

• • • • • • •

So when you are sending stamps in payment for some article, be very careful to see that stamps sent, however trifling, are in perfect condition.

• • • • • • •

They should be free from any slightest tear or disfigurement on either the front or the back. Stamps that are not adhesive should be saved for personal use.

• • • • • • •

They are imperfect and cannot be used in the condition they are but require an application of paste or glue to make them usable. Send perfect stamps only and those most commonly used, such as one, two and five cent stamps.

• • • • • • •

There are three good ways of enclosing stamps in letters. One is to fold them in a piece of wax paper; the second is to clip them to the sheet of writing paper and the third is to slip them loose into the folded sheet of paper.

• • • • • • •

All of these ways allow the stamps to remain in perfect condition and easily accessible.

• • • • • • •

When stamps are sent in payment of small sums, it is wise to take a last look into the envelope before sealing it to assure yourself that the stamps are inside it.

• • • • • • •

A courtesy that is appreciated by the recipient very often, is the sending of commemorative stamps—those for which special dies have been made and that have a limited use.

• • • • • • •

Sometimes such stamps are specialized in restricted areas and are difficult to buy elsewhere.

• • • • • • •

These stamps like limited editions of books, are interesting to see and when the issue is exhausted, the value of the stamps increases. But this perhaps, applies only to times when you are sending the stamps to some personal friend.

Satisfied With Sack Suits.

Even the strongest propagandists of the Norfolk model aren't any too hopeful, but believe that they eventually will restore this style to the high plane it once occupied. Apparently mother (and father to a degree)a s well as ronny are satisfied with the two-button sack style with either peak or notch lapels—and, accordingly, will go under with the model for this season, at least.

AND COLORFUL SUITS.

In line with an effort to make spring as well as summer a colorful season sport jackets in solid colors with striped trousers will be shown in both suits for all ages of boys through to the twenties These will be novelty clothes, of course, with coats showing patch pockets, while the trousers in some instances will be pleated. Most of the coats will be single breasted.

A LAUGHING, animated, after-theatre crowd—and yet, in the midst of it all, they were alone. Throughout the performance Nedra has been conscious of David's admiring glances, his eyes filled with desire. The soft, satin-like glow of her skin tantalized him, he wanted to take her in his arms, to whisper his hopes for the future.

Nedra is just one of the millions of women who use Pompeian products, for she knows that while it is possible to pay more, it is impossible to buy better. Pompeian Beauty Powder spreads evenly — it does not cake — it clings for hours. One of its five shades has been prepared for your type. It is now available in cake form in an exquisite new Compact.

GANDHI DEPLORES CAWNPORE RIOTS

Claims Outbreaks Makes Steps Toward Liberty Very Difficult.

URGES FOR PEACE.

KARACHI, India, March 26 (C. P.). — Mahatma Gandhi to-day condemned and deplored communal rioting on Tuesday and Wednesday in Cawnpore, where 30 were killed and 200 injured before the disturbance was suppressed. He declared that such riots were a menace to the peace which now prevails between the Nationalists, gathering here for thei rannual meeting, and the Government.

"I am grieved and pained at such an orgy of hatred and bloodshed," Gandhi said. I can only hope that the poison will not spread. At this delicate juncture of our relations with the Government the slightest thing will disturb our mental balance.

"I appeal to the Indian nation to remain calm and not to allow the harmonious relations between the different racial communities to be disturbed. I hope the local leaders at Cawnpore will put their heads together quickly to restore peace Let it be remembered by those in a hurry to achieve India's freedom that such fanatical strife makes progress toward our ultimate goal of liberty increasingly difficult."

The meeting of the Music Club yesterday was featured by the presence of a new singer, Miss Blanche Clegg, who charmed her hearers with her youthful, fresh voice and the delightful manner in which she sang a number of pretty songs. Miss Clegg has come lately from Toronto to reside in the city and is a member of the choi of Trinity United Church.

Miss Musa Cox, a favorite pianist and an artistp upil of R. Gliddon, also favored the ladies with several beautifully-played piano selections. Her first number was an enchanting little thing of rippling melody, a Levitzki Waltz, followed by the buoyantly gay, syncopated measures of Poldini's Marche Mignonne and the graceful music of a Moszkowski Waltz in E. Major.

Miss Clegg whose lyric soprano of pure, fresh, sweet timbre, with a vibrant appealing quality in its lower register, was received with real enthusiasm by her audience, sang several light things, mainly of the Old English type. With Mrs. Agnes Logan Green playing her piano accompaniments, she gave in delightful fashion "To You", "When Maidens go A-Maying", "It was a Lover and His Lass" and a final duo, in "Cherry Ripe" and "May Day Morn."

Miss Clarry expressed her appreciation of the efforts of the musicians and announced Desne Miner's violin recital for April 14th.

Business Reports

Before the musical program, the reports for the year were read by the secretary, Mrs. G. E. Porter, and by the assistant treasurer, Mrs. W. F. Butcher, taking the place of the treasurer, Mrs. T. H. Gillespie, who was unable to be present at the meeting.

Sixty-eight members were register on the roll this season, a decrease of only two from the previous year's list. Later the president, Miss Clarry, pointed out that this membership total is quite as large, or perhaps larger, relatively speaking, than that of any other ladies' society in the city, many of which have suffered from decreased membership in the past year.

Mrs. Porter reviewed the activities of the year, in musical and social events, and thanked the assisting musicians, the accompanist, Mrs. Agnes Logan Green, and Mrs. N. D. Buchanan and her social committee, also the president, Miss Clarry, to whose untiring efforts much of the success of the season was due.

The financial report showed receipts of $450.35 and expenditures of $410.02, leaving a balance of $40.22 on hand.

The re-elected president Miss Clarry, thanking the members for their confidence in her, spoke of the excellent programs presented by assisting musicians during the past season and of the good attendance at the meetings. She also thanked the officers and executive members for their co-operation and support and expressed special appreciation of the work of the secretary, Mrs. G. E. Porter, the treasurer, Mrs. T. H. Gillespie, and the assistant treasurer, Mrs. W. F. Butcher.

Miss Clarry mentioned the death of three valued senior members during the past year: Mrs. H. Bender, Mrs. B. Gardiner and Mrs. Robt. Hall.

Salas was released several days ago from a jail in Moctezuma Chihuahua, after having written friends to Ciudad Jarez that he would proceed immediately when he had obtained his freedom. He has not arrived and no trace has been found fo him after his departure from Moctezuma.

Lumberjack Sets Leg Broken As Tree Falls

MARENGO, Wis., Mar. 26. (CP)—The proverbial hardihood of the north woods lumberjacks was typified to-day by Charles Maki who hobbled around town with a story of how he rescued himself from possible death after he had been injured by a falling tree.

Pinned to the ground and his leg broken, Maki realized he might not be found for days and set about to effect his own rescue. Managing to reach his saw, he cut himself free after strenuous effort and then set the broken bone, using chips for splints and binding them with leather-wood.

Fashioning the crutches from small trees, he reached camp after an hour's hobbling. Maki said the leg mended so well he didn't even consult a doctor. He expects to walk normally soon

TALL WOMEN ARE BEING FAVORED IN DRESS STYLES

London Fashion Show Achieves Striking Effects—Elaborately Staged.

HIGH MANNEQUINS.

LONDON, March 26.—The spring dress shows, which have started in London unusually early, are being most elaborately staged. Special furniture is used to give the right setting for the individual style of gowns sponsored by different houses, and mannequins are being employed whose names will be a draw in themselves. Mannequins from every country appeared at a dress parade last night. The outstanding figure was a Persian beauty, six feet tall and fair haired.

The new dresses demand tall women, and very few of the mannequins are less than 5 feet 8 inches in height, while there is a run on blondes to display the demure creations, which are a feature of the season. Every detail is carefully thought out, even to the style of hairdressing which must conform to certain general rules. It will be worn, mostly half-grown, coiled under at the nape of the neck and waved very slightly to show the curves of the cheek and head.

"A parade of feminine characteristics" is an apt description of last night's show. The perfect figure was illustrated by the draped gown worn by Andrea Mikinska, one of Eppstein's models. A golden gown slashed to disclose a flame net underslip and with it a cap of flame-colored sequins represented lipstick, and the other ingredients of make-up was christened Romance, and for Vanity there was a feather-trimmed gown.

Apron Skirt Appeared.

Court dresses and wedding gowns have exercised the ingenuity of the designers. A debutante's gown in flower-patterned white taffeta, sprinkled with gold beads, shows the new mode of the apron skirt which can be untied and used as a wrap. A white satin empire gown combined with bright green and embroidered with diamante is also completed with a draped wrap buttoned at the front. The buttons unfasten, the wrap slips over the skirt in four panels and the off-shoulder neckline is revealed. The elaborate trains which are an official part of the court gown, can be removed afterwards and used to drape the shoulders.

Hand-painted satin makes another gown; the glossy effect of the paint has been eliminated by mixing it with wool, which gives a dull surface. Another most effective material is made of real beaten silver which glimmers like moonlight on water, and the gown which features it is called "Reflection." A new shade of green, so pale that it gives the impression of tinted white, makes a delightful wedding dress. The designer has arranged for green cigarettes to be handed round while the mannequin displays this gown.

Puffs Below Elbows.

The most complicated hand-embroidery, hand-knitting and hand-crochete trims the latest dresses and coats. The delicacy of a black crepe-de-chine afternoon dress almost took one's breath. Tiny strips of black and white printed crepe, 150 pieces in all, were hand-stitched on the hem and on the bodice to form a yoke. Wide sleeves are decorated with wool embroidery in Roumanian designs. Amongst the many fanciful sleeve styles, the puff, starting a little way below the elbow, is the most popular. It is frequently carried out in lace or embroidery and is of a contrasting color. One entire suit, both coat and skirt, was composed of black crochet and the jumper was of pink broderie Anglaise.

Coat collars may be of knitted wool, amply paddded. Thus a navy blue coat has wide cuffs and roll collar of brushed knitted wool in shades of red and white. A new way with lamb pelt has been evolved by one designer. It is so pressed and stretched that it takes on the consistency of velvet; and very cute it looked in a beige sports coat trimmed with brown caracul.

LINGERIE TOUCHES AND SHORT SLEEVES FEATURE THE MODE OF THE MOMENT

(1) A pretty afternoon dress in black taffeta which is draped about the waist and along the hips. It is trimmed with a touch of embroidered linen. Note the matching hat and the long black gloves. (2) A smart ensemble of blue kasha moussa. The cape lined with plain design, is worn with a drawee-skirt. (3) Blue and white linen, combined with white pique and matching the shoes, makes this chic beach ensemble from Susanne Tablot. (4) Plaid design and woollen material, the vogue for daytime, is shown in this charming red, brown and gray tailored model made by Heim to be worn with a jacket trimmed with brown astrachan.

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M.D

MAKING OVER "BAD" CHILDREN

A few months ago we learned of a department at Yale University with its own building and equipment where a study will be made of the "behavior" of individuals. In the ordinary language of the day, research men will try to find out "why some people get that way." Just how do youngsters behave when by themselves and when with others will be observed without the youngsters knowing that they are being watched.

In some cases it will be possible for parents to observe their child as he plays with other children, and see just what kind of a youngster he really is, when he is not under authority. He will be watched closely by the members of the staff, and his peculiarities, and reactions to authority, to games, and other parts of the course of training, will be studied.

Any little thing that will make him less sociable, less willing or anxious to do his part in the group, will be noted. Everything will be done to train him to become a "part" of the group or class so that as he grows older he will fit in with the everyday life of the community.

And now we see another step in the study of children old enough to be attending school In New York a "behavior clinic to study and help youngsters who are 'backward' in their class work, youngsters who do not get along well with their teachers and the other children, and children who play truant, will soon be opened under the direction of the public school system of New York."

There will be two units; a main clinic, centrally located for diagnosis (locating the cause) and treatment of cases for the older children who do not get along well in school on account of their behavior; and a branch for investigations along preventive lines among the younger children.

To show how this important work is developing a new medical journal dealing entirely with this subject is now being published. It is called Orthopsychiatry —(ortho means straight) and means straightening out of the mind, or bringing it into a straight line, that is to a normal condition.

We can all remember youngsters who had constant trouble at school—whippings, detentions, suspensions—and we never thought any more about it than that they were "bad" or mischievous. These youngsters will now be better understood, will be given a chance to "make good," and become useful members of the community instead of giving trouble to their families and others.

This looks like good common sense, and yet we are only just beginning to find it out.

PAIR OF PERMITS BRINGS CHARGE

Haliburton Man With Alias Pleads Guilty to Using Fictitious Name.

JUDGMENT RESERVED.

LINDSAY, March 26.—(Examiner Correspondence)—At yesterday's session of the county police court John Kellett alias "Larry O'Brien" of Haliburton, pleaded guilty to the charge of obtaining a liquor permit under a fictitious name. He pleaded not guilty to the charge of having liquor for sale. Police Magistrate Jordan reserved judegment until Tuesday, March 31.

Kellett, who is manager of the Cherokee Company, a travelling medicine outfit, obtained a permit in Toronto under the name "Larry O'Brien" and purchased the second permit at the local brewery warehouse under the name Kellett. He proceeded to use both permits at the liquor store for wine purchases where the similarity in mail orders and signatures was detected by the vendor. Purchases were refused, and Kellett protested to the Liquor Board. The Provincial Police investigated the circumstances and Kellett was placed under arrest. County Crown Attorney Anderson conducted the prosecution.

Hollander Exiled 5 Years for Lie

CHICAGO, Ill., Mar. 26. (CP) A five year exile from the United States to atone for an alleged falsehood told when he applied for citizenship was the punishment Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson gave to Nicholas Graaman.

Judge Wilkerson gave him the option of returning to his wife and two children in Holland for five years or face a penitentiary sentence. Graaman elected to accept the exile and was given until June 1 to comply.

Graaman was charged with perjury in connection with a statement concerning his manner of entry to the United States and his papers were removed because he had been smuggled in from Canada.

SNAG CROPS UP IN NAVAL ACCORD

French Expert Returns From Paris and Confers With Henderson, Briand.

REACH FINAL DETAILS.

PARIS, March 26. (AP)—Despite official French statements that all was proceeding well, difficulties were believed to have arisen to-day in working out the final details of the naval accord between Great Britain, France and Italy and in making it conform with the London Naval Treaty.

Rene Nassigli, French expert, returned to-day to Paris from London, where he has been engaged with representatives of the other nations concerned in the work, and immediately went into conference with Aristide Briand and Rt. Hon. Arthur Henderson, British Foreign Secretary, who have been concerning themselves with the Austro-German projected economic union.

According to Le Journal elaboration of the text of the naval accord is encountering more difficulties than is officially admitted in Paris. The drafters must not only meet the question of satisfying the United States and Japan, said the newspaper, but must also answer the objections of the British admiralty concerning the French proportion of submarines and the system of replacement of light cruisers and battleships.

SEATTLE DEFEATS LIONS.

SEATTLE, Mar. 26.—(A.P.)—Shooting goals with reckless abandon, Seattle conquered Vancouver 6-1 here last night to even the play-off series one-all, for the Pacific Coast Hockey League championship.

Savage scored twice for the Esks; Bellefeuille, Houbregs, Sutherland and Anderson had one apiece. Dunn netted Lions' tally.

OUR DESTINATION IS 1931 PROSPERITY STREET

ALL CANADA, and the rest of the world for that matter, has been detouring away from PROSPERITY STREET.

We've been groping down dark and uncharted lanes...Over-production, Cheap Money, Heedless Speculation and Easy Credit...these are the by-ways we have been traversing in our riotous ramblings that led us to a blind alley of Depression.

The great trouble was an excess of Cheap Money, making it easy for everyone to run into debt. A wild stock market was another consequence and Over-production another.

But great forces are now at work generating this return to Prosperity. We're getting used to doing without Cheap Money...we're adjusting ourselves to rely on savings, both in what we buy and in what we invest, rather than to gain by the hysteria of Speculation.

We've come to realize that Over-production often meant hurried production . . . the slighting of quality to produce volume . . . to hide cheapness under the veil of Low Price.

But we've changed our tempo to produce quality rather than volume and that in itself means more substantial value to the consumer and fortunately the re-adjustment is attended by lower cost on better grade commodities.

For the past six months merchants have been selling more than they have been buying and the country has been consuming more than manufacturers have been producing. A situation of this sort leads inevitably to a spurt in business with the ensuing result of Prosperity to wage-earners as well as retailers and manufacturers.

Surely 1931 is fraught with promise and beckons us all to turn the corner into PROSPERITY STREET

SEAL HAS FOUR DESTINIES NOW

Fur Becoming Very Popular For Milady's Wearing Apparel.

PROFITABLE INDUSTRY.

St. John's, Nfld., March 26.—In the good old days a Newfoundland seal had three possible destinies. He could remain seal, become seal oil, or become seal leather. Now he has four choices, seal, oil, leather and fur. Although the seal's private inclination may be to remain seal, after seeing the wonderful fur purchased by the Queen at the British Industries Fair you will feel he is a little selfish.

This new and important use for seal pelts is the result of a new process by which, after the inch-thick layer of fat underneath the hair is removed, the skin is split. It is this splitting which makes it possible to use the skins for fur. On March 8 or 9, every year, about twelve big ships with a crew of about 250 men each set forth for the Seal Patches. The seal's "Twelfth of August" is March 13,up to which date they may preen their own fur coats in safety. This date is chosen because the sealer wants the first white coat of hair before the seal begins to shed, which he does at the age of about two months, growing a darker coat, with marks on it which, by some stretch of imagination, may be described as harp-like. They are then alled harp seals.

The fleet is usually back by the middle of April with about 200,000 pelts, averaging about 66 pelts per man. These are first subjected to a process by which the thick layer of fat is taken off by skinning machines and rendered into oil, which may ultimately be consumed as margarine!

The pelts are then sent to England, formerly to be tanned into leather, but now, after being well washed and preserved in salt, they are sent over for this new treatment, resulting in the very beautiful golden brown set of fur collar and cuffs bought by the Queen at the British Industries Fair.

MARK PENGILLY HAIL AND HEARTY

Old Navy and Army Veteran is To-day Celebrating His 76th Birthday.

BORN IN DEVONSHIRE.

With not a relative in the world, yet happy and active amongst his circle of friends Mark Pengilly, an old Navy and Army veteran, to-day celebrates his 76th birthday. His physique has not been diminished through time and he can maintain his fame as the boxing champion of his regiment by saying with a twinkle in his eye, "I could 'op around that husby chap like a two-year-old 'elfer!"

Mark Pengilly's life has been one of action and energy, as a true man of Devon. Back in 1855 he was born in the town of Exmouth 11 miles from Exeter, Devonshire. He proudly avers that school had no attraction for him; at the age of ten he was working on a farm for sixpence a week. A signature copying expert attached facsimile reproductions of his parents' signatures to an application, and consequently he joined up with the British navy.

Concerning his life on the high seas, Mr. Pengilly is practically noncommital. However, he stated that he was one of the crew of the famous old "Impregnable" and called in at all the large seaport towns of the world. He also said that he did not live up to the reputation of the sailor, having a wife in every port.

After five years of service in the Navy he took out his discharge papers. At the age of 22 he married Jane Baker from his home town. Their union was blessed by two sons and a daughter, but wife and children have been dead for some years.

Service in Africa

A few years after Mr. Pengilly was married, he signed up with the Devonshire Regiment and saw 12 years and 3 months of service in the Army. During the South African War he served under Colonel Smythe, and fought in famous battles as Spion Kop, Majuba Hill, Laing's Nek and Bloemfontain. During one of the campaigns he tore his arms on some barbed wire entanglements and developed blood poisoning which destroyed most of the rare tattoo marks which had been drawn on his arms while in the Navy.

Mr. Pengilly's garrison life is noteworthy, as he was a keen sportsman. He was always interested in wrestling, shot-putting, quoit throwing and every type of gymnasium work. Early in his career in the Army it was discovered that he was an excellent boxer. He relates of how at one time his corporal who was the assistant instructor began to lose his temper and gave his pupil one or two bad blows. Young Pengilly returned one of them and was being called down for it when the instructor came along and forced his assistant to go on with the battle. Needless to say the young private won out. When the regimental sports day came Mr. Pengilly was made to enter in boxing tournament. He came out on the top as champion, and held this honor for ten year out of eleven. On two occasions he outfought men from other regiments—one from the Dublin Fusileers and one from the Royal Artillery.

"The last few years of Mark Pengilly's time in the Army was spent in Canada. He was sent over with others of his regiment. He was with the 5th Royal Garrison in Halifax until 1905. In November 5 of that year he took out his discharge papers and journeyed to Montreal at the expense of the Government. He met in with a Scotchman and a Lancashire man, and the three settled in Cavendish Township, Peterborough County, with the old Dixon Davidson Lumber Company. The hard labor of the lumberman held no fear of a man so well developed physically. When the lumbering season had closed Mr. Pengilly used to come to Peterborough to spend the summer. This he did for a period of five years.

Following this, he worked on the road "for $1.50 a day of ten hours with pick and shovel," and was lucky to get that much, in his opinion. In 1914 he went into the kitchen of the Empress Hotel as an employee and stayed there for a number of years.

For the past few years he has been living with John W. Downer, 65 McDonnel street, and his only salary is a meagre pension from the English Army. Asked as to how many more birthdays he hoped to celebrate, Mark Pengilly answered, "By the way I'm feeling now I hope to do at least 30 more. I'll be feeling fine at 100."

INCREASED PRODUCTION

Automobile production in February experienced relatively the sharpest monthly gain which has developed since February, 1928. Preliminary estimates place output in the United States and Canada last month at slightly more than 230,000 cars and trucks, an increase of 29% from the January total of 178,399, and the largest increase in monthly output since the advance in February, 1928, from 240,191 in January that year.

A prominent feature of the continued recovery in activity in February was the sharp gain in output by Ford Motor Co. in response to improved retail demand for the Ford product. World production of Ford cars and trucks advanced to 85,109 from 55,182 in February, an increase of 54%, thereby regaining the production lead relinquished to Chevrolet in December. At the same time, increased to an indicated total of about 78,000 from under 53,000 in January, a gain of approximately 48%. Chevrolet production in February receded slightly to 67,318 from 70,766 in the preceding month.

JUNIOR RIVALS WILL BATTLE FOR HOCKEY HONORS IN THIRD GAME AT CAPITAL CITY ARENA

Winnipeg Elmwoods Win Second Game of Finals From Primroses 2-1.

ROUGH TACTICS.

Brown Scores Winning Counter For Millionaires in Third Period.

TORONTO, March 26.—Displaying a marked aggressiveness throughout, the Winnipeg Elmwood Millionaires, kings of Western Junior hockey, were a little nearer to the Dominion throne to-day after administering a 2-to-1 beating to the plucky little bunch of Ottawa Primroses before 7,000 fans at the Arena Gardens last night and tying the round at one game each in the Memorial Cup finals.

The game itself was 60 minutes of gruelling, fighting hockey, but it was far from a finished display. In comparison with the previous game, last night's contest was a marked improvement, and play was much closer, but rough tactics and poor shooting marred it to a certain extent. The teams very seldom opened up the play, although when they did the fans found plenty of excitement. But these exhibitions were few and far between.

In accordance with the ruling of President Jack Hamilton of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, the third and deciding game of the series will be played at Ottawa tomorrow night.

Elmwoods Take Lead

The Westerners took the lead early in the first period on a brilliant effort by "Spunk" Duncanson, which gave Perley little chance to save. But the Primroses drew up on even terms six minutes later when Bill Cowley drove the rubber home from a scrimmage. But the aggressive attacking of the tri-colored Millionaires could not be denied and play had hardly been under way one minute in the final session when Brown scored what proved to be the winning counter. The maroon-clad Easterners set a withering pace in the final moments, but the Elmwoods stood up manfully, and skated off with the verdict.

The game little Ottawa crew showed more aggressiveness in this contest, but their passing was not up to the previous standard. In the latter part of the final period they had many fine chances to score, but the hard games which they have gone through in the last few weeks had left them too fatigued and they failed to take advantage of good opportunities. Despite that fact, the Cowley brothers and young "Tag" Millar never gave up, and gave the Winnipeg supporters much to worry about in the dying moments of the contest.

LEAFS FAVORED TO DEFEAT CHICAGO HAWKS IN SECOND GAME OF NATIONAL SERIES

Nervousness on Part of Youthful Players Believed Reason For Tuesday's Stalemate.

NO HOPE FOR MAROONS.

Products of Canadan West Goal-getters of Present Stanley Cup Series.

BY GEORGE MAGUIRE
Canarian Press Sports Writer

TORONTO, Ont., Mar. 26. — The hockey spotlight will flash on teams of the National league tonight when the six qualifying clubs resume conflict in the league championship series and the Stanley Cup play-offs.

The world's champion Canadiens will seek to reverse the 5 to 4 overtime setback suffered in the first game of their play-off series with at home Montreal Maroons are faced the Bruins at Boston. Even though with the seemingly impossible task of overcoming a four goal deficit suffered in New York on Thursday when the Rangers whipped them 5 to 1. Toronto's Maple Leafs start their second game with the Hawks at Chicago all square as the opening game of their series ended in a 2-all deadlock in the Queen City.

The results of tonight's contests should just about decide whether the Stanley cup, emblematic of the world's professional championship, will journey to the United States for the fourth time in history.

Canadiens appeared unlucky to lose the first game with the Bruins on Thursday. They clearly outplayed the Bostonians for more than two thirds of the sizzling struggle. Early in the third period the Canucks enjoyed a three goal advantage, leading at that stage 4 to 1.

Tiring from their early efforts, however, the Habitants wilted under the pressure of a terrific Bruin onslaught and when the third frame ended the score was tied.

A striking feature of the opening play-off games was the prominence attained by western Canada players. It was Eddie Shore of Melfort, Sask., who played such a big part in the downfall of Canadiens. In addition to his great defensive work Shore paved the way for the Bruin rally by scoring a beautiful goal and then assisting "Cooney" Weiland in notching the winning marker after nearly 19 minutes overtime.

Bill Cook, born in Kingston, Ont., but a graduate of the old Western Canada league, led the Rangers to their decisive triumph over the Maroons at New York. He scored the first two goals and his great playing inspired Murray Murdoch and Paul Thompson, another pair from the wide open spaces, to such a degree they turned the game into a route by scoring two goals. Thompson doing the shooting and Murdoch the playmaking.

Little Harold "Mush" March, who learned his hockey with Regina Pats, a western Canada junior club of more than average fame, sort of showed up the eastern Canada satellites in the game between the Hawks and Leafs. He scored both Chicago's markers and was easily the best man on the ice.

However, this is another night and eastern Canada's puck chasing artists may come through to garner the honors. The fast and flashy Canadiens are considered to have more than an even chance of winning the last tilt in Boston. The third and remaining games, if any are necessary will be played in Montreal and this should prove of some help to the Habitants.

Maroons appear up against it. After losing their regular right wingman Hooley Smith through an injury some weeks ago they lost the services of Bill Phillips, hard working forward who replaced Smith. Phillips was severely gashed at New York and will be out for the season.

Toronto's representatives are liable to do anything. After beating the Hawks every time during the schedule they flopped dismally when the home fans expected them to show their best.

Nervousness of several of the players experiencing their first big time play-off is believed to have affected the team's generally fine co-ordination, with that game under their belts the "kids" may come through with a fine performance to aid the regulars and that should be sufficient to eliminate the Chicagoans'

So far as could be learned here Miss Mitchell was the first woman to enter professional baseball.

Jack will work out regularly with the Lookouts and has been named to start an exhibition game with New York Yankees here next week. She said her greatest ambition was to strike out Babe Ruth.

International Loop Play-Offs To-Night

Indians Meet Bulldogs at Windsor While Bisons Travel to Pittsburg.

TORONTO, Ont., March 26 (C.P.)—The world's greatest minor hockey organization, the International Hockey League resumes its play-off series to-night. Two games are programed. Cleveland Indians, winners of the title last season and victors over Pittsburgh in the first play-off game, journey to Windsor, where they meet the Bulldogs.

The Windsorites finished second at the conclusion of the regular schedule but as the Indians finished strong to take third place, to-night's tussle should provide Border City fans with more than average hockey thrills.

Buffalo's fast-skating Bisons go to Pittsburgh to meet the Yellow Jackets, who beat them in the final scheduled match between these teams. That contest, however, was hardly an indication of the Bisons' strength for they had little trouble beating most teams in the league in coasting through the season at the head of the parade.

France Wins Further U.S. Tennis Honors

NEW YORK, N.Y., March 26 (C.P.)—France to-day had won the international tennis team competition played against the United States much as Davis Cup matches are played.

With the victory last night of Jean Borotra over Berkeley Bell, France gained the one match she needed to win, while Christian Boussus, the other French singles star, went down to defeat at the hands of young Frank Shields, strapping New York youngster who, at the age of 21, is said to be a better tennis played than William T.-Tilden III was at 24.

France won the doubles on Tuesday and each team gained one singles match on Monday, when Borotra bowed to shields and Boussus defeated Bell.

For the second time since he started to chase the little rubber disc up and down the boards, Captain "Happy" Day of the Maple Leafs is leading his squad into the Stanley Cup play-offs. "Hap" joined the old Toronto's in 1925 while he was still a student at Pharmacy at the University of Toronto. However, until he had completed his studies and graduated he didn't throw all his weight into hockey. This year he has looked better than almost at any time in his hockey career and there is a reason for that. "Hap's" duties as a defence man have been probably too heavy for him in the past and until this year when he was relieved by the famous "King" Clancy and "Red" Horner he hasn't had a fair chance to show his wares. You can find plenty of fans in the Calder Loop that will assure you that he hasn't been wasting time since. He has been a constant scoring threat this season and his experience has been the mainstay of the "Kid Line" when the going has been heavy. "Hap" is an Owen Sound boy and learned most of his hockey tricks with the Midland juniors and intermediates, Hamilton seniors, Varsity seniors, Toronto Pats and the Maple Leafs.

HUNTER PENALTY CUP.

MADOC, March 26 (Examiner Correspondence). — Monday evening, March 23 was the occasion of the final ceremony in connection with the Madoc hockey season of 1930-31. In the spacious Armouries was staged the presentation of the Trent Valley League trophy won this year by the Madoc hockey players.

To the peppy music furnished by Tommy Mason's orchestra, the early hours were pleasantly spent in dancing which all enjoyed. At the lunch hour, the town team was called to take their places at the banquet table and the Madoc High School team, winners of the Whity Memorial Cup, were also placed there, after which Walter Whytock, Reeve called for order, and spoke most enthusiastically of the prowess of, not only the senior team, but of the juniors, also. He predicted that Madoc boys would go far in hockey, as the boys bid fair to make good in all real sports, being good losers as well as good winners. He particularly emphasized the excellent co-operation that has existed among the players and officers of the team, and which, with the enthusiastic suport of our hockey fans, has helped very largely in the many victories of the season. He then called on Mr. Turley of Frankford, vice-president of the Trent Valley League to present the trophy won, after which Mr. Whytock presented each member of the team with a handsome silver cigarette case engraved with his name, and Madoc Hockey Champions, Trent Valley League, 1930-31. It was hoped that the smaller cups donated by the league would have arrived in time for this event.

Alex Hunter, of Bannockburn, was then called on to present the Hunter Cup, donated to the team having the least number of penalties, and this went to Frankford team, which had played seven games without a penalty, and only earned fourteen penalties during the season, furnishing a record which might be claimed by any team.

Cheers were then called for the trophy winners, followed by cheers for the Frankford team, then for each of the teams in the league, including Campbellford, Tweed and Stirling.

The balance of the evening was happily spent in dancing, and when farewells were said, it was to bid God-speed to the members of the Madoc hockey team of the year.

HAMILTON BENGALS ADVANCE TO EASTERN CANADA FINALS BY BEATING OTTAWA RIDEAUS

Tigers Wrestle Victory From Capital City Squad By Last Period Goals.

HEART-BREAKING DEFEAT.

Four Thousand Wild-eyed Fans See Canal Club Lose 3-2 Decision on Montreal Ice.

FORUM, Hamilton, March 26. — With a desperate last-period drive Hamilton Tigers, Ontario Hockey Association champions, eliminated Ottawa Rideaus 3-2 here last night The Tigers now play Truro Bearright to represent Ontario against Truro Bearcats, Maritime Provinces champions, and conquerors of McGill University, in the Eastern Canada finals of the Allan Cup series.

The Tigers now play Truro eBarl cats in Toronto to-night, the second game taking place in Toronto on Saturday afternoon. The winners of that series meet the Western Canada champions for the Allan Cup finals.

Strenuous Third Period.

The Tigers ran in two goals in the third period, and held their lead, though it was pared down to a one-goal advantage by a terrific counter-attack. The teams each counted a goal in the earlier moments of the game, and entered the third period deadlocked. A whirlwind Hamilton attack put them two goals ahead, and then Finnegan sniped a goal for the Rideaus. The Tigers were hard put to stand off the purple players as they saw their Allan Cup chances go glimmering in those last few minutes.

The game gave Tigers a 5-4 score on the round. Rideaus beat them 2-1 in Hamilton, and then were beaten 1-0 on their own ice at the Capital. They went into the game last night under orders to break the tie if it took all night.

Farrell, sorrel-topped Tiger defence man, put them ahead in the first period on a lone rush right up to the defence for a clean shot into the cage. Hamilton pressed in the second but Draper scored on his own rebound for Rideaus. Rideaus had three penalties in the second period, which brought the Tigers swarming around their goal.

Seventeen seconds of the third period had elapsed when McGowan, who was the star of the game for Tigers, took a quick pass from Louch inside the defence and beat Johnson. Jackie Kane broke away with four Rideau men up the ice, and beat the goaler as he dived for the puck.

Rideaus tried a comeback with all their men except the goaler scrambling furiously in Tigers' territory. The Hamilton goaler tried to shoot the puck up the ice, but Finnigan intercepted it and whisked the disc into the cage before the goalie could get back into position.

GUELPH DEFEATS OSHAWA SEXTET

Maple Leafs' 2-1 Victory Practically Eliminates Pats From Title.

COMBINATION GOAL WINS.

TORONTO, Ont., Mar. 26. (CP)—Oshawa Pats lost valuable ground in the Ontario Hockey League play-off series last night when they fell before the speed and well timed passing of Guelph Maple Leafs. The final score was 2 to 1 and the Leafs are now in a good position to step out and win the honors.

More than 1 500 fans saw the teams battle through a fast but scoreless opening session. The Leafs took the lead halfway through the second when Steve Rice took a pass from Randle to open the scoring. The Pats evened matters eight minutes later on Lott's goal and the count remained deadlocked until seven minutes after the start of the last frame when Foxworthy and Carmody combined for the winning marker.

From then on it was a battle between a rugged defensive machine and the furious Pat offensives, and the former won out.

OPTIMISTIC NOTE FOR SUCCESS PREVAILS AT LOCAL MEETING

Delegates Will Attend From Windsor in South to Copper Cliff in North.

MUCH BUSINESS YET.

Plans are going rapidly ahead to make the O.B.A.A. annual convention here a big success. The Reception and Entertainment Committee met at Duffus' last night and got through a pile of business. The work accomplished last week was discussed and plans for another busy week were made. Various members of the committee were appointed to work along special courses in a systematic manner, and one more meeting was agreed on for next Wednesday night in the same place at eight o'clock.

All were present at last night's gathering and Bill Kay, chairman, pushed the evening's business through. The committee is composed of: Max Swanston, Charlie Curtis, Alex Kay, Bill Prindible, Jack Deannard, Curly Lebarr, Jim Coursey, Mike O'Brien and Bill Kay.

They decided to begin right away calling on business men around town for money donations necessary for expenses. A partial list of those to be invited to the banquet at the Empress a week from Saturday was read and passed on. A few names were added and more will be before Monday. When the list is completed, invitations will be typed and sent out. Many old Peterborough sporting men who are living elsewhere will receive invitations to attend.

Bob Elliot, president of the O.B.A.A. and Bill Kay have been writing letters all over the province for several weeks now. They have been inviting not only the regular delegates but also anyone from out of town who is intersted in seeing how the Association functions. Members will come from Windsor in the south to Copper Cliff in the north, and practically all over the province. And nominations for the executive will be known shortly.

It was decided to put one man in charge of the transportation of the visitors around town. He will see that any who wish to go anywhere in the city will have a car at his disposal at once. Charlie Curtis agreed to fill this position. Some member of the committee will meet every train and drive incoming guests to the hotel.

Convention Badges

Alex Kay was appointed chairman of the badge committee. He will attend to getting the badges made and distributed for the meeting. The O.B.A.A. delegates will be given white badges with a white banner attached, and suitable wording worked on with the name Peterborough and the present year making them good souvenirs to carry away. The local committee will wear red badges, worded so as to take it easy for visitors to know who to go to with any request.

Max Swanston is chairman of the refreshment committee and each of the other members had their work laid out for them for the next week. At the end of that time a check-up will be made and final arrangements made to put the convention over with a bang.

The question of hanging pictures of star baseball teams, local and otherwise, was brought up and it was decided to see Chris Graham about this. Many good pictures may be obtained.

There was also talk of having one or more "Welcome" banners put up for the occasion. The matter of publicity was postponed until the final lists of guests and speakers, with the pictures of the delegates were finished. The final drive to put this meeting over and make it one to be remembered by the visitors will begin next week.

The executive of the O.B.A.A. will hold a business meeting at the Empress on Friday night, April 3rd, and the annual meeting begins Saturday morning. It will finish in the afternoon and many are expected to remain in Peterborough over the weekend.

So far there has been no hitch and the keynote of last night's gathering was optimism that this would be one of the most successful and enjoyable conventions ever held by the Ontario Baseball Amateur Association.

Spicy Bits of Baseball Gossip From Majors' Camps.

Joe McCarthy, manager of the New York Yankees, has been embarrassed with a wealth of infield material all through the training season at St. Petersburg, Fla., but he seems to have settled on his line-up. According to the experts, the present arrangement of Gehrig at first base, Lazzeri at second, Sewell at third and Lary at shortstop. If this does not work out, McCarthy can move Lazzeri to third and station Ben Chapman at second, or insert Bill Werber at short.

Babe Herman, Brooklyn's slugging outfielder, is quite sure that his visit to Havana has made him popular with Cuban fans.

"I guess they know the Babe here, eh?" Herman commented, pointing to a big headline in a Cuban paper.. "I didn't even get a hit to-day, and look at this big type."

"That means you struck out twice," explained the learned Gordon Slade. "It says, 'Herman Ponchado Dos Veces'; struck out twice."

"Well, I must be pretty good," replied the Babe, "when they put it in big type when I fan."

The latest and perhaps final message that Phil Collins in Winter Haven, Fla., is that he's leaving Pronto for his home in Chicago, after failing to agree with the Philadelphia club on salary.

"Happy Little Honeymoon"

'CAGE TEAMS WILL TANGLE TITLE FINALS

St. Paul's and "Y" Seniors Billed to Clash for Senior Trophy.

City Championship Battle.

"Y" Elementary Squad to Meet Blue Petes in Junior Play-off.

To-morrow evening commencing at 8 p.m. sharp in the Y.M.C.A. gym, the choicest basketball bill of the season will be offered the public when the ladies' play-off fixtures will be staged.

For the senior trophy, two of the strongest teams that have ever represented the league, St. Paul's and "Y" Seniors, will fight it out and as both these squads are capable of giving an outstanding performance.

In the junior play-off the top place "Y" Elementary squad will meet the Blue Petes and though the "Y" team has defeated the Petes before, the Petes are a tough morsel for any team and are eager to cop the title.

To round out an even more enticing bill, the P.C.I. team will meet the champion DeLaval outfit in the second game of the City Championship series. This struggle will be the school's home game and although they feel that they could offer a much stronger game on their own large floor, the boys agreed to play at the "Y" and help the cause along.

Junior Play

In the opening contest, "Y" Elementary and Blue Petes will meet for the Junior cup and "Bim" Sturgeon will be in charge.

The second contest which will start at 8.30 will bring together the DeLaval and P.C.I. teams. The Separator team is carrying a heavy lead from the first fray but the Collegians will not be dismayed and will be working hard for a win. This contest will be handled by Charlie McLeish.

St. Paul's Favored

The Ladies Senior final will commence immediately after the boys' game and is already attracting much comment. St. Paul's on their season's play should take the title. They are a comparatively small team but have lots of speed and ability and have led the league from the start.

The second place "Y" Seniors have had quite a rocky road in reaching a play-off birth and have lost Isobel Davidson, their star forward, who is out with a bad ankle.

The Seniors are a much bigger team than the Church squad and will carry quite a weight advantage but the Presbyterians will try to overcome this with their speed. It promises to be an outstanding fixture and the entire bill should attract a capacity crowd to the "Y" to-morrow night. Joe Cooper and Carlos Routley will be the officials in the Senior game.

The new Hartford club in the Eastern League, now owned by the Dodgers will be manned by players formerly with Macon, a Dodgers' farm last year, and players Brooklyn can't use this year.

TO RUN IN NATIONAL CLASSIC

BEING GROOMED FOR KENTUCKY DERBY

Wihh the eastern track season two months in the offing, Harry F. Sinclair's Rancocas Stable at Jodstown, the largest in the United States, is in a bustle of preparation. There are three horses to be groomed for the Kentucky derby, most venerable of American turf classics. They are Mowris and Shawnee, two well-built brown colts, and Caplin, who is as black as the ace of spades. The last-named will be a real "dark horse" in the derby, both actually and figuratively speaking. They stand well over 100 to one in the betting in the winter books. Shawnee, one of the entries for this year's Kentucky derby, is shown ABOVE.

Bowling Alley Gossip

By Pin Boy

Last night saw another five pin argument settled at the Duffus Recreation Academy when the Laboratory Quintet and the Switchboard No. 1 team, league leaders in the C.G.E. Engineers' Loop, clashed in a three-game series for the championship. The Switchboard Crew led by Kunst and Osterland won the decision by dint of eloquence and luck, the actual winning margin being 12 pins. Alibis are more or less taboo among the pin spillers in this league, but nevertheless there is one player on the Lab. team on whom Lady Luck failed to smile in last night's struggle and this was Bruce Munro, who drew four blanks in four consecutive frames and followed this with two splits. Rutherford for the Laboratory collected both high single and high three when he bowled 277 and 723. He was closely followed by Osterland on the opposing team, who spilled 705 while Newson, for the losers, was next in line with 651.

The Office No. 3 team in the ladies' section of the C.G.E. Shop League continued their winning this week, when they eliminated the Fractional Motors' entry in the first games of the play-offs. The winners were placed second in the league standing of the first half, while their opponents were in the third position. These two battled in a three-game duel for the right to meet the Office No. 2 team captained by Ina Hughes in a series for the championship of the first half. The final count gave the winners 2283 pins and the Fractionals 2085. Marion Timm, with a 234 single, and R. O'Connell, with 497 triple, were the heaviest hitters for the Stenographers, while K. Rainey with 212 and 521 took the honors on the losing side.

Most of the topnotchers around the city seem rather disinclined to commit themselves regarding the tournament being conducted at Karrys' in Toronto, with regards whether or not any entries would be going from this city. However, diligent inquiry has uncovered information which indicates that at least three teams will make the trip. Chief George Gimblett has been sounding out a few of the fellows, and P.S. Art Thomas also seems interested in the trip. On top of this there is a possibility that the K. of C. Bowling Club will send a couple of teams probably picked from the highest average hitters. This latter information cannot as yet be considered a positive statement.

The urge to roll the big balls seems to be taking hold among the fellows, and every night at least two of the alleys are being used to topple ten pins, while the Men's City League is still pilling on every rythmder. Last week saw the Has Beens chase the Greenhorns for an eight-nothing verdict, due to the clever work of Grant and Gimblett. The Separator Makers were forced to bow to the fast-moving Bowlrites, who took the "works" Farnell and Hoyman collected 566 apiece, and Galbraith made 532. Four 500 scores gave the Lucky Strikes 8 points and a five hundred pin margin against the Jokes, who were hardly up to scratch. Martyn with 516 and Elliott with 513 were the gunners for the winners.

Thousands Of Race Track Fans Gather For 92nd Renewal Of Grand National

AINTREE, Liverpool, March 26 (Canadian Press Cable). — The influx of thousands of visitors for the historic Grand National began to-day. By the time the big field goes to the starting line in the greatest of horse races, hundreds of thousands of persons will have assembled from all parts of the British Isles, from the Continent, and America.

For to-morrow the 92nd renewal of the Grand National will be run over the four miles and 856 yards course. The field has pretty well settled down to 44 horses, including two former winners, the second placed horses of the past two years, and also the third horse last year.

Few changes will be made now in the list of 44 starters and jockeys. Easter Hero, owned by J. H. Witney, and carrying top weight of 175 pounds, rules a slight favorite, with Sir Harold Werther's Ballasport. Captain Brownhill's Drintyre, and B. Davis' Gib also well liked.

Race followers professed to believe that this year would be a favorites' year. But they have been saying that for 92 years. Anything can happen—and does—in the Grand National.

The field, even if all 44 start, will be well below the record of 66, thanks to the new restrictions this year, imposed with a view to eliminating unwieldy fields. Originally 85 were nominated.

Members of the Madoc hockey team, champs of the T.V.L., were honored at a ball the other night in the village. The Whitty Cup, emblematic of the championship, was presented to Coach Father Meagher

Each of the players received individual trophies, and speeches were made by prominent Madoc hockey supporters The evening ended up in dancing, and the boys had a swell time.

All Saints' Boys' Club are holding their banquet on Thursday April 9th, in Hooper's Parlours. Begins at 6.30 and is followed by a Theatre Party at the Capitol's nine o'clock show.

* * * * * * *

The main idea of the spread is as a mark of appreciation to those who made the rink such a success this past winter. Bill Kay, president of the club, will likely have a few words to say to the boys.

* * * * * * *

News of a senior ball team here this summer has been warmly received by a gang of enthusiasts around town. There is no doubt that the people want to see the Petes in the Central League again.

* * * * * * *

The general feeling is that there are plenty of classy ball players in town, and that the senior team can carry fifteen good players and do that without hurting any of the local leagues.

* * * * * * *

We understand that the Peterborough team will be known as the Rangers. This will be because of the backers, Joe and his son Harry Ranger.

* * * * * * *

Which reminds us that "Biffer" Wenger and Bert McLeod are playing off to-night with the Duluth Hornets for the right to meet the Tulsa Oilers in the finals. Here's hoping the Kansas City outfit comes out on top.

* * * * * * *

Prexy Bob Elliot of Deloro is back in Cobalt this week, so he will be notified on Saturday of the Petes' entry into the C.O.B.L. He will probably then get in touch with Belleville, Oshawa, and Kingston to find out what they're doing.

* * * * * * *

A meeting of members of the East Peterborough Baseball League and others who are interested is being held to-night at eight o'clock at the Duffus Bowling Alleys. It should be an interesting session.

* * * * * * *

The Entertainment Committee of the O.B.A.A. covered a lot of business last night at their meeting. Plans are shaping up well to show the visiting delegates a royal time.

* * * * * * *

There will be an attempt made to secure a big streamer to spread across in front of the Empress bearing the words "Welcome O.B.A.A. Delegates!" Or something to that effect. It would be a nice touch.

* * * * * * *

A letter of invitation will be sent to Jake Solomon, former colorful manager of the Petes, and all-round good sport. Although it is not likely he can get away at this time, he would get a great welcome.

* * * * * * *

There is a lot of work to be done by the committee between now and the final meeting next Wednesday. By then, things should be coming along okay. Members of this committee aren't sparing themselves at all to make the Peterborough convention a success.

* * * * * * *

And this city does not want to forget that the big meeting here a week from Saturday will be watched with interest by cities all over Ontario. It's great advertising for Peterborough

The play-off game to-night between the Maple Leafs and the Blackhawks in Chicago will be broadcast over Station WJES, 220m and 1360k at 8.35 (eastern standard time).

The pitcher has had several talks with President Ruch, but there was no result.

"There's no use pitching if you can't get what you consider yourself worth," Collins said. "I'm going back to my butcher shop, put on the cap and apron and get to work."

Losing a lot of Spring practice games is just an old Spanish custom so far as the Philadelphia Athletics are concerned, Manager Connie Mack said to-day at Sanford, Fla.

"Go back over the books," he added, "and you will find our team always looks terrible in the Spring. We were so slow getting started last year that at one time we flopped to sixth place. Washington passed us three times before the boys got together and won the pennant on their second Western trip. Have a lot to be thankful for this season. The team looks pretty good and the mental attitude of some has changed for the better."

Manager Bill Killefer of the St. Louis Browns at West Palm Beach, Fla., believes he has found a pitcher capable of fooling American League batters. Wallace Herbert, a southpaw, with Wichita Falls last year, has been doing so well Killefer is considering retaining him throughout the season. "Red" Kress, Pitcher Fred Stiely and Outfielder Larry Bettencourt, recent casualties, are ready for action again.

Manager Dan Howley of the Cincinnati Reds thinks he may have, at Tampa, Fla., in the person of Biff Wysong, a left-handed sensation who will develop into his pitching ace. The big southpaw went good for Columbus in the American Association and appears to be rounding into shape for a regular starting berth with the Reds, with whom he finished the 1930 season.

OLD CAVAN BOY IS MAKING GOOD IN MINING AREA

T. D. Dainard's Dog Team Won Fourth Place in Recent Pas Derby.

LEAD FOR 150 MILES.

Operates Stores in Three Northern Towns—Mayor of Nipawin.

T. G. Dainard, an old Cavan and Peterborough boy, is making good in a big way up in New Canada where men of the old pioneering type are engaged in dragging precious metals out of mines sunk in solid rock.

The name of T. G. Dainard is known throughout the North. For the past six years he has been mayor of Nipawin, an ambitious town which is arising in the mining area of Northern Saskatchewan. When at work he manages two stores, two butcher shops, a bakery and a confectionery, doing all book-keeping and corresponding, buying livestock, drives two motor cars, training a kennel of about 25 dogs, is an active member of the board of trade and attends to his duties as mayor.

Won 4th Place in Derby

Recently Mr. Dainard added new fame to his name by racing his team of sled-dogs to fourth place in the great Pas Dog Derby. This race is the premier dog derby of the world and annually attracts such famed "mushers" as Emil St. Goddard and Earl Bridges. The race is a supreme test of endurance and only the fittest of fit men can hope to finish the 200-mile grind from Le Pas to Flin Flon and return. A place among the winners of the derby is the mark of excellence for driver and team.

Dainard was in the lead for 150 miles of that 200-mile speed grind, but then his dogs slowed up and the others passed him. Earl Bridges finished first in 26 hours, Brussick was second, St. Goddard was third, and Dainard a hot fourth.

Born in Cavan

Dainard was born in Cavan some 40 years ago, but considers Peterborough as his home town. He attended Collegiate at Peterborough and graduated from Toronto Normal School. He taught school at Bailieboro for four years and after a time hiked out to try his fortune in the North.

He has a store at Jansen, another at White Fox and in his main store at Nipawin he employs seven persons.

Dainard is a true sportsman as the Flin Flon Miner, which claims to be "the only newspaper published in Manitoba, north of fifty-four" points out. He plays hockey, baseball, curls, mushes dogs and is making a whale of a success of his wide business activities.

ECONOMIC UNION WILL BE PUSHED

Bruening Claims Steps Taken Only After it Was Plain Rest of World Unprepared.

MAY HELP ALL EUROPE.

BERLIN, March 25 (A.P.)—Chancellor Bruening, discussing the projected Austro-German economic union before the annual meeting of the German Trade and Industry Association, declared that both countries were "determined to proceed on their way with quiet frankness."

He said that the customs accord had been reached only when both countries realized that the rest of the world was not ready to take steps to break down customs barriers. "Rejection of the Geneva trade agreement can hardly be interpreted otherwise, he said.

"The reparations burden justifies a special position for Germany in the realm of trade policies. Without increasing exports and reducing imports a surplus of exports is not possible. It is up to the rest of the world just how long the Young Plan, which is supposed to take these things into account, can be fulfilled."

Reich Decided to Act

"Since, however, the world learns only slowly," he said, "to comprehend the inter-relation of things, the Reich's Government had decided it must try by its own initiative to influence developments, and it is in this sense that the Austro-German accord must be interpreted.

"Both countries have endeavored to secure for the economy of both countries those advantages which accrue from widening the economic area. These advantages need not conflict with interests of other states. In fact, the Austro-German accord can give impetus to development which wholesomely affect all of Europe."

The Chancellor admonished the industrialists that only by helping themselves could they in a final analysis be helped.

HENDERSON MEETS BRIAND.

PARIS, March 25 (C.P.). — Aristide Briand, Foreign Minister of France, conferred with Right Hon. Arthur Henderson, British Foreign Secretary, at the Quai d'Orsay today in what observers interpreted was a move to secure British participation in any demarche the French may make to counter the projected Austro-German economic union.

Neither Henderson nor Briand would comment afterwards as to what they had decided. "You can understand that I can say nothing at this time," Mr. Henderson told the Associated Press). — M. Briand was equally reserved, but the impression prevailed that the British Foreign Secretary was awaiting the report of jurists as to whether the projected pact violates the Geneva Protocol of 1922, by which the former Allied countries, guaranteeing an Austrian loan, obtained reiteration of the Austrian pledge in the Treaty of St. Germain that she would guard her independence assiduously.

LENTEN SERVICE.

Rev. W. Simpson Gives Fine Address at Afternoon Meet in Millbrook.

MILLBROOK, March 26—(Examiner Correspondence)—The weekly afternoon Lenten service in connection with St Thomas' Anglican church, was held in the Parish Hall on Tuesday, at 4.15 o'clock, the rector, Rev. William Simpson, substituting the beautiful and impressive ritual of the Litany for the special prayers of the children's service used the previous week.

The rector based his remarks for his brief address on Romans 5:8, "God commandeth His love toward us in that while were were yet sinners, Christ died for us," using Mrs. Alexander's well-known hymn, 'There Is A Green Hill Far Away' to illustrate his talk which was peculiarly appropriate to the Lenten season.

The stain and penalty of sin making necessary the Saviour's sacrifice; the fulness of salvation provided by our Lord's death on Calvary; the fact that only the Son of God could pay the price of sin; the greatness of the love of God that reached out 'while we were yet sinners' and purchased for us salvation; the obligation upon His children to "trust in His redeeming blood, and try His works to do"; the unimaginable extent of Christ's suffering when He went for us to the cross, were among the points emphasized, to the spiritual benefit of the listeners.

The hymn to which the address of the afternoon had been specially directed was sung in closing, and the rector dismissed the gathering with the blessing. Miss Mamie Collins presided at the piano.

In order to make it possible for more children to attend the afternoon service, the hour may be placed at 4.30 leaving time after dismissal from school to reach the hall.

BELMONT W. I. MEETS.

Debate on "Resolved, Divorce Should Be Made Easier," Was Won by Negative.

HAVELOCK, March 26 (Examiner Correspondence). — A largely attended meeting of Belmont Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. J. A. Sexsmith on Thursday afternoon. The president, Mrs. William Smith, occupied the chair. The roll call was responded to by an exhibit of handwork done by the member who displayed it, and resulted in a splendid showing of exquisite work. Among the exhibits were: A crochet wool afghan, a crochet floor mat, embroidered tray cloth, quilt top, a centrepiece, hand-made apron, combing jacket, embroidered buffet set, tatted scarf ends, knitted lace worked cushion top, embroidered scarf, cushion worked with wool, Honiton lace handkerchief, linen centrepiece with Battenberg lace, and many other lovely articles.

Letter of appreciation were read from sufferers to whom comforts had been sent.

A motion to give $10.00 towards Belmont School Fair was carried.

After some discussion as to ways and means of raising money, it was decided that each member would use her talent to earn one dollar. The same is to be brought into a special meeting to be held early in May, when the donor will tell the story of how it was earned.

The chief feature of the program was a debate, "Resolved That divorce should be made easier," the same to be treated humorously. Mrs. Arthur Russell was leader for the affirmative side, and Mrs. Joseph Seabrooke the leader of the negative No judges were appointed to decide which side won, and the decision was left to the meeting as a whole This proved to be a difficult matter, as the subject seemed to be too serious to be dealt with lightly, and while one side had dealt with it in a humorous vein, the other had taken the matter seriously. The opinion of the meeting was that divorce should not be made easy. The prize was awarded to the negative side.

A dainty lunch was served at the conclusion of the meeting, hostesses for the day being: Mesdames Scott, Roe, Seabrooke, and Sexsmith. Next meeting will be held in the Township Hall on the third Thursday of April, when a quilt, to be used for relief work, will be finished.

Had Eczema on Limb For Twenty Years. Healed by Cuticura.

"Eczema broke out in a rash on my limb, below the knee. It was in a spot about as large as a half dollar and itched badly. When I scratched it water came from it and the eczema spread until nearly the whole side of my limb, below the knee, was covered. Later it became dry and scaled over, and the irritation kept me awake nights. I had it more or less for twenty years.

"I began using Cuticura Soap and Ointment and they helped me and before long I was completely healed." (Signed) Mrs. M. A. Palmer, Auburn, Nova Scotia.

ENGINEER RECALLS BATTLE OF FOX TRAP

Veteran Railroad Man Tells of Section Employees Battle With Newfoundlanders.

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld., March 24.—(By the Canadian Pres)—Railroad builders and trainmen have met with peculiar difficulties since the history of rails began but perhaps no stranger stumbling block was ever placed in their way than the "soaped rail" between Fox Trap and Seal Cove in the early days of the Newfoundland Railway. This was recently described by David Candow, veteran engineer, who recalled with clarity the "Battle of Fox Trap."

"To those who are not familiar with the story, I will say that this battle was about to be fought when the engineers were trying to put the railroad through at Fox Trap. The residents protested strongly and to such an extent that Judge Prowse and a squad of police went there and kept them off. Pitchforks were in evidence and the governor at the time even had to have a battle cruiser anchored in Conception Bay. This quieted matters, and the Railroad went its way.

"Very little trouble was experienced at Fox Trap after the rails were put through, but I remember that one time an old man of the neighborhood appeared with a gun to shoot all and sundry for killing a cow the previous day.

"Our next experience was meeting the soaped rail from Fox Trap to Seal Cove.

It took us ten or twelve hours to go this short distance, the engine turning over but still making no headway. Time and again we have heard of rails being spiked and fish plates tampered with, but in only one instance did I figure in a wreck which was caused through those circumstances.

"This was caused by a nut driven in a joint of the rails. The engine turned over on the right side with men under it. I was there about forty-five minutes before being pulled out."

Trainmen in those days had to load all their own freight at St. John's for the road, after returning from the run.

The prize engine of the Newfoundland Railway in the early days was a 27 ton Baldwin, with water capacity of 1,800 gallons. The average engine on the line weighs 123 tons, with 8,000 gallon capacity, able to haul a tonnage six times as great.

RAYON DUTIES LOWERED.

TOKYO, March 25.—(A.P.)— Import duties on rayon will be lowered from 123 to 75 yen per hundred kin by an amended tariff act which passed both Houses to-day. The reduction amounts to approximately $18 per hundred puonds. A higher tariff was imposed on certain inferior qualities of imported pine and spruce wood.

THE SON OF TARZAN No. 2 (Metropolitan Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.) By Edgar Rice Burroughs

Little Meriem could scarcely recall any other existence than that of the stern cruelty of the Sheik and Mabunu. Dimly, though, in her childish memory lurked the blurred recollections of a gentle mother. "Oh Geeka," she would whisper to the doll, "why have I no mother, and why does the Sheik, my father, not love me?" Today as she poured out her troubled heart to Geeka she heard the sounds of wrangling beyond the village posts.

ed. Presently she heard the crowd moving up ed. Presently she heard the crowd moving up the street toward the Sheik's tent. Cautious she stuck her little head around the edge of the tent. She saw two strangers—white men. They were alone; but as they approached she learned from the natives' talk that they possessed a considerable following that was camped outside the village and had come to trade for ivory.

The old Arab met them at the entrance to his tent, his eyes narrowing wickedly as he listened. Then the Sheik said: "I have no ivory." Meriem gasped. She knew that in a nearby hut the great tusks were piled high. She took a step forward to get a better view of the strangers. How yellow their hair was! How white their skins! Suddenly one of them saw her. Meriem noticed the look of shocked surprise crossing his face, as she dodged from sight.

The Sheik saw it too, and guessed the cause of it. "I have no ivory," he repeated. "I do not wish to trade. Go away. Go now." It would have been suicide to have disobeyed. The two strangers turned and left the village. The Sheik walked to where Meriem hid, very frightened, clutched her by the arm and dragged her into the tent, beating her ruthlessly. "Stay within," he growled. "Never let the strangers see thy face again or I shall kill you."

SIR JOSIAH STAMP WILL HEAD INQUIRY INTO WHEAT CONDITIONS

Great British Economist is Coming to Canada to Conduct an Inquiry.

TWO OTHER MEMBERS.

OTTAWA, March 26. — Sir Josiah Stamp, noted British economist, is coming to Canada to head the Royal Grain Commission, which is to inquire into the grain situation in general, and, in particular, trading in futures on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange. The personnel of the balance of the Commmission has not yet been decided upon, but it is understood the Prairie Provinces will have the naming of two members. Revelation of the identity of the chairman of this most important body came to the Commons yesterday, when George Coote (U.F.A., Macleod) arose and questioned:

"I understand cable advice has been received that Sir Josiah Stamp is to sail from London, and, upon his arrival in Canada, he is to act as chairman of the Royal Grain Commission. Will the Premier confirm the report?"

Premier Bennett — Sir Josiah Stamp will sail for Canada next week. I had intended to make a statement to the House at an early date, but I will do so before next Wednesday.

James S. Woodsworth (Laborite, Winnipeg)—Is that part of the Canada First policy?

C. R. McIntosh (Liberal, North Battleford)—It is going to be stamped, all righ.

Sir Josiah Stamp was born in Kent County, England, in 1880. He was a poor boy, and by his own efforts earned enough to educate himself. He graduated brilliantly from the University of London, winning the Cobden medal. He served in the Civil Service for many years. He is chairman of the board of the London, Midland and Scottish Railway. Sir Josiah is a Wesleyan in religion. He recently talked over the radio in an international broadcast, and more recently, although a free-trader, advocated tariffs for Britain.

Helen M Morton passed away at her home, 30 Lundy's Lane, this morning after a short illness. Had she lived she would have celebrated her birthday tomorrow, Friday, having been born 76 years ago in Scotland, the daughter of the late Hugh and Margaret Morton. She took an active interest in the Women's Missionary Society of the church. The deceased was born in Emily Township 72 years ago, a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Walter Petty. He has lived in Peterborough County practically all of his life, and has been a resident of this city for the past 25 years. For the past five years he has been employed by the Canadian General Electric Company. FASHION SHOW OPENS FRIDAY

Annual Fashion Show of the C.D.S. Scheduled to Start at 3 P.M.

SHOWING IN EVENING.

As a grand preliminary to the opening of the Spring Fashion season the Canadian Department Stores here are to-morrow staging their annual fashion show, commencing at 3 p.m., and to which a cordial invitation is extended to everyone.
In the evening a business girls' showing will take place from 8-9.30 p.m. when new and exclusive apparel for Easter and Spring wear will be displayed by professional models, and an interesting style talk will be delivered by one of the T. Eaton Companys stylists.
Coats, suits, dresses, millinery and accessories will be shown in all the new colorings and color combinations, and any one of the garments may be purchased immediately after the fashion parades.
Admittance to the business girls' showing will be by ticket only which may be obtained in the Ready-to-wear Department on the Third Floor.

COMPLETE RANGE OF COLORS.
Style changes, of course, are comparatively minor, but greater stress will be placed upon color. The range is very complete, from medium light through all the tones to medium dark. Lighter clothes, however, will not be as prevalent as a year ago, because in line with the general thrift policy cleaning bills must be lighter, too.

Enlargement of the Brooklyn Park, which will be finishe in late May, will cost around $50,000. The seating capacity then will be around 35,000.

Earl of Bessborough Sails For Canada

NEW OCCUPANTS OF RIDEAU HALL LEAVE ENGLAND

Typical London Fog Shrouds Boat Train as it Pulls Out.

OFFICIALS PRESENT.

Little Ceremony at Liverpool on Account of the Grand National Race.

BY THOS. T. CHAMPION
(C. P. Staff Correspondent)

LIVERPOOL, Eng., Mar. 27. — The Earl of Bessborough, sailed for Canada on board the steamship Duchess of Bedford this afternoon.

At the London station when the boat train left for Liverpool the Earl and Countess boarded a special royal carriage, surrounded by a typical London fog and a host of well-wishers.

Cheerful farewells, presentations of flowers, and the flashlights of news photographers, lasted for half an hour as Lord and Lady Bessborough took the train.

Officials Represented

Lord Marley was there on behalf of His Majesty, the Earl of Willingdon, Lord Bessborough's predecessor, and Lady Willingdon were on hand to wish the new Governor-General God-speed.

Patrick Duff represented the Prime Minister, Col. De Sage, Sir Harry Batterbee and Sir Edward Hardinge represented the Dominion Affairs Office, Rt. Hon. L. C. Amery, former Secretary for Dominion Affairs and Rt. Hon. J. H. Thomas, present Secretary, were there, as well as Commissioner Sowdon of the Salvation Army, Lucien Pacaud represented the Canadian High Commissioner's Office in the absence of Hon. G. Howard Ferguson, who has gone to Rome.

At Liverpool the Lord Mayor and chief officials of the Port extended their greetings to the departing couple. Otherwise, there was little ceremony here, which was not unreasonable in view of the fact that the Grand National was being run at Aintree just at the time the boat train arrived at the landing stage.

The passenger list of the Duchess of Bedford also included Viscount and Viscountess Arbuthnott, Sir John Child, Dame Muriel Talbot and the admistresses of 12 leading girls' schools who will make a lengthy tour of the Dominion. Hon. Robert Greenfield retired agent-general of Alberta, also sailed on the Duchess of Bedford.

WHEAT BOYCOTT BEING PLANNED

Canadian U. S. Argentine Delegates Listen Grimly as Europeans Outline Scheme.

INCREASE PRODUCTION.

ROME, March 27 (C.P.).—Delegates from European countries to the World Wheat Conference outlined their plan of a virtual European wheat boycott, as a means of protecting their home agricultural industries, at the morning session to-day.

Generally speaking, it was agreed that there would be no acreage reduction on the farms of Europe. On the contrary, the consensus of opinion was that the production for the coming season should be increased, or at least that it should equal normal.

At the same time the possibility of a preferential wheat tariff agreement among European nations was discussed as a means of virtually shutting out importations from the great wheat-growing countries of the world and providing for the absorption of the European crop at home.

Overseas delegates from Canada, the Argentine, Australia and the two representatives of the United States wheat growers listened grimly to the exposition of the plan. They will probably present an opposition view before the conference this afternoon or to-morrow.

OSAKA, Japan, Mar. 27. HOUSE RISES APRIL 1.

Lapointe Waxes Bitter Over Bennett's Attitude at London Parley.

OTTAWA, Ont., March 27 (C.P.)—Supplementary estimates to take care of unforseen expenditures for which no statutory provision was made last year will be introduced into the House of Commons to-day, according to a statement made by the Prime Minister yesterday. These estimates include monies advanced in connection with the railways and the disbursements in Governor-General's warrants.

The interim supply bill, in which the House formally authorizes one-sixth of the general estimates in order that the administrative end of the country's business may be paid for, will not be brought down until after the Easter recess.

Debate to Continue

To-day the House of Commons will continue the debate on the Liberal amendment to the address in reply to the speech from the throne, with Hon. Ian Mackenzie (Lib., Vancouver Centre) the first speaker. Mr. Mackenzie was Liberal Minister of Immigration for a few weeks prior to the July election.

Yesterday the routine on 40-minute speeches was relieved by projection into the debate of Hon. Arthur Sauve, Postmaster General; Hon. Ernest Lapointe, former Minister of Justice; and Miss Agnes Macphail, Canada's only woman legislator in the House of Commons. Nine members took part. The Maritime Provinces had two contributors in J. L. Ilsley (Lib., Hants Kings), and J. H. Myers (Cons., Queens, P.E.I.).

TRASHY READING IS BLAMED FOR BOY'S DOWNFALL

Leslie Forbes, London Youth, Pleads Guilty to Bank Robbery at Cobourg.

SENTENCED MONDAY.

Judge Huycke Delivers Slashing Attack on Type of Literature Being Sold.

COBOURG, Ont., March 27 (C.P.). — Judge E. C. S. Huycke of Peterborough remanded Leslie Forbes, London youth who pleaded guilty in the County Court to-day to armed robbery of the Dominion Bank on February 17, to March 30, at which time Harold Blanchard will be sentenced. Walter Clifford also charged with robbery will be tried before then.

His Honor delivered a slashing attack on the type of literature sold in the news stands, which, it was stated, was read by Forbes.

Too Easy to Get Guns.

Also he said it was too easy for young men to obtain guns to run wild with. The limitation in regard to their disposal should be tightened up, stated Judge Huycke.

Evidence of James Forbes and Thomas Smith, bank clerks and that of Cecil Wilson and Stan Newton brought out the facts that Forbes, accompanied by Clifford and Blanchard entered the Dominion bank during the lunch hour on Feb. 17. Forbes obtained the money at the point of his revolver. An ineffectual attempt was made to lock the staff in the vault. Facing this, Forbes ordered them to stay in the vault for five minutes or their heads would be blown off. Blanchard was captured by Smith on the police magistrates lawn and Forbes captured by Wilson behind a packing box. Character evidence was given by Arthur Percival, former employer of Forbes. Witness declared that he always found Forbes trustworthy and efficient. He would give him his old job back if he were free.

Staff Captain Peter Forbes of the Salvation Army, London, Ont., testified that this was the first time his son had ever been in trouble. He had always been devoted to his mother. "His mother is wrapped up in her boy," declared Captain Forbes. "From the time of this trouble she has been sick but each night she goes into his empty room and prays for him. She has helped erring boys for the past 25 years in her army work and she prays that the judge will return her erring boy to her," concluded the witness.

Capt. Wallace Bunton, Salvation Army representative, Toronto related that Forbes told him that he had obtained the gun in a London hardware store for a play.

"The play turned out to be a tragedy," commented the bench.

Forbes had been reading trashy literature, Capt. Bunton affirmed.

GRAND NATIONAL WINNER

ENGLISH OWNED HORSE SETS NEW ALL-TIME RECORD.

Grakle, an English jumper, owned by C. R. Taylor, romped home in the lead of a field of 43 entries in the Grand National Steeplechase held at Aintree, England, to-day. The horse won a purse of $25,000 as the first prize winner of the derby, and set a new time record by covering the course in nine minutes and thirty-four seconds.

CAFE PROPRIETOR WINS $1,772,720 ON SWEEPSTAKE

C. C. Woods, Buffalo, Splits Second Ticket of $886,360 Among Five in Family.

CAPE TOWN MAN THIRD.

Hamilton Trio Whose Horse Placed Eighth Likely to Draw $50,000.

LONDON, March 27 (C.P.). — Emilio Scala, London cafe owner, was raised to sudden riches to-day when Grakle won the Grand National Steeplechase at Aintree. Scala held the Irish Hospital Sweepstakes ticket on Grakle, and won $1,772,720.

C. C. Woods, 32, Buffalo, N.Y., won $886,360 with his ticket on Gregalach which came in second. It was shared by five members of the family.

The five persons who will share in the proceeds of the ticket which was purchased for $2.50 are Mr. Woods, his wife, Kenneth Woods, his brother, and his two brothers-in-law, Elmer and Clarence Batt.

The family rejected two offers for the ticket, one of $15,000 and one of $50,000, preferring to take a chance on winning a larger sum. They have declared they plan to travel to Europe on the proceeds of their ticket.

George Dymond, Cape Town, South Africa, who held the ticket on Annandale, the horse finishing third won $590,905.

Divided With 40 Relatives

Scala must divide up his prize of more than one and three-quarters millions however as he sold part of his ticket before the race.

Scala, who came to England twenty years ago and peddled ice cream through the streets till he was able to start a coffee shop had let about forty relatives have small pieces of his ticket for a few pence each and sold half of his ticket to a syndicate. His shop was closed today and it was said that he and his family had left for an unannounced destination.

It was unknown whether Dymond retained full rights in his ticket. The fourth place ticket on Rhyticere, the holder of which just missed stepping into the leisure class, was held by the caretaker of the Bolivian Legations in London. He saved something from the wreckage of his hopes, however, as he sold half of his ticket in advance for approximately $10,000.

Smaller fortunes went to several other ticket-holders.

The receipts of the sweepstakes were approximately $8,779,000 of which the Irish hospitals get 25 per cent., the promoters are allowed expenses and approximately $5,909,000 was available for distribution in the 449 prizes that ranged from the first prize of one and three-quarters millions to "consolation" prizes of $5 911

TRIO SPLIT WINNINGS.

HAMILTON, Ont., March 27 (C.P.). — John Bennett, and Sam and Willie Thornberry, laundry workers at the Mountain Sanatorium, seemed fated to become wealthy men to-day.

Great Span, the horse upon which they owned a ticket jointly, placed eighth in the Grand National. While no figures have been secured officially, it is estimated here that the Hills Of Quebec Once Playground Of Giant Snails

QUEBEC, Que., March 27.—(C. P.)—Once upon a time, about fifteen million years ago, giant snail fifteen feet long climbed around the stern cliffs of Quebec. A piece of the shell of one of these monsters of the ordovicial period has been found imbedded in a limestone cliff on Viaduct Hill. Thomas Denis, Superintendent of Mines, who inspected the relic yesterday, identified it as a portion of the outer shell of the giant crawler.

Mr. Denis could give no hint as to whether these grandfathers of all snails were speedsters or moved at the leisurely pace of the modern little snail.

HUSBAND TRIES TO POISON WIFE

C. E. Clark, of Kirkfield, Pleads Guilty in Lindsay Police Court.

JUDGEMENT RESERVED.

(Examiner Correspondence)

LINDSAY, Ont., Mar. 27.—A rather sensational court case was tried before Police Magistrate Jordan in County Police Court this morning when C. E. Clark of Kirkfield, aged 27 years a C. N. R. employee, pleaded guilty to the charge of administering poison to his wife. According to the evidence adduced Clark's wife took ill last May. Following her recovery, Clark evidently suffering from a hallucination, procured a supply of strychnine and placed a quantity in Mrs. Clark's tea. She noted the bitter taste, but no ill effects followed. Later according to the evidence, Clark put the poison in pellets and dropped them into cod liver oil, which Mrs. Clark was taking. She became ill and consulted a physician in Brechin, who, it is stated was unable to diagnose her case.

Mrs. Clark later told of her experiences and action followed. In the meantime railroad men became interested in Clark's case and had him removed to Midland hospital. Owing to the nature of his ailment, however, he was removed to Mimico for treatment. In the course of time he was discharged as being sound mentally and physically.

The authorities however, were not satisfied on this point and Provincial Constable Nelson of Lindsay placed Clark under arrest After a plea of guilty had been entered this morning, Leslie Frost, counsel for Mrs. Clark, informed the court that she would be willing to again live with her husband after the expiration of a certain period.

Clark, it was also announced would likely secure his old position. Police Magistrate Jordan reserved judgment in order to have an opportunity to go carefully into all the facts of the case.

TIMOTHY HEALY IRISH STATESMAN WIDELY MOURNED

Withdrew From House of Commons When Free State Got Own Parliament.

STARTED WITH PARNELL.

Called to Bar in 1884 He Proved One of Age's Most Fascinating, Dangerous Debaters.

DUBLIN, Irish Free State, Mar. 27.—(AP)—The Saorstat today mourned Timothy Michael Healy, Irish Parliamentarian extraordinary and its first Governor General, who died early in the night after a three weeks illness. He was 75 years old.

The end had been seen for several days, although he was ill with what was thought to be only a bad cold for some time before seriousness of his malady, a bronchial affection, was apprehended. He took a turn for the worse yesterday morning and his son was summoned to his bedside. Death came at 7:50 p.m.

Tradition of His Own

As a member of Parliament for what is now the Saorstat Healy founded a tradition of his own, the "Irish night" in which he would sit back with his silk hat tipped over his nose, pretending not to listen to debate. Suddenly he would arise, obtain the floor and make a speech of vitriol coated with honeyed Irish words.

He withdrew from the House of Commons when the Free State got its own Parliament and became first Saorstate Governor General, serving from 1922 to 1928.

Born at Bantry.

Healy was born at Bantry, May 17, 1855, son of Maurice Healy, clerk of the Bantry Union. His mother was the daughter of a schoolmaster. Three of his uncles were members of Parliament and his brothers Thomas and Maurice were later M.P.'s.

He began to be noticed in Irish political and literary circles while still a youth. He began to earn his own living as a boy of 13 in a railway office at Newcastle-on-Tyne. Healy moved to London in 1878 and his budding abilities were recognized when he was taken under the wing of Charles Parnell, at that time actively engaged in consolidating his position with the Irish Nationalists. Parnell found he needed a secretary on his visit to America in 1879 and wired for Healy. Parnell, on that journey to enlist the support of the Irish sympathizers and the Clan-na-Gael in the United States, also visited Toronto and Montreal.

Fostered by Parnell, whom he was later to fight bitterly, Healy entered Parliament as member for Wexford City in 1880. In 1881—he was only 26—he introduced the famius "Healy clause" as an amendment to Gladstone's Irish Land Bill. This was to the effect that in future tenants should not be charged for improvements. The autumn of 1880 in Ireland had been marked by a state of utter lawlessness, with murderous outrages of almost daily occurrence. In October the Government struck a blow at Parnell by arresting Healy, his secretary, on a charge of justifying an attempt at murder. Healy

Gregalack Beats Annandale Home By Ten Lengths

Two United States' Favorites, Easter Hero and Sir Lindsay, Fall on Second Round, the Former When Only Three Jumps From the Finish and Fighting for Lead.

WINNER TAKES $25,000 PURSE BY LENGTH AND HALF, COVERING COURSE OF 30 JUMPS IN 9.34, A RECORD

Crowd of 300,000 Race Fans Headed by Cream of Society From Both Sides of Atlantic See Field of 43 Fight Out Hardest Test of Thoroughbred Horseflesh in World.

AINTREE, Eng., Mar. 27.—(AP)—Grakle, a strapping English jumper, owned by C. R. Taylor today won the Grand National steeplechase, the hardest test of thoroughbred horseflesh in the world.

Gregalach, the big Irish steeplechaser won in 1929 for Mrs. Gemmell was second and Lady Glenapp's Annandale was third. Grakle ran the four mile and a half course over thirty jumps in nine minutes, 34 seconds to set a record.

Victor Emanuel's Rhyticere, which finished fourth, closely followed by M. D. Blair's Ballyhanwood, Shaun Golin, last year's winner finished sixth with R. K. Nellon's Glangesia seventh and Blair's Great Span eighth.

The two United States favorites, Easter Hero and Sir Lindsay, both owned by John Hay (Jock) Whitney, fell on the second time around, Easter Hero after leading at the half way point.

The winner paid off at the juicy odds of 100 to 6.

300,000 See Race

Three hundred thousand persons thronged the old course on the outskirts of Liverpool to see the race, among them leaders of society on both sides of the Atlantic, the British contingent led by Lord Derby, Earl of Stanley, the famous British sportsman for whose family the famous race at Epsom Downs was named. Lord Derby did not have an entry in the race.

Grakle, carrying 161 pounds and superbly ridden by Jockey Bob Lyall, won by only a length and a half, a close finish for the Grand National in which anything can happen and generally does, with Gregalach ten lengths in front of Annandale.

The big son of Jackdaw and Lady Cronk fenced beautifully throughout and came from behind on the last time around to beat out Gregalach for the winner's share of the purse, which was $25,000. Gregalach won $4,000 for his owner, and Annandale $2,500.

Swift Rowland, owned by the United States sportswoman, Mrs. Chester Beatty, fell at Beecher's Brook on the first time around and was killed. His jockey, Tom Leader, escaped serious injury.

PATRONS GUESTS OF SILVERWOODS AT BIG DINNER

350 of the Milk Producers of District Present at Company's Dinner.

DAIRY BUSINESS STEADY.

J. P. Griffin, Manager of Ontario Milk Producers, Principal Speaker.

Patrons of Silverwood's Dairy Limited were guests of the company at dinner Thursday noon in the Canadian Legion Hall.

Invitations had been sent to 350 of the milk producers of this district from whom the Silverwood supply of milk and cream is obtained, and every seat at three long tables was occupied. Some farmers were held at home by heavy roads, but the attendance was quite large.

G. A. Gillespie, manager of the local branch of Silverwood's, was chairman, and the guests included Mayor Denne, Mr. H. C. Sootheran, manager of the Royal Bank, Mr. D. B. Falkoner, manager of the Bank of Commerce, J. P. Griffin of Toronto, manager and secretary-treasurer of the Ontario Milk Producers' Association, and J. H. Duplan, of London, (Ont.), general manager of Silverwood's Limited.

The dinner, probably the first of annual assemblies of the patrons and representatives of the company, provided an agreeable occasion for the introduction of Mr. Duplan to the Silverwood patrons in this district, and also for his interesting sketch of Mr. Silverwood's career and the company's immense production last year.

And Mr. Griffin quite plainly reminded the dairymen that they are selling their product in the world market, although their milk is being delivered into Peterborough; that they must meet foreign competitors by reducing the cost of production to a minimum, and that the "boarder" cow, the under-producer, should not be tolerated in any dairy herd.

Mayor Denne welcomed the dairymen to the city, and told them Pe-

WINTER GIVES UP SLOWLY IN WEST

Three Day Cold Snap is Longest and Bitterest of Whole Year.

MILDER IN ALBERTA.

WINNIPEG, Man., Mar. 27.—(CP)—Western Canada marvelled today at the persistency of a winter that had appeared spineless until it was officially re-placed by spring six days ago. Temperatures on the prairies had sunk to well under zero lines and a somewhat abated north wind had not lost all its sting.

The three-day-old cold snap, coming at the end of the mildest winter in the west for a decade, is the longest of the year—and one of the bitterest. Below-zero marks ranged from two to 22. It was two below at Jasper, Alta., and 22 at Prince Albert, Sask. Around ten below readings were recorded at Regina, Saskatoon, Edmonton, Swift Current, Calgary and Winnipeg.

Milder weather is forecast for Alberta today but it will remain cold in Saskatchewan and Manitoba.

London Suffering Robbing Epidemic

LONDON, Ont., March 27.—Three more robberies in this city last night brought the total to five for two days. Safe cracker used nitroglycerine in vain attempt to open a safe at Thayers gasoline warehouse on Adelaide Street. They managed only to bulge the door.

At the Shell gasoline station on Central Avenue they thoroughly ransacked the office but got only $1.50 in stamps for their pains. At the C.P.R. Bridgehand building office they stole some tools.

ANTI-SMUGGLING TREATIES FOUND BY U.S. TO BE VERY UNSATISFACTORY

One Hour's Sailing From Coast and 12 Mile Limit, Points of Contention.

NO IMMEDIATE CHANGE.

WASHINGTON, D.C., Mar. 27.—(By Ken Clark, C. P. Staff Correspondent). — The anti-smuggling treaties which the United States negotiated with 21 nations have been discovered to be unsatisfactory from the United States point of view. It has been no secret for a long time that the Treasury, upon which department falls the onus of preventing smuggling, has desired revision of the clause which permits the coastguard to search and seize suspected smugglers within one hour's sailing distance of the United States coast. But the cases of the I'm Alone and the Josephine K. Canadian rum runners, bearing as they do upon this point of one hour's sailing distance, have now brought the treaties sharply to the attention of the State Department. Contrary to reports published in the United States the Department does not contemplate attempting any revision in the near future.

The Flaws

The flaw in the treaties amounts to

Citizens Are Found To Be Law Abiding

Peterborough citizens are law-abiding. The record being run up in police court proves it; no new cases have graced Magistrate Langley's court since a week ago Saturday.

Similar conditions may have prevailed previously, but not within the last two years. The peace and quietness which have reigned about the court for so many days has had the effect of rather dampening the enthusiasm of the habitual spectators of criminal proceedings, who usually take front benches at the proceedings. Several times durintg the past week small crowds have waited at the court entrance and their disappointment was apparent when they were ordered to move along, that there was "nothing doing."

One case did require the court's attention this morning, but it was one which had been held over since March 14. After two hours of evidence, Daniel Minnicola was freed of a charge of indecent assault upon a young girl. The magistrate dismissed the case on the grounds of contradictory evidence by the Crown witnesses, and lack of proof. E. P. Sheehy defended Minnicola.

PLEASURE IS COSTING CANADIANS MORE THAN BUSINESS CAN STAND

W. R. Reek, Superintendent of the Ridgetown Farm Addresses Kiwanis.

FARMERS ARE GUESTS.

"We have got to tighten up; it is not a matter of lowering our standard of living, but of changing the standard. Pleasure is costing us more than business can stand"; such was one of the warning notes sounded in the course of an interesting and deeply thoughtful message delivered by W. R. Reek, Superintendent of the Government Experimental Farm at Ridgetown, Ont., to members of the Kiwanis Club and their guests—members of the rural and farming communities adjacent to the city.

The luncheon, held at the Empress Hotel, constituted the annual get-together of the Kiwanis and the farmers. It was presided over by President John I. Allen.

Introduced by Nelson

Mr. Reek was introduced by J. B. Nelson, local agricultural representative, who paid tribute to the speak-

Wartime Wheat Board May Be Reverted To

EDMONTON, Alta., March 27.—Renewal of the war-time Canadian Wheat Board or some such Federal-controlled organization will be the only solution possible if present wheat price levels fail to rise.

Such was the opinion voiced by Premier J. E. Brownlee, during the discussion of the Wheat Pool Guarantees Validation Bill in the Alberta Legislature last night.

The Premier was hopeful, through an increase in prices, the Alberta Pool might be able to "carry on." And he expressed the view that this body was in a better position than were the Pools in either of the other Prairie Provinces. Within five years, present difficulties might be entirely swept away, said the Premier.

A huge iceberg was seen recently south of New Zealand at an unusually northward point.

Mayor Stewart or Draper Must Go

MAYOR STORMS FROM MEETING OF COMMISSION

Mayor of Toronto Calls Upon Price for Re-organization of Police Board.

WANTS CHIEF TO QUIT.

Associates on Board Want Sworn Inquiry on Points in Dispute.

TORONTO, March 27. — Either Chief Constable Draper or Mayor Stewart will have to separate himself permanently from Toronto police affairs, the mayor declared last evening, announcing that he would decline to act as chairman of the board of police commissioners as long as the present chief was retained in command of the force. Preliminary representations were made last night by the mayor direct to the attorney-general.

When his differences with the chief flared up into an open altercation with Commissioners Coatsworth and Morson yesterday afternoon, Mayor Stewart stalked indignantly from the meeting, throwing into angry confusion a session originally intended as festival of reconciliation and concord.

The events of yesterday may be summed up in several nutshells as below:

1—Cheif Draper tendered written expression of regret at police commission meeting.

2—Mayor Stewart read it, assured his colleagues of his desire to co-operate at all times.

3—Mayor then verbally reviewed events leading up to the crisis.

4—In so doing he was interrupted and contradicted by Chief Draper.

5—After a long argument in which he declared his veracity impugned, the mayor moved for Chief Draper's resignation. The two other commissioners refused to vote. The mayor left the meeting in protest against their refusal to insist on Draper's answering his questions.

6—After he had left the two remaining commissioners heard evidence on the complaints against P.C. Kelly, charged with using a billy to disperse unemployed men, and dismissed the complaint.

7—Mayor and City Solicitor Colquhoun approached Attorney-General and Toronto members, reporting the situation and asking that the Government take steps to remedy it.

8—This is held equal to a request that the Government cancel the appointments of Judges Morson and Coatsworth and make new appointments.

9—Mayor attacked as 'unruly weakling' and as introducing "American racketeering" political methods into Toronto police administration, in statement by Roy McMurtry, counsel for Toronto Police Association.

10—City council members circulate petition for special meeting of council to uphold mayor's stand.

Yakegadake Erupts After Year's Silence

TOKYO, March 27 (A.P.)—The volcano, Yakegadake in Nagano Prefecture began to erupt to-day after an inactive period of several years. The eruption was accompanied by a loud report and tongues of flames. Then a shower of ashes aroused villagers and farmers for miles around. Nagano is a silk centre and farmers feared damage to mulberry trees now beginning to bud. The foliage of these trees produces food for silk worms.

Slight earthquakes were felt in the northern part of Nagano a few hours after the eruption. The shocks also were felt here. The meaning of Yakegadake is "Boiling Mountain."

APPOINT GANDHI PARTY DELEGATE

National Congress Confirms Truce Reached With Viceroy.

OPPOSITION FALLS IN LINE.

KARACHI, India, March 27 (A.P.) —The All India National Congress, assembled here in its annual meeting, to-day appointed Mahatma Gandhi, its leader in the civil disobedience campaign, as chief delegate to the forthcoming conference at London to work out a constitution for India.

Simultaneously the Nationalist Cabinet passed a resolution confirming the truce reached at New Delhi between Gandhi and Viceroy Lord Irwin, bringing to an end the civil disobedience campaign.

Another resolution reaffirmed India's goal of complete independence with control of the army, finances, fiscal policy and foreign affairs.

An eventual Gandhi victory on all points became certain when the revolutionary opposition which has opposed him, headed by Mayor Bose of Calcutta, agreed to support the Congress program.

Man's Body Found Floating In Ditch

MITCHELL, Ont., March 27 (C.P.) —Searchers who set out yesterday when Edward Loneway, aged 45, of Kennecott, Logan Township, failed to return from hunting in the bush on the farm of William Morenz, four miles from his home, found his body floating in five feet of water in a deep witch on the Morenz farm.

It is thought that Loneway fell into the ditch, which was spanned by a plank, when it suddenly slipped from underfoot.

When the searchers arrived it was found floating on the water while the unfortunate man's gun was on the bank nearby.

Longeway was a native of Logan Township. Beside his widow a son and a daughter survive.

MOHAWKS MADE READY TO BURN WITCH AT STAKE

Woman Facing Death Threat Offers Prayers Says Witness at Trial.

INDIANS SENTENCED.

So-called Witch Doctor Gives Evidence at Belleville Trial.

BELLEVILLE, March 27.—William ("Horse") Maracle, Indian, found guilty of assaulting Mrs. Peter Doreen on the Indian Reserve on March 11 last, was sentenced last night by Judge Evans McLean of Picton to serve two years less one day in the Ontario Reformatory in Guelph. His sister, Sarah Jane Maracle, was also found guilty on the same charge, and given sixty days in the common jail.

Judge McLean in passing sentence expressed the greatest sympathy for the accused, but found that the law had to be enforced. "It is only by the kind mercy of God that both of you are not facing a court for murder," he said. "It may be your belief —but it is not reasonable to believe in witchcraft."

Both the accused exhibited the stoicism of their race on hearing the sentences. They refrained from addressing the Court when asked to do so.

The case was prosecuted by B. C. Donnan, Crown Attorney, and the parties were defended by James Simpson of Napanee.

Evidence Is Grouped

The case was adjourned until last night, after Sarah Jane Maracle had denied having anything to do with the assault on Mrs. Doreen. Mr. Donnan, the Crown Attorney, intimated before the opening of the trial, with James Simpson of Napanee, counsel for the defense, concurring, that evidence should be grouped on both charges preferred against William Maracle and his sister. When the denial came from Sarah Jane Maracle, it was necessary for the Crown to produce a witness, William Doreen, son of the woman assaulted, to corroborate the statements made by his wife earlier in the afternoon.

In placing the defense evidence before Judge McLean, Mr. Simpson stated that the accused pleaded not guilty only to show justification.

"There will be no evidence to refute the assault charge," he said, "but there will be evidence submitted to show that this man and his family and other families closely related believed in witchcraft and that it has been practiced on the reserve for some years."

CHANGE IN TRAIN ROUSES CITIZENS

Campbellford Citizens Send Petitions to C.N.R. Officials.

WILL AFFECT BUSINESS

CAMPBELLFORD, March 27 (By Examiner Staff Correspondent) — A wave of dissatisfaction is sweeping over the town of Campbellford with the announcement of the Canadian National Railway's change of schedule on the Lindsay-Belleville line. From private citizen to civic and social organizations, protests are being sent in to the C.N.R. officials for the re-considering of this change, and delegations have been sent and are going to interview railway officials in regard to this matter.

The Campbellford Board of Education has protested the change, and has gone further, by petitioning for a special oil burner coach to be run from Keene to Campbellford to accommodate the High School pupils that come from points out of town. If no satisfaction is gained, the board will consider the advantages of a bus service.

Council Sends Petition

The Campbellford town council has also sent a petition to the C.N.R. superintendent at Belleville, G. S. Stokes, asking that the change in schedule on this line be re-considered. It claims that the change will affect the express and passenger business of the line, forcing such commodities as meats and bread to be trucked. It also stressed the loss to the Campbellford High School and the fact that some of the daily papers will not arrive until the 1 o'clock train. This late delivery it is claimed will be a handicap to business and create dissatisfaction.

The petition from the Campbellford Rotary Club, which assumes the duties of the Chamber of Commerce, lays emphasis on the general disadvantage the citizens of Campbellford and surrounding district will be put to by the proposed change of schedule. It also stressed the High School situation, which is a moral consideration, stating, "The High School will also suffer the loss of a considerable number of pupils who have been arriving on train No. 698 daily and these pupils will be seriously handicapped as under the proposed schedule they will be denied a High School education as they come from the country and small centres where there are no High School advantages."

It is also understood that the proposed change in schedule will affect other places along the line, especially Hastings and Stirling. A petition has already been sent by the Canadian Express office at Campbellford. These petitions will be followed by delegations from the different organizations.

NIXON OPPOSES VARSITY GRANT

Government Benches Almost Empty When Issues Arose.

SINCLAIR IS QUIET.

TORONTO, March 27. — Opposition to passing the $1,381,887 grant to the University of Toronto contained in the supplementary estimates being discussed by the Legislature in committee, was voiced last night by Harry C. Nixon, Progressive Leader, and at midnight the debate between Mr. Nixon and Premier George S. Henry was continuing.

Declaring that the Prime Minister, in his capacity of Minister of Education, had "taken the attitude that led us to believe that he had little power at the University during discussion of a Varsity editorial a month ago, Mr. Nixon stated that the matter should be settled for all time. Except for the lateness of the hour and the desire to adjourn early, the Progressive Leader stated he would have tabled resolution protesting any grant to the Provincial University."

The Premier denied any retiring attitude, and stated that the Provincial Government had ample machinery to cope with any situation should it ever arise "in the passing of this grant." But he emphasized his opinion that no such necessity had arisen nor would arise as long as the University was controlled by its present board of governors and president.

The incident arose when the Government, represented by two private members and nine Cabinet Ministers, was almost evenly divided with the fairly full Opposition benches. W. E. N. Sinclair, Liberal Leader, who had assailed Mr. Nixon during the Varsity editorial incident, sat quietly, smiling from time to time and taking little apparent interest.

Omemee Is Enjoying Chautauqua Programs

OMEMEE, Mar. 27 (Examiner Correspondence).—Wednesday afternoon and evening, the second day of the Canadian Chautauqua, the Lowell Ralton artists delighted two well attended performances. Each performer, with his and her own particular gifted personality was altogether fascinating. These two programmes of outstanding merit and variety, will long be remembered in musical programmes. Miss Gloria Robinson with her finished technique and rich full quality of tone makes her music a joy.

It may lend a little more interest to the Omemee audiences to know that Miss Robinson accepted as her first church soloist position in Dr. P. B. Thornton's church, Winnipeg, and was also accompanied on many occasions by Mary Scarlett Wood, daughter of Mollie English Scarlett, formerly of Omemee. Mrs. Wood and her husband leave shortly for Europe where they both will study music for some time.

ROYAL APPROVAL GIVEN FOUR DESIGNS FOR COURTS DRESS

Debutantes of 1931 in London Wear Long Skirts Terminating Just Below Ankle.

COURTS AT BUCKINGHAM.

LONDON March 27 —(By the Canadian Press)—There will be four Courts at Buckingham Palace during the coming season—on May 19 and 20 and June 9 and 10 —and the King and Queen have approved the four designs for gowns and trains to be worn. The original designs are to be hung in the Lord Chamberlain's office for the guidance of ladies summoned to attend any of the courts. It is expected British materials will be largely used

The debutantes of 1931 will wear long skirts, but they will not sweep the ground. Instead the skirt terminates just below the ankle, revealing the feet

The design for a debutante's gown is carried out all in white. The skirt is full and flared, hanging in three folds, while the bodice is of the fashionable sheath-like shape. It is cut low in the front with a rounded decolletage. The shoulder straps are ornamented with lace ruff effects, while the debutante shown in the design wears white gloves reaching to above her elbows and carries a little Victorian posy. The waistline of the bodice comes below the natural waistline, and the edge of the dress and of the train and bodice are trimmed with pointed diamante.

The trains at this year's Court will not be longer than two yards. The other designs displayed at the Lord Chamberlain's office are dresses for older women. One is carried out in a green material ornamented with a flower design in diamante. The skirt of this dress fits closely and continues the sheath effect of the bodice. The belt is at the natural waistline and the bodice falls below it in four long points.

For an older woman a gown in blue material with a sash of diamante running across the shoulder is shown, and for the married woman who is being presented, a design in the fashionable pinky-brown flowered material, with a square-cut bodice and a full skirt with a gold-lined train, is shown.

All the skirts fall to about the ankle length just revealing the feet.

Default On Interest Surprise To England

LONDON, Mar. 27. (AP) The High Commissioner for the Commonwealth of Australia has been asked to communicate with the British Government with regard to reports published here that New South Wales has decided not to meet interest payments in London on its public debts, Rt. Hon. J. H. Thomas, Secretary of State for the Dominion, told a questioner in Commons to-day.

Mr. Thomas said that press telegrams regardin the attitude of the New South Wales Labor Government had caused feelings of pained surprise. The service of Australian loans, however, is solely a matter between the Commonwealth and the State Government and private bond holders, but in view serious repercussions which would follow any breach of this obligation by an Australian state he has asked the High Commission communicate with His Majesty's Government on the subject.

RAILWAY HEAD SEES BRIGHTER DAYS AHEAD FOR NEWFOUNDLAND

Exportation of Frozen Fish and Fertile District Settlement Adds to Development.

PLAN INSPECTION TOUR.

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld., March 27.—(By The Canadian Press)—Industrial development in Newfoundland through the use of refrigerator cars in shipping out consignments of frozen fish, and through settlement of fertile districts now thinly inhabited or without population, with a resultant increase in agricultural produce, is visioned by H. J. Russell, general manager of the Newfoundland Railway. In a recent address Mr. Russell voiced these views, and announced the railway's intention of carrying a train across country from St. John's to Port Aux Basques early in the summer, laden with a hundred people who will spend a week on the journey, inspecting the country's industrial possibilities.

Mr. Russell pointed out that up to the present time the railway has had little to do with handling fish, the chief product of Newfoundland, or getting it to market. Since completion of the cross-country railway in 1897 various industries have sprung up, their total value almost equalling that of the fisheries. "It is recognized to-day," he said, "that the development of our fishery has not kept pace with the advance in other major industries. Of the total catch landed each year it is estimated that not less than one third of what might be utilized at a profit is thrown away. This cannot continue and we see signs to-day of a great change in the old methods of preparing and marketing the catch, and more attention being given to the value of the by-product, with the aid of refrigeration we see fresh salmon and other fish delivered from the fishing ground to the home of the consumer thousands of miles away in an excellent fresh condition."

It has been shown that transportation of fish, fresh meat, or fruit such as blueberries in refrigeration cars was quite feasible. "There appears to be little doubt that with proper research along the lines of imp oving present methods of refrigeration, immense benefits will result to our fishermen and business men. A trainload of frozen fish, approximate net weight 150,000 pounds, could be moved from the east coast of Newfoundland and delivered in Canada ready for movement within thirty five to forty hours.

"The main source of the products from the sea, where not now available for rail transportation, should in time be connected with the Railway by suitable highways so as to enable motor trucks to deliver from the producer to the Railway terminal. I have in mind the opening up of settlements on the West and South Coasts and a great fishing centre like the Straight Shore in Bonavista North District or the centre touched by the Badger Road to Springdale. In this way our Highway System would eventually be planned to be feeders for the Railway.

"Thousands of our people who are now living on the rocky eastern coast could start mixed farming and fruit growing on the fertile section of country stretching from Cook's Brook to St. Andrews. No longer should we continue to send out the country vast sums for agricultural products which can be grown alongside the railway and convenient for distribution to the local market. The railway would like to make a start this year and encourage settlers of this kind."

DRAMATIC CLUB OF KNOX CHURCH PRESENTS PLAY

'Yimmie Yohnson's Yob' Causes Much Laughter During Its Presentation.

That ghosts may exist and yet be explained away in the cold modern manner of reasoning was proved to the satisfaction of a large audience last night when a play entitled "Yimmie Yohnson's Yob" was presented by the Dramatic Club of Knox United Church in their Sunday School. All the thrills of the supernatural, of thunder, lightning and the stealing abroad of a being from the spiritual world "at the bewitching hour of midnight" were contained in this little comedy. Throughout the drama the action was startling and disconcerting, at one time drab and another full of verve and energy. A plot was successfully woven into the action of the play, and its unravelling was full of tense moments and exciting incidents. The play is being repeated to-night.

The scene of the drama opens in the living room of the Kent farmhouse one August afternoon. Early in the play it is discovered that Robert Kent has been falsely accused of stealing some of his father's money, and unable to bear the disgrace caused by it, has committed suicide by throwing himself into the river. The mother inconsolable at the loss of her son and her only wish throughout the play is that he come back again to her. Her adopted daughter, Belle, is her constant comforter. Sylvia, Kent's niece and favorite, and also Belle's enemy, falls into bad company when she becomes attached to Frank, a clerk. He wishes to marry Sylvia and leave town, but he has no money. This leads him to plan a way of obtaining Kent's hoard of money which is hidden somewhere in the house.

Yimmie Yohnson arrives from Mannasota, and at once becomes the comic relief of the play. He is hunting for a "yob" and makes a good start by falling in love with everyone in the house. He agrees to share a room with Pal, a detective who has come to the Kent household. Pal becomes fond of Kittie the cook's helper. Peg, the Irish cook, and Micky, the farm hand, have been engaged for two years, but marriage has not yet appealed to the flirtatious mind of the Irishwoman.

Thunder and Lightning.

The part of Mr. Kent was exceedingly well played by William Stevens, in the portrayal of a middle aged man, the father of Belle and Robert, and the uncle of Sylvia, Belle (Miss J. McCannan) was a creature with loveable disposition, always ready to make peace and stand by her foster mother. As a player in the triple part of Yimmie Yohnson, the ghost and Robert, J. L. Browne played a splendid part. All three portrayals were entirely different. Yimmie was red haired with very little to his credit except a humorous and winning manner As a ghost he succeeded in scaring the family, and in discovering the one who stole his father's money. Robert is a determined type of lad who will do anything to clear himself of a crime, and is successful in the end. Sylvia (Miss E. Hughes) was not exactly a villain, although she planned to get her uncle to "loosen up" with his money, and at the same time hated Belle as a rival. Miss L. Campbell played the part of Mrs. Kent, the sorrowing old lady who was not happy until the return of her son.

The part of Peg was well carried out by Miss F. Wedlock, whose Irish moods and preferences provoked laughter. However, she was at heart greatly attached to Mrs. Kent and Belle. Micky, her lover, was portrayed by Alex Wedlock, and was an appealing young lad who was faithful to his duty. Miss V. Gatfield, in the part of Kittie, added a realistic touch to the sweet disposition which made her liked by everyone. Pal, with whom she fell in love, was well acted by Don Gillespie. His happy, go-lucky air carried him through. The part of Frank, the villain, was played by Norman Hughes. Although his plots were well formulated, under the eyes of Pal, Yimmie, and the ghost they were doomed from the first to failure.

During the intervals between acts of the play a musical entertainment was provided by members of the club. Mrs. Kenneth Baker sang a roundel of old songs. Kenneth McCannan sang "When Your Hair Has Turned to Silver." Mrs. Baker and Mr. McCannan sang a duet "She's Just the Girl for me." A group song entitled "Just one More Night in the Moonlight" was given by Mrs. Baker, Kenneth McCannan, Donald Charlton, Gordon Morrison and William Wedlock.

The following comprise the executive of the Dramatic Club, and to these the success of the play was due to a large extent: Hon. President, Rev. Wm. McDonald; President, Norman Hughes; Vice-Pres., Earl Huffman; Secretary-Treasurer, Mrs. E. J. Huffman; Directors, Mrs. H. MacLachlan and Miss A. Crocker; Advertising manager, Mrs. H. Wood; Property Committee, G. W. Davis and J. L. Browne; Business Committee, Miss Jean McCannan, Miss Ena Hughes, Miss Lillian Campbell, Wm. E. Stevens, D. H. Gillespie.

VOCATIONAL TRAINING.

Peterborough citizens should embrace the opportunity that is offered them to-night to attend the annual exhibit of the vocational department of the Collegiate Institute and Vocational School.

The work done by the various classes during the school year will be on display for the benefit of the public, and there will be a chance not only to inspect the fine school itself but to see the excellent work accomplished by the pupils.

It is desirable that the citizens of Peterborough should acquaint themselves with the gratifying results that are being accomplished in the various departments of vocational training, and the annual exhibition, which includes demonstrations by the pupils and covers the whole range of technical education, should be full of interest to everybody.

There is, of course, no admission charge; the school is merely keeping open house to-night and extending a cordial invitation to citizens generally to drop in and see for themselves the activities carried on in the vocational departments.

It is an invitation that should be generally accepted.

STRANGE INDIFFERENCE.

The fact that only thirty per cent. of the ratepayers in Oshawa voted the other day when a by-law to sell the gas plant to a Chicago concern was submitted has caused considerable comment.

The remark of the Stratford Beacon-Herald that "the only deduction is that the seventy per cent. who stayed away from the polls and did not care to the extent of a hill of beans whether the city sold its gas plant or used a match to blow it up" is typical of the general tone of these newspaper references.

It is indeed a strange commentary upon the attitude citizens display toward municipal problems generally that such an important transaction as the sale of a public utility and the granting of a fifty-year franchise to a private company should have been left to only thirty per cent. of the ratepayers to decide.

Outside of complaining about taxes, the average citizen treats public business with an indifference that if shown toward the conduct of his own business would soon have him out on the street.

Oshawa's small vote is a particularly glaring example of lack of interest in municipal affairs, but the same conditions exist more or less generally and are difficult to explain.

THE KLAN AGAIN.

Since little has been heard of the Ku Klux Klan in the East since Ontario courts read a very necessary lecture to members of the organization who thought it possible to take the law into their own hands, it is surprising to learn that there are some 40,000 members of the Klan in Saskatchewan.

The Examiner's views in regard to organizations of this type have been frequently stated, and are doubtless well known to our readers.

We believe that there should be no place in this country for a society founded on religious, racial and color bias, and that individuals who support and encourage the activities of such an organization, however well-intentioned their motives may be, are not contributing to Canadian unity or to that spirit of tolerance and good-will that makes a people not only great but happy.

So long, of course, as the Klan is content to stay within the law and to get what satisfaction there may be in masquerading round in night dresses and bed sheets there is nothing that can be done about it, but the first signs of any attempt to substitute mob rule for British justice should be enough to cause quick and effective action by the authorities.

The Oakville case had a very beneficial effect because it taught the lesson that there was no desire in this country to have the administration of justice handed over to a secret society, hooded or otherwise.

THE BATTLE GOES ON.

The old question of whether or not the use of dogs in deer hunting should be permitted in Ontario is once more before the fish and game committee of the Legislature.

No topic that affects the hunting fraternity is productive of more controversy than this matter of dogs or no dogs in the hunting of deer.

The only argument that approaches the fighting over the dog question is that occasioned when a daylight saving advocate runs foul of a citizen who says that "God's time" should be left alone.

Members of the Legislature every session must feel like settling the argument permanently by decreeing that hunting either with dogs or without will henceforth be prohibited in Ontario.

Preventing deer hunting altogether would seem to be the only sure way of putting an end to the controversy, for between the hunter who favors still hunting on the one hand and the citizen who believes in the use of dogs there is not the slightest sign of compromise.

At present it is legal to employ the services of dogs, and the indications that when the annual controversy is concluded hunters will still be allowed to chase their quarry with the help of their canine assistants.

HIGHWAYS IN WINTER.

It is by no means an uncommon sight to see a farmer walking along the highway when driving his cutter. At times his wife rides in the conveyance and the farmer walks to make the load lighter.

This process often lasts for several miles until the farmer comes to the sideroad down which he drives to his home. After reaching this road he can get in and drive. There is sleighing there, but there is none on the highways.

In some localities it is reported that farmers leave their cars in the barns of neighbors on the highways and make a transfer there from cutter or sleigh to car in order to get to town to transact their business.

At best we have not arrived at a fair solution for this winter transportation business in the country. The great majority of farmers do not live along the cleared highways, and yet they have to use these roads to get into the towns or cities where they deal and sell their produce.

We are inclined to have a good deal of sympathy with the farmers who find that they are handicapped when it comes to getting around in the winter season. In a very real sense, their rights should have precedence when it comes to arranging a policy to govern the clearing of the roads.

There can be no doubt that the cleared highway facilitates traffic during the winter months for those whose business does not take them off the highways. What is good for this class of traffic seems to be equally bad for the farmer. The farmer is entitled to have a strip along the highway left with snow on for the sleighs. This might call for a change in the method of clearing the roads, but it is something which will have to be considered.—Stratford Beacon-Herald.

AT THE AGE OF 65.

A good many times in recent days we have seen the age 65 stressed in one way or another. It seems to be regarded as a time when they sort people over to see if they are going to be able to go on any longer under their own power, or whether they will be needing some assistance.

Insurance companies use the figure considerably, and so does the Government in selling annuities. Banks and saving companies also like to warn people that they must be thrifty before they arrive at age 65 because, if they are not, they will be in a bad way.

It is interesting to look at some of the statistics to see what there is in this 65 business. Here is how actuarial departments look upon any group of 100 men at 25 in this country:

When the group of 100 has advanced ten years to age 35, eight of the number will have dropped out through death; 20 of them will be fairly well-to-do; 6 will be living on their earnings, and six of the group will be self-supporting.

Take the same group of 100 at age 45, and apply the same analysis. It will be found that death has removed 16; of the remainder only four will be well-to-do; 6 will be living on their earnings, and the number who will not be self-supporting will have advanced to 15.

The next analysis is made at age 55, and it shows that 27 will have died; the same number as at 45, four, will be well-to-do; the number who will be living on what they earn will have been decreased to 46, and the number who are not self-supporting will have grown to 23.

Then comes that strange age, 65. What does the analysis show then of this group of 100?

The ranks will have been sadly thinned, for 44 will have died. Just five will be classed as well-to-do, and another five will be living on what they are able to earn. The astounding thing is that 46 of the number will not be self-supporting. In other words, they will have to depend on relatives or some other agency to help them along to the end of the journey.

So out of that original group of 100 persons, starting at age 25, only ten are making a living at 65, and 46 are dependent on others. It cannot be argued that these figures are mere estimates or anything like that. They are arrived at after very careful study over a term of years, and are so reliable that they are used as the basis for computing insurance.

* * ** *

We have no idea to ask people to live in dread of the coming of age 65, nor do we suggest that people go through life with nothing else before them except the figure which shows that 46 out of 56 men reaching that age are hard up, and yet we imagine people would be poorly advised were they to ignore the warning which these figures contain.

There is always that streak of hope which runs through people suggesting that each one is going to be an exception. In some way or other they will get through all right. There may be no definite provision made, but hope blinks at such a thing and suggests that things will turn out all right.

Unfortunately the man who is closing in on 65 years can't do very much about it; in the majority of cases his earning power has suffered diminution, and he simply has to make the best of it.

Younger people might profit considerably if they would give the matter some serious thought. They need a system on which to work, and there are plenty of reliable men in banks and other financial houses who would gladly show them how by consistent saving they could place themselves in a fairly comfortable position.

Trouble is that young people are not thinking much about age 65; to youth it seems to be a great way off, and hence they are not minded to deal with it until they come closer to the point.

But youth cannot do away with the law of averages, neither can it, by indifference, alter the figures presented in this article showing the classification of men at age 65. The wise young man will take a good look at them and debate that he can have quite a good deal to do with classifying himself at age 65.—Stratford Beacon-Herald.

The Red-Headed Goddess

By ALICE ROSS COLVER

"Say!" Dirk interrupted, rising to his feet and holding to the rattling wind shield as he stared toward the low building ahead. "That looks like—I believe—It is!"

With a wild whoop he snatched off the sombrero Red Jim had provided him with and waved it frantically in the air toward the figures already mounting and starting off on their ponies. Then, before Red Jim could stop the car, he leaped to the ground, still yelling at the top of his lungs, and ran, as fast as his weak ankle would permit him, toward the startled group. Before he got there, Kent and Moore had recognized him, had sprung from their ponies and rushed with outstretched hands to meet the gaunt-faced Dirk.

There was so much to be asked and answered! So much to be explained! Young Stephen held to his friend as though he could not believe his eyes, but Kent, after the first fierce grip on his hand, became an intent, withdrawn listener, his eyes cold, his face a hardened mask. Dirk, whom he had thought dead, was alive. But Lorraine—where was Lorraine? As Dirk told his story the Senator's countenance relaxed a little, but Dirk could not help but feel the unspoken rebuke in the older man's attitude. At last there came a moment when they two, the father and the lover, were left alone together, and then, facing him, the boy spoke quietly:

"I'm never going to leave this desert until I find her, Mr. Kent."

The older man's keen, kind eyes swept over the other's face. It had grown much more mature and revealed, not only the strain of sickness, pain and anxiety, but a new, haggard look of responsibility. Suddenly the Senator put aout a hand to Dirk.

"After all," he said, "if any harm comes to her, it's as much my fault as yours."

"How so?"

Kent shook his head. The real reason lay do deep for words. He replied instead:

"I have felt—known—ever since I have been in Washington that our Government's policy was all wrong. I have wanted to awaken others to the situation, but it was a thing I could let slide because it wasn't pressing. If I had done my duty, there might be no threat of danger now. As it is——" he paused.

"As it is," said Tom Powell coming up just then, "we are eleven strong white men who can do a good deal. Let's get started."

He took the lead, a thick-set figure, with a heavy black beard sweeping over his big checked black and white flannel shirt, and his dark eyes gleaming as they searched the desert ahead. A few moments later the little cavalcade was kicking up clouds of dust, as they galloped off, while Chin Lee, safely hidden behind a huge bolt of dry goods within the store, watched their departure with a grin of satisfaction on his yellow face. Cautiously he poked his head up over the counter and spoke ingratiatingly to the astonished wife of Powell, who had been left in charge of the post:

"Too much many white mens scare Lindians. Makem mad. Makem shootee Me stay here. Me velly glood clook. Me fixee all nice flicken for nice white missus blime by. Me velly velly happee do it," he ended bowing.

The band of rescuers, however, did not miss Chin Lee. They were all too absorbed in the adventure. Powell was a hard rider, but, though he did not spare the men, he was most careful of the animals. Before the afternoon had passed, Dirk discovered that the tireless little jog to which they all held their horses was the pace they could best continue evenly. It was a fatiguing business for the men who were not accustomed to the saddle, or who were not fortunate enough to possess horses with an easy gait, but it enable them to cover the ground steadily. Happily Dirk rode a horse whose little trot was as comfortable as a rocking chair.

At dusk they stopped to pitch camp for the night and after supper, while they sat with their pipes and cigarettes around the camp fire, Tom Powell, who had seemed a man of few words, startled them all by a sudden vehement outbreak in answer to a sentence from Hines:

"These damned Indians ought all to be in jail."

"You're wrong. It's some few white men who ought to be in jail." Powell's reply shot back sharply, and, as the attention of the company was arrested, he went on with brusk passion in his voice, in his black eyes and in every violently repressed gesture: "If Washington had known what it was about for the past eighty years, we wouldn't be facing the situation we're facing now," he said. "But she hasn't known, and hasn't wanted to know."

"What's at the bottom of the trouble, do you think?" Rockwell asked.

"The administrators are underpaid, and the 'Indians and Indian affairs are left in the hands of politicians."

"Hasn't the scheme of educating the Indians been of help?" inquired Kent.

"It has not. It's been a crime on the records. It's not only been unintelligent but inhuman."

"That's strong language."

Powell turned upon him fiercely, his pipes gripped between strong, white teeth. "The business of de-Indianizing the Indian calls for strong language. Is it human to kidnap small children—mere babies—and carry them off from their mothers, to be sent away to distant, overcrowded boarding schools? That's what's being done! Is it intelligent to remove the younger generation from the pueblos, where they might learn the ancient arts and continue a real contribution to civilization, and stuff them with a mass of unassimilated information that is of no use to them in their old world when they return?"

"Do they all return?" Minor inquired.

"Yes. For the most part. Those that don't—" he shrugged eloquently. "They make up the lowest stratum of society and perform the most menial jobs utterly indifferently. They are educated—to do what? Dig ditches or wash dishes. Whereas, if they were left to follow their own ancient customs, they would be developing their own Indian arts and craft—the dance, drama, designing. Now they aren't happy when they are educated, either in the white man's world or their own."

"But is it a question of the Indians' happiness?" Hines asked.

"It ought to be! That's the trouble. Washington has considered the white man's convenience in his dealings with the Indians, not the Indian's needs."

"But if the Indian is to live, mustn't he be taught white man's civilization? How else can he compete with him?" demanded Rockwell.

"Why need he compete? Aren't they our 'wards'? The very word implies a relationship from which competition is struck. So far, education has been thrust upon the Indians as though they could be changed from red to white overnight. It has been brutal, blundering and bad in every way. It has brought an overwhelming amount of vice and disease. Tuberculosis—the white man's scourge—has infected an appalling number of Indian children. If education is a means of exterminating the Indian—if that is the idea of it—it will soon succeed."

"But the Navajos have increased in number," Kent pointed out.

"The Navajos, yes." Because they refuse to send their children to school!" Powell bent toward Kent, an intent, earnest figure in the firelight. "Do you know—but of course you do—about the proposed irrigation project for the Rio Grande river basin? Some of the Pueblo Indian lands are in the path of the project. What's going to happen? The lands will be heavily assessed; the Indians will be unable to pay, and the land will be leased to settlers who can pay. Do you know—but of course you do—that the territory assigned to the Navajos is known now to have fertile valleys, with water supply available? That great forests of pine timber and coal deposits are believed to be in their possession? That petroleum has been discovered not far from Gallup? What' going to happen? Reallotment of land—individual allotment—and the Indians smouldering again with a sense of the injustice of the treatment accorded them."

"What would you suggest as a remedy?" Dirk wanted to know.

"Let them alone! Leave them with the desert wastes and their ancient religion. Let them choose an education if they want it, but give them the freedom of the choice. And—revise the whole elaborate system of laws and treaties, with an eye on the Indian's best development and happiness."

He stopped abruptly and pulled out his watch.

"It's getting late," he ended with his customary curtness.

'It' a delicate problem," Kent mused as they rose one by one, "a very delicate problem."

But here the discussion ended for the fire was low and the night was cold. A few moments later the camp was dark, and the men were rolled in their blankets under the stars. Soon all were asleep—all but Kent, who lay pondering the words of Powell in the stillness of the dark hours.

Though the talk around the fire stirred the sleeping sense of justice in the men that night, it did not quell their uneasiness or rout their instinctive animosity as they approached "Tsilgitce," ("Toward a place within the mountains"). The very nature of the country in which they found themselves, added to an impending sense of danger. It was wild, tempestuous looking land, of harsh outline and bleak aspect, with immense sand dunes and rock masses rising abruptly from the desert floor. High, steep cliffs, looking like giant embattlements, cast frowning shadows upon them, and the way wound steadily upward over a dangerous pathway of sliding stones. There were places where the towering walls looked as though they had been dipped in water colors, and again the slanting sunlight so shone upon the white rock that it was turned to a dazzling silver radiance.

FELLOWSHIP OF PRAYER

DAILY LENTEN DEVOTION

PREPARED BY THE REV. CLARENCE H. WILSON, D.D. FOR THE COMMISSION ON EVANGELISM OF THE FEDERAL COUNCIL OF THE CHURCHES OF CHRIST IN AMERICA

A GREAT REPENTANCE

"For the Son of man is come to seek and to save that which was lost." Luke 19:10 (Read Luke 19:1-10.)

Meditation

Another of Luke's publicans and the chief of them all. Beyond a doubt he was a bad man. He was rich; and however it may be with other men, publicans did not get rich by virtuous means. The people thought him no fit man to entertain Jesus. Zaccheus himself was surprised at the honor. In his confession he admitted evil practices. And Jesus spoke of him as a lost man. But what a repentance he made! There is no question of its sincerity for he promptly brought forth fruits meet for repentance. When dishonest men profess repentance and yet keep the products of dishonesty there may be doubt of their sincerity. Zaccheus made restitution and was generous on top of that. He may be contrasted with the rich young ruler for Zaccheus must have impoverished himself. But salvation came to his house.

Prayer

O God who dost call all men to repent of their evil ways, grant unto us grace to do those things which Thou commandest, that our lives may bear witness to our faith. In Jesus' name. Amen.

BELMONT ELECTION RUMORS

Havelock, March 27

Mr. Editor,

It was rumored during the canvassing week, that Thomas Bannon, candidate for the Council, was the whole cause of the election by signing up to run. Had he not signed the election would be avoided. Well as a candidate, I can't agree to these rumors. I was not at the nomination, nor did I know that anyone had reserved the right to resign and avoid an election, as it has not been the custom until of late, in this place, but a fight to the finish. I refused to run unless there was sure to be an election without my name, of which I was assured before signing my name, as a candidate. Rumor also had it that my taxes were not paid, and if elected I would be unseated. It is too bad that those responsible for these rumors could not get into the funnies, as there is no truth whatever in them. According to rumors the election is not settled yet.

As for me, I did not canvass at all, so the ratepayers did not know that these reports were untrue. I myself did not know of them until after the election. The reason I was in the game was because the council was all in the north, and north east and the people wanted a representative in the south where they get the money to run the business of the township, which I think would look better, and be better.

As for me, had I been elected I was not a Party Post as reported, but just one councillor. I believe in township affairs being run in the interests of the taxpayer not an old spite, as has been. The township can't prosper that way. Hoping that another year things will be run on a more friendly basis.

Yours,
Thomas Bannon.

What To-day Means To You

"ARIES"

If March 27th is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 11 a.m. to 1:45 p.m., and from 4 p.m. to 6:15 p.m. The danger hours are from 9 a.m. to 10:15 a.m., from 2:30 p.m. to 3:45 p.m. and from 8 p.m. to 9:10 p.m.

The planetary aspects of March 27th denote an atmosphere of lassitude. Not much work of a profitable nature will be accomplished. After sundown the conditions reveal a marked change for the better and social activities especially will reap the benefit.

Children born on this March 27th will be very considerate of others, gentle, and kind. They will not have strong characters, and their early environment will influence them throughout life. They will be affectionate and love their kith and kin with constancy.

If you were born on March 27th, you are very determined, equally as stubborn, and aggressively dogmatic. Yet to any one who knows how to handle you, and uses the special brand of flattery suitable to your case, you are amenable, kind and sympathetic. You seem to think it is necessary, in order to make your presence felt, to become loud and blatant. This scares many, but there are those who realize that though your bark is noisy, your bite is innocuous.

Your prejudices, your likes and dislikes, are very pronounced, and you never try to hide them. You voice them in season and out of season. Your attitude is one that estranges, although at heart, you are really a good sort, and your nature, when properly attuned, is kind, tolerant and generous. In your habits, you are tidy, punctual and law abiding. Gifted with more than the average intelligence, endowed with a good memory, and possessing both ambition and persistency, you are bound to forge ahead and achieve success.

If a woman, you are highly intuitional, and can make a little go a long way, without giving any evidence of skimping. Both men and women born on March 27th are assured of domestic felicity. Although "April showers" may cause momentary differences, they will bring out the "May flowers" of sweet content.

Streets Are Needing Much Re-surfacing

Most of the streets on which surface drain trenches were dug during the winter will require considerable re-surfacing before they are restored to their normal condition. Automobiles have been mired in some of the softest and deepest traps that have formed since the frost began to lift. The corner of Perry and Stewart Streets has recently been churned up to the consistency of a plowed field, and along Rogers Street the level of the filled-in trench dropped a foot or more over a distance of several blocks.

Mayor Denne stated to-day that the worst of these holes and grooves are being filled in with gravel as rapidly as possible, but permanent improvement cannot be undertaken until the frost is entirely out of the ground.

ONTARIO BOOSTS FEBRUARY SALES

Three Provinces Exceed Life Insurance Written in Same Month, 1930.

TORONTO, Mar. 27.—The sale of nearly $18,000,000 of ordinary life insurance in Ontario in February was largely responsible for the comparatively good showing of life insurance sales in the Dominion, according to figures prepared by the Sales Research Bureau of Hartford for that month. Total sales for the month in Canada and Newfoundland were $40,180,000 or 8 per cent less than for the same month a year ago, while in the United States, February sales slumped 19 per cent below the corresponding month of 1930, Ontario sales which contribute over 40 per cent of the Canadian total, were 103 per cent of the February, 1930, total.

Another important feature of the Canadian record for the month was the good showing made by the Maritimes, both New Brunswick and Nova Scotia showing February gains as compared with a year ago. Sales in the former province were 7 per cent greater than a year ago, while Nova Scotia bettered its February, 1930, record by 5 per cent.

trio may get a sum in the neighborhood of $50,000.

Bennett and the Thornberry brothers are young Irishmen who came from the Emerald Isle two years ago to seek their fortune in a new country, only by the strangest of chances to have that fortune given to them by the country which they left.

Thus the rainbow which they followed from the Old Land to the new had a pot of gold at the reverse end—a new experience for ambitious emigrants.

Fortunate Day.

Bennett bought the ticket some weeks ago, and later confided his "investment" to his pals. The three decided to share the expense, and it was a fortunate day for the other two when they agreed to "run along" with their speculative countryman.

Later, Bennett reported that he had been offered 2,500 pounds for a half interest in his ticket—or about $12,500. This offer the trio considered, and then like good sportsmen, decided that they would take their chance for a fortune or a relatively small sum and kept the ticket.

Much doubt exists as to what Bennett and his associates will get. According to one report, all those who drew horses, outside of the three winners, will only receive a consolation prize of 1,280 pounds sterling. By this, Great Span would yield only about $6,400.

MAY BAN DOGS FOR HUNTING.

TORONTO, Ont., March 27.— The ban on the use of dogs in hunting deer may be brought into effect by the legislation at the present session of the Ontario Legislature. After several contentious sessions of the Fish and Game committee a vote on the question to-day favoured the abolition of dogs 10 to 9.

Gypsum Earned Less Than Dividend Needs

TORONTO, Mar. 27.—To meet dividends at the rate of 37½ cents per share per quarter for the first three-quarters of 1930 and at the rate of 20 cents for the last quarter, Gypsum, Lime and Alabastine, Canada, Ltd., was obliged to call on surplus for $285,939, according to the annual statement issued to shareholders yesterday afternoon.

Net earnings for the year were the equivalent of slightly more than 70 cents per share as against the current dividend basis of 80 cents. Cash position, however, is the strongest in the company's history and President R. E. Haire says in his statement to shareholders that improvements made during the past year will result in lower operating costs for 1931.

HOLDERS OFFERED $11

Shareholders of Sarnia Distilleries are informed by circular letter from Dickson, Jolliffe & Co., members of the Toronto Stock Exchange, that an offer has been made for Sarnia Distilleries on the basis of $11 per share. There are 50,000 shares outstanding.

It is understood that shareholders owning more than 90 per cent. of the stock have agreed to accept the offer, so that the deal is apparently certain to go through. The identity of the purchasers has not been revealed.

Sarnia Distilleries was publicly financed in February, 1929, when the shares, representing the only capitalization of the company, were offered at $27.50 each. The company's plant has an annual distilling capacity of 600,000 gal. Balance sheets as at Dec. 31, 1929, the latest one available, showed gross assets of $843,965. Fixed assets, depreciated, were carried at $319,902. Current assets totalled $511,808, of which $302,000 was in inventony and the balance in cash or its equivalent. Current liabilities were only $6,457.

F. N. Burt Research Aids In Competition

TORONTO, Mar. 27.—Hopeful signs of an improvement in general business conditions for 1931 were beginning to make an appearance, S. J. Moore, president of F. N. Burt Co., Ltd., told shareholders at the annual meeting of the company yesterday.

Mr. Moore reviewed the difficulties experienced in 1930, and thought that in view of the decreased volume of business available and lower prices which prevailed the company had come through the year in good shape. He said they were in a position to take advantage of any new business and had acquired many new accounts in 1930 to offset the decreased buying of old customers.

H. C. Coppins, general superintendent of the company, reveiwed research activities of F. N. Burt. The company designs and builds its own machinery, and this was an important factor, he said, in the meeting and overcoming of highly competitive conditions.

CAN. GENERAL PREFERRED

Announcement is made by the Canadian General Electric Company of Employees' Savings and Investment Plan No. 5 under which employees may purchase the 7% cumulative preference stock of the company. Employees on the payroll on or before April 1, 1930, may purchase from one to ten shares. The price will be $55 a share. Payment may be made in cash, or at the rate of $4.50 a share, monthly by deductions from salaries or wages. Subscriptions will be received up to March 31, 1931.

Subscriptions will be entirely voluntary, and the offer is made by the company for the sole purpose of affording its employees a convenient method of investing their savings in the company in which they are employed and receiving a liberal return on their investment.

Bright Spots Appear On American Horizon

NEW YORK, March 27.—Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co. output increases 40 per cent over last 1930 quarter. Canada Dry Ginger Ale, Inc., 3-year expansion program calls for output 10 times present 90,000,000 bottles a year. Puneo Press Inc., 1930 earnings to equal 1929, when $6.71 share was earned.

Light, all-metal flivver airplane to retail below $2,000 expected at Detroit Air Show. Manufactured goods production to be up 25 per cent over 1930 by end of 1931, Detroit economist predicts. Doehler-Die Castings Corporation increases output as result of higher auto production.

AGNEW-SURPASS SHOE

Good progress is being made by Agnew-Surpass Shoe Stores, Ltd., during the current fiscal year, which will come to an end on May 31. Financial Counsel is informed that the consolidated profit and loss statement for the first six months, that is, to November 30, 1930, showed earnings sufficient to cover the preferred dividends for the entire year, with a good margin to spare. This indicates that the net earnings in the last half of the current fiscal year will be applicable to the common stock. For the first half of the year sales were running approximately 4 per cent under the corresponding six months of 1929. For the quarter ended Feb. 28, 1931, however, there was a greater falling off in sales than in the previous period, increasing the decline from the previous year to almost 6 per cent. ...

LAKE SHORE MEETS WITH MORE DEMAND

Higher-priced Gold Group Stocks Active on Standard Exchange.

GENERAL LIST IRREGULAR.

Base Metals and Oils Somewhat Easier in Trend—Noranda Meeting To-day.

TORONTO, Ont., Mar. 27.—(CP)—Lake Shore and the higher-priced gold group generally met improved demand on the mining market in the forenoon to-day. Balance of the list displayed an irregular tone with base metals and oils somewhat easier in trend.

After easing off slightly from las night, Lake Shore ran into heavy accumulation around midday, price moving into new high territory for the yea nd standing up $1.25 at $27.75 when taken. McIntyre gained a point to $23.95 and Teck Hughes, Hollinger and Wright-Hargreaves showed gains of 5 apiece over last night. In the cheaper golds Kirkland Lake was up 3 and Sylvanite and Eldorado a couple each. Pennies were relatively inactive with Ritchie off for the session.

Noranda, whose annual meeting is being held to-day, sold off a half at $27.80 and Nickel was down a quarter to $18.50. In the oil section chemical research dropped another 7 to $3.25, Homestead 5 to $1.55 and Petrol and Home Oil a cent or so each. Oil selections sold up a cent to 8.

CAN. CEMENT WILL EXTEND LARGE PLANT

To Spend Nearly Half Million Dollars at Port Colborne.

INSTALL WET PROCESS.

Company Sales to Date on Par With Those of Last Year.

MONTREAL, Mar. 27.—Following its policy of plowing money back into plant additions and improvements, Canada Cement Co. is undertaking a comprehensive rehabilitation of its Port Colborne plant. The unit, which is the last of the company's plants to be operated on the dry process, is being equipped with the wet process. Various extensions and additions will be included and the whole procedure is expected to cost in the neighborhood of $500,000.

Increased efficiency, lower operating expenses and elimination of the dust problems are gained by the wet process of manufacture. In recent years Cement has switched over several of its plants to the improved method of production; re-equipment of the unit at Montreal East with the wet process is virtually completed and productive capacity will be increased from 10,000 barrels to 15,000 barrels daily.

Decision Follows Assent.

The decision to reorganize the Port Colborne plant follows the assent of ratepayers of Humberstone township to a fixed assessment of $250,000. Ratification by the ratepayers means that Canada Cement's plant will remain in its present location for another 20 years.

Sales are Maintained.

Sales of the company to date are reported to be on a par with those of last year. It is yet too early to make an estimate of activities during the current year; much depends on a maintenance of building work.

In constructing of the Canadian National Terminals in Montreal many see a substantial volume of business for Canada Cement Co. The possibility that the greater part of the work will be carried out in reinforced concrete offers a potential source for sales; as yet, however, no definite announcement has been made regarding contracts.

Wheat Averages Lower In Favorable Weather

CHICAGO, Ill., Mar. 27. —(CP)— With moisture plentiful, grain prices averaged lower early to-day. Official summaries showing farmers intentions to plant less wheat and more corn this season were apparently without effect as an immediate market influence. Opening 3-8 cents off to 3-8 up, wheat afterward underwent an all around sag. Corn started 3-8 lower to 1-8-¼ higher and subsequently tended downward.

BESSBORO STARTS FOR CANADA

LONDON, Mar. 27. —(AP)— The Earl of Bessborough, new Governor General of Canada, with the Countess, and his staff, left here today for Liverpool where he will embark on the Duchess of Bedford for Canada to take up his new duties in the Dominion.

J. DEMPSEY WINS SUIT

CHICAGO, Ill., March 27 (C.P.) — Jack Dempsey won the suit for $500,000 damages, filed against him by the Chicago Coliseum Company for alleged breach of contract to fight Harry Wills, when Judge H. Sterling Pomeroy directed the jury to render a verdict of dismissal.

MINING BRIEFS.

TORONTO, Ont., March 27. (Special to Examiner.)—The Noranda meeting and its possible effect on the market for the stock, which has been the featuring issue for the past week or two, was the chief subject of comment on the street early to-day. Higher priced gold stocks continue to display considerable buoyancy, with McIntyre enjoying improved demand. Heavy turnover in the penny stocks appears to have subsided somewhat of late but the number of renewed operations planned for the coming season should provide a good deal of news to maintain interest.

Copper prices abroad remain soft. London closing price to-day for standard copper was off 8s 9d to £43 1s 3d and electrolytic down 5s to £45 15s. Tin dropped 12s 6d to £120 7s6d zinc 5s to £11 7s 6d and silver 1-8 to 13 3-8d lead alone improved, price recovering 3s 6d to 12 2s 6d. According to McIntyre officials there is little foundation for the many stories heard regarding the find in Tyrell township. The company knows comparatively little itself of the economic possibilities of the property as no definite widths or the strike of the showing were determined before the snow came. The presence of visible gold with sections of the vein giving $13 across commercial widths has prompted a program of surface exploration for the coming spring and summer.

The annual general meeting of shareholders of Hudson Bay Mining and Smelting Co, will be held in the Royal York Hotel on April 12. The annual statement and conditions of the company is awaited with interest as it is felt proportion have been under way long enough to give a fair idea of the trend affairs. At a meeting of directors of Kirkland Lake gold mines, held following the annual general meeting yesterday, J. B. Tyrell well known geologist and former managing director, was elected president and R. G. O Thompson, vice president. C. N. Candee was elected to the board to fill the vacancy by the resignation of the former president D. B. Hanna.

Sulphides mining and development consulting engineers and mine managers for midcontinent goldfields report they now have on display at their office in the Reford Building, specimens of the gold ore from the Alexandria gold mine at Phillips Arm B.C., and also silver-dead zinc ore from the Badine Bonanza mine and Smithers, B.C.

PLEASURE COSTING PEOPLE TOO MUCH

er's ability and sincerity, not only in his life work, but in all matters for the betterment of the community in which he lives and the country as a whole.

Mr. Reek who proved to be a logical thinker and a good speaker, went right to the heart of the problems which are facing young people in the farming communities at the present time, contending that the present system of secondary or high school education did not make adequate provision for the needs of the rural student. In other words it did not encourage young people to stay on the farms, but rather tended too much to turn their vocational inclinations towards the professions.

Sounding a note of optimism, with regard to the present economic situation, the speaker averred that it is fortunate that we have a population in this country who are determined to make a living themselves. He referred to the farmers, who he said, are a most reliable, and dependable class of people and the backbone of the country.

"Agriculture he said, "cannot be arranged so that inefficient farming will succeed, and while we have many good farmers we also have a large proportion of inefficient farmers, who work on a marginal basis."

The speaker went on to stress the importance of the work being carried on by the Department of Agriculture through their local representatives pointed out that it was believed 20 years ago that farming could not be learned by the book, it was becoming more and more realised that theoretical farming had an important niche to fill. "It is only by education that we can hold up our end" he remarked.

Secondary Education

He asked: "What are you offering your boys and girls in the way of secondary education?" and answered the question by affirming that "you are sending them to high school and giving them a course which leads to the professions. Is it right that these farm boys and girls should be led along this path."

He proceeded to tell his audience what had been done in Ridgetown, to solve the problem. Here has been established a school where courses are given in agricultural science, and farm mechanics and economics for the boys and household arts, domestic science, dressmaking and millinery for the girls. A course which has the same standing as the regular high school academic course.

The school he spoke of, he explained, was formerly just a regular high school where boys who had no inclination for academic studies simply learned to become first rate slackers. They were following a line of study for which they were not suited, whereas now they are engaged in studies which are to be of practical use to them in the work in which they will be engaged back on the farms, and a work for which they are naturally inclined.

The school which is now in its fifth year originally started with 22 pupils on the roll for that particular branch, and to date the enrollment has increased to 87. There has never been any adverse criticism levelled at the school either by the farmers or the farmer's wives.

He did not suggest that such a school would be practicable in Peterborough, as in fact Peterborough is well served by a Collegiate Institute and Vocational School, where pupils may have the choice of an academic or technical training. He did think, however, that the Ridgetown School was serving a worthwhile purpose and was being conducted along much needed lines, and he would like to see an extension of such schools throughout the farming districts of the Province.

The speaker was accorded a hearty vote of thanks on the motion of Walter Kidd.

J. J. Duffus also expressed his appreciation to the Kiwanians on his own behalf and on behalf of the guests for the kindly interest of the club members in inviting the farmers to meet with them and to listen to such a worthwhile address. He also spoke of the forthcoming International Plowing Match which is to be held in this city next fall, and urged the full co-operation of everyone in an effort to put the match over the top to greater success than it has ever experienced before.

The booster for the day was District Governor I. P. McNabb, who capably spoke in the interests of Kiwanian Ivan T. Lillico.

Governor McNabb related how Mr. Lillico had broken into a banking career at the age of sixteen years, after having graduated from the Peterborough Collegiate Institute; how after a few years in the Peterborough branch of the Bank of Montreal he was transferred in turn to Bowmanville and Aurora, after which he enlisted in the Royal Canadian Engineers and saw service overseas. After the termination of the war he returned to his native country and was appointed acting manager of the Bathurst Street branch of the Bank of Montreal. Shortly afterwards he went into partnership in the Chevrolet agency in this city, and has lately taken over the exclusive agency of Dodge automobiles and commercial vehicles.

92nd Running

It was the 92nd renewal of the classic race, which was started in 1839 by a Liverpool saloon keeper who wanted to draw more customers to town to patronize his bar.

A field of 43 horses went to the barrier and after one false start were away well at 3.04 p.m., (10.04 a.m., E.S.T.), all safely negotiated the first and second jumps. Coming up to the third May King refused, the first one of the big field to drop out. Back past the starting line on the first round of the heart-breaking course Gregalach, Easter Hero and Blair's Great Span were fighting it out for the lead.

Out across the fences and over the hedges only the bobbing heads of horses and riders could be seen until they cleared Valentine's Brook and turned the corner for home. Then it was seen that Gregalach and Grackle were in the lead with Easter Hero well up. Three jumps from home, however, Easter Hero went to his knees on rough ground.

All U. S. Horses But 2 Finish

All the horses entered by United States owners but Easter Hero and Swift Rowland finished the race, although Stephen (Laddie) Sanford's Sandy Hook, Gordon Selfridge's Ruddyman, Mellon's Alike and Emanuel's Royal Arch 11 were far back out of it. Sandy Hook and Sir Lindsay both fell out finished out the course.

The Red Cross attendant at Beecher's Brook said Easter Hero almost came to grief there on the second time around, just a few jumps from where he fell, fighting neck and neck with Grakle and Gregalach, the attendant said, Easter Hero swerved and went to his knees, tangling an unidentified horse. He was up quickly and after the leaders but the fall apparently had weakened him and he went down again almost in sight of the finish line.

Jockey Leader, who escaped with only a bruised hand when Swift Rowland fell with him at Beecher's Brook said the horse hesitated at the jump, lost his speed and when he finally went over, hit the edge of the brook and broke his neck.

A. Bendon's Drin, another of the favorites, broke his leg at Valentine's Brook and had to be destroyed.

Nine-tenths of the automobiles imported into Porto Rico in the last six years are still in use.

Mrs. Turner's report was a concise review of the season's activities, giving in brief detail a summary of the games played and the prizes won. Thirty-two members were enrolled this year, four of these being new members.

The Gibson Trophy was won this year by Mrs. R. M. Waddell's rink, with Miss H. Munro as vice, Mrs. M. Comstock as second and Miss L. Hall as lead.

The club was represented this year in the Ladies' Ontario Tankard competition at the Granite Club, Toronto, with two rinks, one skipped by Mrs. W. Oke, with Mrs. D. S. Clarke, Miss H. Munro and Miss H. Fanning, and the second skipped by Mrs. W. H. Hill, with Mrs. Reg. Turner, Mrs. M. Comstock and Mrs. O. Degraw.

They last to the Granite Club by only two shots, and, as runners up, made an excellent showing. Each player received a handsome leather envelope bag.

At the annual meeting of the Ladis' Ontario Curling Association, in Toronto, Mrs. Reg. Turner was re-elected as vice-president.

The thanks of the club were extended to the Games Committee, especially to Miss H. Munro and Mrs. O. Degraw, who took over the duties when Miss Gladman was unable to carry on, through illness; also to H. Martin, A. McIntosh, Thomas Brightman and any other who helped during the season. NEW 18-HOLE GOLF COURSE IS COMPLETED

COVERS 128 ACRES

Club to be Run With Same Service as That of Last Year—Visitors List Increase.

The members of the Peterborough Golf and Country Club Limited held their annual meeting last night in the Chamber of Commerce and appointed committees for the coming year. There was a large turnout and the business was transacted with dispatch. B. D. Hall acted as chairman. The officers of the club are: H. A. Morrow, president; F. L. Bradburn, secretary; and directors, O. A. DeGraw, J. P. Bond, Wm. Sangster and Ross Dobbin.

The committees appointed last night were: Match and Handicap Committee, J. P. Bond, chairman, W. F. Huycke, F. M. DelaFosse. The Greens Committee, O. A. DeGraw, chairman, G. A. MacDonald, A. H. Rogers. The House Committee, Ross Dobbin chairman, C. D. Graham, and a lady to be elected by the lady members. The Membership Committee, W. C. Ackerman, chairman, D. B. Falkner, H. C. Sootheran, R. Abbott, Dr. J. M. McCullough, E. G. Patterson, Charles Cummer, W. A. Elliott. The Building Committee, William Sangster, chairman, G. W. Morrow, G. A. Wood, Captain elected was F. C. Webber, and the vice-captain, Dr. Edward Wood.

New Course Completed

The new 18-hole golf course is now completed, and it is one of the very few in existence through Central Ontario. The course covers approximately 128 acres and meets with all championship tournament requirements. Running along the canal at the outskirts of the city, it is a really beautiful spot.

Last year, more than 1,300 paying visitors from out of town played on the 9-holse course, an increase of about 50 per cent. over other years. The new course this year will doubtless attract a great many more visitors. The excellent food service at the club house will be continued under the same management. The club has suitable machinery for the operation of the large course.

This golf course represents an investment of about forty thousand dollars, and it is practically paid for. For this reason, the membership fees are considerably lower here than the average city course of this size.

During a number of the past years on account of the large number of members who were forced to play on a very small area, it was not found possible to accommodate many citizens who might have been glad to take up golf. Now, with the playing area almost three times the size the club will welcome inquiries for membership. Any information in connection with fees, etc., may be obtained from members of the Board of Directors or Secretary F. L. Bradburn.

Peterborough is fortunate in having an 18-hole golf course practically within its borders which permits citizens to enjoy a maximum of golf at a minimum loss of time, and this is a decided advantage over the average city of this size.

TORONTO PRODUCE

TORONTO, March 27. — Higher prices were quoted to country shippers for ungraded eggs yesterday. Wholesalers raised prices 1c per dozen in an attempt to secure heavier receipts for the Easter trade, offering 19 for extras, 17c for firsts and 15c for seconds, yesteday. Retailers were returned. The general clean-up at the week-end and lack of receipts during the first few days of this week made the local market much stronger, and at yesterday's closing brokers had reached levels fully 3c per dozen above last week-end's close.

Graded eggs, in free cases, were quoted by brokers at 22c to 23c for extras, 20c to 21c for firsts, and 18c for seconds, yesterday. eRtailers were offered extras at 27c in cartons; extras, 25c, loose; firsts 23c, loose; and seconds 20c, loose, an increase of 1c per dozen over Wednesday's prices.

Butter

The butter market showed greater strength, No. 1 creamery solids being quoted ¼c better at 31c to 31¼c, while there was a good demand for No. 2 at 30c to 30¼c, which was steady. The second grade has been very scarce all week and the demand has been sufficient to take care of large amounts.

Cheese

Cheese sold steady with the week's decline at 14½c t othe country shipper for new large, 14¾c for twins and 15c for triplets, and to the retailers at 15½c for new large, 15¾c for twins and 16c for triplets.

Poultry Prices

New poultry price lists were issued yesterday, and there were many changes noted. Many quotations have been deleted, and prices for alive and dressed weight have been altered.

MONTREAL PRODUCE

MONTREAL, March 27. — Butter quotations were higher on the produce and dairy market here yesterday, while eggs, cheese and potato prices were unchanged.

On the butter market re-graded Eastern Townships and fresh Western No. 1 gained one-quarter of a cent at 31¼c to 31½c. To retailers solids and prints were unchanged at 33c and 34c a pound, respectively. Receipts were 146 boxes.

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, March 27. — Narrow in range and without one redeeming feature, the wheat pit climaxed a dull session by clipping ¼ cent from all three wheat futures.

May closed at 57¾c; July at 59¼c, and October ended at 61⅝c, each ¼c lower.

Trading was entirely local in character. There was some spreading between here and Chcago involvng the purchase of four months against sales in the Southern market. Buying, however, was not at all active. United States markets, on the other hand, were quite strong.

Cash and coarse grains were very uninteresting. Prices, however, held firm.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, March 27.—July wheat delivery led a brisk rally in grain prices late yesterday, and brought about a general advance in all wheat except September contracts. Extensive closing of spreads between July and September wheat was largely responsible for the price bulge, which resulted from wheat buying here agains tsales at Winnipeg, and from purchases of wheat matching sales of corn. The various manoeuvres were associated with predictions current that the first rush of domestic winter wheat from the 1931 harvest fields would be in a big demand because of likelihood of an abnormal premium for old wheat at the end of the season in June.

Wheat closed irregular, 3-8c lower to 1¼c higher the latter for the June delivery. Corn closed 1-8c to ½c down, oats unchanged to ¾c up, and provisions at 5c to 12c decline.

Mother and Anne had always been very close to one another. When Anne married and moved to another city, each missed the other greatly.

But one thing more than any other has helped to keep them close — the telephone. Every Friday evening Anne calls her mother by Long Distance . . . after 8.30 p.m. when the low night rates are in effect. During the week they both keep memos of topics they wish to discuss. Then there is no time lost . . . and nothing forgotten.

What if they are 120 miles apart! The telephone connection is made in about a minute — nearly always while Anne holds the line. Their voices are just as clear as on local, and the cost, after 8.30 p.m., is only 40 cents.

Evening rates on "Anyone" (station-to-station) calls begin at 7 p.m. Night rates begin at 8.30 p.m. Just give "Long Distance" the number you want — it speeds up the service. If you don't know the distant number, "Information" will look it up for you.

Roseneath Hears Noted Missionary

ROSENEATH, March 27 (Examiner Correspondence)—In spite of the bad condition of the roads, it did not prevent the country folk from attending the Missionary service in the United Church on Sunday evening. The congregation had with them for the first time Dr. Hargaret McKellar, a noted missionary from Neemuch, India.

The service was conducted by the pastor, Rev. R. W. Paton, M.A.

Dr. McKellar was introduced by Mrs. Archie Campbell, president of the Roseneath Missionary Society, delivered an interesting address, mentioning the customs and habits of the people in India, briefly describing the Hindu, Zenanas.

Forty years ago when Dr. McKellar first went to India there was a population of two hundred and ninety millions, and in her last report there were thirty-one milions but the latest census recorded showed a population of three hundred and fifty-one millions. Dr. McKellar told a few of the many great and good things Britain has done for India. She has stopped the destruction of burning the widows, whose husbands would die, and the throwing of their daughters into the Ganges River as a sacrifice. Certain laws were made which hold throughout India yet sometimes the natives try to disobey them.

Speaking of animals, the cow is the most sacred, they value the animals more than human beings, one class of Indians, Dr. McKellar told about takes a broom and sweeps the ground, lest they may sit on an ant, spider or some insect and they wear masks in case the little insects might get in to the nose or mouth, they believe that in killing anything they might be killing some of their ancestors.

Italy is pushing its development of hydroelectric powed for industrial purposes.

terborough always liked to see them coming in. He expressed the hope that the revival of confidence and business was already beginning, and as an encouragement to the milk producers he quoted the opinion of Roger Babson, the economist, who recently stated that this year would be satisfactory for the dairy farmer.

Mr. Falkoner and Mr. Sootheran spoke briefly, and at the conclusion of the meeting a vote of thanks was extended to Mr. Gillespie on motion of John Earle of Ida, Cavan township. Mr. Griffin incidentally paid a tribute to Mr. Gillespie, who, he said, had always tried to do the square thing with his patrons.

Dairy Business Steady

"Dairying has been the best branch of agriculture all through the depression", said Mr. Griffin. "I was in Winnipeg all last week attending the National Dairy Council meeting. The Council is composed of delegates from the Atlantic to the Pacific. All week I did not hear one pessimistic word from them. Many are feeling the pinch, but they're not saying anything. In so far as the dairy industry is concerned they are quite optimistic. They are going into it stronger, and before this year is out Canada will be exporting butter. Instead of importing fifty million pounds as we did last year we will have more than we need for ourselves.

You all realize that we have to compete with the markets of the world. Cheese is our main branch by which we export milk, and as it is sold in world competition it regulates the price of milk for all the other dairy products."

After stressing that statement that the farmers must consider the fact that their competitors are far beyond their own country, Mr. Griffin appealed to them to strive to lower their cost of producing milk.

Average Production Low.

"Our average cow is yielding from 4,000 to 4,500 pounds of milk," he continued. "How can we hope to compete with other countries were the average production is 8,000 to 8,500 pounds per cow. I know we have many herds producing more than the average, and we have also many fine individual cows, but when we consider that the average is around 4,500 pounds of milk, there must be thousands of cows in Canada and right here in Ontario that are eating their heads off, and running their owners into debt.

As a producer I never could understand how a man could be satisfied with keeping and feeding an unproductive cow. Producers howl about the price of their product, but I have a mighty hard time trying to persuade them to help themselves. The cost of production has more to do with your profits than does the price you receive for your product.

May I repeat it. Your are competing in the markets of the world. Therefore you must cut down your cost of production to the minimum. One thing you can do, you can establish a cow testing association. You will find out which are the good and bad cows only by the Babcock test. Now is the time to start it when milk is plentiful. Get after the poor cows and get them out of your stables. Send them back to the block, don't sell them to torment some other fellow. You will never make any money out of these "boarders."

An Oxford Contest.

Mr. Griffin cited one comparison in production which had been disclosed by a competition held by the western Ontario cheese makers last year.

"One producer had fifty acres and fifteen cows. Their production was 1,274 pounds of milk per acre; 4,248 pounds per cow; and the revenue per cow was $48.78 over a period of six months.

Another man, also on fifty acres, had eight cows. Their production was 61,479 pounds, or an average of 7,684 pounds; and on the other basis it was 1,229 pounds per acre. And the returns in money amounted to $89.37 per cow. The second man had only eight cows to feed and take care of, and to milk, as compared with the first man's fifteen, but the receipts were almost the same. That is what we should all strive to do. We need more milk, but not more cows. We want better cows rather than more cows. I wish I could impress that strongly on the young men. Go into this work and place the business on a proper paying basis."

Mr. Griffin also said the Ontario Producers' Association was in favor of compulsory pasteurizing as a means of protecting their product and guaranteeing its purity. He mentioned several other topics and concluded with the statement that only by breeding, weeding and feeding could the dairy farmer work into the most profitable herds.

Mr. Silverwood's Home.

Mr. Duplan said that his first visit to the producers of Peterborough reminded him that he was almost in the centre of the district where the president of the company had spent his boyhood days.

"Mr. Silverwood was born in Victoria county, not far from Lindsay. He went to school in the town and also taught school in the district. About 1900 he joined the Flavelle organization in Lindsay, and in the following year he was transferred to London as manager of the Flavelle interests there. In 1903 with some eight citizens of London he formed what was known as Silverwood's Limited, and that small beginning was the nucleus and the home of the organization which operates twenty-six dairy plants in Ontario covering the entire province except the Ottawa valley. And that part of the province will be served by our organization as soon as conditions warrant."

To enable the local patrons to visualize something more than the local aspect of Silverwoods, Mr. Duplan stated that the company had produced and distributed about 6,000,000 pounds of creamery butter last year. That was one of the largest distributions in Canada. The company's daily sale of bottled milk was 71,000 quarts, and this year's objective aims to increase that to 100,000 quarts daily. Silverwood's also manufactured and distributed last year nearly 1,000,000 gallons of ice cream, and "that is the largest distribution in the British Empire under any one name and by any one company."

Loyalty In Organization.

"In that one respect our organization is the largest in the British Empire. How has this business been brought about? First, through the vision of the founder of our organization, and in associating with himself men of ability and foresight who gave him their best. Second through the loyalty of 900 employees, and also through the loyalty and co-operation of the producer, whether of milk, sweet cream, churning cream or otherwise."

Mr. Duplan stated that these figures had mounted during the last several years because it was only during that time that the extensions of the company had been accomplished. In addition to its dairy products it had also disposed of immense quantities of eggs, condensed milk, powdered milk, and other lines. Another phase of Silverwood's is the fact that it is wholly Canadian with 4,164 Canadian shareholders. The faith and confidence between the producer and the consumer, between the company and its employees, in this instance including the dairy producers, had been a great factor in the company's success, Mr. Duplan said.

"We have endeavoured to exercise the spirit of fair play with all those with whom we are dealing," Mr. Duplan declared. "I was glad to hear Mr. Griffin mention his own experience, that his relations with our company have been so satisfactory that we have always been able to iron out any little causes of friction that may have arisen.

With faith behind our organization, and faith as citizens in the future of Ontario and the Dominion of Canada, linked with the splendid co-operation between the employees and the organization, is there anything that can stand between us and increasing success? Roger Babson says, as Mayor Denne remarked, that this year will be a successful year for the dairy farmer."

New Thrift Plan.

Mr. Duplan then discussed the new Silverwood's thrift plan whereby employees and patrons may purchase participating stock in the company at a special price and on special terms of payment.

"On February 1st the directors set aside 12,500 shares of stock which was offered to the employees on the special arrangement for purchase, and the whole issue was quickly subscribed. As an outcome of that experience some patrons asked the president if a similar offer might be made to them. The thrift plan makes it possible to purchase stock in the company, ten percent of a producer's monthly milk cheque to be applied to the cost of the stock that is bought under special price arrangement, and with dividends accruing immediately. They are paid to you before you have paid for your stock."

"This is entirely voluntary," Mr. Duplan stated. He quoted the amount of Silverwood stock held by citizens in Oxford county, and Mr. Gillespie afterwards mentioned the approximate amount in Peterborough county.

The dividends accrue from the date of the first payment. In the event of the stockholder dying or discontinuing shipments the total amount of his payments would be returned, less the dividend paid. Only the producers of milk are eligible for this special offer. The general public pay the regular price.

"I hope our relations with you during the last year have been satisfactory," Mr. Duplan remarked. "We hope that they will continue to be satisfactory and also that you will receive a fair profit under the conditions that are existing this year."

Later, Mr. Duplan pointed out that Silverwood's was not like the average chain business, "taking profit out of a city or county and poring it into some distant centre for the gain of a few." He quoted the value of the company's securities held in Oxford county and stated that the company pays about $360,000 a year for milk and cream bought from Oxford county farmers."

It is also a policy of the company to buy their requirements from local sources. In this connexion he said that the company bought its caps from the Sealrite Company in Peterborough and was also a good customer of the De Laval Company.

"After paying for our water and light, our wages, all the details of overhead, and the cost of the products we buy from the farmers, we also pay back $38,000 each year to the holders of Silverwood's securities, the net profits except 8 per cent which is added to the reserve."

Mr. Gillespie spoke briefly emphasizing the human element in the Silverwood company. "Today is the day of large organizations. My own feeling has been that a great many of the large corporations lack the human side, the sympathy and understanding of others. I am glad to say that I have known Mr. Silverwood longer than I have known most of you men. He and the men of the organization all the way down are men who do not forget the human element. I believe that our success depends a great deal on good feeling between the producers and the company."

The present situation had been well met in Peterborough and the surrounding district, Mr. Gillespie said. Older citizens had come through periods as unfavorable or even worse than this. "I believe we will soon come out of this depression and go on as strong as before, probably stronger because a great many of us will have learned a real lesson in thrift. We all know that people have been spending more than they should without any serious thought of what the future had in store."

DESIGNERS GIVE NEW CAR MODELS GRUELLING TEST

Two Engineers From General Motors Address Engineering Institute.

BIG PROVING GROUND.

The numerous gruelling tests to which General Motors products and all other automobiles manufactured in this age and generation, are subject to ensure the utmost of performance and service to their users, was graphically illustrated by films and verbal explanation at a largely attended lecture of the local branch of the Engineering Institute of Canada at Paragon Tea Rooms last evening.

President W. E. Ross, A.M.E.I.C., introduced the speakers. Messrs. J. E. V. Shortt and Charles Smith, both of the General Motors Company of Canada, who capably filled the bill in the unavoidable absence of R. L. Kelly, designing engineer of the General Motors Company, and also extended a welcome to the many automobile mechanics and servicemen who where present, along with J. J. Duffus, one of the local agents for General Motors automobiles and trucks.

The films most interesting and informative, unfolded amazing facts unknown to the average automobile owner, who is totally ignorant or unaware of the exhaustive tests which every make of automobile undergoes in an unrelaxing effort on the part of the manufacturers to provide the maximum in transportation and service.

Monster Proving Ground

For instance, how many people are aware of the fact that General motors Corporation maintain an immense proving ground some 1,245 acres in extent a short distance north west of Detroit, wherein are built roads of every type and description and where a scientifically banked speed loop, one of the finest on the American continent, is constructed, and where General Motors products are run against those of their competitors without prejudice or favor.

The films showed all of this and more, it showed cars clinging at dizzy speeds on the banked track, others climbing stiff grades; cars under test rolling up huge mileages in rain, snow, mud and dust battling under every condition which it would be possible for any car owner to run up against.

In this huge proving ground are roads constructed of gravel and concrete, dust roads, rutty roads, waterlogged roads and miry roads; there are also service stations run and operated almost every car manufacturer on the continent, living quarters for resident and visiting engineers and lecture auditorium.

In the auditorium, it is interesting to note, lectures are delivered to members of the sales staff, the link between manufacturer and user, and here also where new models are 'unveiled,' where they are first revealed to the admiring gaze of the trade.

Before going out on test the cars are each measured and every specification duly noted by competent engineers—nothing is left to chance or taken for granted, even the spark plug gap is tested. The automobiles are then started out on a 2,000 mile running—in test, during which they are held at specified speeds. At 2,000 miles the cars are tuned-up for the more gruelling engineering tests, after which they are subjected to over 100 different scientific and mechanical examinations covering speed, safety, riding comfort, performance and durability.

Complete Record Kept

A detailed record is kept of the performance of each car, so that comparisons can easily be made at any time between two automobiles of different makes, while any part of the mechanism which gives way under the strain which is imposed upon it, is sent to the laboratories for scientific investigation as to the underlying cause for that breakdown.

The proving ground has been dedicated to service, and provides possibly some explanation to the remarkable strides which are made from year to year in automobile construction, design and performance.

The motion picture machine was in the hands of Mr. Smith, while Mr. Shortt delivered the lecture, at the conclusion of which the order was reversed and Mr. Smith gave an interesting talk on the construction of Fisher bodies, which are subjected to somewhat similar tests, as the chassis and engine of the vehicle on which the bodies are mounted.

Fisher Bodies

Mr. Smith traced the growth of the bodies from the embryo stage when they first take shape in full size chalk drawings, which after approval by the designers and artists, takes more concrete shape in the form of clay models, from which wooden patterns are made. He went on to describe the construction of the steel panels of the body which are constructed from the wood patterns, and how each part is carefully woven together, in one complete, harmonious whole. Tests are conducted on the finshed body to prove its roadibility, freedom from vibration, its comfort and ability to withstand the weather, etc.

He averred that the present trend in automobile body design is for speed, and consequently lighter bodies, in other words a decrease of weight and increased strength.

Both speakers were accorded a hearty vote of thanks by the chairman, and also by J. J. Duffus, who also thanked the members of the branch for the opportunity which had been afforded to the local automobile mechanics and service men to be present at such an interesting series of lectures. Mr. Duffus thought that such lectures provided a useful fund of additional information, for the members of the automobile trade, to augment that gained at the automobile school conducted by General Motors.

It is worthy of note that Mr. Shortt was the founder of the General Motors service school and is still in charge of it.

Anarchist Was Armed With Dynamite, Bombs

ROME, March 27 (C.P.). — A box of dynamite and several bombs were reported by police to-day to have been found in the hotel rooms of two Italians arrested on March 4 in connection with an alleged plot to assassinate Premier Mussolini. The two men are said to have been acting independently, instead of having been affiliated with the bombing gang headed by Michele Schirru, a naturalized United States citizen who was arrested on February 3, and is awaiting trial.

At the time of his arrest Schirru had two high explosive bombs in his baggage. He fired several shots at police and then shot himself in the head. After arrest police gave out an alleged confession in which Schirru, said to have lived in New York, admitted that he was an anarchist and planned to kill Mussolini.

RUSSIANS ARE INVITED TO STATE THEIR POLICY AS REGARDS WHEAT

French Delegate Claims Solution Lies in Limitation of Production.

UP TO FARMERS.

ROME, March 27. — (By George Hambleton, C. P. Staff Correspondent.)—Russia is invited to reveal the mystery of her wheat.

The world conference to-day began general discussion of international wheat production. But the day's speeches were limited to Europe. M. De Micheles, acting charman, observed that while the wheat importing countries had already made their position known, at Geneva and elsewhere, little was known definitely of Russia and the Russian intentions. He invited the Russians to state their case, and extended the invitation to the overseas producing countries.

Solution in Limitation.

Alfred Massee, president of the French Academy of Agriculture, thought the remedy for the wheat crisis lay in the limitation of production and remarked that a beginning might be made by stabilizing production. He had little sympathy, however, with measures which sought to enforce economic law. No country would be willing to surrender its parliamentary authority to an international society seeking to limit national production, he said.

But what could not be done by laws or regulations limiting production, might be done by an appeal to the farmers themselves, he continued. When the farmer realized that it was in his best interest not to get the wheat market, he would reduce production. M. Massee at the same time made it clear that limitation of wheat production in his own country would be a difficult problem. "We French are a Latin people, and to the Latins, bread is the staple of life," he said.

Motor Corporation Faces Court Action

An action has been entered for hearing at the next session of the County Court here, in which Charles Max Rishor and Duncan Morrison, formerly trading under the name of Rishor and Morrison in this city are claiming the sum of $768.77 from E. P. Jackson and Fargo Motor Corporation of Canada Limited.

The plaintiffs are represented by J. C. Strickland, K.C., M.L.A., while the defendant Jackson is represented by Messrs. Hall, Hall and Stevenson, and defendant Fargo Motor Corporation of Canada, by Messrs. Smith, Rae and Greer of Toronto.

On or about June 1st, 1930, plaintiffs were carrying on a soft drink and bottling business and purchased from defendant, E. P. Jackson, who, they allege was acting as agent and dealer for the defendant Fargo Motor Corporation, one Fargo truck which was guaranteed and warranted by both defendants to be in good running order and free from mechanical defects.

Plaintiffs claim for $768.77 includes damages to goods, monetary loss caused by the loss of the use of trucks; the amount paid to Jackson for parts, and the sum already paid into court.

LOVE OF COUNTRY CAN BE SHOWN IN BUYING CANADIAN-MADE GOODS

Mrs. Howard Fallis Addresses Members of the 57th I.O.D.E. Chapter.

PATRIOTISM IN BUYING

"If we really meant it when we say we love our country, we would be willing to pay the odd few cents more in order that our money should stay in our country. A good slogan to have in these days of depression would be: 'Let us keep our Canadian dollar working at home.'"

"Commercializing on Patriotism" was the title of a most interesting talk that centred about the Buy-in-Canada campaign, and was given by Mrs. Howard Fallis to the members of the 57th Regimental Chapter I.O.D.E., at their regular meeting in the Armories yesterday afternoon.

Mrs. Fallis spoke with her usual concise force and clear, eloquent wording of concrete facts. Her hearers listened attentively to her brief and timely address.

"There are many phases in connection with this movement," she declared, referring to the Buy-in-Canada campaign. "It is a movement that has been the subject of much political and newspaper controversy and it is hard to enlarge upon it without touching upon some of these arguments. But I am speaking about it to-day purely from the standpoint of a Canadian woman who is interested in the welfare of her own country. I am not anti-American or anti-anything else, but am purely and strongly pro Canadian.

"In the last few years, we have heard a lot about "produced in Canada," "made in Canada," and "buy in Canada." In normal times, that does not sink in very deeply, but in a time of economic depression, such as we are now passing through, our duty in this regard is coming home strongly to all of us. In times past, Canada has emerged triumphantly from depressed conditions and we hope she will do so again, but it is up to all of us to try and achieve that result.

"Since the war, in Canada we have experienced much prosperity, up to the last two or three years when the eponomic crash shook us out of that settled complacency into which we were fast drifting. We are faced, on the one hand, with stagnation, and on the other, with recovery and prosperity. The latter road means that we must climb the hill and in doing so, we still have to abandon that free and easy way of buying whatever best suited our purse and our convenience. We will have to scrutinize each article purchased, to discover whether it was made in Canada, and we may have to even pay a little more for our own products.

"As a local illustration, let me point to the Westclox Company. It is financed by American capital and its manager is an American citizen without naturalization papers in this country, so that it is perfectly free from any political bias or strings. There is not even a cent of Peterborough money invested in that concern. Since a short time after its establishment here, it has been paying city taxes and has thus returned every concession that was made to it in the beginning. During the past year, it operated at a loss of thousands of dollars, so that the factory might not close down and throw many men out of work. It employs nearly three hundred people a day.

Patriotism in Clock Buying

"But, although that company's contribution to Peterborough is practically all clear "velvet," how many of us at a sale to-morrow, if faced with the opportunity of saving a few cents on a clock that was made anywhere else in the world, would turn to our own Peterborough product and give it the preference? The majority of us would purchase the clock that might be a little cheaper than our own city-made goods. And yet, if we really mean what we say when we declare we love our country, shoud we not be willing to pay the odd few cents more in order that our money should stay in our land?

"Some women say that they can't be bothered asking whether desired articles are made in Canada. But it was by courage that this country was settled and only the devotion and sacrifices of our forefathers made possible the comforts and privileges whigh we enjoy to-day. Shall it be said that we are unworthy of the heritage of the past?

"In these days of depression, there are two obstacles to be overcome that are entirely difefrent from any obstacles encountered in depressed times of the past. I refer to conditions that are peculiar to this generation alone.

"The first obstacle is that of the war debt that is stifling and strang-

ANNE WILCOX

Dear Anne Wilcox:

It is a rainy morning and the discovery of something that would make a splendid store counter was responsible for the idea of having two small boys play 'store.' Mother, who furnished most of the stock for the grocery store, which it turned out to be, was gravely offered one cent in payment As I gravely accepted the one cent, the thought occurred, 'How similar to the one cent per egg which we receive for goods sold at a real grocery store!' Shortly after the store was open for business, I was told by the storekeeper (big brother) that some people (meaning little brother) had been in and bought 'tandy' and nuts. Little brother is very young and candy and nuts are so rare so we can hardly blame him for passing by the tiny loaves of bread, boxes of rice, small potatoes and carrots, etc., in favor of the more expensive articles of food. At least, I suppose they were more expensive and when we saw the number of "brown moneys," the storekeeper took in for goods that cost one cent, we were of the opinion that there had been some effort 'to maintain prices' that we hear so much about now-a-days.

When the wage-earner is finding it so hard to provide money to live on, I am wondering if we housekeepers are trying to get the most for the money we spend at the stores. We naturally expect a reduction in the price of food, but when we buy a quarter's worth of this or that do we know whether the price is as high as it was two years ago? Do we know the price paid to the producer for such foods as eggs, butter, grains from which cereals are made, meats, etc., so that we can make effective protest against too great spread in price? Some merchants charge 'all the traffic will bear' and the only way to end this is intelligent buying by housekeepers. I believe that this desire to maintain prices is responsible for much of the depression, since high prices to consumers prevent them from buying and the poor demand resulting causes hardship to the producer.

Now, to change the subject, here is a quickly made substitute for salad dressing, which may be used on raw shredded cabbage to make an appetizing salad for spring meals. Use half a cup of thick cream, either sweet or sour, two tablespoons white sugar, two tablespoons vinegar, salt and a little mustard or red pepper. Stir in the cup and pour over cabbage which has been shredded and allowed to stand in cold water to crisp. Pour off water before adding dressing. The amount of sugar and vinegar may be changed to suit taste.

'BETSY JANE ANN'

Many thanks, Betsy Jane Ann, for your most friendly letter, and I agree with you that housekeepers can help a great deal at this time by buying, as you say, intelligently. I am certain that the recipe you sent will be welcomed by the readers of the page.

A Bedtime Story

UNCLE WIGGILY AND THE ROBIN'S NEST

"Well, well! Glad to see you! Glad to see you!" sang Red Robin as he flew around Uncle Wiggily's head in the woods, on the edge of which stood a hollow stump with something white sticking out of the top.

"Glad to see you!" answered Mr. Longears. "I hopped from my stump bungalow today on purpose to look for you and now I have found you."

"I am glad you thought of me," chirped the Robin. "Did you want to see me about anything special?"

"Why, yes, I did," answered the rabbit gentleman. "In the first place Nurse Jane told me to tell you she had many crumbs for you to eat when you come to see us."

"That's good!" sang the Red Robin. "In these early spring days there isn't so much for the birds to eat as there will be when summer comes. So I shall be very glad to get Nurse Jane's crumbs. Next."

"Next what?" asked Uncle Wiggily.

"I mean what next did you want to see me about?" asked the bird.

"Oh," chuckled the rabbit. "I wanted to ask when you were going to brin your good wife up from the Southland and make your nest so she may lay eggs and hatch out little birds."

"I expect my wife to come up almost any day now," chirped Red Robin. "And she expects me to be on the watch for things to help make the nest, like bits of string, rags, hair from the tails of horses and the like of that. It's too bad automobiles don't have tails, isn't it?"

"Ha! I never thought of that!" said Mr. Longears. "Why so?"

"Well, you see," went on Red Robin, perching on a tree branch with his head cocked to one side and singing merrily, "we birds like to weave the loose hair from the tails of horses into our nests. The hairs make a soft lining for our little birds. But horses are getting very scarce. There are so many automobiles now that in a few years there will be no more horses, I fear."

"I have often thought that myself," spoke Mr. Longears.

"And," went on Red Robin, "if there are no horses there will be no tails. And if there are no tails there will be no hair for our nests. So I was thinking if they could put tails on autos, nice, long tails with plenty of hair, we would still have soft linings for our nests no matter whether the horses disappeared or not."

"That's a very clever thought," said Uncle Wiggily. "Tails on autos! How odd! I suppose they wouldn't need to switch their tails to keep away the tickling flies, for flies don't bother autos. But if an auto had a nice, long horse tail and could switch it about, how nicely each auto could dust itself after a day's run!"

"Sy. That's jolly!" laughed Red Robin. "We must try and have that done, Uncle Wiggily!"

Now, all this while, the Bob Cat was standing on his head in the hollow stump with his silly little tail sticking out. And on the end of his tail was tied a white rag torn from the handkerchief of the Fox. The Bob Cat had said he was going to play a trick on Uncle Wiggily.

"The trick," mewed the Bob Cat to the Fox, "will be that when the rabbit sees the white rag on my tail sticking out of the stump he will think it is a Spring Flower. He'll hop over to pick it and I'll catch him as easily as pie." That's what the Bob Cat had said. Now he was waiting for the trick to work.

"I wish Uncle Wiggily and that Red Robin would stop talking about growing horse tails on autos, and that he would come and pick the rag off my tail!" whispered the Bob Cat. "I'm getting tired standing on my head in this hollow stump. I want to catch him!"

Uncle Wiggily and the Robin went on talking. Said the bird:

"Well, I must be looking for something to help start building my nest. Hello, that looks like a nice white rag over there!"

"Where?" asked the rabbit.

"On that hollow stump!" chirped Red Robin. "Yes," he went on, "it is a fine rag to weave into our nest. My wife will be glad of this. I'll fly over and pick it up before I forget it" Flying swiftly to the stump, Red Robin started to pick up the rag in his beak. But he also got hold of the Bob Cat's tail around which the rag was tied and the bird nipped the Bob Cat's silly little tail very hard.

"Oh, wow! Ouch! Oh, my tail! My tail!" howled the Bob Cat and out of the stump he jumped as fast as he could and ran away.

"Ha! Ha!" laughed Uncle Wiggily. "Fooled again! And you have a good rag for your nest, Red Robin!"

What a happy baby!

BABY'S happiness is so largely a matter of health and comfort. If he frets and cries, it's quite likely a rash, or a chafed skin or a stopped up nose is making him miserable. You'll be wise to prevent these little troubles with "Vaseline" Petroleum Jelly.

After the baby's bath, apply a light film of "Vaseline" Petroleum Jelly all over the delicate skin—head, too. Then with little cotton swabs on toothpicks, very gently apply to the baby's nostrils. This cleanses and lubricates them and tends to prevent colds.

These are safe, easy things to do. "Vaseline" Jelly has been used for babies by mothers and doctors and in great hospitals for more than half a century. And remember when you buy that the trade-mark Vaseline on the label is your assurance that you are getting the genuine product of the Chesebrough Manufacturing Co., Cons'd, 5520 Chabot Ave., Montreal, Canada.

Just Between Us Women

A daily chat with Examiner neighbors conducted by Anne Wilcox

To be perfectly frank with yourself, don't you get a great deal of joy in knowing that you and your families always look their best, and are attired in the proper clothes?

• • • • • • •

But you may have another joy—one that is greater with some people—that of knowing that their homes are up to the minute in style, beauty and that the exteriors are as very attractive as their interiors comfortable and artistic.

• • • • • • •

A comfortable and attractive home gives one a feeling of security—a feeling of self-satisfaction.

• • • • • • •

It is a wrong ideas to imagine that the family living on limited income cannot enjoy the luxury of a beautiful home, because expert workers can be had inexpensively and even if you can't afford the investment of hired help, you can buy your own supplies and become a decorator yourself.

• • • • • • •

With time, patience, and a love for your home the chances are that your efforts will prove most successful and that you will be able to smile glowingly whenever you gaze at your work and whenever you hear some favorable comment on it.

• • • • • • •

Spring is here and if your home—the appearance of it I mean—has suffered from the action of the elements, this is the time to freshen it up with a new color that will make it look as if it had just blossomed with the advent of the new season.

• • • • • • •

Suppose you have chosen the color that you want to use, then you will decide on the color that will contrast most artistically, for roofing, window framing, doorways and window shutters.

• • • • • • •

And then many interesting things can be done to add to the interest, of your home in the way of placing potted plants in the windows, having brightly-colored awnings and seeing to it that your curtains on the inside blend well with the outside of the structure.

• • • • • • •

And see to it that just as soon as possible after the lawns have dried up, they are raked and put into condition. A beautiful lawn adds considerably to the attractiveness of a home.

• • • • • • •

Here is something which I dislike—some people have the front of their homes looking almost beautiful, while the back is an eyesore. Perhaps it is just an oversight, I don't know.

• • • • • • •

We have all learned to appreciate beauty in every form and we strive to attain it in every phase of our environment and it is only natural, isn't it, that we should start at home.

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M.D

WHAT ONE BAD TOOTH CAN DO

A dental health proverb says, "A good tooth in the head is worth ten on a plate."

This is true enough, and the idea of trying to preserve our own teeth in preference to artificial teeth is good sense, but just as one bad apple can spoil a barrel of good ones, so can one bad tooth undo the entire body to such an estent that the good work of ten good teeth cannot make up for it.

It is a very serious mistake to think that as all your teeth (that is 31 teeth) but one, are in good shape, that one infected tooth cannot matter very much to your general health.

Now what is the good work your teeth do for you?

They grind the food up into small pieces, break open the little starch granules, so that the moist saliva not only turns the starch into sugar, but moistens and softens the starch so that it is in good condition to be further digested when it gets further down past the stomach into the small intestine. And the other foods, meat, eggs and so forth are likewise broken up by the teeth and softened and moistened so that the stomach can get ready for their next step toward digestion and absorbed into the blood from the small intestine.

You can thus see how important a good set of chewing teeth are to the body. Well chewed food gives the food a flying start in digestion.

Now what can one lone infected tooth do against thirty-one good teeth?

The poison from one infected tooth is so powerful that getting absorbed into the blood it is carried to every part of the body. It can cause such severe rheumatism—arthritis—that the individual must remain absolutely quiet in bed unable to move certain joints, and threatened all the time with the most serious form of heart disease.

This same poison may start trouble in the lining of the stomach, thus forming an ulcer. It may so disturb the vision that aviators have been unable to judge distances in landing and have crashed their machines. It may affect the hearing.

It may cause pain in any part of the body. It may cause such a tired lazy feeling that the individual doesn't want to work or play because he feels so tired all the time.

It may render the individual liable to colds and other ailments, because so much of the fighting force o the body—the white corpuscles—is being used up to fight this poison.

And so I say, "it is better to have ten artificial teeth than to have one of your own teeth that is infected."

Get an X-ray of your teeth Don't keep any infected or dead teeth in your mouth.

Easter Greeting At Nominal Cost

The Canadian National Telegraphs announce that a special rate for a message will apply on Easter Greeting cablegrams selected from a list of suggested messages available at all Canadian National Telegraph offices, from all points in Canada to Great Britain, Ireland, Germany and Italy, and that arrangements have been made for the mailing of greeting cablegrams beyond London to all other continental countries for the same price.

The use of the telegrams for social purposes of this character is becoming increasingly popular, and aside from the apparent recognition of the uniquet qualities of the telegram as being especialy suited to these purposes, this condition may be ascribed to the low cost of the service.

LOVE OF COUNTRY CAN BE SHOWN

ling the purchasing power of this land. Outstanding statesmen of the day agree in declaring that a normal return to prosperity is only possible through cancellation of war debts of the world. The matter lies in the hands of the United States, and of course, is absolutely her own business. If she would cancel her claims, Great Britain would follow with a cancellation of her larger claims and the normal buying power of the world would be released. The United States can hardly need the money, as her gold reserve is tremendous, while the six millions of unemployed men within her borders would benefit enormously, as well as the rest of the world and its unemployed. Because the nations that they wish to sell to are at present cripled by vast payments of interest.

The Russian Bear

"The second great obstacle is the Russian Menace. There are many ways of looking at that situation."

Mrs. Fallis went on to quote facts with regard to the present Soviet system, where all men work for four days out of the new five-day week; where an embargo exists on Bibles and where religious activities are frowned upon; where strict rations for which there is no elasticity, except where manual labor is concerned, gives all a daily menu consisting mainly of soup, compressed tea and black bread; where wages have a range of $30 a month for manual laborers up to the peak of $125 a month for the president of the Trans-Siberian Railway, and where everything is subornated to the dream of making Russia supreme in world economics.

The only manner in which the Soviet leads the world at the present time, declared Mrs. Fallis, is in its granting to women of absolute equality with men.

Russia's greatest menace to Canada comes in the form of wheat, canned salmon, furs and lumber. And the greatest competition of all is faced in the British market, for the present Labour government of Great Britain buys Russian goods and declares that it will buy where it can purchase most cheaply. Recently, the importation of these things into Canada has been forbidden by the Canadian government.

"It is therefore our imperative duty in Canada to use our own products whenever possible, because we are being driven by the Russians from so many other world markets.

"And then we should also try to avoid the use of imported fruits and vegetables such as can be grown in our own Dominion. They are just as full of vitamins and health tonics, and probably contain more of these, because they are grown under the sun, rather than forced in hothouses.

"Every I.O.D.E. member and every other Canadian should make this little pledge: 'I will set my table, as far as possible, one hundred per cent Canadian.' It is surprising how easily this can be achieved, if you just make the effort.

"Canadians should try to develop a national or Canadian consciousness. It has been said in the past that statesmen have commercialized patriotism for the good of their country.

"We should make as much use of our patriotic feeling in times of peace as we did in times of war. We should emulate the example of the French, when they set about building up their own country after the Franco-Prussian war and turned their patriotism into the purchasing of Canadian products and if our leaders will do their part in directing and controlling industry, each one of us should strive to do our part in a humble way."

The vote of thanks to Mrs. Fallis was voiced by Miss Wesley and seconded by Mrs. R. E. Birdsall. Mrs. T. W. H. Young, regent of the chapter, and presiding for the meeting, spoke of the pleasure of the members in the eloquent address.

Sundry Business

Prior to Mrs. Fallis' talk, the business of the regular meeting was transacted.

Mrs. F. Miller gave the annual report of the secretary, showing a total of sixty-five members and a great deal of activity in the chapter during the past year. The visiting committee made a total of 587 calls and the relief committee did a great deal of splendid work in the city, besides sending two boxes to families at Codrington.

Donations were made to the Health Association, the Red Cross Society, the Upper Canada Tract Society, the Canadian Institute for the Blind, the Maternal Insurance Fund, the League of Nations Society, the Well Babies Clinic and the London Hospital.

Mrs. Miller also read the correspondence and the notice of the annual meeting of the Provincial Chapter I.O.D.E. to be held in Hamilton on April 15, 16 and 17. Mrs. T. W. H. Young will be the delegate.

A letter was also read from the Local Council of Women, asking attendance at the next meeting, when discussion of some method of elevating the standard of moving pictures, will be held.

Miss M. Rogers read the treasurer's report, and the reports of the visiting and relief committees were made respectively by Mrs. W. Sharpe and Mrs. Gordon Hall.

It was decided to have the big drum belonging to the Bugle Band repaired at the expense of the Chapter, and the Dragoons will be presented with a picture of King George.

The next bridge party of the chapter will be held on Wednesday, April 8th, when arrangements will be in charge of Mesdames Miller, McPherson, Melton, Neal, Newhall, Newman.

IRISH LEADER PASSES AWAY

with four of his parliamentary colleagues—John Dillon, J. G. Biggar, T. D. Sullivan, and T. Sexton—was brought to trial in January, 1881, but the jury disagreed.

Healy came out with undiminished spirit and won a former Liberal seat in County Monaghan, the first Nationalist inroad on Ulster. He won South Derry in the general elections of 1885; in 1886 he was defeated there, but elected for North Longford. Healy remained in Parliament until his resignation in 1918. He represented North Longford from 1886 to 1892, North Louth to 1910, and North-East Cork to 1918.

Breaks With Parnell.

His growing independence resulted in less friendly relations with Parnell. And, as seen later, Healy's religious beliefs were at least as strong probably stronger, than his political tenets. His nationalism was based on spiritual rather than political motives. This explains Healy's opposition to Parnell, the Protestant "uncrowned King of Ireland," after the divorce suit brought against Parnell by Captain O'Shea (1890) was undefended, and the Catholic archbishops and bishops formally repudiated Parnell. Healy, it is true, moved the resolution carried by the party in favor of Parnell remaining in the leadership, but whic was reversed on demand of Mr. Gladstone.

It was not long before Healy commenced a vigorous public fight against the tottering Parnell; some of his speeches were vicious in tone. The Irish parties were re-united in 1900, but Healy joined with O'Brien in opposing Parnell's claim to leadership. John Redmond was elected leader. The individuality of Healy was illustrated when only two years later, on the motion of O'Brien, he was expelled from the United Irish League, though he retained the support of the Catholic hierarchy.

Healy began to be something of an institution in the House of Commons. The Home Rule measure of 1912 met with his general support, though he strongly opposed partition. He vigorously upheld the British war policy in 1914. The trend of events from 1916 onwards, however, and especially the adoption of conscription, forced him finally to side with Sinn Fein, and he resigned in 1918.

Dangerous Debate

He was probably the most dangerous debater in that devastating group of Irish members; but, the prince of guerilla warriers fighting for Ireland, he fought still more for his own inscruptable ends. An old observer of the battles in parliament, A. G. Gardiner, former editor of the Daily News, has written of Healy: "How often and with what expectation have we seen him rise from the corner seat below the gangway, his hands clasped behind him, his quaint, pleasant figure swaying forward, his eyes gleaming through the glasses that sat so uneasily on his nose, gleaming with passion and mischief and malice and wit, all under the control of an incomparable serenity. And, as he rose, every door opening and the chamber filling with a magical suddenness as it only fills when the great artist is on the stage.

"And what an artist he was. Not an orator of the 'proud full sail' of Redmond or the declamatory energy of Devlin. He spoke quietly, dreamily, as if communing with himself, with a touch of aloofness, a certain monkishness as of one who had come from a monastry, bringing with him the atmosphere of strange and ghostly things. And out of this reverie, in which the voice of the prophet and the cadences of the poet and the dreamer were curiously mingled, there would leap some withering phrase that stabbed like death. Woe to the man who crossed swords with that terrible blade. There was no tongue so swift and bitter. 'When the cat's away' said Chamberlain on one occasion, commenting on the absence of Gladstone "the mice will play." "And the rats," said Tim with cold incisiveness."

Healy had been called to the Irish Bar in 1884 and he became an Irish Queen's Counsel in 1889. He was called to the English Bar in 1903 and took silk in 1910. He had a growing practice from his early days at the Bar, and, especially after the turn of the century, was greatly active in the English courts. Most of his cases were political in character and he defended many of the suffragettes.

Between his resignation from parliament and 1922, little was heard from "Tim" Healy in the general turmoil on the Emerald Isle, which perhaps accounted for the surprise when he entered the Viceregal Lodge. But he had mellowed with the years; the old animosities had been shed and no more representative Irishmen could have held the office.

In 1882 he married Erina Sullivan, and there were three sons and three daughters. His second daughter, Maev, was married to Timothy Sullivan, president of the High Court of Justice of the Irish Free State since 1924. Mrs. Healy died in 1927.

Timothy Healy was the author of "Stolen Waters", "A Word for Ireland", "Loyalty Plus Murder", "Why Ireland is Not Free", "The Great Fraud of Uulster", and "Leaders and Letters of My Day"; the latter published in 1928.

He continued to live at Dublin after leaving the governor-generalship.

GIVEN FIRST READING.

VICTORIA, B.C., March 27 (C.P.)—Two of the major measures of the session of the British Columbia Legislature, the Taxation Amendment Act and the special revenue tax act were introduced yesterday by Hon. J. W. Jones, Minister of Finance. Both received first readings.

Provisions in the special revenue act include a tax of one percent on all wages with cetrain specified exemptions. MOHAWKS MADE of Mrs. Peter Doreen, the assaulted woman, gave evidence declaring that Maracle and his sister had come to the house, had dragged Mrs. Doreen outside, had thrown her into the sleigh "like a pig", and had taken her to his home.

Mrs. Charlotte Maracle told of her visit to the Maracle home in the afternoon and how they had accused er of "being a witch and witching the children" and also asking her to make medicine to cure the children. She told of the alleged assault on Mrs. Doreen, and said William Maracle had pointed a gun at her also. Mrs. William Maracle, she affirmed, had threatened her with an axe, hoping that she would make medicine. The woman acquiesced, the witness said, only if she could be taken home.

Finally William Maracle said: "Light a fire and we will burn the witch". But Mrs. Maracle, if was testified, said she was not afraid, as the Lord was on her side, and she induced all to kneel and pray and sing the Mohawk hymns.

Dr. Boyce described the condition of Mrs. Doreen after the alleged assault and stated to the Court that she was far from being out of danger. "My only hope is that she will not develop old people's pneumonia."

Indian Quotes the Bible

Simon Lowen, a full-blooded Indian was called by the defense to show that witchcraft was prevalent on the reserve. In answer to a question, "Do you believe in witchcraft?" he said: "Only what is written in the Bible," and quoted passages from Ephesians, Revelations, Galations, and other books. He told of having a sick daughter, and said the medicine doctor had taken at least seventy pins from her eyes, but because they did not keep them she will always be troubled. Finally the girl was told to keep them in a jar and sprinkle salt on them, and from that time the girl was not afflicted.

The Court asked if the Bible gave authority to kill a witch, and the witness replied that God would kill them, taking out his New Testament to prove the statement.

Abraham Maracle told the Court of illness of the children, and that lots of money had been spent to effect a cure. The witness said he was almost sure that Mrs. Doreen was the cause of the trouble, and through her he heard noises, but could see no one.

Children Treated

Susan Jane Maracle, so-called witch doctor and medicine woman, stated she had visited the children of William Maracle at times, but could not cure them. His Honor asked what kind of herbs were used, and Mr. Donnan remarked that his Honor was treading on dangerous ground. These recipes have been handed down, and the Indians will not divulge the ingredients, it was said.

The Crown Attorney explained to the woman she would be a lot healthier back in Brantford, but she calmly replied she was doing all right on the reserve.

William Maracle admitted that he assaulted Mrs. Doreen, but said it was the only way to cure the children. Asked by the Crown Attorney why he did not kill Mrs. Doreen, he replied he did not want her sins put on his soul. He was also asked if he would have done the same thing if a policeman had been in the room, and without hesitation Maracle stated he would, for he had a reason.

Young Clayton Maracle told the Court that Mrs. Doreen used to follow him and shoot him down and chase him through the hay mow, and cause him to have spells. "When I would come to," the boy stated, "I would be scratching the walls, or in mortal fear of the things that were chasing me."

PRINCE'S BEATING UP IN REICHSTAG

Communists Start Argument By Stating Prussian Police Habitually Brutal.

SOCIALISTS DIFFER.

BERLIN March 27 (A.P.) — The thwacks of police clubs which thumped over the royal head of August Wilhelm, fourth son of the ex-Kaiser, at Koenigsberg the other day precipitated a flurry in the closing session of the Reichstag yesterday.

It was the Communists who raised the point that Prussian police are "habitually brutal." When the charge was denied by Socialist members, the denial called forth indignant shouts from the Nationalist benches of "look what they did to Prince August Wilhelm."

After considerable hubbub, Minister of the Interior Karl Severing found opportunity to say "The Prince, of course, cannot be treated differently than any other citizen. It he got anything undeservedly I am sorry, but the same thing happened to Berlin's Socialist Vice President of Police who was mixed up in the melee. If the Prince ran into the same situation, he must bear the consequence."

Shouts both of approval and disapproval punctuated the Minister's speech.

The deceased was the eldest son of Mr. Barr and the late Mrs. Barr, formerly Pearl Barrie, a sister of William Barrie, of Trent River.

Mrs. Potts Elected Library President

STIRLING, March 27.—(Examiner Correspondence).—Mrs. Potts was re-elected president of the Public Library Board at the annual meeting held on Thursday when the members present were Mrs. Potts, Mrs. H. Alger, T. Montgomery, E. Spinks, R. Meiklejohn and G. Luery.

The following accounts were presented and approved on motion of T. Montgomery and H. Luery: P. Joblin, $7.50; Stirling Hydro, $1.75; G. H. Luery, $19.44; Fred McKee, $26.30; H. Hadley, $15.66.

On motion of Mrs. Alger and T. Montgomery, it was decided that the president and secretary be a committee to interview the Council regarding requests for the year. Mrs. Potts gave a splendid report on the activities of the Library during the year; also on the condition of the building and surroundings.

The treasurer, G. Luery, read the financial report for the year, showing receipts to be $1,171.66 and expenditures $874.56, leaving a balance on hand of $279.10.

The following officers were elected for the coming year: President, Mrs. Potts; secretary, R. W. Meiklejohn; treasurer, G. Luery; book committee, E. Spinks, E. Williams and Mrs. H. Alger; property committee, G. Luery and T. Montgomery.

FAVOR RAISING MARRIAGE AGE

Care Must Be Taken Lest Result Be Complication in Moral Situation.

LAWS VARY OVER U. S.

WASHINGTON, D.C., March 27—(By Ken Clark, C.P. Staff Correspondent)—A slow raising of the legal marriage age is suggested by Miss Grace Abbott, of the Federal Children's Bureau. Miss Abbott, quoting experts, notes the 1921 census showed 18,388 married girls in the United States who were fifteen or under at the time of their marriage. The census also showed 825 girls of fifteen widowed or divorced. On the same basis it was estimated that there are living in the United States to-day 343,000 women and girls who were under fifteen when married.

Miss Abbott points out there is some opposition to raising the marriage age lest it result in complicated moral situations. Those who meet cases in the juvenile court often favor exceptions to the law in special circumstances.

Age Varies

The marriageable age varies in different states; in twelve states girls may marry at twelve and boys at fourteen, in sixteen states boys must be eighteen and girls sixteen, the other states have variations of these ages.

Marriage under the age of majority is illegal in most states without the consent of parents or guardians.

Miss Abbott listing arguments against early marriages says full bodily maturity is not reached for many girls until eighteen and for boys until twenty. A very young girl who marries a man much older than herself passes under the tutelage of her husband and frequently never acquires an independent outlook and resourcefulness. A childish mother or a childish wife may be appealing, she says, to the incurably romantic individual but she is unequal to the burdens and responsibilities that she should carry.

HEPBURN ROUSES

The first effort of M. F. Hepburn (Lib., Elgin West) and Leader of the Ontario Provincial Party, to raise his voice in the Commons this season occasioned a miniature tempest which was quietened only when Mr. Speaker Black rebuked members generally for being noisy in the House. Mr. Hepburn sought to ask two questions, but prefaced them with somewhat extended remarks, thus bringing from the Speaker the ruling that he was out of order. He was requested to put his queries on the Order Paper.

An announcement by the Prime Minister that the House would rise on April 1 for Easter recess, and would reassemble on April 13 brought from Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, Leader of the Opposition, a suggestion that the Government might accord the House an opportunity to give authority for the tabling of a number of documents asked for by various members. The Order Paper contains no fewer than 48 requests for such, as well as 110 questions that have still to be answered, and 35 notices of motion (resolutions). The debate on the address having precedence over all other business except the introduction of bills and the presenting of reports, this volume will undoubtedly be greatly increased before the House finally gets round to it.

Sauve's Maiden Speech

Mr. Sauve made his maiden speech in the House yesterday; his achievements in the English language being heartily applauded on all sides. The Postmaster General expressed admiration for the conduct of the Prime Minister at the Imperial Conference, and hoped that when the Economic Conference assembles in Ottawa this Fall the British delegates would represent the will and interests of the British people "while at the same time thoroughly understanding the economic interests of the whole Empire." He appealed to all parties to co-operate in making the conference a success.

In a speech that bristled with neatly turned epigrams, Mr. Lapointe denounced the manner in which the Prime Minister had, he said, sought to interfere in the domestic policies of the United Kingdom. He scorned the suggestion that the Empire was held together by mercenary ties. The sentimental tie was thin, but strong, it might seem weak to those who had no vision beyond a ledger, but it had proven equal to the test to which it had always been put in times of trouble. The Empire could not be built on dollars and cents.

Miss MacPhail Has Suggestion

Miss MacPhail suggested aggressive training agricultural colleges in co-operative marketing of farm products and improvement in the teaching of increased production. Government assistance towards processing of farm produce was also advocated by the woman member.

Lower prices on agricultural machinery, reduction in freight rates, and the establishment of some system whereby credits might be extended to farmers at low rates of interest were urged by Thomas Hay (Cons., Springfield).

Wilfrid Girouard (Lib. Drummond-Arthabaska), G. P. Laurin (Cons., Jacques Cartier) and Dr. F. W. Gershaw (Lib., Medicine Hat) were other speakers.

ENNISMORE

Mr. Dan Curtain, of Peterborough, spent a few days last week with Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Murphy.

Messrs. Oswald Crowley, Leonard Flood and Gregory O'Donoghue attended Mr. John Hickey's sale on Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Perdue and Mr. T. H. Crough attended the funeral of the late Mrs. D. McCarthy, of Douro.

The trapping season being open, the Indians are making preparations to commence trapping as soon as the marshes open.

THE VAST MAJORITY DEMANDS GILLETTE

SHAVES the face of the world

MORE than a hundred million men of every nationality and every walk of life meet on common ground when they buy razor blades. In England, Sweden, Germany—in one country after another famous for the manufacture of fine razor steel—the Gillette blade is the first choice of the vast majority. Such universal preference is conclusive proof that it gives users everywhere unsurpassed shaving satisfaction.

When you put a new Gillette blade in your razor you get a shave free from harshness and irritation—a shave that's smooth and easy on your face. Scientists and expert engineers—far more critical than any user—dedicate their efforts to the constant improvement of this blade. Today's triumph is the starting point of tomorrow's achievement in this great institution where allegiance to the highest manufacturing ideals is made possible by constant scientific research.

Gillette shaves the face of the world—is accepted everywhere as the prime factor in modern shaving comfort. It is natural, therefore, that the majority of men ask for Gillette when they buy razor blades.

LINDSAY GRANTED FURTHER RELIEF

Extra Month is Granted Council to Carry on Its Relief Program.

HORSES ARE SOLD

LINDSAY, March 27 (Examiner Correspondence)—Town Clerk Allely has received notification from Toronto that the relief fund for unemployed will be extended from March 31 until April 31. This will enable the town to clean up and finish work on the sewage disposal plant and other odd jobs undertaken as relief work during the past winter.

Because of conditions there has been more charity dispensed in Lindsay during the past winter months than in any other year. The amount for charity will be in the neighborhood of $4,000, which is double that of previous years. This amount does not include any money spent on unemployment and relief. The secretary of the home relief fund states that there never were so many people in absolute distress.

Saving The Capulet Dwelling In Verona

House of 14th Century Where Juliet Met Romeo to be Restored and Used as Museum.

MILAN, Italy, Mar. 27. —(CP)— Verona is jealous of her memories, particularly of the house of "the great rich Capulet," with which is bound up the name of Shakespeare. Instead of the hated Montague invading the precincts wherein Juliet dwelt a number of masons have entered with a view to ensuring the safety of the ancient house which is to be kept as a museum.

The walls of the entrance hall of the 14th century building in the Via Capello were, it was feared, in danger and it was considered necessary to take measures to strengthen and restore them. This was done by the proprietors because only the front of the House of Juliet is a national monument, while the interior, which has often undergone repair, is divided into flats. In this interior, as far as is known, there is only a bracket which is believed to have been part of Juliet's balcony.

The work now in progress under official surveillance will be conducted with due respect for the features of the old building. Up to last year, horses and mules used to pass through the gate of the house on their way to a public stable at the end of the orchard of the two lovers. In consequence of the protest of eminent citizens and artists the public stable was closed. There is again talk in Verona of the proposal made 20 years ago, but not carried out on account of the War, to transform the House of Juliet into a museum to house a collection of prints, pictures, books and pamphlets dealing with the tragedy of Romeo and Juliet.

KING'S WHARF.

The road across the ice is gone, and the people here will miss it, for it was a short way to go to Peterborough. The ice went very quickly this year on account of the very low water, except in the channel, where the ice was lying on the mud, and when the fine weather came it rotted.

WAR ON DOGS.

THE PAS, Man., March 27.— (By the Canadian Press.) —Threatened with an epidemic of canine outlawry, citizens and police of northern frontier towns have united and guns are being brought into play in a war on four-footed outlaws that roam the Barren Lands.

One of the biggest worries in the Northland is the dog population. Northern huskies, with their powerful bodies and the blood of the wolf coursing through their veins, often outnumber the human population of the northern settlements.

Such a wave of canine viciousness is spreading along the frontier at the present time that war has been declared on the packs of huskies that roam the mineral belt.

Many children and trappers have been attacked recently.

Leafs and Maroons Blasted From Title Play-Offs

Adams Breaks Deadlock After 19 Minutes of Extra Play and Game Ends 2-1 for Hawks.

CANUCKS EVEN SERIES.

Mantha Scores Only Goal of Boston Game—Match and Round Won by Rangers.

TORONTO, Ont., March 27 (By George Maguire, C.P. Sports Writer) —On the dazzling speed and polished stickhandling ability of Les Canadiens, of Montreal, depend Canadian hopes for retention of the Stanley Cup in the Dominion. The colorful Habitants to-day are the only Canadian squad remaining in the National Hockey League playoffs. Last night both Toronto Maple Leafs and Montreal Maroons were blasted from the world's professional hockey championship picture.

The Leafs fell victims of a carefully planned system of play developed by the Chicago board of strategy, and lost out 2 to 1, after almost 20 minutes' overtime. Having tied in the first game at Toronto, 2 to 2, the Leafs lost the round, 4 to 3, and the Hawks qualified to meet New York Rangers in the Stanley Cup semi-final.

Rangers duplicated their previous success over Maroons by blanking the Montrealers, 3 to 0, at the Forum, the Gothamites won the first game 5 to 1, and therefore win the round by the decisive margin of 8 to 1.

Canadiens played a heady defensive game against the Bruins to emerge victors, 1 to 0, after 60 minutes' torrid playing.

This leaves the teams all square with one victory apiece when they renew their struggle at Montreal on Saturday as the Bostonians won the first clash, 5 to 4, after some 19 minutes' overtime.

Play at Montreal.

The remaining games in the struggle for the National League championship will be played at Montreal. The winning team, in addition to annexing the title, qualifies to enter the cup final against the winner of the Ranger-Blackhawk series.

George Mantha, straight shooting Habitant wingman, scored the only counter of the game, nearly 14 minutes after the start when he darted in to snare the rubber after Goalkeeper Tiny Thompson had blocked Pete Lepin's hard shot and had attempted to pass out to a team-mate. Mantha intercepted the pass and banged it past the surprised Thompson.

Thereafter Canadiens checked the Bruins into submission although they were hard pressed at times. The game was halted early in the third frame when George Hainsworth, the sterling goalguardian of the Montreal squad was injured. He resumed play after treatment. Another delay followed soon after when the 17,000 fans showered the ice with debris when George Owen, Boston defenceman, was awarded a major penalty for slashing Howie Morenz across the face. By the time Morenz had received treatment and the ice cleared 20 minutes had elapsed, and this gave both teams, particularly the Habitants, a welcome breathing spell.

On resumption of play Boston opened up with a terrific attack, and in desperation Manager Art Ross yanked Thompson from the game and sent out "Red" Beattie, tricky relief centre, in a futile effort to get the equalizing marker.

After beating the Blackhawks every game during the regular season Toronto's defeat proved a sore blow to the Leaf supporters. The teams played greatly improved hockey over their display in the first tilt at the Queen City with the Leafs dominating the situation during the major part of the clash.

Ripley Scores In Second

Vic Ripley, tricky centre gave the Chicagoans the lead seven minutes after the start of the second period. The opening chapter was scoreless and fairly evenly contested. "Red" Horner, fiery Leaf rearguard, drew the penalty of the game and while he was off the Hawks staged a furious attack on the Leaf cage which resulted in the opening score, Lola Couture passed to Johnny Gottselig and the latter handed the puck to Ripley who backhanded a shot toward the net. "Ace" Bailey endeavored to catch the disc but it was deflected past Lorne Chabot and into the twine.

Playing against three well balanced front lines the smaller Leaf squad valiantly carried play to the Hawks throughout the balance of the frame and during the third session. Only three minutes of regulation playing time when Bostrum, bulky Hawk defenceman, was given a two minute penalty for tripping, and the Duncanites promptly sent up five men to the attack. King Clancy equalized the count by hammering Charlie Conacher's rebound past "Chuck" Gardner. The Torontonians kept the Hawks bottled up in their own end until the period ended.

Ad²ms Gets Overtime

Cautious hockey marked the opening minutes of the overtime. Both teams were tired and didn't care to take any chances. Stewart Adams, fleet Hawk wingman was left uncovered near the 20 minute mark and he took advantage of the Leafs oversight to dash in and snare a pass credited to Mush March and Tommy Cook to beat Chabot for the goal which finished the "sudden death" overtime.

Maroons were not considered to have much of a chance to overcome the four goal lead Rangers secured in New York on Tuesday and they didn't. Minus the services of Hooley Smith and Bill Phillips two of the wing mainstays, Maroons fought gamely but fruitlessly.

As in the first match, Bill Cook, the league's all-star right winger, started the Rangers on to certain victory by scoring the first goal seven minutes after the start of the second period. "Ching" Johnson and Paul Thompson notched another brace between them to complete the scoring.

The splendid performance of John Ross Roach, diminutive Ranger goalkeeper, earned him a shut-out and he is in the same class as George Hainsworth, who blanked the Bruins. These were the first shut-outs of the play-offs

Edmonton Club Proves Sturdy Foeman in First Western Senior Final.

FEW PENALTIES.

TORONTO, Mar. 27. (CP)—While Hamilton and Truro were battling it out in the east last night, Winnipeg Seniors, Manitoba champions and conquerors of Port Arthur, Thunder Bay's best, experienced somewhat of a surprise when Edmonton Superiors, Alberta titlists, held them to a one-all tie in the first of a two game series for the western Canada crown.

The Superiors proved the strongest out-of-town squad to compete in Winnipeg this season. Not only did they battle the Manitobans on even terms during the first 40 minutes but they jolted the winners severely by scoring the first counter early in the last period. Kelly Walker did the trick for the Superiors with a backhand shot from left wing. It required almost 11 minutes of frantic playing before the Manitobans successfully pierced the Edmonton defence for the tieing marker. Linquist was the successful marksman when he poked the disc in following a scrimmage. Spperiors were playing a man short at the time.

The second game will be played on Saturday and the winning team will rest until the arrival of the Eastern Canada titlists.

Myril Hoag, new Yankee outfielder, started in the game as a pitcher and a shortstop, but switched to the garden on the advice of his father, a semi-pro manager.

TIGERS DEFEAT BEARCATS 6-2 IN FIRST GAME

Hamilton Tigers Enter Allan Cup Eastern Final With Four-goal Lead.

COURAGEOUS BATTLE.

More Speed and Superior Play Brings About Downfall of Maritimes.

TORONTO, March 27. — Truro Bearcats, one-sub team from the Maritimes, who crossed the critics by downing McGill University and advancing further in the Allan Cup playdowns than any other team from that section in hockey history, have just about gone their limit. Last night at the Arena Gardens before 4,000 wild and enthusiastic fans, made up largely of Hamilton supporters, the Tigers clawed their way to a 6 to 2 triumph, and although the little pack from the Atlantic Coast put for a courageous stand, the final result was never in doubt.

The Tigers should have little trouble in adding to their already large margin in the return game, which will be played here to-morrow afternoon.

Greater man-power, more speed and superior combination brought about the downfall of this plucky little band. Individually they showed some real class, but the speedy Tigers were ever stalking them, and often outskated them to take the puck off their sticks. When they did get in close they were subjected to some rough treatment by the "hefty" rearguard of the Yellow and Black crew, while "Hawse" Marsh in goal was again playing at his best.

The game itself was fairly exciting and the speedy rushes and heavy body-checking gave the fans much to cheer about. Toronto fans, although few, gave their solid support to the Maritimers and the mixed cheering that prevailed time and again, lent life to the battle.

Tigers Not Extended

At no time during the game did the Tigers open up to any great extent. In the first period when they went out in a business-like way to take an early lead, the fans sensed the fact that it was an impossible task that the Bearcats faced. With but one sub, they set a fast pace from the opening of festivities, but when Hamilton sent out new men the difference was noted. It was rather pitiful, for these Eastern titleholders had three star men squatted on the sidelines, forced to watch their teammates go through the paces, men adjudged ineligible to play. But those who did perform last night, battled every inch of the way, and deserve the greatest of credit for the efforts they put forth.

Earl Wright, who guarded the net for the losers, owing to Leo Sargent's disqualification, had not been at that post for years until he faced McGill in the elimination series, and his inability to move fast enough paved way for more than one Hamilton counter. But at that he blocked many shots, which looked like sure goals. He stood up manfully under a withering fire, but Hamilton, if they tried hard enough, could have run in several more goals.

One thing that met with the fans' approval was the way in which Pete Mill, rugged Truro defense man, stepped into "Beef" McKay on the Hamilton rearguard. He, like several other Bearcats, paid no heed to the heavy bodychecks which Farrel and McKay were handing out and always came back for more. Mill, it seemed, got the better of the body-battle with McKay.

Last night wound up the 1930-31 official hockey season for the Toronto Maple Leafs. This year they have introduced against much adverse criticism, new ideas in pro hockey. Aside from this they sold to the Queen City fans a trio of players that are just as colorful to Toronto fans as the Morenz, Joliet, Gagnon line is to the French Canadians in Montreal and the Cook, Boucher, Cook line is to the followers of the Rangers in Gotham. They have been well known ever since an incident in Montreal at the first of the season as "The Three Musketeers' of hockey. That is, their motto is, "one for all and all for one.' To this trio must be added the fourth member, "Red Horner" on the defence. The incident happened in the first game the Leafs played against the Maroons in the Forum this season. In the second period of the game 'Dave' Trottier stepped into Harvey Jackson with a clean but very hard body check and caught the Toronto lad napping. He dropped like a stone and had to be carried off the ice. This meant war for these kids and there was little doubt about it 'Dave' was on the spot. When the play resumed the youngsters set out to straighten up accounts. Red Horner handed back to Trottier the same stiff body check. Immediately Dave was back on his feet in a threatening gesture, but Charlie Connacher, the young giant on the wing, was waiting grim lipped and he fairly leaped at the ex-olympian spilling him again in a very unruly fashion. Nobody to-day can toss any one of these three kids around and get away with it without drawing unfavorable attention of the others. These kids have formed one of the smoothest lines in hockey and because of the fact that they are all in their early twenties, as time goes on their presence will be felt more and more by the other National Hockey League clubs.

Renew Feud To-night La Barba-Francis Bout

NEW YORK, N.Y., March 27 (C.P.) —A feud that began in Paris nearly two years ago will be renewed tonight in Madison Square Garden when Fidel La Barba, Los Angeles featherweight contender, battles Durabee Kid Francis of Italy over the ten-round route.

Then a bantamweight, La Barba took a neat lacing in 15 rounds in that first clash with Francis overseas, but the far Westerner is confident he can reverse the verdict tonight.

Not so the better fraternity. With them, Francis has been established a 7 to 5 favorite chiefly because of his recent excellent showing against Eddie Shea of Chicago. Francis, blessed with an amazing supply of stamina, piled into Shea from the first round to the last and easily pounded out a decision.

An interested ringside spectator, they say, will be Bat Battalino of Hartford, Conn., world's 126-pound champion.

George Torporcer will make his managerial debut at Jersey City with the best looking club that city has had for many years.

All of the Yankees, with the exception of Ruth, Pennock, Perkins, Sewell and Wells, are under thirty years of age.

The Giants will start the season with twelve pitchers.

LOOP MOGULS IN FAVOR OF GET-TOGETHER

No Need For Present Friction Opinion Voiced at Open Meeting Last Night.

CO-OPERATION OFFERED.

Question of Playing Grounds For Different Leagues is Discussed.

Members of various baseball leagues around here met last night at the Duffus Bowling Alleys for the purpose of discussing prospects and conditions for the coming season. However, as there was no representative of the Senior team present, not a great deal of headway was made.

A fair crowd was present, including representatives of the Raybestos of last year's Lakeshore League, a number from the different East Peterborough League teams, and some interested in the City League.

D. L. Davies, president of the E. P. League, acted as chairman, and started the meeting by saying the Senior team and the various local leagues should get together this year. He said the East Peterborough League would co-operate in any way they could with the new team and with the City League. There was no dissenting voice. He regretted the absence of any member of the Senior team executive, as nothing could be done until they all got together and found out what each league and team wanted.

There was some talk of what the City League would do this year, and where the different league would play their home games. But there will have to be both City League and E.P.L. meetings before anything will be known for sure. It was thought that both these leagues would hold their first meetings before the O.B.A.A. convention here.

No Need for Friction

Certain managers were asked if they would assist the Senior team, and the general answer was to the effect that they had not been asked or invited to do that by the new outfit. However, there seemed to be little doubt but that they would help as much as they could if the representatives of the Seniors would talk it over with them.

Chairman Davis thought that any little friction which might exist between any of the teams or league could be readily ironed out if they would all get together again just to talk it over. A few friendly gestures between the different bodies would clear the atmosphere, and unless they all co-operated, no one would get far.

Charlie Curtis voiced the opinion of many of those present when he said the E.P.L. should go ahead as usual and hold their meeting, as they had done all they could in announcing an open meeting. The general opinion at the close of the meeting was that if the Senior team would get in touch with any of the local leagues, they would be assured of co-operation, and that at any rate a general get-togther was the only reasonable way in which to start the baseball season.

CASUAL COMMENT

In the Garrison Softball League game the other night at the Armouries, Machine Gunners showed how a game should not be played. While the pitching wasn't bad, the fielding was terrible. They booted the ball all over the place.

* * * * * * *

Cavalry deserved their 16-8 win by playing careful ball and taking advantage of every break. They ran wild when on base, besides getting quite a few bingles.

* * * * * * *

Artillery is on top in the league, and have not lost a game so far. Cavalry is second and the Machine Gunners third. The schedule is nearly completed, and outdoor softball will be next on the program.

* * * * * * *

There wasn't much business transacted at the Lakeshore Baseball League meeting the other night in Port Hope. The league will likely function again, but everyone is sort of laying back watching the other fellow for the time being. Well, another meeting in the near future will probably start the ball rolling.

* * * * * * *

There was a bunch of stories told at the O.B.A.A. Entertainment Committee meeting Wednesday night concerning other annual Association conventions. The delegates look forward to these affairs, and have a great time renewing friendships.

* * * * * * *

And it would be a nice gesture if the local merchants would put a few cards or banners marked: "Welcome O.B.A.A. Delegates!" in their windows a week from Saturday. They do in some towns.

* * * * * * *

It was too bad there wasn't a representative of the senior ball team at the meeting last night. All the other leagues around here had at least one fellow out, and all were anxious to get somewhere.

* * * * * * *

Darcy Davis, chairman last night, was all for clearing up the usual pre-seasonal squabbles now and have some teamwork in this year's baseball. But, nothing could be done when the senior team delegate failed to attend the session.

* * * * * * *

It looks like the next move is up to the latter. They ought to get in touch with some of the E.P.L. executive without delay if only to assure them of their goodwill. And then everything should be clear sailing.

* * * * * * *

It was a very good turnout last night, considering how early it is for baseball meetings. There's plenty of interest in the summer pastime here, and it looks as though baseball will get an early start this spring.

* * * * * * *

We understand that "Hank" Cohen of Oshawa is thinking of running a senior team again this year. That's when he heard the Petes were going to enter the Central Ontario League.

* * * * * * *

While he has said nothing definite yet, "Hank" was talking about it to a few of the fellows at the Lakeshore League meeting in Port Hope the other night. Not much chance of him staying out with Peterborough in.

* * * * * * *

We ought to be hearing soon from Kingston and Belleville. Just what they are figuring on doing this summer. And rumor hath it that there are two possible entries down in Kingston. And also that Cobourg and Port Hope might combine to field a senior team in the loop.

* * * * * * *

If some of those grapevine stories have any truth in them, it looks like there'll be a regular old-time Central League once more.

'NEATH SUNNY SKIES

Spicy Bits of Baseball Gossip From Majors' Camps.

Art Fidler, the lanky Canadian hurler, is showing the Washington Senators at Biloxi, Miss., a speed ball with a nasty hop that regulars say "will knock the stick out of your hands."

In batting practice yesterday, it was so swift that, with a shower on the way and the skies darkening, Manager Johnson urged him to let up.

Despite various rumors to the contrary, the Brooklyn Robins and their star pitcher, Dazzy Vance, still are $3,000 apart on the question of the Dazzlers salary. Before leaving for New York last night, President Frank ... said he had been in communication with Vance, who has retired to his home at Homosassa to await developments. York's offer remained unchanged at $23,000 for the season while Vance refused to reduce his $25,000 demand. The Robins are at Miami, Fla.

Reports were in circulation at Jacksonville, Fla., to-day that Chuck Klein, slugging outfielder of the Phillies is to be placed on the market unless he soon signs the contract offered by the club. The reports lacked confirmation.

It was rumored that Branch Rickey, of the St. Louis Cardinals, had offered Chick Hafey, the bespectacled left fielder, two pitchers and $25,000 in cash for Klein, but that offer had been refused.

Klein is at his home in Indianapolis and has asserted that he will not sign his contract unless he is given $14,500 for 1931. The Phillies are understood to have offered him $12,500.

Bucky Harris is "quarter-backing" the Detroit Tigers at Los Angeles, Cal., by calling out numbers instead of tilting his chap or stroking his chin to signal from the dugout this year. Spectators back of the Detroit bench can hear shouts of "44-28-63-hike."

"The other fellows never will get on to them, either," said the Detroit manager.

Boy Scouts Guests Of Capitol Theatre

Almost the entire scout population of this city and many prospective boy scouts, attended the Capital Theatre last evening as the guests of the manager, J. H. Stewart to see the production "Father's Son", a story for all whose hearts are young, by Booth Tarkington.

The show was heartily appreciated by all the boys, declared J. H. Sullivan, president of the Peterborough Boy Scout Association, who hastened to add words of appreciation to Mr. Stewart on behalf of the Association. In this expression of thanks he is joined by J. T. Hornsby, District Commissioner.

WINDSORITES BEAT INDIANS

Share Lead in International Lead Play-offs With Indians and Bisons.

FINAL COUNT 3-1.

TORONTO, Ont., March 27. (CP) Windsor Bulldogs moved up threateningly as strong contenders for the International hockey league championship last night when they trounced last season's champion Cleveland Indians, 3 to 1, in the second game of the play-off series.

Buffalo Bisons, who led the league throughout the regular season, handed Pittsburgh Yellow Jackets their second straight reverse by a 2 to 0 count and thereby created a three cornered tie for the leadership.

Cleveland, Windsor and Buffalo are tied at the top of the play-off standing, each team having won a game. It was the first test of the Bisons and Bulldogs in the round robin series, their opening games having been postponed.

The Indians gave the Windsorites a rare battle during the first 40 minutes last night. Lorne Duguid's lone marker representing the margin held by the Border City team over their doughty opponents. Duguid scored early in the second period on a pass from Paul Haynes.

Two goals during the first 14 minutes of the last chukker clinched the verdict for the Bulldogs who were playing before a large crowd of home fans. Huggins got the first and Arbour the second. Williams saved the Indians from a shutout in the dying minutes.

The Bisons garnered their brace of points in the middle frame of a tightly contested match. Jack Cain got the first and Gamey Lederman the final tally. The opening period was tame but the second and third sessions were productive of sparkling hockey.

Loughran Favored To Beat Griffiths

CHICAGO, Ill., March 27 (C.P.).—A match with Jack Sharkey assured the winner, Tommy Loughran, master ringman from Philadelphia, will engage the rough Gerald Ambrose Griffiths of Sioux City, Ia., in a ten-round battle at the Chicago Stadium to-night.

The match is one of the outstanding heavyweight attractions of the indoor season, but despite its importance, there has been no general rush towards the box offices. Indications to-day were that the probable attendance would be 13,000, with gate receipts of 140,000. The reason for the apparent lack of interest was because Loughran ruled a firm 7 to 5 favorite to outbox Griffiths.

City Ball League Meets On Monday

The City Baseball League will hold its first meeting of the year on Monday night at 7.30 at the Duffus Bowling Academy. Members of the executive, managers of last year's teams prospective managers and all who are interested in the City League are urged to attend as there is considerable business to be gone through before the O. B. A. A. meeting.

DOMINION JUNIOR FINALISTS CLASH IN THIRD GAME TO-NIGHT

Junior hockey's supreme emblem, the Memorial Cup, symbolic of the Dominion championship, will be at stake in Ottawa to-night, when the two surviving teams of the long elimination series—Ottawa Primroses and Winnipeg Elmwood Millionaires—clash in the third and deciding game of their keenly contested series.

The teams skate out before a capacity crowd to-night all-square, each having won one of the two games played at Toronto. Primroses won the first 2-0, and Elmwoods the second, 2-1. Games count in this drama of youthful puck-chasing skill, and if the teams are tied at the end of regulation time, 30 minutes overtime will be played if necessary.

The above cut shows the players of Winnipeg Elmwoods: (1) Duncanson; (2) Workman; (3) Brown; (4) Duke McDonald; (5) Massey; (6) Bill McKenzie; (7) Creighton; (8) E. G. Adams, manager; (9) Rice Jones; (10) Johnston; (11) Yellowlees; (12) G. McKenzie. The Elmwoods gained fame by eliminating the famous Regina Pats, last year's champions.

LEES DESCRIBES HISTORIC SITES IN OLD ONTARIO

WAR OF 1812 REVIEWED

LAKEFIELD, March 26 (Examiner Correspondence).—Richard Lees, ex-public school inspector, gave a very interesting address to the members of the Literary Society of the Lakefield High School on Tuesday afternoon. Mr. Lees gave to his listeners a brief description of the historic sites of Ontario. Last Fall he inspected a consolidated school in the Niagara district and was driving with the principal afterwards, who told him that they were at that moment driving through Lundy's Lane, where one of the important battles in the War of 1812-14 was fought. They stopped at a church which had a cemetery surrounding it, and there was Laura Secord's monument and several monuments to Canadian and American soldiers killed in the battle.

Near Chatham, on Highway No. 2, is a monument to Tecumseh, erected at the place he was killed at the Battle of Moraviantown.

There were three outstanding Indian chiefs who figured in the relationships of the British and Indians: Pontiac, chief of the Ottawas, who fought on the side of the French; Brant or Thagendanagea fought with the British during the Revolutionary War in the States and brought his tribe, the Mohawks, to Canada, where they settled near Brantford. Third is Tecumseh of the Shawnee tribe, who lived in the valley of the Ohio River.

None of these three chiefs were natives of what is now the British part of North America, but Brant and Tecumseh fought valiantly on the side of the British against the Americans in 1812; the reason being that the American government was never friendly or congenial to the Indians. Tecumseh tried to keep the white settlers from trespassing on the Indian territory at the Ohio River. He possessed foresight and statesmanship and saw in the western movement of the whites the extermination of the Indian. His great dream was a federation of the Indian tribes which would keep the Americans east of the Mississippi.

Tecumseh was born in 1768 near where the city of Springfield, Ohio, now stands, and when he was six years of age his father was killed fighting against the Americans, and as he grew older he felt on increasing bitterness against the American people. A younger brother of his was known as the Prophet in the tribe, and in the absence of Tecumseh he acted as chief, but not with as much wisdom and foresight.

Driven Out of Virginia

The Governor of Virginia, using as an excuse outrages on settlers and cattle thieving, determined to exterminate the Indians as impeding the way to progress, and sent an army under General Harrison, to wipe them out. Tecumseh was away working among the tribes to establish a federation and a permanent settlement of Indians, which was forbidden by the President.

In his absence, the Prophet was in charge and at his instigation the Indians attacked the American camp at Tippecanoe, but the white men were on guard and the Indians were defeated and their village burned. This was in 1811. When Tecumseh returned he found the work of his life time destroyed and he determined to ally himself with the British and arrived in Canada to play a very important role in the War of 1812. He and General Brock became strong allies and joined forces and captured Detroit, which taught the Americans that the capture of Canada would be no picnic. The Americans as a whole had not much heart in the war, which was really a political war. When General Brock was killed at Queenston Heights, General Proctor became the commander at Detroit and he was not a tactician as was Brock, and in 1813 Detroit was re-captured and the British troops retreated up the Thames where, near the Indian village of Moraviantown a battle was fought, the British defeated and Tecumseh killed. What became of his body has never been really known and quite recently there was a controversy in the press about it. A few years ago the bones which were supposed to be Tecumseh's were dug up on Walpole Island. It has been proposed that the Government have these bones buried on the battlefield and the place marked with a suitable monument to this brave man and noble ally. This will probably be done by the committee appointed to mark historic sites.

A vote of thanks was moved by Clayton Bullock and Robert Spence and heartily echoed by all present to Mr. Lees for his excellent address. J. F. Harvey, the Principal of the High School, also expressed his personal enjoyment of the address and hoped Mr. Lees would return some time and give another talk.

Lulu and Douglas Smith contributed a piano duet and Herrick Brown a piano solo to the program.

William Whetung, president of the Literary Society, presided, and Vera Moore, the secretary, read the minutes.

The Principal Causes of SLEEPLESSNESS are nervous strain and digestive unrest

BOTH of these can be overcome by the simple act of taking a cup of hot Ovaltine each night before retiring.

The great value of Ovaltine is due to the fact that it offers supernourishment in very easily digested form. Ovaltine not only quiets the nerves and allays digestive unrest—bringing sleep naturally—but also, while you sleep, it replenishes your lost energy and vitality.

Ovaltine is a rich concentration of ripe barley malt, rich creamy milk, and fresh eggs. Every nutritive element your body needs to maintain mental and physical fitness is combined in this delicious and perfect combination of Nature's best restorative foods. Drink it daily instead of tea or coffee. Be sure and make it your "goodnight" beverage to ensure sound restful sleep.

WARNING
No malt or cocoa drink is in any sense a substitute for Ovaltine. The process by which Ovaltine is made is the result of years of scientific research. Refuse so called "just as good" preparations.

Work Train Boom Demolishes Bridge

LONDON, Ont., March 27—An unusual accident occurred yesterday morning when the overhead county-road bridge crossing the Canadian National Railways tracks three and a half miles west of the junction was wrecked about 8.10 a.m. Though considerable property damage was done, no one was injured.

A work train from London, hauling the company's rail loader, was passing under the bridge, as the loader was directly below the large boom on the machine swung around, striking the structure with considerable force. The centre span of the bridge was knocked down, blocking both main lines. A signal mast was broken, and all telegraph and signal wires, as well as six automatic block signals were put out of commission.

Rebels, Troops Clash In Insein District

RANGOON, Burma, March 27 (C.P.). — The whir of bullets and the patter of rapid fire guns were heard once more to-day in the Insein district, along the road to Mandalay, where Burmese rebels fought with police and Sepoys.

In one fight police killed eight rebels and wounded seven. Another party of Punjabs captured fourteen rebels after a skirmish at Hennada. A mill owner was injured when fifty Dacoits raided a rice mill and stole 4,500 rupees.

In the Tharawaddy district villagers resisting a rebel attack killed one and wounded three raiders.

GETS 6 MONTHS FOR MANSLAUGHTER

THE SON OF TARZAN No. 23 (Metropolitan Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.) By Edgar Rice Burroughs

In the camp of the strangers one was speaking excitedly to the other! "There is not the slightest doubt about it Malhibhn. But why the old scoundrel hasn't claimed the reward puzzles me!" "There are some things dearer to an Arab's heart, Jenssen, than money." "Revenge is one of them," answered the other. "It won't do any harm to TRY the power of gold," replied Jenssen. The other shrugged: "Not on the Sheik, but we might bribe his men."

But bribery failed—grewsomely! They succeeded in luring a young headman of the village to their scheme, who, for a certain sum, was to deliver Meriem to the Swedes late that night. Immediately after dark the two white men prepared to break camp the moment the headsman brought that which they awaited. Toward midnight came the sound of many footsteps. As they approached the firelight, Jenssen saw that two of the men carried a litter.

Jenssen cursed beneath his breath. Could the fool be bringing other than the living prize he had paid for? The bearers came to a halt before the white man. "This has your gold purchased," said one of them. They set the litter down, turned, and vanished into the blackness of the jungle. The thing upon the litter was covered with a piece of cloth. "He should have known we wanted her alive," said Malhibn, as he jerked away the cover.

At sight of what lay beneath, both men stepped back—involuntary oaths upon their lips—for there before them lay the dead body of the faithless headman, with the Sheik's own dagger in his heart, telling its wordless message .... Five minutes later, the "safari" of Jenssen and Malhibn was forcing its way rapidly toward the west, with a dozen natives guarding the rear from the attack they momentarily expected.

GLASGOW, Scotland, Mar. 28. (C. P. Cable).—The annual international soccer match between England and Scotland was won to-day by the latter by two goals to nil. The series began in 1872 and the standing of the countries to date is: Scotland, won 25; England, won 16; drawn 14.

100,000 See Battle

GLASGOW, Scotland, Mar. 28. (C. P. Cable).—Before a crowd estimated at 100,000 England and Scotland once again met in an international soccer match to-day. The game was played at Hampden Park, in dull, gusty weather. The players came on to the field to the skirl of bagpipes.

Premier Ramsay MacDonald and his daughter Ishbel were among the spectators and were introduced to the players.

Railway companies reported that 25,000 travelled from all parts of England for the match.

LONDON, March 28. (C. P. Arsenal smothered Middlesborough by five goals to two, while Aston Villa beat Blackpool by four goals to one. Manchester United and Leeds United, two bottoms teams, slipped nearer to demotion when they lost, the former to Sheffield United and the latter to Chelsea.

In the second division Everton, pacesetters, were beaten at Stoke City but they are so far out in front that their leadership is not endangered. Tottenham Hotspurs, second team and West Bromwich Albion, third club, who clashed at White Hart Lane, drew. JACOB M. BROOKS PASSES IN CITY

Was Long Identified With Business in Peterborough and District.

BORN 85 YEARS AGO.

Another big gap was made in the thinned ranks of this city's "Old Guard" when death this morning claimed Jacob M. Brooks in his 85th year.

Mr. Brooks was known and respected by a large number of persons throughout the city and district because of his long identification with business. He was born in the Township of Pickering, but began his business in Oshawa where he soon gained prominence not only in business but also in municipal affairs, serving on the Oshawa council. Later he conducted business in Port Perry, and moved to Peterborough in 1901. He operated the old Palace Hotel for years and was later agent for the O'Keefe company, holding this commission to his final illness.

Mr. Brooks was the oldest member of Oshawa I.O.O.F. Corinthian Lodge No. 61, having joined it in 1870, and having maintained his membership in that organization through the years.

He was still active in business up until the time of his illness, which began three weeks ago.

Surviving are his widow, two sons, Louis M. and Fred, both of Peterborough, and two daughters, Mrs. Marcus Steiner of Brooklyn, N.Y., and Mrs. Margaret B. Lyman of Kingston, Mass.

The funeral service will be conducted from the family residence, 199 Dalhousie street, at 2 o'clock on Monday afternoon. Interment will be in the Little Lake cemetery and Dr. R. C. Blagrave, rector of St. John's Anglican Church, will officiate. The funeral will be conducted under the auspices of the I.O.O.F.

Far Famed Sea Dog Is 100 Years Old

NEWPORT, R.I., March 28.—(C.P.) — Captain William Holt, Newport's oldest citizen, and one of the most famous of her far-famed sea dogs, is 100 years old to-day.

He's spry and up-to-the-minute and doesn't let that "100 years" fool anyone into thinking he's an old man. Cap'n Holt reads the papers every day. He's got the latest dope from the baseball training camps down pat, follows Rhode Island politics closely, and has the current news events at his finger tips. He's an old timer who has remained young.

LIQUOR RUNNERS TRY NEW SCHEME TO FOOL GUARDS

SOS Off Jersey Coast Sends Gov't Greyhounds Racing to Aid.

SEARCH IS VAIN.

Check With Liner at Sea Show Signals Sent From Hoboken, N.J.

NEW YORK, N.Y., March 28 (C.P.).—Captain Philip Lauriat, in command at coastguard headquarters, declared to-day the SOS messages that sent rescue craft racing thirty miles seaward early this morning apparently were sent by rum-runners who wanted to draw away the ships that guard New York against their speedboats.

The messages gave the position of the ship in distress to be about 30 miles off Barnegat, N.J. According to Captain Lauriat, the signals actually were sent from Hoboken, N.J.

This is the first time liquor importers here have resorted to the SOS method of getting the coastguard out of the way.

Searching In Vain.

At 11 a.m. to-day, when seven coastguard vessels were searching the ocean off Barnegat and a seaplane was about to take off from Cape May to help them, Captain Lauriat received a message from the steamer Pan America, which had picked up the distress signals ten hours earlier.

The Pan America reported that the radio bearing of the ship was approximately 150 degrees. This was checked with the bearing reported from the Manasquan naval radio station—180.5 degrees—and the ship's charts showed by the triangulation method that the signals must have come from Hoboken.

PURSUE AGREEMENT.

PARIS, March 28 (C.P.). — Foreign Minister Aristide Briand told the French Senate to-day that he was going to pursue the affairs of the Austro-German Customs Treaty to the bitter end. On the day when it is no longer possible to count on the loyal execution of international conventions there will be nothing left, he said.

Members Utilize Holiday To-day to Study Supplementary Estimates.

OTTAWA, Ont., March 28.—(C.P.)—After two weeks of intensive debate, Parliament will have brief respite on Monday when it will take up supplementary estimates. It will be only a momentary break in the address in reply to the Speech from the Throne, however, for Hon. Maruce Dupre, Solicitor-General, will continue it later in the day after the money bills have been passed.

Parliament to-day has a holiday and the members are utilizing the time in becoming acquainted with the supplementary estimates. They were tabled yesterday and totalled $19,842,554.

Attacking the Government from several angles, particularly on its trade ban against Russia, Hon. Ian A. Mackenzie, for a short time Minister of Immigration in the King Administration, headlined the address debate in the Commons yesterday in his first major Parliamentary effort.

Parley Hurt Canada.

He believed the Government's Russian policy to be "the most factuous policy ever adopted by a supposedly sane and sensible administration." Later he said: "I suggest to my honorable friends opposite (the Government) that despite the possible commendable motives which have influenced the action of the Government, this policy is going to be detrimental to the interests of Canada because we will be forced to more ruthless competition in the markets of the world for our surplus products."

Premier Bennett's trade proposals to the Imperial Conference were doomed to failure the moment he raised the tariff against Great Britain some weeks before going to London, declared F. G. Sanderson ((Lib., Perth South). Nothing had been achieved at the Conference; it was futile to say it was a success. Premier Bennett's attitude at the Conference was "the worst thing for relations between Canada and the Mother Country." The Premier had spoken 17 minutes in presenting his proposals, but "a gentleman with the vocabulary and temperament of Mr. Bennett sometimes could do more damage in 17 minutes than could be repaired in 17 years."

Praise for the Prime Minister and the manner in which he was conducting public affairs was forthcoming from W. A. Benyon (Cons., Moose Jaw). "At last we have a Premier, who, when he says protection, means protection," declared Mr. Benyon.

U. S. IS LIKELY TO SET 4,000 LIMIT ON IMMIGRATION FROM CANADA

Congress Working Toward Goal of Country Bared to Foreigners Intending to Stay.

6,000,000 UNEMPLOYED.

WASHINGTON, D.C., March 28 (By Ken Clark, C.P. Staff Correspondent).—The next session of Congress will probably see restriction of immigration from Canada to about 4,000 annually.

If the depression in industry continues there appears to be no doubt that the sentiment in Congress against immigration which has been steadily increasing for the last few years will accomplish its purpose of making the United States virtually a country barred to foreigners who intend permanent residence.

Senator Harris, Democrat, Georgia, has announced that he will recommend to Congress a bill to cut all immigration ninety per cent.

"With more than 6,000,000 unemployed and probably five to ten per cent. of the workers in the country living on part-time wages," he said, "it is a disgraceful situation that aliens are allowed to enter the country and take jobs or work for less wages, which amounts to the same thing.

More Leaving Than Entering

In view of the fact that Harry E. Hull, Commissioner of Immigration, has announced that more aliens are now leaving the United States than are entering, and that according to Senator Harris's own estimate the annual influx of workers amounts to 160,000, the energy of attack on immigration is criticized in some quarters.

The pressure upon the immigration authorities and the Department of Labor to keep out foreigners and deport as many aliens as possible, however increases with the realization that the United States has about three times as many unemployed as Great Britain.

It is understood the Labor Department is now attempting to figure out some method of dealing with border crossing at Detroit which will be satisfactory to the State Department and the department has on hand a memorandum from Ottawa several months old.

HON. ROGERS IMPROVED.

Father Goes Hunting, Brother Quits Job As Italian Captures Sweepstakes Prize

ISOLA DEL LIRI, Italy, March 28 (C.P.-. — Mario Scala, brother of Emilio Scala, whose ticket won the first prize of more than $1,800,000 in the Grand National Sweepstakes yesterday, today quit the printer's job he had held for forty years when word came of the family's good fortune.

Mario and his aged parents learned of Emilio's prize from a Rome morning paper to-day, communications with the outside world having ceased at 7 p.m. last night, before Emilio's telegram came from London. The telegram reached them shortly after they read the paper this morning.

"I won great prize of Irish race. Will write letters," the message said. Mario commented: "He shouldn't spend money foolishly on telegrams."

The elderly father went hunting to celebrate, while Emili's mother stayed at home to receive the congratulations of neighbor folk. "Everybody knows us now," said Mario. "Now everyone says hello to me, and the printers where I work drank to my health when I went to the shop and quit.

"I have been working for forty years. I am forty-seven, and now that we are rich I might marry."

Mario has been the support of his parents, although Emilio who owns a coffee shop in London has helped. "He sent some money for Easter, and now he surely will send some more," said Mario.

Taxes will take no toll from Scala's winnings, either in the Irish Free State or in Ireland. The Southern Irish Government does not tax sweepstakes winnings, and the British income tax authorities have thus far taken no cognizance of them because they are recognized as outside the pale of legal sources of income.

SELF-TAUGHT ALBERTAN HOLDS HOUSE SPELLBOUND BY SPEECH

Alfred Speakman, Westerner and Cow Puncher Makes Best Speech.

GAINED FAME IN WEST.

(Special to The Examinery, Copyright 1931).

OTTAWA, Ont., March 28.—By common consent, the most eloquent and impressive contribution to the debate on the address from the throne not even excepting the two leaders, Messrs. Bennett and King, was made this week by Alfred Speakman, the United Farmers of Alberta member, sitting for Red Deer.

A couple of months ago the name cal moment in the affairs of the farmers' organization at Calgary, held in the Central United church. A rebellious spirit was abroad discontent surged high, Bolshevism and secession and repudiation were mooted, and the convention was on the brink of endorsing one of these ultra-radical policies. Wild-eyed orators had worked the convention up to fever heat.

"Let us give our shock troops our members of parliament at Ottawa, a bomb which they can fling into the complacency of Ottawa. Let us give them teeth for attack", argued the agitators.

Spectators wondered what the outcome would be. The traditions of the U.F.A. were at stake. Would it go on record as recommending secession? Then Alfred Speakman arose from the choir-loft, where the federal members had been sitting throughout the deliberations.

His address was brief. It was his first contribution. As usual, he spoke deliberately, without passion. He employed no flowery rhetoric. In beautiful and forceful English he placed before the assembly the likely consequences of such action as they were contemplating.

"You would give your 'shock

Victim of Motor Accident on Toronto-Hamilton Highway on Friday.

TRUCK CRASHES INTO POLE.

TORONTO, Ont., March 28 (C.P.)—George Greenwood, 20, of Woodstock, who was injured in a motor car accident on the Toronto-Hamilton Highway yesterday, died in St. Joseph's Hospital to-day.

The accident occurred early yesterday morning when a four-ton truck on which Greenwood was a helper, and which was driven by L. Hancock of Woodstock, crashed into a telegraph pole west of the Humber bridge and took fire.

Just prior to the accident Hancock jumped from the truck and was uninjured.

According to police, Hancock had stooped down to reach the automatic cigarette lighter on the dashboard when the truck swerved, striking the post. He is at present under arrest facing a charge of reckless driving.

Hospital authorities say Greenwood's death came as a shock, for it was not thought his injuries were fatal.

GANDHI TO WEAR HIS USUAL GARB ON LONDON VISIT

Only if Weather is Cold Will He Add a Blanket to His Scanty Loin Cloth.

ABHORS HOTELS.

Madeline Slade Accompanies Mahatma With Pots and Pans to Cook Meals.

KARACHI, India, Mar. 28. (AP)—When Gandhi goes to London for the second Round Table Conference on India his only garb, he has indicated will be his Hindu pariagh's gossamer dhoti or loincloth, spun by Mirabai, nee Madeline Slade, daughter of British Admiral who is his constant and devoted companion.

If the London weather happens to be a little cool he will throw a piece of cheesecloth over his chest, if unusually cold he will wrap a blanket around his fragile body. Otherwise his legs and trunk will be bare.

He has a honor of living in hotels so if Premier Ramsay MacDonald invites him to stay at 10 Downing Street as his guest the Mahatma will insist upon bringing his own pots and pans and tin cans so that Mirabai may prepare his goat milk, vegetables, cracked corn and dates in orthodox Hindu fashion.

If the Premier offers India's anchorite a soft downy English bed Ganhid is expected to decline, preferring to sleep in the yard of 10 Downing Street on a hard straw burlap mattress with only the stars as his covering.

Prayers at Four and Seven

Every morning at four, if he follows custom here, and every evening at seven, he will lead his followers in prayer. If the King should inite him to dinner he will go in traditional loincloth and sandals, with head shaved, bringing his own ritualistic food in a tin pail with a wooden spoon. Not only that but he will cart along a self devised spinning wheel and friends say he will insist upon doing his "sacrificial" spinning while the King talks and eats.

No matter where he may live in London, whether 10 Downing Street or elsewhere, he is expected to insist upon walking about in his usual clothes to his destination, because he has not worn pants in nearly twenty years, nor does he like automobile or bus travel.

It is supposed here that British men and women along the Strand or Piccadilly will be startled into exclamations when they see this "bundle of bones" as Gandhi calls himself, leading his followers down the main thoroughfares with the white clad and nunlike Mirabai as his only companion.

WOMAN'S DEATH ENDS ODD CASE

Mrs. Kidd Who Claimed to be Wife of Well Known Evangelist, Found Dead in Hamilton.

HAD $3,000 IN BANK.

HAMILTON, Ont., March 28. — With the finding of the body of Mrs. E. Kidd in a room at 114 Rebecca Street last night, finis is written to a peculiar case which came to the attention of the local police on more than one occasion.

Mrs. Kidd or Kidd-Byrne had been missed by neighbors and after two days had passed, police were notified and the room where she lived, entered. She was aged and blind and evidently had died in her sleep.

Deceased had asserted to police on several occasions previously that she was the wife of Rev. David Kidd-Byrne, evangelist, who was said to have inherited a large fortune through a daughter of a United States millionaire. Byrne was reported to have saved the daughter of the millionaire from a life of sin and been richly rewarded by the grateful parent.

Mrs. Kidd-Byrne lived in this city in circumstances of the greatest penury. Byrne, when in Hamilton informed authorities on one occasion that Mrs. Byrne was in no way connected with him.

Detectives who found the remains declared conditions in the room were beyond description. It was over-run with mice which had attacked the woman's body.

Investigations revealed that far from being poor Mrs. Kidd had almost $3,000 in a local bank, and two houses on Rebecca street in her name.

Mayor Stewart and Chief Draper Settle Recent Controversy.

STATEMENT ISSUED.

TORONTO, Ont., March 28 (C.P.).—The controversy between Mayor William J. Stewart and Chief Constable D. C. Draper regarding police officers using their batons in dispersing a crowd of unemployed which has lasted throughout the past week is at an end, Magistrate Robert J. Browne announced to-day after the two men had met at the City Hall.

A meeting was held to-day in Judge Morson's office at which the Mayor, Magistrate Browne, and Chief Draper were present. The following statement was given to the press at the conclusion of the meeting:

The unfortunate misunderstanding between the Mayor and the Chief was discussed and most amicably settled."

Part Best of Friends.

The Chief stated that he had never for one moment doubted the veracity of the Mayor, and everybody parted the best of friends.

At a meeting of the Police Commission on Thursday Mayor Stewart demanded an apology from Chief Draper in regard to a statement allegedly made against a Controller, and when the Chief denied the statement, the Mayor demanded his resignation. When the other two members of the Commission refused to back the Mayor up in his policy he left the meeting, putting the matter before the Attorney-General.

However, at to-day's meeting all issues were settled and the Mayor will be present as chairman of the next meeting of the Board of Police Commissioners.

SINCLAIR CHARGES CHE... ISSUED PORQUIS JUNCTION MAN NOT ON GOVERNMENT PAY ROLL

Finlayson Promises Immediate Investigation and Action if Charge Sustained.

CHEQUES WAVED IN HOUSE.

Follows Legislature's Attempt to Give $5,000,000 Expenditure Bill Reading.

TORONTO, Mar. 28. — Demanding a Royal Commission to probe expenditures of northern development funds, W. E. N. Sinclair, Liberal leader, yesterday produced in the Legislature two cheques which, he claimed, had been issued a man at Porquois Junction, who was not an employe of the Government. The cheques, he stated, were marked as payment for wages and signed by the district engineer and the latter's clerk.

Hon. William Finlayson, Minister of Northern Development, immediately promised a full investigation of the charge, received promise of the Liberal leader that copies of the cheques would be given early next week. If any irregularity had occurred, he stated, the matter would be forthwith handed over to the Crown Attorney.

The cheques stated Mr. Sinclair, had been issued to M. Melnick during the months of December and January and other cheques had been issued since then, he claimed. Melnick he charged, had not been employed by the department since Sept. 16, although the cheques were marked as payment for wages.

The charge followed the Legislature's attempt to give second reading to the bill providing $5,000,000 for the funds of the department to be utilized during the present year. Mr. Finlayson had briefly explained the bill.

Engineers' Bank Accounts.

"A most unusual matter has come to my mind," announced Mr. Sinclair, after the Minister had explained in answer to his question, that district engineers were given various amounts to administer from their local bank account to meet petty expenses. All wages, Mr. Finlayson stated, were paid by the Department in cheques drawn in the Department offices to correspond with the payrolls sent down by the engineer.

"That was my understanding," continued Mr. Sinclair. He quoted from the report of the Public Accounts Committee to the same effect. "This is unusual. There has come to my attention since we discussed the Department the other day some cheques which were issued to a man who is not working for the Department at all.

"I hold here," he said, waving the yellow cheque, "a cheque issued to M. Melnick by the Department of Northern Development. It is signed by a name Lough and countersigned by another name, E. D. Lowery."

"That would be the clerk," interjected Mr. Finlayson, who was listening interestedly.

"I am informed that this man Melnick has not worked for the Department there since last September," continued Mr. Sinclair. "Yet he has received cheques in December, January and March. Something is wrong here, and this is an evidence of the faith of this Legislature in voting huge sums to be administered in this way."

Manitoba Passes Seed Grain Relief

WINNIPEG, Man., March 28 (C. P.). — Rushed through all stages as political barriers were lowered, legislation providing for the immediate granting of seed grain relief to farmers was given third reading in the Legislature last night. No opposition to the Bill, proposed by Hon. Albert Prefontaine, Minister of Agriculture, was made.

Rules of the House were suspended so that the legislation could be pushed along. Agreement as to seed grain advances was reached at a conference here recently between Prairie Ministers of Agriculture and Hon. Robert Weir, Dominion Minister.

CEMETERY ACT IS SCORED IN HOUSE

Sinclair Declares Government is Trying to Pass Buck on to Counties.

INSPECTORS BETTER.

TORONTO, Ont., March 28 (C.P.). —With considerable business yet to be disposed of, the Ontario Legislature next week will make a heroic effort to finish the session before Easter. Yesterday Premier George S. Henry dropped a mild hint to members to be on time Monday afternoon. If they were not, he suggested, it might be necessary to hold morning sessions beginning Tuesday.

Yesterday the House advanced a good number of Government measures and practically the last of the Government legislation was introduced. A bill to amend the Cemeteries Act provoked a good deal of debate in committee and was left over for further consideration. It would create a commission in every county, headed by the county judge, to look after cleaning up and maintaining neglected cemeteries.

W. E. N. Sinclair, Liberal leader, said the bill would only cause friction and expense in the counties. The Government had failed to handle the problem and was not trying to pass the buck to the counties.

Harry Nixon, Progressive leader, also opposed the measure on the ground that it set up cumbersome and expensive machinery. He thought the Government should appoint inspectors to go round the province and see that township councils complied with the law in mainatining cemeteries.

MAXIME ETHIER, GUILTY OF MURDER IS SENTENCED TO HANG ON JUNE 19

Defense Lawyers For Montreal Man Claim Client Shot in Self Defense.

NEARLY DIED OF WOUND.

MONTREAL, Que., March 28—Maxime Ethier, former street car employe, was found guilty of the murder of Lucien Levesque, following his trial here yesterday. Ethier was sentenced to hang on June 19.

Lucien Lesesque, a street car motorman like Ethier, was found shot to death in a clothes closet in Ethier's apartment. Hewas shot on December 19, but was not found until four days later when friends who called on Ethier noticed a peculiar odor in the apartment. Lesesque was a married man and father of two children and he and Ethier were close friends and were much together. When detectives, acting on a tip from Ethier's callers, found the body of Levesque slumped on a sitting position on a trunk in wardrobe, they also found that Ethier was nursing a bullet wound in his own chest. For some time he hovered between life and death in hospital, but recovered in time to stand trial.

Defence lawyers, while they did not deny that Ethier shot and killed Levesque, maintained that the two had quarrelled and then their client had shot in self defence. He signed a written statement that he had hid and watched Leseque steal streetcar tickets from his bureau drawer. Levesque owed Ethier $179, it was submitted, and that also was described as a contributing factor to the fatal quarrel.

ARNOLD BENNETT DIES IN ENGLAND

One of World's Leading Literary Giants Succumbs to Typhoid.

WORKS RATED CLASSICS.

LONDON, Mar. 28 (AP)—Typhoid fever has written "finis" to the life of Arnold Bennett, one of the world's leading men of letters, whose works, acclaimed by the scholarly, did not distain the common touch.

The end had been foressen since Wednesday. Stricken with influenza seven weeks ago he was thought to be recovering when typhoid fever brought him down again. A blood transfusion yesterday gave him temporary relief but he weakened and early last night passed away peacefully. He was 63 years old.

Bennett in his lifetime came to hear his own works, particularly the "Old Wives Tale" which he published in 1908, rated as classics.

He was most widely known perhaps for that work and the "Five Towns" series, which depicted the drabness of England's pottery district. One of the five towns, Habridge, was his own native Hanley, Staffordshire.

Guide to Best

In less serious works he acted as a guide to what is best in literature, travel and recreation, and maintained a conversational contact with the common man in his writings which few authors of his calibre have been able to do. His later works were novels, plays and essays, among the novels is "Mr. Prohack" published in 1927, and "The Return Journey" of the succeeding year.

He was not an educated man in the generally accepted sense, starting life as a solicitor's clerk and did not decide to venture into a literary career until he was 33 years old.

GANDHI SPEAKS ENEMIES WEEP

Threatening Communists Leave Meeting in Humble Penitent Mood.

BARRED FROM FRONTIER.

KARACHI, India, Mar. 28. —(AP) —The day that my inner voice tells me my country no longer needs me I will starve myself to death," Gandhi told a deputation of hostile red shirt Communists who called upon him to demand why he had not saved Bakhat Sinkh, executed at Lahore for the murder of a British police official in 1929.

"I shall not complain if you beat me. I have no bodyguard," he said. "God alone keeps vigil over me. Some think me crazy, some a fool because of my love for my enemies, but it is the very foundation of my whole life's work and creed.

Nothing To Sacrifice

"I have nothing left to sacrifice. I have no worldy possessions. I am a beggar. But the day that India abandons the sacred principle of non-violence I shall let my fragile body perish. If you say that I am doing harm to India you have a right to do so but it is my duty to turn you to the path of affection and truth. I have no weapon against you except love, let none take upon himself the duty of protecting me. God alone can do that."

Before Gandhi had finished his antagonists were sobbing. All left in a humble, penitent mood.

PROHIBIT USE OF GUNS IN SUMMER

Discussion Arises Over Gun License Rates to Charge Farmers.

NORTHERNERS OPPOSED.

TORONTO, Ont., March 28—Use of guns for hunting during the months of May, June, July and August will be prohibited if the Government puts into effect a recommendation of the Game and Fish Committee of the Ontario Legislature approved yesterday. No other change in the gun license law was proposed although a number of members expressed opposition to the law as it stands. The question is being left over pending the report of the commission which is to study the game laws during the summer months.

Referring the criticism of the gun license advanced by Hon. Harry Nixon, Progressive Leader, Hon. Charles McCrea, Minister of Game and Fisheries, said he realized some dissatisfaction existed among the farming population. To meet Mr. Nixon's arguments he said the license might be reduced to $1 when issued to farmers and farmers' sons. He also suggested it be made Province-wide. At present it applies only to certain counties in Southern Ontario. Northern Ontario members, with the exception of Hon. James Lyons (Cons., Sault Ste. Marie) were opposed to the extension of the law to Northern Ontario. D. J. Taylor (Prog., Grey north) thought the license to farmers should be placed at 50 cents and left at $2.00 for the urban dweller while another member thought it should be issued free to bonafide dwellers on the soil.

Persons who obtained a license, Mr. McCrea said, were inclined to regard it as a permit to shoot any bird or animal at any time. He thought some immediate step should be taken to make the license of no value during the summer months. No restriction will be placed on a person shooting on his own land during the summer.

BOMBERS TRAIL PETER VEREGIN

Head of Doukhobor Sect Changes Sleeping Abode and Misses Explosion.

DETONATING CAP USED.

NELSON, B.C., March 28 (C.P.) —A plot to assassinate Peter Veregin, head of a branch of the Doukhobor sect, was seen last night by Staff-Sergt. Stephenson of the British Columbia police, in the bombing of a store building at Glade.

Staff-Sergeant Stephenson said a detonating cap with fuse was placed on top of a drum of gasoline in the basement of the building, directly under the room in which Veregin customarily slept. For some reason Stephenson said, Veregin decided to sleep elsewhere last night. The building was not badly damaged.

Peter's father, who preceded him in ruling this sect of the Doukhoobors, was killed several years ago in an explosion on the Kettle Valley Railroad at Furron.

Stephenson attributed the plot to members of the sect who are believed to have burned three schools in the Grand Forks area and one near Nelson recently.

HEAD HURT?

WORK won't wait for a headache to wear off. Don't look for sympathy at such times, but get some Aspirin. It never fails.

Don't be a chronic sufferer from headaches, or any other pain. See a doctor and get at the cause. Meantime, don't play martyr. There's always quick comfort in Aspirin. It never does any harm. Isn't it foolish to suffer any needless pain? It may be only a simple headache, or it may be neuralgia or neuritis. Rheumatism. Lumbago. Aspirin is still the sensible thing to take. There is hardly any ache or pain these tablets can't relieve: they are a great comfort to women who suffer periodically; they are always to be relied on for breaking up colds.

$1500 DAMAGES SOUGHT OF CITY

Miss Elizabeth Brennan Starts Damage Action Following Pumper Crash.

TRUCK OUT OF CONTROL.

An action has been instituted against the City of Peterborough by Miss Elizabeth Brennan, who claims $1,500 damages for personal injuries and other results of the accident at Reid and McDonnel Streets in which Fire Department's pumper and the Lindsay bus collided. Miss Brennan was a passenger in the bus.

She complains that the fire truck was not under control of its driver and was proceeding at too fast a speed. It is alleged, too, that the bus driver was guilty of contributory negligence. Since the accident Miss Brennan states that she has been unable to pursue her usual occupation.

"My! I do sleep well now

No more tired feelings in the mornings"

THOSE who most need sleep—the nervous—excitable—irritable—are the very ones who cannot get it.

It is only during sleep that nerve force is restored to the exhausted nervous system.

One fifth of all the blood in the human body is consumed in the brain for the manufacture of nerve force.

It is by increasing the quantity and improving the quality of the blood that Dr. Chase's Nerve Food imparts new nervous energy to the human system.

Only in this way is restoration thorough and lasting. Only in this way can you regain sound, restful sleep.

With the nerves again in control the vital organs resume their natural functions and soon you are feeling new energy and vigor in every part of the body. Headaches, indigestion, tired, languid feelings disappear and all the depressing symptoms of exhausted nerves are soon forgotten.

MUSINGS AT A MANSE WINDOW

WE were both ministers of neighbouring churches in a great city, somewhere on this Continent! We used to see each other, at least once a week—and sometimes more frequently. Sometimes we took in a ball game together. Indeed he initiated me into the mysteries of baseball. Up till that time I had thought there was no game quite as good as cricket. But when I got to know a little about pitching, and catching, and hitting, and sacrificing, and stealing, baseball had got me, lock, stock, and barrel! At that time hockey was only a name to me. It conveyed no meaning and seemed incapable of giving me any thrill. But now that I have got to know hockey I hasten to say that to me there is no game quite like it. I'm fond of my porridge! But I'd sacrifice the best porridge ever cooked for a hockey game. What a pity that some public-spirited group of men of means does not provide for the rising generation in Peterborough an artificial rink! The material is here for producing some of the finest hockey players in Canada! And it would be one of the best advertising assets the city could have.

Exchanging Notes.

Many a walk did we take together within the confines of a great park which, although it had been subjected to man's artistic touch, still retained much of its original natural beauty! In the distance we could hear the hum of the great city's life—a life we had been endeavouring to minister to on the previous day. And it was natural to talk about sermons and sermon outlines.

Here is one that passed between us. If we had wanted a good title for it we could have called it "Counting the Cost."

Of course, like every orthodox sermon, there had to be a text! And this was the text:

"But Jonah rose up to flee unto Tarshish from the presence of the Lord, and went down to Joppa; and he found a ship going to Tarshish: so he paid the fare thereof, and went down into it, to go with them."

If, like me, you are simple, and old-fashioned enough to read the Book of Jonah, you will find these words in chapter one, verse thirteen. I don't know what sort of a time the people may have had with the sermon on the previous day, but we two preachers had a glorious time as we reviewed the preaching of the Sunday while taking our Monday walk.

A Seductive Path.

The text was chosen because it contained a very striking sentence which acted like a window to let light shine in upon the costly nature of sin.

When anyone chooses the seductive path of sin he will pay deatly for it. If you doubt it, just try to figure out what that excursion cost Jonah!

It was loss, grevious loss, from the beginning to the end. He lost his money. He lost his time. He lost the approval of his conscience. He lost the smile and favour of God. He would have lost his life but for Divine intervention, and he returned to Joppa a sadder and wiser man. "He paid the fare thereof." Every man should write it down—especially every young man!—where it can be seen every day, that the devil's ships are not free. He exacts a heavy toll from those who travel over any of his routes.

"At the devil's booth all things are sold;
Each ounce of dross costs its ounce of gold;
For a cap and bells our lives we pay;
Baubbles we buy with a whole soul's tasking;
'Tis Heaven alone that is given away;
'Tis only God may be had for the asking."

Counting the Cost.

Two young men were once talking about the matter of becoming a Christian. One of them was a follower of Christ, and he said to his friend:

"I cannot tell you all that Jesus is to me, or what He has done for me. I do wish you would enlist in His service."

"I am thinking about it," the other replied; "but it means giving up several things—in fact, I am counting the cost."

An earnest Christian worker who happened to be passing just at that moment, overheard the remark, and, stopping and laying his hand lovingly upon the shoulder of the speaker, he said:

"Young friend, you talk of counting the cost of following Christ. But have you ever counted the cost of not following Him?"

For several days that question rang in the ears of the young man, and he found no rest until he sought it at the feet of the Saviour of sinners.

Look At It This Way.

If I be granted the privilege of addressing a very personal word to the readers of this page this is what I should like to say: "Have you ever counted the cost of not following Christ," You have never thought of the subject in that light perhaps. You, like a great many other people, have always regarded the matter from that other standpoint—the cost of being a Christian. I fully agree with you that you cannot be a Christian without counting and paying the cost. But that is not the question I want to emphasize now. Let me put it this way: "Did you ever sit down and make an inventory of the things which you will have to sacrifice if you are not a Christian?" If you never did it before, do it NOW!

One Thing You Lose.

For one thing, not to be a Christian means that you must forfeit all claim to spiritual peace. "Being justified by faith, we have peace with God through our Lord Jesus Christ." "Thou wilt keep him in perfect peace, whose mind is stayed on Thee, because he trusteth in Thee."

Yonder is a little cottage by the sea. The night is dark and stormy; the wind is howling wild. The waves break in thunder on the shore. The clouds pour out their angry torrents. The tempest roars and beats upon the cottage. But all the evening there is peace and joy within. The lamp burns with a bright and cheerful beam. Warmth and comfort radiate from the glowing fire upon the hearth. A happy circle gathers about the table for the evening meal. Peals of laughter ring out into the surrounding darkness and gloom. The black night of storm flings no shadow inside. The angry tempest is powerless to mar the peace and gladness of that sweet scene.

It is something like that with the soul which is at peace with God, and in which the peace of God abides. There may be storm on every side, confusion on every hand, but there is peace, perfect peace, within.

Peace That Passeth Understanding.

There is a story told of a martyr who was standing barefooted on the faggots which were about to consume his body. He accosted the magistrate who had charge of the execution, and asked him to come near him. He said, "I am about to die by fire. Will you please lay your hand on my heart. If it beats any faster than it ordinarily beats, then do not believe my religion." The magistrate, with palpitating heart and all in a trembling himself, laid his hand on the martyr's bosom and found that it was just as calm and untroubled as though he might have been simply retiring to his nightly repose, rather than having to meet the fiery ordeal of an awful death.

And that is what the peace of God will do for any man. That is what the peace of God is doing for some of us. We have experienced what Christ meant when He said: "In the world ye shall have tribulation . . . but in Me ye shall have peace." And again: "Peace I leave with you; My peace I give unto you." We know something of what Bunyan meant when, in his immortal allegory, he says of Christian:

"The Pilgrim found the Palace Beautiful, and they gave him the chamber of Peace, with its windows toward the sunrising."

This is the blessed privilege and portion of the believer in Christ only; and not to be a Christian means that such an experience can never be yours. Not to be a Christian means that you are to go on living the old, unsatisfactory, restless life which has characterized your existence ever since you began to know the difference between right and wrong, between good and evil.

The Name of a Ship.

My ministerial friend told me that the first vessel built on this Continent was named The Unrest. No more appropriate name could have been found, for its home was to be on the unresting sea.

When John Ruskin was once looking out upon that unresting sea he exclaimed:

"How shall we follow its eternal changefulness of feeling? It is like trying to paint a soul."

And he was right, for, according to its Maker, the soul that is unsaved and unregenerate is "like the troubled sea, which cannot rest, whose waters cast up mire and dirt."

Oh, what restlessness there is in the soul tht is out of harmonious touch with God! It is like a sick man tossing with a burning fever in the night; like the wandering Jew going up and down the earth without a place to rest his weary feet; like an infant crying in the night, an infant crying for the light, with no language but a cry; like those black seagulls outside the Golden Horn which, on account of their apparently ceaseless motion and unending restlessness, the sailors have named "lost souls." Is it to be wondered at that it should be so? How can there ever be peace in the soul that is not controlled by the Prince of Peace?

A Final Word.

Are you willing, dear reader, to pay the cost of not being a Christian in this regard? Are you ready to renounce, once and for all, this Divine legacy of peace? For that is what it means not to be a Christian. "There is no peace, saith my God, to the wicked." God knows, and surely you must know it, too, that if you are out of Christ to-day there is no peace in your soul. And, what is more, there never will be until you surrender your life to His control.

Put that down as a part of the bill of costs, as one item in the inventory of the things which you must forfeit all claim to in not being a Christian.

A very famous British preacher once said that a man who is blind to his own faults is blind to his own interests. He who thinks that he never was a fool is a fool now. He who never owns that he is wrong will never get right. He'll mend, as the saying is, when he grows better, like sour beer in summer. How can a man take the smuts off his face if he will not look in the glass, nor believe that they are there when he is told about them?

Allan Fairbairn.

A man ought to carry himself in the world as an orange tree would if it could walk up and down in the garden—swinging perfume from every little censer it holds up in the air.

The Hour Of Prayer

FAIN would we each come before Thee, O God, saying: "Here am I and the children whom Thou gavest." But we have cause to fear that we shall be compelled to say: "Here am I and there are the children of Thy gft," there by the side of those who gave them more than food and shelter, who feared not to stir them with the prophetic call. No Elijah has rights above us over our own. So help us, God, we shall relegate to no church or priest the soul-moulding of our children, but shall prove ourselves their parents in all their great new births. For what is our hope, or joy, or crown of rejoicing? Are not even these in the presence of our Lord Jesus Christ at His coming? This we ask in all humility of heart and meekness of spirit in the name of our Lord Jesus Christ. Amen.

That Is Salvation

EVERY loving word that God speaks to us acts back again, and makes music in his heart. He never says, with a scowl, "Here comes that poor, limping sinner again." The path of the sinner back to God is brighter and brighter all the way up to the smile of the face and the touch of the hand; and that is salvation.

Don't nurse opportunity too long—take it into active partnership with you at once, lest it leave you for other company.

The Search For Greatness

FOR four thousand years the strong had been rushing on in the road of privilege and power-seeking greatness. Chrst stood in the path, and said, "Ye seek greatness. Ye are not even in the way of it. Ye are going up, but the way to greatness is down. Let him who would be great be the love-servant of all." Greatness consists in the facility and power of going down, and not in the facility of going up.

THE PUBLIC ACCOUNTS COMMITTEE.

According to Toronto advices, neither the Liberal nor Progressive leaders in the Legislature intend to ask to have the public accounts committee called during the present session.

The Legislature is due to wind up its business on Wednesday, and so far there has been no intimation of anything to be brought before that important committee.

The absence of a request from Opposition leaders for a meeting of the public accounts committee will not strengthen the position of either Opposition party, and, on the other hand, gives the Government an opportunity to point out that their transaction of the business of the Province has been so free of irregularities that it was not considered necessary for an investigation before the committee to which such matters are referred.

There is not much to be gained in making charges on political platforms or elsewhere if they are not to be brought to the attention of the public accounts committee and probed there, and the failure of the Opposition to utilize the machinery provided for this purpose will be recognized as a weakness.

Mr. Sinclair and Mr. Nixon may have their own reasons for not pressing for a meeting of the public accounts committee—but from the viewpoint of political advantage their course is not particularly good tactics.

THE TORONTO CONTROVERSY.

Without entering the dietaries of the Toronto controversy between Mayor Stewart and Chief Constable Draper, it is surely apparent that there was nothing in the situation that justified an appeal to the Provincial Government, and certainly nothing that would justify the Attorney-General interfering—indeed, he had no power to interfere.

To outsiders, reading with some amazement the columns devoted by the Toronto papers to this tempest in a teapot, the obvious course to be followed is the holding of a wide-open investigation under oath of the charges made by the mayor against the chief constable.

Mayor Stewart prefers to stand upon his dignity, declaring that his veracity has been questioned and that he as an elected representative of the people has not had the assistance of his fellow-commissioners in securing from Chief Draper the answer he believes he is entitled to from a civic employee.

The chief constable denies that he made statements that the mayor said he made.

If both parties to the controversy are not satisfied that a mistake has been made or that a misunderstanding has arisen as to just what was said, there would seem to be only one sensible way out, and that is to have the whole matter officially probed at a sworn inquiry.

A much better way, of course, would be for everybody to shake hands and forget the incident.

LEVEL CROSSING ACCIDENTS.

When a proposal that Ontario should adopt a law requiring motorists to bring their cars to a complete stop before proceeding over a railway crossing was introduced in the Legislature during the present session, Premier Henry suggested that the measure should be withdrawn for the present, pointing out that the effectiveness of a similar law in Quebec had not yet been thoroughly established.

Figures given out by the Quebec authorities since would seem to show that the regulation has contributed to safer conditions in that Province so far as level crossings are concerned.

Last year grade crossing accidents in Quebec were only 1.05 per cent. of the total number of motor accidents reported in 1930.

There were 263 people killed in motor mishaps in the Province and only 20 or 7.6 per cent. of the whole lost their lives at level crossings.

In fact 98.94 per cent. of all motor accidents, 92.4 per cent. of the deaths and 87.2 per cent. of injuries were not at grade crossings.

These figures are impressive and will make the opposition offered by motor organizations to the stop law even more mysterious.

As the Globe puts it, "Why they should cheerfully observe a stop law at main streets in towns and cities, involving perhaps fifty stops in an ordinary days driving, and yet object to making an occasional stop at a railway crossing to avoid collision with a relatively uncontrollable vehicle in the form of a train has yet to be demonstrated."

INTERESTING STATISTICS.

The Dominion Bureau of Statistics has just issued the number of registrations of births, deaths and marriages during the month of February, 1931, in 54 cities with populations of 10,000 at the last census. Stillbirths are registered both as births and deaths.

Births registered in these cities in February numbered 6,516, deaths 4,183 and marriages 1,984.

As compared with February, 1930, births registered in February of this year showed a decrease of 4⅛ per cent. In the Maritime Provinces, the decline was 1 per cent., in Quebec 5 per cent., in Ontario 2½ per cent., in the Prairie Provinces 7 per cent. and in British Columbia 11 per cent.

Deaths registered in February numbered 6 per cent. more than in the corresponding month of last year. The Maritime Provinces showed an increase of 53 per cent., Quebec 4½ per cent., Ontario 6 per cent. and the Prairie Provinces 3 per cent. In British Columbia there was a reduction of 8½ per cent.

The number of marriages registered in February was less by 5¼ per cent. than in February of 1930. In the Maritime Provinces and Quebec there were increases of 26 per cent. and 2 per cent. respectively, but the other sections of the country recorded declines amounting to 4 per cent. in Ontario, 16½ per cent. in the Prairie Provinces and 30 per cent. in British Columbia.

For the two months of January and February, 1931, births registered in the 54 cities numbered 13,640, deaths 8,261 and marriages 3,997.

The figure for births showed a slight decrease of 1 per cent. against the corresponding months of 1930. Maritime Provinces and Quebec had increases of 1 and 2 per cent., respectively. Ontario showed practically no change, while the Prairie Provinces recorded a decline of 8 per cent. and British Columbia a decline of 12 per cent.

Deaths registered during January and February of 1931 were only one-half of one per cent. higher than during the first two months of last year. In the Maritime Provinces there was an increase of 29½ per cent. and in Ontario an increase of 5 per cent., but Quebec showed a reduction of 1¼ per cent., the Prairie Provinces of 6 per cent. and British Columbia of 17 per cent.

Marriages registered during the two months of this year were less by 9½ per cent. than in January and February of 1930. The Maritime Provinces recorded an increase of 17 per cent., but the remaining sections of the country showed declines amounting to 8 per cent. in Quebec, 4½ per cent. in Ontario, 16½ per cent. in the Prairie Provinces and 31 per cent. in British Columbia.

The figures for Peterborough for February show 43 births, 36 deaths and 16 marriages.

SHE MISSED A GREAT DEAL.

A few days ago there was a story on this page regarding the strange life and death of Ella V. Wendel, the last member of the family bearing that name in New York City. Ella Wendel, it appears, was actually worth $100,000,000 as stated at the time of her death.

She lived alone in the home on Fifth Avenue; two rooms in the great old barracks of a house were sufficient for her needs. She had no friends; none came to inquire during her last illness. She was indeed very much alone.

It is now reported that the entire fortune, with the exception of a few bequests to old servants, is going to charitable purposes. Such a sum, one hundred million, if wisely administered, can accomplish a great deal.

But what a lot of wholesome enjoyment and delight Miss Ella Wendel missed during her lifetime by not starting to spend some of that money herself. It may be that her millions will give sick children a chance to recover; perhaps there will be poor folk whose lot will be made brighter. Yes, there are great possibilities in the wise spending of so great an amount.

She might just as well have had the satisfaction of seeing the touch of health come to replace the pallor of disease in some child's face; there is no reason why she should have been denied the satisfaction which comes from seeing desolation and poverty touched into new hope by the assistance which Miss Wendel would have been able to distribute.

The transferring of so great a property, through the medium of a last will and testament is desirable, of course, but the thought will not down that there were great fields of useful effort to which Miss Wendel denied herself access, and from these she could have extracted untold comfort and satisfaction. She missed a great deal of the finest thing in the world.—Stratford Beacon-Herald.

WAITING IN THE WINGS.

When a young racketeer named Frank Marco turned up in a roadside ditch in New York recently, having been taken for a ride by other racketeers whose enmity he somehow had aroused, a perfectly respectable family back in Ohio got a very bad shock.

Young Marco had been away for years. He came back for a visit now and then, wrote occasionally, and seemed to be prospering. It was understood that he had a job as salesman. The family believed that he was "making good" in an honorable, praiseworthy manner.

But all the while he had been a gunman. He was in Chicago for a time, one of the roughest of that city's rough gentry; then he went to New York to pursue the same calling, and eventually he came to the predestined end of the gangster; and his family learned for the first time what he had been.

This sort of thing, tragic as it is, happens continually, though usually on a smaller scale. A young man leaves home, goes out to make his way in the city, and is supposed to be "doing well"; then, through some accident, his loved ones find out that he had been following a forbidden path, and there are heartaches for everyone concerned.

A consideration of such things emphasizes again the peculiar helplessness of parents; that exposure to shocks which is one of the prices people must pay for the high privilege of raising a child.

Throughout childhood the parent is more or less free from this danger. The youngster is under his eye most of the time. To be sure, there are exceptional cases; but these are generally the parents' fault, and a misfortune that we bring on ourselves is a little less cruel than one which comes in spite of everything that we can do.

But sooner or later there comes a time when the youngster has to go out on his own. And then the parents are helpless. They have done what they can to give their child a good start. They have pointed out pitfalls and snares, as well as they could see them, and they have provided what armor they could. Now it is all out of their hands. They are, literally, at the mercy of the fates.

For most of us it turns out rather well, for the world is not quite as bad a place as it might be. But there are tragedies enough, in all conscience. Youth is impetuous and hot-headed, and it will, now and then, take the poker by the hot end just to see if it will really burn.

And when it happens the chief sufferer, always, is the helpless one back home. Behind every one of the sorry newspaper accounts of crime, folly and stupidity there are invisible victims in the wings—waiters offstage, who can do nothing on earth to avert a tragedy that they do not deserve.—Vancouver Sun.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Mr. Hepburn's return to the House of Commons at least added some spice to the proceedings.

The main business before the Ontario Legislature would seem to be hustling to get through before Easter.

The Opposition at Ottawa complain that Mr. Bennett is not spending enough time in the House. The Premier will probably make up for his absence after the budget is brought down.

Toronto has a fresh tempest in a teapot to get excited over. The Mayor Stewart-Chief Draper controversy is an example of how the Queen City people can get all worked up over nothing.

It should not be overlooked that only the few winners of sweepstake prizes got their names in the headlines. Several million others have only a ticket to show for their investment.

British troops had to clean up the situation in Cawnpore when Hindus and Moslems clashed. India is not yet ready to get along without Britain.

FELLOWSHIP OF PRAYER

DAILY LENTEN DEVOTION

PREPARED BY THE REV. CLARENCE H. WILSON, D.D. FOR THE COMMISSION ON EVANGELISM OF THE FEDERAL COUNCIL OF THE CHURCHES OF CHRIST IN AMERICA

A BUSINESS RISK

"Unto every one which hath shall be given; and from him that hath not, even that he hath shall be taken away from him." Luke 19:26. (Read Luke 19:11-26.)

Meditation

The men who made such large returns on the money intrusted to them must have taken great risks. The fault of the third man was that he was prudent, cautious, afraid to take risks. The teaching of the parable is that we must make use or we will lose. But to use is to take chances of losing. To use our religion in the practical affairs of life is to risk it. Our treasure of faith is put to hazard when we take it out into the markets of life. There are many who think it is in danger from the science of our day. What then? Shall we keep our religion separate and apart from business? Shall we shield our faith from contacts with the teachings of science? Those who counsel these things indorse the conduct of the man who laid his pound away in a napkin. Faith must face every challenge.

Prayer

Lord of the seas, grant unto us courage to launch out into the deep. Let not any fear possess our souls who have put our trust in Thee. Amen.

The cost of living in Australia has decreased materially in the last year.

The Red-Headed Goddess

At last Powell, who had been silent a good deal of the day, pointed ahead and nodded.

"That's the place," he announced quietly.

Dirk glanced up. Above and beyond stood a most amazing looking rock formation. It might once have been a solid embattlement like the others they had passed, but this was slashed in a hundred or more deep, downward cuts, so that the resulting effect was of a cluster of gigantic spears piercing the blue sky. They thrust upward, thin and gleaming white, in a kind of mute defiance to all trespassers. They might have been warriors frozen in the image of their own weapons by the wrath of the Indian gods. They might have been lightning, hurled to the earth and there enchained. Whatever they might have been, they now presented a most forbidding appearance to the weary travelers, as, bristling like sentinels, they guarded the secret that were held in their hidden center.

"Stop a minute," said Powell, and the others gathered about him, silent, attentive.

"We're four days ahead of the time Kent was told to come. There probably won't be any other whites here for a day or two—if any come then, which I doubt, as they've been warned off this year. We must go in as quietly and unobstrusively as possible, and tend to our own affairs without undue scrutiny of theirs. We aren't welcome—whites never are—until the night of the fire Dance. They are easily exicted, the Indians, easily angered, and we don't want to have to fly for our lives before we see the girl we've come for. Red Jim and I are the only ones who know Silver Tongue. Leave it to us to scout around and find him. We know where we can go in safety and were we can't. The medicine lodge is a sacred place; so are the underground kivas, and any one of you might stumble into the wrong places by mistake. Besides Jim and I know the Indian language and you don't. When we find out anything, we'll come back and tell you. The rest of you—sit tight and keep still."

His glance met Dirk's, and held it all the time he was talking, and he ended his speech by addressing Dirk alone: "This means you. Get it?"

Dirk felt tight bands constricting his heart. His breath came quickly. Once more he was to sit and do nothing! Sit—and wait—and wait—and wait. It was impossible! He turned appealingly to Kent, just as Powell did also.

"We are in danger," said Powell to Kent. "You brought Potter and me along to help you. Unless every member of this party obeys my orders as I give 'em, there'll be hell to pay."

Kent laid a hand on Dirk's shoulders. His face was white. Ahead—just ahead—was Lorraine, hidden, but he could not rush in.

"If I can hold myself, my boy, you can too."

Dirk drew himself up.

"Certainly," he said curtly. "I can hold on to myself—until I see Lorraine."

The little party moved forward, Powell in the lead again, with Potter a close second. Dirk and Moore, Kent and Ashton crowded in next, then followed Dan, the two Californians and Minor, with Red Jim bringing up the rear. He moved more slowly than the others, riding with apparent disregard of his horse and his surrounding, but he was keen to his environment, and everything that went on around him, as an Indian. Consequently, he was the only one who observed the falling of a pebble from the pathway far above and his sudden upflung glance caught sight of an Indian pony disappearing around a curve. He said nothing to anyone, but he felt for his powerful glass that was strapped inside his pack, and managed to extricate them as he rode.

A steep half mile of steady climbing brought them to a sharp end of their journey. The path passed between two towering needle-like rocks, and they found themselves facing a fairly large, grassy, open space, hollowed like a cupped hand. On two sides were the strange spears of rock jabbing at the high heavens. Directly opposite was a solid mountain wall of stone, down which crept a silver ribbon of water. Before this were a few brushwood shelters, a couple of compartments of rooms fenced off against the wall, and the long, low, more substantial looking medicine lodge, built in conical shape, of logs and mud. This was the place where the patient who was to be cured by the nine-days' ceremonial endured the secret rites. For the privilege of this most important role, he had to pay the expenses of the whole entertainment. The fourth side of the clearing was quite thickly wooded. In the open space before them, in the center, was a charred, blackened spot where it was apparently customary to have an enormous fire. And here and there, protruding grotesquely from holes in the ground, were visible the tops of rude ladders. The whole scene was dominated by activity as the Indians, men, women and children, moved about their tasks in a subdued murmur of noise.

"The kivas are down those ladders. There they prepare for their dances, don their masks, paint their bodies and so forth. Those places are the sanctum santorum," Powell explained. "Wait here while I go ask that prowling man with the scarred face if we can camp on that ledge on the other side of these pointed rocks. It overlooks the desert, and is near the path, and gives us a little protection from the Indians—a feeling of privacy I think we'll both enjoy."

While he was gone the others drew close together—an instinctive herding against the unknown. The Indians had glanced up at their approach, but, except for the stolid stare of two or three who were near by, they gave no sign of noticing their presence, and continued their usual activities. Young boys were dragging in great branches of firewood, with ropes and horses, and stacking them in a pile not far from the charred fireplace. Little girls were wandering about among the trees, filling baskets with nuts. Older girls were busy parching corn over small juniper fires, and the women were grinding meal and preparing food for the consumption of all their guests. A couple of lads were driving goats and sheep along a pathway through the woods and, when the animals burst unexpectedly onto the scene, they were driven with shouts of laughter off to a flat promontory that jutted out several hundred feet above the floor of the desert. Here they turned and twisted and milled about, quite unconcerned as to the danger of falling off the edge. Most of the men were out of sight hidden, Red Jim suggested, in the underground kivas or in secret declivities farther down the mountain wall along the woods.

Powell came back at last.

GOOD TIMES COMING.

To the Editor The Examiner.

Sir:

I do my best to keep in touch with conditions of countries throughout the world. That is, the economic conditions. You will agree that that is enough for a man of my limited capacity without keeping an eye on political conditions in those countries and their various disarmament proposals. When I saw that the League of Nations refused to adopt any one language as official (not even Latin) and that each of the 67 nations who are members talk to each other in their own language it appeared to be that the league must crash in confusion and the hubbub in Europe would look like it.

The League of Nations is of no use whatever. It was the Pan-American League that headed off the row between Bolivia and Uruguay and as for India, Russia and the Austro-German tariff-union, the League had not a word to say. But high above all this confusion of tongues comes the good news that week by week unemployment is for the first time decreasing in Britain and Germany and also in the United States

Stocks are beginning to boom and the world is settling down after the terrible fight of last year. Let us do nothing by selfish tariffs to destroy the great return tide of world-trade.

J H BURNHAM.

To The Editor of The Examiner,

Dear Sir

Mr. W. C. Manning's letter "Cause of Earthquakes" in your valuable paper may be a great eye opener to many who read it. I thank him for the plain manner in which it has been explained without any complexity in "cause to effect."

How many people today think seriously of the changes which have occurred on this planet during the progress of time and changes which are most likely to occur in the slightest fraction of time. The present era is the most wonderful age in which men have lived and by their investigation into "cause", the "effect" has left impressions of the most valuable nature in the minds of the people of this earth. Alas how slow is the movement of the masses. Men today, although grouped in nations are still selfish and stubborn in their "formed opinions" some of which have been taken from tradition.

Nations and groups of nations have tried to conquer the habitual surface of the earth. "Man" the greatest sensible living thing on this planet has killed, starved and made slaves of his fellow men. What for? Formed opinions and the increase of worldly treasure and luxury, science, art, business, etc., have built great edifices on the surface of our earth as memorials os the accomplishment of man in this age. Wealth has accumulated. Men have become taskmasters without love, charity and in some cases without mercy.

Statues have been erected to Justice, Liberty and Might from the "coffers" or shall I say the coppers of the people. Justice is the science of law; Liberty, the birthright of the people; Might the survival of the fittest. If justice is law and we are born under law, we have only liberty inside that law, of whichever nation we are a member. Might, power in divers manner, intelligence, strength, artifice, etc., anything whereby the "living" shall keep their species alive.

The masses of the people of the earth are under two main powers—political and religious. The first governs by law the economic well being of the Nation's populace. The second governs by Ecclesiastical law pertaining to come from a Higher Intelligence than man. In conclusion the least I can say in open letter is—stop, read and listen and you will hear familiar and unfamiliar remblings—political and religious.

A DIOCESE OF PETERBOROUGH

To the Editor of The Examiner,

Sir:

As the members of the Church of England in this part of the Province of Ontario are vitally interested in the proposed Division of the Diocese of Toronto, would you kindly publish the following.

Diocese of Toronto too large—there are four possible solutions:

1.—To stay as we are, with possibly an assistant Bishop, a sort of Episcopal Diocesan Curate; objection—this might be satisfactory for Toronto, but would not commend itself to Peterborough. If the Archdeacon of Peterborough does not live in Peterborough for ten days in ten years, why should an assistant Bishop?

2.—To form a new independent Diocese of Peterborough complete with staff; objection—probably at the moment the overhead expense would be too large.

3.—To join us to the Diocese of Ontario; the objection is that there is no community of interest between Peterborough and Kingston, nor could there be, moreover, as the proposed Diocese of Peterborough would be almost identically a double of the Diocese of Ontario, presumably at present there is only six months' work for any Bishop of Ontario. There are about one hundred and fifty congregations in the Diocese of Ontario to visit once or twice each year and more than 6,000 square smiles to cover, and that would seem to be a full-time appointment.

4.—To have a suffragan Bishop of Peterborough, with unfettered jurisdiction over the Eastern portion of the Diocese of Toronto except for nominal allegiance to Toronto. This seems to satisfy most requirements. We are not sacrificed to Ontario. We have a Bishop on the spot, overhead is not unduly increased; we can in time become a separate Diocese. An additional problem is: Should a Diocese be looked after by personal contact or by correspondence? Peterborough, we think, would prefer personal contact.

Additional Points

1.—The present Diocese of Toronto is now numerically as large as any other three Dioceses in Canada.

2.—No one Bishop could cover the work.

3.—There has been a movement for a separate Diocese of Peterborough for seventy-five years.

4.—It is common knowledge among clergy and laity that there is the danger of Peterborough being sacrificed to Ontario—unless Peterborough wakes up, in time!

5.—That the laity of Peterborough should give an expression of opinion, in time!

6.—The proposed Diocese of Peterborough would be the 12th largest numerically and financially in Canada. That would seem to justify its separate existence.

7.—That the Clergy of the Archdeaconry should exercise their right of giving an expression of opinion at the Archdeaconry meeting in April and at the Synod in June.

8.—That Peterborough has been chloroformed or side-tracked by various opiates and red herrings for seventy-five years. Trinity College school Lambeth, Ontario, the Executive committee, Saskatchewan, the Anglican National Commission, sickness, etc., etc., not to mention the vets and the side-track, have all functioned as impediments from time to time. The financial problem is more of a bogey than a red herring.

9.—That a financial gesture now from Peterborough might save the day—if the laity love their church enough—otherwise!

Thanking you, I am,

Yours very truly,
MAURICE R. KINGSFORD.

LARGER UNITED STATES WINTER WHEAT HARVEST IS PREDICTED

Authorities Figuring on Likelihood of 162,000,000 Bushels of 1931 Exportable Surplus.

DECLINES DURING WEEK.

(By John P. Boughan, Associated Press Market Editor.)

CHICAGO, Ill., March 28.—Unofficial monthly crop estimates due next week are expected to indicate a 1931 United States winter wheat harvest in excess of last year's total. As a result, trade authorities are already figuring on the likelihood of 162,000,000 bushels of 1931 exportable surplus of wheat in the United States in addition to carry-over of 200,000,000 bushels for more that United States Government-sponsored agencies are expected to have on their hands July 1st, next.

Forecasts current today suggested that the 1931 domestic winter wheat production would total between 628,000,000 and 650,000,000 bushels, against 604,000,000 harvested last year.

Compared with a week ago, wheat prices this morning ranged from 1 7-8 cents decline to 1 1-8 cents advance, with the declines in July and September contracts representing the new 1931 crop, whereas the advances were in nearer-by deliveries that stands for wheat grown last year and now upheld by Farm Board backing. Simultaneously, corn was 1¾ to 2¾ cents down, oats 1-8 to 5-8 up, and provisions showing 12 to 20 cents gain

With deferred deliveries of corn at a premium over wheat, it is difficult for speculators to see anything but the bear side of the corn market at present. Oats reflect better eastern and southern demand.

TURPENTINE MARKET WEAKENS.

After a period of stronger price tendencies in Savannah, Ga., turpentine, according to recent reports, has again weakened. Improved demand was named responsible for the strengthening movement, and now that this has again tapered off, the price is down. Quotations made by jobbers in Canada have not changed much in the last week, and a more definite move in southern prices is awaited. Linseed oil continues fairly steady, with no marked change in the position of flaxseed. White lead in oil was reduced considerably by paint companies recently.

BULL OPERATORS HOPE TO BOOST MARKET IN SPECIALTY TRADING

Dividend Reductions in Prominent Corporations Acts as Setback.

LOWER STEEL OUTPUT.

(By John L. Colley, Associated Press Financial Writer.)

NEW YORK, N. Y., March 28.—The last full week of the year's first quarter closes today with a professional stock market fidgeting in what has been largely a trading range.

Short selling has increased coincident with the heavy tenor of the news, but bull operators are reluctant to give up and have been fighting off the market's inclination to go down through maneuvers in specialty shares.

Dividend reductions by such prominent corporations as Westinghouse, Anaconda, Baltimore, Ohio and Lackawanna, and the omission of National Cash Register's payment, were the events that had been only partially discounted. They were taken not only as evidence of troubles that had passed, but as notice that immediate earnings and prospects were disappointing. What the first quarter has shown will be a matter of record next month, but it is regarded as inevitable that many of the leading industrial companies will be unable to report dividends fully covered for the three months.

The market's best strength is in speculative issues; so-called blue chips are dull and on the whole more subject to recessions than to advances. Low-priced shares have made the largest gains since the first of the year, chiefly because they had most completely reflected unfavorable conditions.

The halt in the rise of steel ingot output called into question the probability that the higher prices, effective April 1, were exerting any great stimulus on orders. It was felt in some quarters, nevertheless, that the gain of nearly 50 per. cent. in operations since December—an increase of much more than seasonal size—was an exceedingly good report from the industry.

STRENGTH IN GOLD SECTION CONTRASTS WITH INDUSTRIAL DECLINE ON CANADIAN MARTS

Almost All Shares of Leading Gold Producers Advance in Active Buying

CORPORATIONS DECLINE

Base Metals Fail to Demonstrate Same Firmness as Gold Issues

TORONTO, Ont., Mar. 28.—(By the Canadian Press)—Impressive strength in Noranda shares and leading gold stocks contrasted sharply with a further decline by leading industrials on Canadian stock markets this week.

Almost all the shares of leading Canadian gold producing mines, including Lake Shore, Hollinger, McIntyre, Porcupine, Tech-Hughes, and Dome, advanced under active buying while scarcely any of the important industrials proved immune to the weakening influence of continued selling pressure. Brazilian Traction, Ford of Canada "A", C.P.R., Walker's and Massey-Harris are only a few of the stocks which are now at levels below those of a week ago.

The paramount position of the golds was due entirely to the sustained buying activity that made its appearance in his group some weeks ago. De pite prediction that the golds 'had their play," investment interes continued to be attracted by the position of gold in relation to other world commodity values.

Noranda advanced during the week to a new 1931 peak of $29.65, compared with $26 last week. Despite profit-taking which preceded the annual meeting of Noranda shareholders on Friday the stock is still quoted at $26.75 or a net gain of 75 cents for the week.

Lake Shore is now selling at $27.50 or an advance of $1.50 a share from last week.

Base Metals failed to demonstrate the same firmness as the gold issues. The still uncertain outlook for copper metal prices was reflected in a lack of active demand for copper stocks.

Industrial stocks were affected by a continual reactional trend in New York shares.

Weakness in the Bazilian Milreis rate and unsettled economic conditions in Brazil were among the chief causes of a decline in Brazilian Traction shares. The price dropped from $24 to $22.75. Ford of Canada "A" lost a point to close on Friday at 28 despite favorable reports of the company's business.

Oils were still in a state of suspended animation, with sales reflecting a marked lack of interest on the part of either speculators or investors.

Vocational School Exhibits Are Highly Praised

EXHIBITION PROVIDED OPPORTUNITY TO SEE GOOD WORK ACCOMPLISHED

Program Consisted of Demonstrations and Displays of Work Being Done.

1,242 ATTENDING CLASSES.

Providing a wonderful insight into the scope and nature of the training which is available at the Peterborough Collegiate and Vocational Institute, the annual exhibition of work and handicrafts of the Vocational Department pupils held yesterday afternoon and evening was attended by large throngs of interested visitors, who passed through the portals of the Institution of learning in a steady and continuous stream.

The program consisted of demonstrations and displays of work, production methods, machine operations, and a program in the auditorium by Vocational pupils, which included a fashion parade featuring creations in harmony with the latest trend in styles and colour effects displayed by day and night school pupils, and made and designed by themselves.

At the evening session Mrs. W. R. Morris, chairman of the Board of Education tendered a hearty welcome to the visitors and offered her congratulations to the pupils on the wonderful showing which they had made and the interest which had been created by their efforts.

Stimulus to Higher Endeavor.

James Dutton, chairman of the Advisory Vocational committee, in the course of his add.... pointed out the purpose of the exhibition, stressing the fact that it provides a periodic opportunity for the public to inspect the school and the work of the pupils, besides giving the pupils an incentive and stimulus to higher endeavor.

He showed how the old methods are rapidly giving way to new and more efficient methods, and whereas a Public school education was at one time considered sufficient for a boy or girl, it was now more widely realized that a young man or woman has to be definitely better fitted to go out into the world, and must be able to receive all the advantages which a modern education has to offer.

"Education and vocational guidance is as necessary to the parents as it is to the pupils," he averred. "The problem with the parent is what to do with the boy or girl and the problem with the pupil is what to do when the school career is finished."

Mr. Dutton went on to point out how the educational facilities at the Peterborough Collegiate and Vocational Institute are thoroughly well balanced; there are two sides to the training, academic and vocational, and the choice rests between the pupil or parent. In making a choice, he assured them that they could always rely upon the co-operation of the Principal, H. R. H. Kenner, to give them the best advice, which he is so well fitted to give, in such matters.

To give some idea of the popularity of the vocational school, Mr. Dutton called to mind the fact that there are at present 392 pupils attending the day classes at the vocational school, and 850 evening pupils. The subjects taught embrace Household Arts, Industrial Arts, Commercial Subjects, Machine Shop Work, Woodworking, Electricity and Magnetism, while at the South Central School there are seven classes—five for auto mechanics and two for aviation.

The training is mapped out to conform to the needs of the locality, he explained. Pointing out how special attention is given to the teaching of electrical subjects and to woodworking and machine shop practice, on account of the fact that the basic industries here are those of electrical engineering and boat building, etc.

New Lathe Contemplated.

To meet the eve. increasing demands which are bein made upon this department of the school, it is the intention of the Board of Education to install a new lathe this year.

Visitors to the exhibition were doubtless favourably impressed by the courteous attention of the guides—members of the school Cadet Corps—who distributed programs at the door and who directed the flow of traffic into the right channels; and also by the courteous consideration afforded by all members of the teaching staff who were never too busy to pause in answer to questions respecting the work of their pupils.

A pause in the Woodworking and Building Construction Department, revealed a hive of activity where a class of first year and special pupils under the direction of their instructor, J. C. Rutherford were busy making sleeve boards. Each of the boys was engaged in one special operation, were it planing, mortising, glueing or sawing; and the manner in which they operated their respective machines brought forth involuntary exclamations of admiration.

The instructor explained, to The Examiner, that each member of the class is given the opportunity to become perfectly acquainted with every machine in the shop, and that the progress made from the initial stages of instruction is marked and rapid.

Samples of the handiwork which reposed in a room adjoining the shop, provided evidence of the advanced stages which some of the pupils have made. Here were specimens of work turned out by both day and night school pupils, and which included radio benches, flower pot stands, reading lamps and tables, while in another section of the room was work of a more bulky nature executed by the building construction class and which embodied model staircases, window frames, doorways, sections of certain types of buildings and roofs etc.

On to the next department and a similar scene greeted the gaze, but here the pupils were working on less tractable material. This was the machine shop, under the capable supervision of W. Brown. Belts whirred over fast moving pulleys, and the pupils bent intently over their various machines, performing operations on lathes, grinding machines, shapers milling machines, hack saws etc., while another student stood watch and ward over the toolroom, where by an ingenious method the safe return of all tools is ensured.

Electrical Department

Passing on to the electrical department in charge of A. M. Moon, B.Sc., and assisted by R. L. Morrison led one into a maze of this department was a frame structure representing a two-story house completely wired for electrical installation by second year day and night class pupils.

Other exhibitions of handiwork included wiring layouts, cable splicing, and electrical drafting, samples by second year pupils.

W. Clubine, B.A., master of science and mathematics had a no less interesting display of the work of his science class. His pupils were all busily engaged giving practical demonstrations of various simple scientific principles.

An interesting and carefully prepared chart showed in detail thirty, out of thousands of by-products which may be obtained from coal and included such compounds as aspirin tablets, T.N.T. explosive, analine dye, alizarin dye, etc.

A departure from the procedure adopted in former years was noticed in the drafting department, in charge of E. J. Davies, B.Sc., where against every drawing is now placed the article chosen by the pupil himself to work upon.

Mr. Davies explained that under the new system the pupil is given the choice of his own subject on which to make a drawing; the pupil is required to take that article apart, make a freehand sketch of each individual part, then a pencil drawing from which a tracing is made, and from which the blue print is eventually made.

In this department is installed one of the latest model lamps, where the sensitised blue prints are made, after which they are plunged into washing tanks and fixed with a fixing solution.

The work of the pupils of this department, is of a very minute and painstaking nature, and reflected the high standard noted in all other classes of work throughout the departments previously visited.

Owing to the crowded condition that usually obtains throughout the building on exhibition days and due to the extra safety precautions necessary in the shops, the gymnasium this year accommodated considerable portion of the exhibits and also the tea room. Moving pictures through the courtesy of the Canadian General Electric Company were shown at intervals in the auditorium, and at three-thirty the afternoon program staged by the pupils commenced with orchestral selections by the school orchestra under the baton of Mr. Moon.

This was followed by a fashion parade in which the day and night school students of Miss H. Gerrard, the instructress, displayed creations of their own make.

A prize was awarded to Miss Irene Thorburn, who was adjudged to have created the best smock in the night school classes.

Other assistant teachers to Miss Gerrard are Mrs. H. Lucas and Mrs. J. Kennett and Miss Welch and Miss Gillespie of Fair's Limited.

From an artistic viewpoint the fashion parade provided a wonderful panorama of color, while as an indication of the trend of spring and summer fashion it also spoke of color; not an indiscriminate and gaudy splurge of it, but soft artistic tints in complete harmony throughout the ensemble.

Demonstrations of typewriting by pupils of the First and Second Forms, Commercial, followed under the instruction of Miss A. Thompson. H. R. Toole, head of the Commercial Department, prefaced the demonstration with a few remarks in which he explained that the display was not so much one of speed but was designed to show the public how the lessons are taught, and the important part which rhythm plays in the teaching of typing.

Time was kept by the class of pupils with the aid of a grampohone, which was regulated at varying speeds to conform with the progress of the classes.

In the evening the auditorium program was repeated with the addition of a debate in which students of Form III. Commercial participated, and a recital by Eleanor Dunford (Household Arts II.), and a solo by Roy Pitchford (Form IIB. Commercial).

The stage background, which consisted of a chesterfield suite and artistic drapes, was provided through the courtesy of the Canadian Department Stores; the radio in the tea room by Grant & Thorpe; and floor lamps and shades by Miller, Powell & Company.

DOCTOR OUTLINES EARLY MEDICINE HOW PRACTISED

Dr. E. H. Wood Delivers Interesting Address to Life Underwriters.

MEDICINE'S LONG NIGHT.

Surgical Anaethesia First Demonstrated by Morton in Boston in 1848.

Humanity's debt to medical science, with practical recommendations for the conservation of health, was the general subject of a thoughtful address delivered by Dr. E. H. Wood to the members of the Life Underwriters' Association at their dinner at the Empress Hotel Friday evening.

"Some Notes on Early Medicine," was the modest title which Dr. Wood chose for his discourse, but its connotations impressed his audience with the tremendous achievements and progress of the medical profession, especially within the last century. Dr. Wood ranged broadly and briefly over his subject from the days of the early Egyptians when disease was associated with evil spirits, and its cure was sought by magical means of exorcising them, down to our own times with the modern emphasis on hygiene and such simple curative elements as fresh air, and sunlight, including the artificial sun-ray light.

The ancients had some knowledge of medicine for they made use of various drugs, emetics and cathartics, and they also practiced blood letting.

"The foundation of Greek medicine and the name of Hippocrates are synonymous," Dr. Wood said. "Medicine began to emerge from superstition. The teaching of observing symptoms and drawing conclusions therefrom was introduced. Nature, anatomy and physiology were studied. Hippocrates died about 375 B.C., and it was not until about 150 A.D. that Galen discovered the arteries and veins contained blood instead of air as previously supposed. But, it was not until early in the seventeenth century that Harvey, an Englishman, discovered that the blood circulated.

Medicine's Long Night.

With the fall of the Greek and Roman Empires, medical progress was at a standstill. In fact, medicine almost ceased to exist for a thousand years. There was some improvement about 1200 A.D., but it was not until the thirteenth and seventeenth centuries that any real progress was made. Such men as Parcelsus in chemistry, Vesalius in anatomy, and Harvey in physiology, were responsible for the revival. Vesalius became court physician to Charles V and Phillip II, but was condemned to death for heresy. His ideas were too far ahead of his time."

Dr. Wood referred to many of the men whose names will always be connected with their contributions to the early progress of medicine, Morgagni, of Italy, Sydenham and Hunter, in England, Laennec, in France, Jenner, Bright and others.

First Anaesthesia.

"Surgical anaethesia wa first demonstrated by Morton in Boston, in 1848. This, with the discovery of bacteria by Pasteur in France in 1857 and the practical application of this discovery to surgery by Lister in Edinburgh made modern surgery a possibility. It also laid the foundation for all our modern sanitation and preventiv medicine. Before this, the hospitals were pest houses where every wound became horribly infected and the surgeon depended on his prayers more than on his ability to bring about the recovery of his patients."

Dr. Wood stated that in St. Bartholemew's hospital, London, once used to lay on rushes when admitted. It was founded about eight hundred years ago, and some parts of the original building are still in use, beside the present hospital which is one of the most modern in the world.

Discussing the present day sanitation, Dr. Wood said that it was surprising to find many people who were either ignorant of, or indifferent to, some of the most simple health methods. Fresh air in bedrooms, plenty of sunlight, natural food.

"A salad daily, including some raw vegetable or fruit, more whole cereals, and less finely milled flour, more baked, instead of raw vegetables! You will be surprised how good are baked carrots, onions and parsnips. More fat with lean meat, more kidney, liver, tripe, heart and sweet breads, more milk, more water. Eat slowly and don't eat until you are uncomfortable. Most of us eat too much. There has gone abroad the idea that liver is good for anaemia. This is largely wrong, for liver has only a directly beneficial effect on one rather rare type of anaemia, and indirectly on another sever type."

Periodic Examination.

Exercise and the daily bath were also mentioned by Dr. Wood as conductive to health. He also dealt with community health, and concluded by pointing out the advantages of periodic physical examination. Many large corporations have their employees examined at least once a year. They are interested in the health of their employees because it repays them in the steady and long service of the employees.

"How much more, then, should the individual show interest in himself, and be anxious for good dividends in health that would permit him to be steadily on the job, no time lost, and be well and fit to carry on to a ripe old age, instead of falling by the wayside shortly after middle life."

Mr. E. L. Sackville presided. A vote of thanks to Dr. Wood was expressed by Isaac MacNab on behalf of the association. Bob Hendry entertained the gathering with several vocal selections. Mr. Thomas Phillips played the accompaniments.

CAREFUL DRIVING IN BASIS OF TALK

C. A. Salmonsen Addresses Members of Friday Night Supper Club.

CALLED UPON TO THINK.

In a characteristically snappy and clear cut manner C. A. Salmonsen, president of the Friday Night Supper Club delivered a brief address to the membership last evening at the Y.M.C.A., in the capacity of 'pinch hitter,' on the unavoidable absence of a regular speaker.

The fact that Mr. Salmonsen prepared an address at short notice detracted nothing from its interest. He termed the subject of his message "Whoopee," and proceeded to launch into a discussion of the automobile and its contribution to pleasure. Handling the subject with some skill, he left with his listeners an implied moral, which he asked them to ponder over in their minds.

He proved that even when participating in the joys of the open road at the rear of a steering wheel, a motorist is called upon to think. He has to anticipate every move of the other fellow; to take into consideration the type of brakes with which his car is equipped; the surface of the road over which he happens to be travelling.

"What for instance," he asked do you think would happen if one applied his brakes, and only those on one wheel responded?"

He proceeded to demonstrate just what would happen, stressing of course the serious consequences which might be expected from such an eventuality. He also asked them to take into consideration the centrifugal force to which the tires of an automobile are subjected, at high speeds—a force which has in some cases caused the tires to burst completely asunder.

"I leave these thoughts with you fellows," he said in conclusion," and ask all you who are driving cars to think well when driving along the highways." He also suggested that his observances might also be worth thinking over in another sense, remarking, "I leave it to you, who will probably see my meaning better than if I commenced to point it out to you."

ACREAGE REDUCTION

SASKATOON, Mar. 28.—Reduction in wheat acreage this year is expected in pool district No. 14. At the meeting of the wheat pool farmers of the district to-day it was indicated the growers were taking the attitude that they will sow only as much land as they can reasonably handle themselves as present prices of grain do not warrant any expenditure for paid help.

ARTISTIC LADIES' WORK EXHIBITS SHOW CAREFUL TRAINING GIVEN

Hundreds of Spectators Praise the Work of Vocational Classes.

WORK CAREFULLY DONE.

Artistic work in sewing and in painting and drawing had its innings yesterday at the Peterborough Collegiate Instutite and Vocational School, when the annual Vocational School exhibit was staged for the benefit of interested citizens, who thronged by the hundreds to view the efforts of the boys and girls in the various classes.

In the gymnasium the art work of a portion of the classes was exhibited. Here were dainty little water colors; curious black -backed floral baskets formed by pasting vari-colored painted segments of paper on a stiffer ground, and painted cusihons on velvet and satin. A lampshade had a red-shirted gondolier piloting a black boat on blue Venetian waters, and other examples bore little etched designs.

There were painted bridge-table accessories, mounted on boards, and little striking black silhouetted figures painted on glass over white and black and silver grounds. There were water-color designs for wallpaper and etchings painted on celluloid, some in sepia, others delicately colored, and there were small pieces of china, hand-painted in conventional designs and with lustre effects.

Work of Sewing Classes.

In the gymnasium also were examples of the work done by the Girls' Sewing classes in the Household Arts course; fine, careful stitching and delicate maipuolation of pretty materials evidenced in the dainty things.

Here were coats and dresses on racks, for seniors and juniors. A notable example was in black and white silk crepe, the top of the blouse of the sleeveless model executed in white and extending in points to the black skirt. On the front of the blouse were little black tabs lined with white and backed by tiny black buttons. The flaring cuffs of the little jaquette of black were also lined with white in a very effective outfit.

There was a huge doll illustrating baby clothes, wearing a moss-green coat, heavily smocked about the yoke, and a silk bonnet to match.

There were do ens of well-iflade smocks in bright colors and lingerie, embroidered and lace-trimmed.

An interesting gown of navy faille had a hint of Bulgarian embroidery in the narrow bands, stitched in fine blue, red and green, that made the little stando collar and edged the cuffs and long tunic blouse.

There were trim little house dresses; an evening frock of brocaded light gold silk, with gold tulle overdress and gold lace; aprons and slips and gowns, all with the neatest and most careful of stitchings

Dinner Table Ready.

In the upper rooms, where the kitchen shone speckless for inquiring eyes, the little dining-rodm at the rear had its table laid ready for dinner, with shining glassware, and silver, dainty china, and spotless linens. At each place were little wild-rose cards, with a matching note in the tall pale pink tapers in low silver holders that graced table and buffet, and the tiny pink and white mints in glass dishes. There were tulips and daffodils in the central silver basket.

On the second floor were more examples of the sewing work, arranged most attractively on tables covered with moss green paper and in glass-frosted wall cabinets and tall racks.

On the wall, a tiny example of careful work, was a little green square of linen, in its center a little feminine figure worked in sampler stitching, in colors of red, blue, black, yellow and green. It seemed to strike the note of dainty care which was manifested in each one of the meticulously-finished garments.

Here were lovely kimonas, one sample in yellow Fuji with a painted design like a willow pattern plate, with Chinese pagoda and weeping willow tree, outlined in a soft harmonizing colors.

There were white slips of white sponge silk, soft and pliable; pyjama sets in delicately colored cotton crepes; skirts of tweed and flannel, their pleats pressed firmly down, their carefully pointed yokes and belts finished to perfection; little pretty sets like the matching hats and purses in steaming ribbon of blue, the purses lined with white kid, the hats trimmed with white kid; dainty linens for the table, and many pretty dresses.

Among the lot on the rack were several notable frocks, made from crepe and figured rayon, with carefully stitched collars and belts, boleros and peplums. The linen suits were very trig, with their matching or harmonizing blouses and their tailored lines. One of spring-like green had a white sleeveless blouse covered with green coin spots.

Linen shoe bags in the cool colors of green, mauve and yellow made a pretty trio on the green table.

Pictures and Sketches.

More art work was displayed on the upper floor. The exhibit was more varied here and very interesting in its demonstration of many types of artistic taste.

There were water-color sketches of slender tree branches bearing leaves and fruits; silhouettes in black and white, like the large butterfly and the ship with sails set; wash drawings with an Oriental touch to their limning; conventional designs for oilcloth, and little sketches like the strangely-colored fish floating in black depths under blue waves, delicate sea anemones crossing its path. There were fanciful, pretty bits like the bird with the yellow breast and blue wings, sitting on a brown twig and looking down at a trio of purple and yellow iris blossoms, and the flower sprays of nasturtium and morning glory and cereopsis.

Two little sketches that caught the eye had a Tom Thomson flavor, in the starkness of their tracing of a tree and little farmhouse in black against a white background.

The youthful cadets of the school who did the ushering were trim and polite in their brown suits.

The various classes for girls are in charge of Miss Sybil Kendall, who directs the cooking activities, Miss Helen Gerrard, in charge of sewing, and Miss Mayme Montgomery, teacher of art.

An Industry in an Industry

SIR WILLIAM VAN HORNE had made it a policy to produce in Canada for the Canadian Pacific everything that could be made here, so the Angus Shops were built: the shops that extend over acres, in which Canadians by the thousand are employed in making locomotives, day coaches, drawing-room, parlour, dining and sleeping cars for their own Canadian railroad. ¶ Such Canadian-made equipment has proved of the highest standard and redounds to the reputation of the country whose development has been synonymous with that of the industry itself. ¶ The seeds of enterprise have been carefully fostered, whether they be of farming, or mining, of immigration, or tourist trade, of world travel, or the exporting of goods to foreign lands and the importing of goods from the East to Europe. The Canadian Pacific has nurtured and brought to a rich fruition these various activities

CANADIAN PACIFIC TODAY

The Canadian Pacific Railway runs from the Atlantic to the Pacific Ocean. Its liners sail from Vancouver and Victoria to Japan and China, and from Montreal, Quebec and Saint John to Great Britain and the Continent. It operates winter cruises to the Mediterranean, the West Indies and Round the World, and a winter service to Bermuda. Its chateaux and hotels represent the latest word in comfort and luxury. Its telegraph service employs 225,000 miles of wire. Its express travellers' cheques are current all over the world. Canadian Pacific offices and agents are to be found everywhere.

ARTICLES OF INTEREST TO THE FARMER

DAIRY BARN NEXT TO HOUSE ITSELF FARM'S MOST IMPORTANT BUILDING

Public is Interested in How Milk is Produced, Hence Laws Regulating Dairies.

WALLS IMPORTANT

By Dr. L. D. LeGear

It is not my purpose in this article to discuss in detail the various regulations which are in effect all over the country regarding dairies. Both public demand and City ordinances are demanding more expensive barns in order that every possible safeguard may be thrown around the milk, from the cow to the table.

Therefore, the dairy barn, next to the home itself, is the most important building on your farm. If you are building a new barn, there are a few points you ought to keep in mind. It will save you possible trouble and expense later. If your present barn is not what it should be, changes can be made which will bring it up-to-date.

Let us assume you are building a new barn. Walls of hollow tile or concrete blocks are popular because they are fireproof and they provide for the free circulation of air, thus making the interior dry and warm. There is practically no expense for repairs and the wall lasts a long time. Now, very satisfactory walls can be made of lumber. In that case an inner and outer wall is advisable, to provide air space, with tar paper between to make it warm.

Beware of Solid Walls

Stone or brick can be used in walls, and they will stand like the rock of ages, but beware of a solid wall with no air spaces! Cement, or concrete, is the best for floors. Dirt is the cheapest, and comfortable for the cows, but most unsanitary. In case of disease a dirt floor cannot be disinfected. Wood or cement gutters help some, but at best dirt is a makeshift.

A tightly constructed wood floor, with air space underneath to keep the wood dry, and with coal tar betwen the planks to make it waterproof should last eight to ten years. They are harder to keep sanitary than cement, it is true.

Cement will cost little more than lumber in most localities. It is long-lived and easy to keep clean. The objection to cement, that it is cold overcome by putting a layer of cinders under the cement, and using plenty of bedding. In laying the floor the surface of the cement is left rought, to prevent slipping. In the stalls a wooden platform is a good thing, or better yet, cork brick on the cement foundation.

In building the cement stalls there should be a slight depression near the manger so that cows may reach their food easily and not slip to their knees. The rear of the stall has a slope also to allow drainage so that the cow is standing on the level.

Concrete Best

Concrete mangers are fine because they can be thoroughly cleaned. Put a removable partition between each manger so that the animals will not get into each other's feed. The reason for making them removable is to permit flushing out the manger with a hose. A simpler way of keeping the cattle from getting into each other's food is to run two or three iron bars across between each feeding section. By building the feeding platform on a level with the top of the manger the food can be pushed back easily. However, by building the manger about six inches higher than the alleyway we prevent dirt and dust from the floor mixing with the food. In building a cement manger, be sure to have all corners rounded to make the cleaning easier.

The building of a gutter is important from the standpoint of cleanliness. A width of sixteen inches and a depth of ten or twelve inches is recommended. Too deep a gutter may cause the cows to slip and injure themselves. At the same time they should be of such depth that the cattle will not stand in them with their hind feet. Have the edge of the gutter that is nearest the cow a little higher than the edge next the alley so that the cow will gradually step up.

When it comes to selecting the stanchions, any number of styles are available. The stanchion most popular, perhaps hangs on a swivel at top and bottom. It is made of steel and has a wooden lining. This is quite an advantage over the rigid stanchion because it allows the cow greater freedom. A slip chain tied to a double post is also comfortable.

As a final touch to a model dairy barn, have two or three box stalls, depending upon the size of the herd. they are invaluable for sick animals and for pens in which to place calves. If possible, the stalls should be in another part of the barn, away from the milking cows.

Fattening Cattle Feed To a Finish

Farmers who are feeding cattle for beef should note carefully the following excerpt from the Live Stock Market Report of the Dominion Department of Agriculture: "Shippers are bringing in considerable numbers of half-fat cattle. The market has enough depressing factors to contend with, and shippers are requested, in their own interest, not to sacrifice half-finished stock and thereby adversely affect the market as a whole." Feed your beef cattle to a finish and get all the market has to offer.

GUERNSEY HERD IS REAL CREDIT

Mathews Brothers, Rawdon Township, Pleased With Venture Into New Dairy Breed.

HAVE SPLENDID START

BURNBRAE, March 28 (Examiner Correspondence)—When Will and Robert Matthews, Rawdon Township farmers announced their intention last fall of purchasing a herd of Guernsey dairy cattle, several local farmers were inclined to laugh up the proverbial sleeve, as the breed had never been tried in this district and few know just what class of cattle to expect. However, the venture has proved successful and a real start for a profit-making herd is on hand. The cattle have all been purchased from the Don Alda farmers near Toronto and are certainly a fine lot. Robert Matthews decided to start with young cattle, buying seven heifers about one year old, one milking cow and a herd bull. William made sure of income from the start and purchased four heavy-in-calf cows with two heifers to freshen in late summer, also a nice two year old herd sire. He had the good fortune to secure heifer calves from the first two cows to freshen. The cows are of fine type with lots of size and have been prize winners at the Toronto shows in years past.

While the trail-blazers in the Guernsey business for this district are hoping for a large percentage of heifers to build up their herds, bull calves will not be a liability by any means as there is a good market for the surplus bulls of this heavy producing high testing stock to help build up the grade herds.

PRIVATE GARDEN BIG SATISFACTION

No Comparison Between Vegetables Fresh From Yard to Those Picked Day Before.

OUTLAY VERY SMALL

Modern distribution allows us to purchase vegetables and flowers practically at any season, but there is decidedly more satisfaction and we secure higher quality when we produce our own requirements at least during the Summer and Fall. And it is a remarkably simple matter to do this. Even in limited space of the average city back yard an amazing amount of material can be grown. Moreover, the outlay in cash and the amount of work required does not figure at all when compared with the money and energy the average man puts into outdoor sports. In addition to this low cost, there is also a large return in genuine satisfaction and renewed health and peace of mind from this outdoor recreation.

Gardening is something that cannot be measured in dollars. We will take a great deal of pride in beautiful flowers of our own growing, while there is nothing that tastes quite the same as vegetables taken from our own garden at the back door. This applies particularly to those vegetables such as peas, beans and corn which rapidly deteriorate in flavor if much time elapses between their picking and cooking. There is absolutely no comparison between these products picked the day before and those taken out of the garden and put immediately into the pot. Then, too, there is the convenience of growing daily salad material in the nature of lettuce and onions.

It is quite a simple matter to prepare a few square yards of soil. This only means digging, the working in of some good fertilizer and the sowing of a few packages of seed. A vegetable garden twenty-five feet each way will easily produce all the salad material required by the average family from the middle of June until frost, and in addition should also furnish a very fair supply of those staple vegetables such as beans, carrots, and beets. In front of these we can lay out a bed of annual and perennial flowers and flank the lawn on either side with a narrow bed of the same materials. It is not necessary nor advisable to start off on too ambitious a scale. The rank beginner with no experience to guide him should confine himself to a few of his favorite vegetables and flowers, gradually adding a new variety or two each year.

Real Barley Prices As Feed For Hogs

The farmer and feeder are always interested in figures which indicate the cash values of feed and grain crops. With barley at the present time both a problem and an opportunity its acre value as a crop when fed to hogs should be useful. As supplied by an eminent Canadian authority, based on an average yield of 40 bushels to the acre, when fed to hogs at the rates indicated this crop has the following acre values:

When the amount of barley to produce 100 lbs. of hog is—

With hogs at	500 lbs.	400 lbs.	450 lbs.	375 lbs.
$10	$28.40	$48.00	$42.70	$51.20
9	34.50	43.20	38.40	46.00
8	30.70	38.40	34.10	41.00
7	26.85	33.60	29.80	35.80
6	23.00	28.80	25.60	30.70

Buy Approved Chicks Farmers Are Urged

In carrying out its Poultry Club Campaign among Quebec farmers the provincial government has authorized the purchase of "day-old-chicks from appoved hatcheries only." This is a splendid endorsation for federal approval policies, which all combine to produce the "approved" chick. The Poultry Division of the Dominion Department of Agriculture supervises the now officially recognized "approval" policies, which include Record of Performance, certification and regulation, flock approval, hatchery approval and approved chicks. Government supervision is the safeguard which has established the approval policies as the outstanding achievement in the poultry industry in recent years.

1,000 LEFT HOMELESS BY FIRE.

RANGOON, Burma, March 27 (C.P.). — Four acres of houses and shops were destroyed to-day by fire at Pakakku, on the Irrawaddy, eighty miles below Mandalay. Over a thousand persons were rendered homeless and the damage was estimated at $1,500,000. No casualties were reported thus far.

Heavy Snowfall Big Aid To Crops

Reports of Agricultural conditions, as indicated by the Agricultural Representatives of the Ontario Department of Agriculture, state that the heavy snow fall of the past ten days has had a very beneficial effect on fall wheat and seedings of clover, grasses, etc. Much dissatisfaction is in evidence, due to low prices of beef, cattle, hogs, eggs and milk for cheese.

In Peterborough County the water situation is much improved though many of the farmers are still drawing their supply.

TWO OUTSTANDING HONORS WON BY LOCAL FIRE INSURANCE BRANCH

Manufacturer's Life Insurance Agency Wins Two Company Trophies.

UNIQUE RECORD.

Two outstanding honors have been earned recently by the Peterborough Branch, or Central Ontario Agency, of the Manufacturers Life Insurance Company. The Peterborough branch, which is managed by E. L. Sackville, was not only successful during the past year in the signal achievement of winning the president's trophy, emblematic of the greatest progress made by any branch of the world-wide organization of the Manufacturers Life, but also added the capturing of the Conservation Trophy to its laurels.

Record Is Unique.

The record of the Peterborough office is unique in the annuals of the Manufacturers Life Insurance Company, no branch ever previously having won the two trophies together.

The President's Trophy was first offered by President W. G. Gooderham in 1923, to be competed for annually, the award to be made to the agency showing the greatest general development during the year. Since the trophy was first awarded no agency has been successful in winning it more than once. Cuba won it in 1923, followed by Montreal, Toronto, Calgary, Quebec, Moose Jaw, North Ontario and in 1930 Peterborough.

In winning the Conservation Trophy, Peterborough defeated the Kingston branch, which had won it seven times since 1919.

The success of the local office was increased further by T. F. Sweeney, former cashier here, who won the cashier contest.

Representatives of the Peterborough office are: T. Mark, F. L. Driscoll and F. G. McNeely.

The trophies are on display in Al. Sharpe's window.

Sets Unique Record

E. L. SACKVILLE

Manager of the Central Ontario agency of the Manufacturers Life Insurance Company, whose district won two of the company's trophies during the past year. The record is most unique for it is the first time in the annuals of the company that the two important trophies have gone to the same agency.

MORE INTEREST IS BEING TAKEN IN HAY CROPS

Acreage in Meadows Reduced From Drought and Winter-Kill.

MANY SUGGESTIONS

Excellent Results Reported From Mixture of Peas And Oats.

As a result of the serious reduction in the acreage of the regular hay crops following the prolonged summer droughts of the past two years and the likelihood of still further reduction from winter killing just now there is decidedly more interest in annual or catch crops in Eastern Canada. In many districts something will have to be done to supplement foder supplies for next fall or the usual amount of stock cannot be carried. Experiments at the Government Farm at Ridgetown and also at the Ontario Agricultural College indicate that it is quite possible to produce abundant and very palatable hay of high feeding quality from several crops sown in the same year.

Oats, Peas Mixture

At Ridgetown W. R. Reek reports excellent success from a mixture of peas and oats. Alaska oats and O. A.C. 181 peas were sown at the rate of fifty pounds each to the acre on rich land immediately after the regular spring grains were put in. If the land is not particularly good, Mr. Reek would advise increasing this mixture by ten pounds each. The crop was handled with a mower and side delivery rake, being cut when the oats were between the milk and dough stage and the peas about right for eating green. The weather being warm and dry at this time last season the crop cured quickly and made excellent hay which steers cleaned in the winter without any waste. Mr. Reek prefers this mixture to sow beans for an annual crop in his district as it is much more easily cured. At Guelph, Professor W. J. Squirrell also reports good success from a somewhat similar mixture and has secured yields running from two to three tons per acre. He uses strong growing large strawed oats such as O.A.C. 72, O.A.C. 144 or Banner and Golden Vine, Prussian Blue or O.A.C. 181 peas. Seeding is at the rate of two bushels of oats and one bushel of peas, three bushels in all per acre. He advises early sowing on well prepared land.

Soy Beans Old Stand

On clean, fertile and well drained land, a fair crop of annual hay, equal almost to Timothy and suitable for cattle feed, has been secured from sowing Hungarian Millet at the rate of three-quarters of a bushel per acre, according to Professor Squirrell. Soy Beans are also offered to the farmer who wants to increase his supply of fodder, this crop doing well on land suitable for corn. The O.A.C. 211 variety, it is claimed, will mature for hay in most parts of Ontario if sown early in May at the rate of one and a half to two bushels per acre with the grain drill. It should be cut when pods are half grown and cured with as little handling as possible to avoid loss of leaves. By seeding biennial sweet clover either of the white or yellow blossom variety without a nurse crop early in the spring a fair crop of hay can be cut in the autumn while of course there is another the following year. For hay the fine leaved yellow variety is recommended by Professor Squirrell while the white is considered best for silage purposes.

For an annual pasture rape is often used being sown late in the season. Dwarf Essex is one of the best varieties. Other good mixtures which can be grazed by all classes of stock from six weeks after sowing are mixtures of oats with sweet clover and oats with sorghum and red clover. In the first case Professor Squirrell recommends 80 pounds of oats and 20 of sweet clover to the acre and in the second 50 pounds of oats, 30 pounds of sorghum and seven pounds of red clover. The first mixture has the added advantage of giving a crop of hay the second season. Both should be sown early in the spring and should be pastured close enough to keep oats from heading out.

Holding Your Eggs Losing Proposition

Holding eggs for a "rise in the market doesn't pay, as a recent report from Federal inspectors at Winnipeg clearly shows. It reads: "The majority of receipts are of good quality, although some held eggs are in evidence. These invariably grade seconds, showing the fallacy of holding perishable products for any length of time in anticipation of a higher market." At the time this report was received the spread of extras over seconds was five cents per dozen. The Egg Marketing Service of the Dominion Department of Agriculture urges farmers to market their eggs in the very best condition, which naturally is as soon after laying as possible so that they will get the benefit of official grading.

ALWAYS BEWARE SEED BARGAINS

Internationally Known Analyst States Particular Care Needed This Season.

CHEAPER TO BUY BEST

"As never before in the history of farming should care be excercised in the purchase of seeds for planting this spring," states M. T. Munn, well known State Seed Analyst in New York who further adds that it is doubly important to make sure that purchases have been government tested as a result of last year's drought and the reduced supply of high quality stock. While issuing his warning specifically to New York farmers the same advice holds good for this country and particularly for Ontario and Quebec most of which suffered from the same drought last summer which Mr. Mun mentions.

"Bargain seeds are never worth buying," states this authority. "It is a very safe practice to pay no attention to advertisements of bargain seeds where price alone is the only description given, for reliable seedsmen do not approve of advertisements where seeds are offered at stipulated prices without any indication as to their quality or origin. The seed laboratory certainly does not approve of such offerings, because never yet have we tested a lot of so called bargain seeds which did not have something seriously wrong with it. It was either too weedy, was blended with shrivelled seed or else was weak in germination. It would be actually cheaper to buy the best the market affords rather than to take the poorest as a gift," Mr. Munns concludes.

Honey Is Always Safe To Be Used As Food

In a recent statement a bee expert of the Dominion Department of Agriculture calls attention to the fact that honey is always safe for human consumption. The reason for this is that most disease organisms that affect man cannot live in honey, which draws the water of the construction from them and kills them. While there are some diseases affecting bees and bee broods this does not impair the value of the honey for food because disease which affect bees have absoluetely no effect on humans.

RAIN WELCOMED OVER DISTRICT

Burnbrae Wheat, Clover Crops Winter Well—Feed Shortage Felt.

CATTLE PRICES LIGHT

BURNBRAE, March 28 (Examiner Correspondence)—This district has enjoyed its first rainfall in many weeks and great is the rejoicing therefrom. The heavy snowfall of second week of March provided fields with a splendid early spring covering as well as yielding a fairly plentiful supply of water during the melting period.

Farmers who have spent most of the winter hauling water for livestock are particularly glad to see a change in weather conditions. While nothing approaching the usual spring flood condition will be seen this year, a fair supply of moisture will be available when the spring work on the land commences. Fields have been so well protected all winter that wheat and clover crops are, as yet, in a thriving condition

Feed Shortage

Some few farmers report a slight feed shortage, mostly those who have been carrying exceptionally heavy stock. For the first time in many years grain for feeding purposes is down to or below the cent a pound mark, but this is counter-balanced to a great extent by the exceptionally low price of farm products. Eggs have long since ceased to be a profit-maker, the price now is below 20 cents a dozen. Dairy products are more or less a drug on the market, while hogs have varied so much in price that it has been more or less of a gamble whether the farmer could hit a high market and gain a fair compensation for his labor, or drop everything at six cents or less. A healthy crop of young pigs in this district with a short supply of milk has led many farmers to purchasing butter-milk from the creamery for feeding purposes.

Cattle Buyers Appear.

With the return of spring the occasional American cattle buyer is seen, but the prices run very moderate. Good grade cows sell around $60 as against $100 to $125 last year, while high-class pure breds are being purchased this season at about the $100 mark. Buyers find difficulty in securing carloads of cows in good condition for re-sale due in large measure to the scarcity of water which has prevailed. Then too with large quantities of straw on hand, farmers have been tempted to feed too much of this feed which fails to produce fat.

Use Canadian Grown Grain For Poultry

To meet the present acute feed situation the Poultry Division of the Dominion Experimental Farms have made a study of the suitability of Canadian grown grains for poultry feeding. With the use of suitable substitutes in the form of cod liver oil and green feeds barley is found every bit as good as yellow corn for egg production. In a special pamphlet (No. 128—New Series), just off the press, complete instruction in the use of domestic grains for poultry feeding is given. There is no charge for this pamphlet, which may be obtained on application to the Publications Branch of the Department at Ottawa.

HUNDREDS VIEW PRETTY FROCKS AND SPRING OUTFITS DISPLAYED AT THE C.D.S. FASHION SHOWING

Interesting Spring Event Demonstrates Coats, Frocks and Sport Things.

A shimmering white satin and lace bride, with a long veil of deep cream tulle and a string of milky pearls about her throat—

Two lovely bridesmaids in pale pink and blue, with frills to the hem of their long frocks, bows to their sheer maline hats and little frilled nosegays in their hands.—

An evening gown of flame color, with beads to match and a short jacquette of black—

A gown of rose beige linen lace, its low, rounded back and sleeveless arms covered by a matching jaquette with frilled sleeves.—

The pure green of a new apple in the cool georgette sheerness of an afternoon model with a cowl collar and heavy Maggy Rouff necklet, to match—

They were highlights in the gown showing that formed a portion of the styles modelled yesterday afternoon and evening in the upper floor of the Canadian Department Store, by Toronto and local models, and attended by upwards of a thousand women who crowded the big upper salon during the afternoon and evening hours. It was an interesting Spring event that demonstrated coats, frocks and a few sports things for senior and junior wearers, for the models boasted in their number a tiny little lady who showed clothes for children, and a junior miss, who demonstrated clothes for the adolescent.

Explanatory Stylist

Beach pyjamas with linen hats to match trig, jolly-looking things for sports wear on the sands, opened the showing, which had as its explanatory stylist Mrs. Leta Doty of the Eaton Company's staff at Toronto. Through press of work in other centeres, Madam Hale Miller, who has pleased Peterborough in other years with her peppy interpretations of the modes, was unable to be present, but Mrs. Doty made a pleasing substitute.

Soft music accompanied the showing, played by Miss Marthe Baumer, and there was an effective setting in a green-draped platform with tall green palms and modernistic screens. During an intermission, toe and step dances were given in turn by Miss Sophie Yeotes, in a mauve and white costume with matching poke bonnet and floral bouquet, and Miss Rosalie Clancy, wearing a snappy emerald and green outfit and green Irish stovepipe hat.

The models included the Misses Jean Balfour, "Billy" Weston, Dorothea Miller, and Katherine Mansley, from The Eaton Store in Toronto, and three local girls, Miss Peggy Roche, who received some flattering praise from the stylist in charge of the show, also Miss Magie Collins and Miss Freda Allison. Miss Roche was especially striking as the bride in the wedding ensemble which closed the demonstration.

Choir Boy Caps.

There were two-tone knitted suits in the popular knobby tweeds, in brown tones; a tennis suit in blue and white, with the close-fitting little "choir boy" cap that is good for sports wear this season; and those "scarfs of many moods" that tie in so many intriguing ways and that can even be a simulated blouse front if brought over and tied behind, under a jacket.

Scarfs this year are narrower than ever and a popular effect is in the printed goods with Sanscrit characters scattered over its surface.

Bags were legion; some with black linings to avoid traces of soil, and little "cubbyholes" for various fittings; pouch bags and envelope purses with monograms or Roman stripes or tiny sashes; bags with a "bull's eye" of white leather on a red casing; an afternoon bag with embroidered flowers all over it.

A tailored suit that was especially smart was worn with a wrap around blouse, one of the type that does not need to go on over the head and ties at the back in fashion to suit each individual size. This blouse was in pale blue, with a yellow Roman striping and was worn with a navy suit that had a single whiteflower as a boutonniere and a tiny hat of cellophane glistening black straw.

A smart suit was developed in dark brown spongeknit. The cape coat was lined with bisque crepe and the sleeve of the blouse showed beneath the edge of the little coat sleeve.

Fur cuffs are back again on coats of the new chongo cloth that divides favor with tricotine, and little fur jaquettes were as smart as possible in pure white and light browns.

Cherry red, brilliantly soft, formed a suit in chongo weave and tailored lines and a coat of the same bright hue had a deep cape collar edged with fish fins of white, and a tine red straw hat with a band of red patent leather.

Flowering Designs

Gorgeously flowering designs were in the gay yellow of an afternoon frock that was frilled and tucked in sequences and had a tiny matching jacket, a yellow chiffon shoulder flower and a large hat of brown maline.

A dress of Algerian stripes which was influenced, so said the stylist, by the French Colonial Exposition which opens in France on May 1st, had a zebra effect in the cambination of vertical and horizontal striping.

Bright Irish emerald green composed the silk which was worn so effectively in an afternoon frock, by a blonde model. It had little buttons on the long sleeves, a twisted neckline and a self flower at the side closing of the front.

Something quite unusual was the combination of tailored and feminine touches in the gown of black chiffon whose pleated skirt swirled over the ankles. Its elbow-length sleeves finished with a frill of pure white lace that also formed a slender side jabot for the blouse front.

Pastel Loveliness

Like a dream of a lovely flower was the dress of palest pink embroidered with sky blue flowers in an all-over design. It had long, graceful lines and its little jaquette boasted deep sleeve ruffles and a soft sash "tied" effect in the front, at the waistline.

With it were worn a string of the new and popular white china beads, that vie in favor with the flower-like silk beads of the moment. The little girl model was the daintiest party-going maiden imaginable in a frock of pale buttercup yellow that was all frills, even to the simulated tiny sleeves, across her upper arms.

An exquisite evening gown of palest pink lace had a taffeta foundation and little painted rose flowers appeared on its skirt draperies.

The Show ended with a lovely tableau formed by a bride and her two bridesmaids. The bride's gown was of gleaming satin with a deep bertha collar of lace that extended over the arms in little cap sleeves. Her close-fitting cap of lace surmounted a flowing veil of deep cream tulle, edged with cream lace.

The bridesmaids were lovely foils for the central gleaming figure. One was in pales, blue, chiffon with hat of pink trimmed with blue, and pink sash, and her companion reversed the order of the two soft pastel shades. Their dresses were ankle-length and ended with tiny frilled hems. They wore long white kid gloves and carried old-fashioned nosegays of blue flowers with pink hearts. It was a fitting period to a very interesting Style Show.

Too much ACID

Many people, two hours after eating, suffer indigestion as they call it. It is usually excess acid. Correct it with an alkali. The best way, the quick, harmless and efficient way, is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. It has remained for 50 years the standard with physicians. One spoonful in water neutralizes many times its volume in stomach acids, and at once. The symptoms, such as headaches, gas, heartburn, etc., will disappear in five minutes.

You will never use crude methods when you know this better method. And you will never suffer from excess acid when you prove out this easy relief. Please do that—for your own sake—now.

Be sure to get the genuine, prescribed by doctors for conditions due to excess acid. It is always a liquid; it cannot be made in tablet form. Look for the name Phillips' and the word genuine in red.

On the butter market, regraded Eastern Townships and fresh Western No. 1 was 31¼c to 31½c pound, and to retailers solids were 33c and prints 34c a pound. Receipts were 545 boxes.

Winter colored cheese was quoted at 14c a pound, and receipts were 113 boxes.

New Brunswick Green Mountain potatoes, in carlots, were 82½c per 80-pound bag, and to retailers 95c per 80-pound bag.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, March 28. — Rising prices for wheat yesterday accompanied increased anxiety about possible crop damage south-west as a result of low temperatures. Bullish ardor was curbed, however, by reports that snowfalls preceding the cold wave had protected winter wheat from any material harm. Official summaries indicating that United States spring wheat seeding would be reduced 33,000,000 acres this season were largely offset by prospects that winter wheat remaining for harvest would be 2,000,000 acres more than last year.

Wheat closed firm, unchanged to 2¼c advance, the latter for June; corn, ¼c to ¼c down; oats at ⅝c decline to ⅛c to ¼c gain, and provisions varying from 2 cents setback to a rise of 7 cents.

Wheat price rallies here ensued, nevertheless, after Canada reported 10 below zero in some places, and Kansas messages told of zero temperatures at various points. Jetmore, Kansas, despatches asserted that actual damage has resulted from severe cold. Further upturns of the wheat market were promoted by spreading operations, with July rising at times to about 1 cent premium over September. Export demand for North American wheat was again slow, overseas business totalling 350,000 bushels.

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, March 28. — Light offerings and a scant overnight export trade provoked another dull and featureless performance in the wheat pit here yesterday. When the closing gong clanged, values in all three wheat futures were ¼c higher for the day.

The May future closed at 57¼c, July at 59⅝c, while October ended at 61⅝c.

Buying by seaboard interests and little short covering constituted the main support. Outside interest in the market was of little account.

There was practically no interest taken in the cash and coarse grain sections. Prices remained steady.

WOMEN'S INSTITUTE WEEKLY COLUMN

A goodly thing it is to see
In Friendship's circle bright,
Where nothing stains the pleasure sweet
Or dims the radiant light.
No unkind word our lips shall pass
No envy sour the mind.
But each shall seek the common weal.
The good of all mankind.

WARSAW

The first Country-Women's Association in Switzerland was formed in the can on of Moudon in 1916, to help the peasant women sell their eggs and other of their own produce without the help of the middlemen. More especially did it help those who were too far away from towns to go to market. It also was to help consumers in large urban centres. Educational institutions, clinics and hospitals, la ge confectioners, health resorts, and macaroni factories have been the best customers.

The peasants were asked, during the war, to increase their output of vegetables, and for many months members of the organizatio sent regular uppli s. The customers among the townspeople are increasing in number, as their suspicion of the peasants is disappearing.

About four years ago the organization became the cen re of a large Sw ss co-operative. Since that great gathering in 1927, when two thousand women came together from all parts of the country, the association has made rapid progress, and new branches have been organized in other cantons. The agricultural leaders of the country, themselves, look upon the movement as one of the best means of general, and of agricultural development in Switzerland.

Besides the mark ting of produce, the association has acquired an educational aim. Every year two or three meetings are held for general business, where the peasant women learn how to conduct a meeting, sometimes they take the chair. They are encouraged to explain their own point of view and even propose a resolution. Every year lectures are given on subjects such as "Waste on the Farm," "Preserving and Bottling of Fruit," "Poultry Farming," "Forestry and the choice of Trees," "The Cultivation of Crops," "Market Gardening," "Care of Children in Health and Sickness," "Hygiene." Courses in pruning and budding are sometimes given. The courses of study sometimes include a visit to a school of agriculture, or of domestic economy, to factories for preserved foods, or to model poultry farms.

The founder was the first president, and is still president of the organization as a whole. She is the only women lecturer attached to the department of agriculture, and is often asked to speak at men's associations. Sometimes her addresses are broadcast.

CAVAN.

"Every unimproved or unplanted home in Canada, whether large or small, can be made more attractive by the planting of trees, shrubs, vines and flowers and a well-kept lawn, while some rural districts have lagged behind somewhat in home beautification, yet there are many attractive homes which prove that where there is the desire to beautify the surroundings of the home, the results of earnest endeavour may be very satisfactory. Surely the home in and around which flowers are grown must be a more desirable place to bring up children than a home where no attention is given to the cultivation of these friends of the plant kingdom. Children are particularly sensitive to their surroundings, and as they grow up will not be so likely to want to leave the old home if it is attractive. There is a difference between a house and a home. A Canadian farm should be more than just a farm, it should be a home in the country.

One often hears it said that it costs too much or that it takes too much time to plant and care for flowers and shrubs. The truth is that it is not so much a matter of time or money as of disposition. If the farmer is disposed to have flowers and beautiful home surroundings, he will have them no matter how busy he may be, and the money spent for nursery stock required is one of the most profitable investments, he can possibly make because such improvements will actually increase the money value of the home.

Canada is a land of great natural beauty and an appeal is being made this spring to all householders in every province of the Dominion to improve their home surroundings and thus help make a more beautiful Canada."

The fore-going appeal comes from the Department to every person who is the head of a home. To whom should it come with more significance than to the members of the Women's Institute?

Our motto is "For Home and Country," and in this instance we would be helping both.

Beauty around th home is a real benefit to its inmates old and young, and beautiful homes make a beautiful country side.

In April many of the Institute branches have a plant and seed exchange. A few shrubs ordered from a nursery or gotten in exchange from a member, and a few packages of seeds will make a beginning, or if that has already been made, they will make a nice addition to the home lawn and garden.

MILLBROOK

"Odds and Ends of Knowledge, Useful for the Homemaker" was the unusual title of the discussion matter brought up at an Institute gathering, but undoubtedly many bits of information that could be put to practical use were imbibed by the members.

Among other things the cause and prevention of the colds that are so prevalent came up for talking over, one member pointing out that "in open air weather we seldom have colds; the causes are not far to seek why this common form of malady increases in cold weather—for one thing we house ourselves up too much."

The vice-president added the information that we overlook proper ventilation of our homes, and do not see that there is plenty of water in the pan for that purpose connected with the furnace, hence the unhealthy dryness of the atmosphere. "Again I believe we eat too heartily, and of too heavy foods, in the winter, and that is one reason why we tire so easily. And of course we spread colds by not being careful about sneezing and coughing. If you want to know how much mucous matter is spread around by a fit of sneezing, try holding a mirror in front of your face and you will be shocked at the way it becomes spattered. Millions of germs are put into the air to infect others by the careless manner in which we neglect to cover our noses and mouths when we have a cold, with coughing and sneezing resulting."

Other 'odds and ends' of information gathered at the meeting included, for one thing, hints on how to keep celery, an experienced member telling her plan of 'setting the ends in a half inch of salted water, and it will keep for a week.' The stalks, apparently drink up the water as does a bouquet, and lettuce may be kept crisp by the same method. Covering the celery tops with waxed paper will prevent the air from drying them, lettuce likewise.

The proper way to mend a tear in wallpaper was a seasonable suggestion in the spring time, one woman who did all her own papering telling of tearing a piece from the roll, rather than cutting with a straight edge, and then patching with the bit with irregular edges. As a result of this method the mend will show less, provided the pattern is perfectly matched.

Keeping food hot was another topic on which information was wanted, the practice of heating the plates for a hot meal, which someone spoke of a 'dreadfully old fashioned,' was nevertheless highly recommended, as was also plan of heating the caserole and placing in it for service at the table the hot biscits, pancakes, roast potatoes, scones, or whatever the dish may be that one wishes to pass around piping hot.

The cover must be tilted the least bit, perhaps, to let out the steam, but the servings will be good and warm to the last morsel. Of course the tea cosy is the thing for the teapot so the second cup will be as hot and palatable as the first. "And if the problem is keeping hot something for the picnic lunch next summer remember that placing the hot dish in a corrugated paper box, well-lined with newspaper shreddings, will do the trick about as well as it can be done unless you use a heated soap stone from the fireless cooker—providing you are fortunate enough to possess one."

CHILDREN CRY FOR IT!

FIVE million modern mothers will tell you that children DO cry for Fletcher's Castoria. For mothers always give a few drops of this pure vegetable preparation when a child has any of the symptoms that tell of sluggish bowels, colic, or other upsets. When tiny tongues are coated and breath is bad. When a child is restless; irritable. Always soothing and comforting to an infant—yet it is effective for children in their teens. You never have to coax children to take Castoria; they love its taste.

Be ready for the next case of sour stomach, constipation, or other need for Castoria!

When buying look for the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher on wrapper.

He Has Used Them for Twenty Years

"I used to be bothered with my kidneys and sore back," writes Mr. James Henry Last, Perkins Mills, P.Q. "I then used Dodd's Kidney Pills and felt well. I wouldn't be without them and keep them on hand year in and year out as my family also use them. When I feel any sign of weak back I take a pill and it makes me feel O.K. I have used Dodd's Kidney Pills for twenty years."

Dodd's Kidney Pills act directly on the Kidneys. For nearly half a century they have been a standard family remedy because people have tried them and found them good.

lected over $160,000,000 in customs revenues and in the matter of protection, the manufacturers were getting far more than the farmers were requesting.

Despite the promises made by Premier Bennett in the election campaign, why is the price of farm products lower now than in July, asked Robert McKenzie (Lib., Assiniboi).

Doubt of the Government's ability to carry out all its election promises was expressed by T. A. Fontaine (Lib., St. Hyacinthe-Rouville).

Enlarging upon this argument, Mr. Mackenzie said the United States did business with Russia worth $145,000-000 last year. He then quoted Colonel Cooper, an engineer working on a hydro-development scheme in Russia and who gave evidence before the United States Senate Committee to the effect that in five years Russia will buy from the United States, a billion dollars worth of goods annually.

The member for Vancouver centre —Mr. Mackenzie defeated Hon. H. H. Stevens there at the last election —had some praise to offer the Canadian banks. They were "tremendously involved in the present conditions of this country" and Canadians should not lose sight of the fact that no bank here had endangered any depositor's money, while in United States $900,000,000 of investors' money hal been jeopardized.

Seven Suggestions

Seven suggestions to be incorporated in the Government agricultural policy were advanced by T. Lucas (U.F.A., Cambrose) in brief they were: establishment of an experimental processing plant for the bacon industry, efforts made to gain the British market for Canadian bacon, freight rates to be reduced, especially domestic a system of intermediate credits for live stock with lower interest rates, encouragement of co-operative agencies; lowering of bank interest rates and lastly the establishment of a federal bank of rediscount and issue.

Miss Ettie Winter, cousin of the bridegroom, attended the bride, the groomsman being Hughie Winter. A number of friends attended the ceremony, which was performed by Rev. C. A. G. Spence. The happy couple will reside at Glenalda.

troops, a weapon, a bomb, with which to fight at Ottawa. But, remember this, if we have won any reputation at Ottawa it was because we knew what we wanted and said what we thought. This threat of secession is not sincere—it is a bluff. It is not a bomb you are handing us, but a boomerang, which will come back and knock off our heads."

That was the end of the "secession" motion. When put to the vote a few minutes later only half a dozen hands were faint-heartedly raised.

Grew up in Saddle

The other day in the House the occasion was not so dramatic. But Alfred Speakman held an audience which had already listened to a quarter of a million words on the same debate, largely devoted to western conditions—held them in such rapt attention as is not often granted, won round after round of applause from both sides, and contributed the most telling delineation of western hopes and fears and anxieties of the session to date.

Who is Alfred Speakman? "My story is simple and soon told", he said when I approached him in the members' room on the top floor of the parliament buildings, which he shares with W. T. Lucas the member for Camrose.

"I was born at Dundee, Scotland, in 1880" he began. "My parents were both English, coming from Lancashire and Yorkshire. My father went into commercial life in Scotland before I was born.

"In 1891, when I was eleven years of age, my parents emigrated to Alberta. I am farming now the very land which my father homesteaded. We located about 14 miles from Red Deer, over 100 miles from Calgary, in beautiful park country. It is natural mixed farming country and, until ten or a dozen years ago, little wheat was raised there.

"That was the end of my school days. The Schools at Calgary were the nearest, and I have to be satisfied with the four or five years I had had in Scotland, I started helping my father at once on our homestead.

"You can picture me a boy on the prairie, snaring gophers, going long rides for the cattle. There were no fences in those days. I grew up in the saddle." (Mr. Speakman was too modest to go on with the story. He developed into an expert with a lasso and his "Broncho-busting" was of no mean order, I have heard.)

"When I was old enough I took up a homestead a few miles from home. I could qualify on the residence clause by living at home, but I 'batched' it there as well for a few years."

Read Even Out on Range

"When did you first become interested in the organized farmers' movement?" I asked him.

"Very early in its history" he replied. "I was the first secretary of the Penhold local, which was only the thirteenth to be formed in Alberta. From that day, in 1907 until I was nominated candidate in the 1921 election, I was always either secretary or president of that local."

Mr. Speakman owes many things to his father, James Speakman, who preceded Henry Wise Wood as president of the United Farmers of Alberta and died "in the saddle" in 1916.

Where did you get your education? I asked. "Your command of the English language?"

He smiled "My father was a man of great culture. He spoke several languages. He brought out with him a library of the classics. I heard the best English spoken at home. He insisted on it.

"As for me, I became a bookworm. Always I read at meals, out on the range, with a book to read while I was tending cattle. Ever since then Ever since then it's been the same. I've always been deep in a book."

As assistant secretary of the Red Deer Co-operative Live Stock organization, Mr. Speakman broadened his activities and when 1921 came along and the farmer decided to go into politics, the constituency of Red Deer chose him for their candidate. He was victorious over the two old-line parties by a large majority.

Again, in 1925, he was nominated, again opposed by both parties, and again he was victorious by a large majority. In 1926 and 1930 only a Conservative opposed him. Both times he had a comfortable margin.

A realist who faces conditions, Mr. Speakman has underneath the surface the incurable optimism of the old pioneers of the west. He is sure we can solve the problems which changing conditions have created and that the sun will shine again.

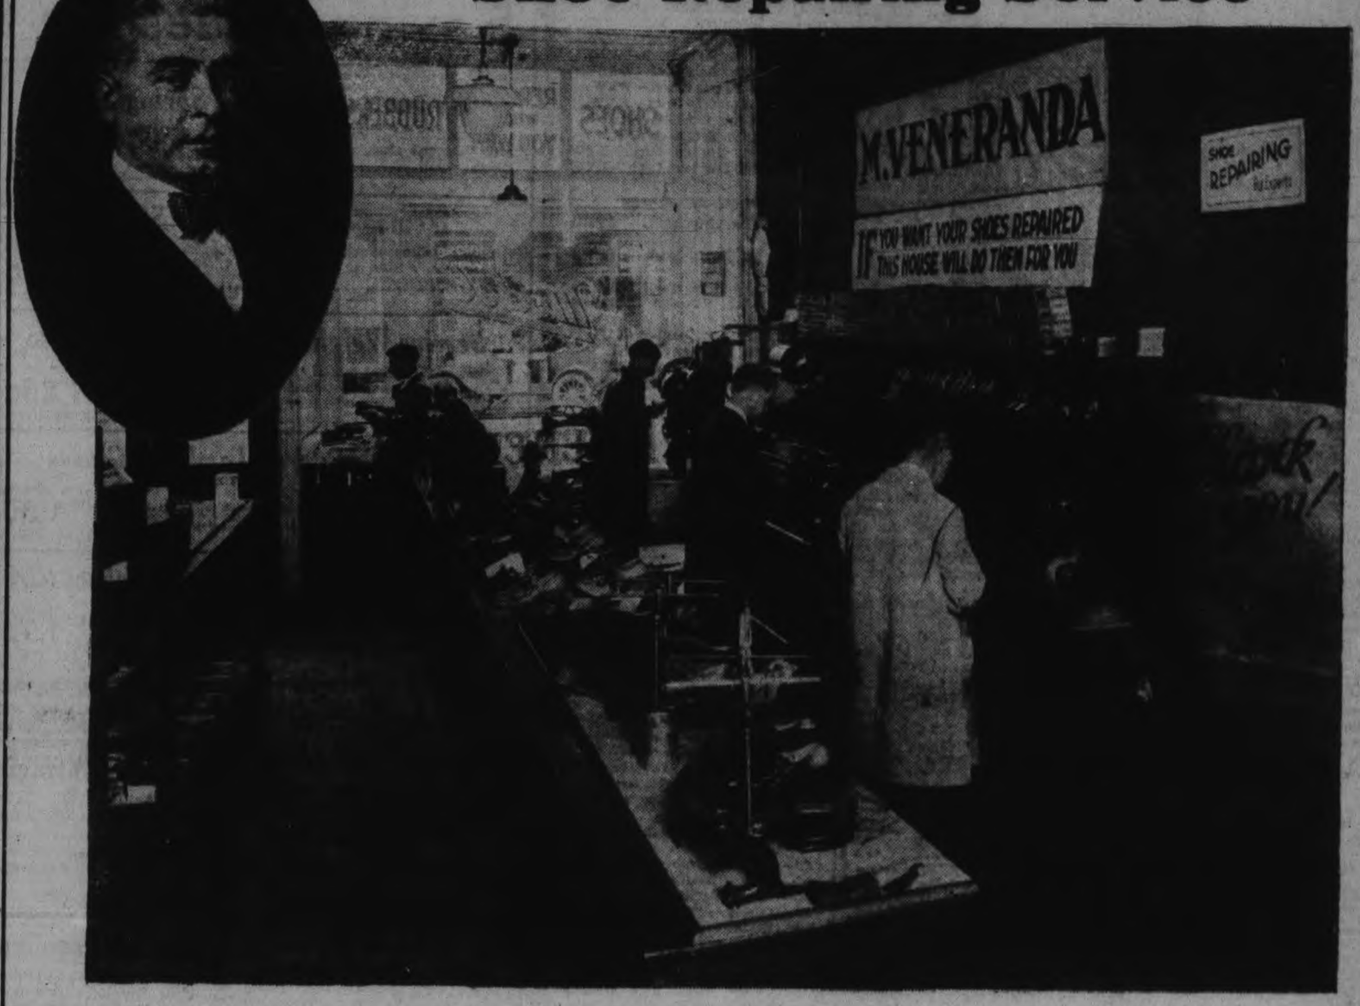
Here's Where You Get Better Shoe Repairing Service



Veneranda's New Low Prices Make Repairing the Cheapest Lines of Shoes Worth While

From a small unpretentious one-man shop on Simcoe Street, South Side, opened up by Mr. Veneranda a few years ago, there has developed a modern five-man shoe repairing establishment on the same street and nearly opposite the original premises. Here every modern machine known to the trade has been installed and to here comes ever-increasing business from both Peterborough City and County. The present premises, known as the Model Electric Shoe Repair Shop, are shown above, while in the oval is seen M. Veneranda himself, who thoroughly understands the making of shoes from A to Z, and whose skill in repairing them has won favor from an exceptionally large clientage. A lady clerk also finds employment in this large and popular shoe repair business, which good work with the best of material built.

Mr. Veneranda invites attention to his following annual Spring announcement:

Special to Farmers

Just look up those boots you laid away last Fall. Should the uppers be good, bring or send the boots to us, and we'll re-build them for you, restoring the uppers by oiling, if necessary, and adding a new pair of laces—all ready for another season. Our charges for this work are low.

A GRADED PRICE SCHEDULE

We have established a three-price schedule to meet conditions created by the manufacture of low priced shoes. The new lowest price is for repairing the cheapest grade of shoes, the medium charge is for repairing a better make, while the old price still stands good for repairing high priced shoes. This grading of prices eliminates the mistaken idea so many people entertain that it is cheaper to buy a new pair of cheap shoes than to have their old ones repaired. It makes the repairing of the cheapest lines of shoes a money-saving proposition worth while earnest consideration. It should also encourage every member of a family to have his or her shoes repaired or rebuilt (not cobbled) at Veneranda's. Of course, a customer can have the cheapest work on the best make of shoes, if desired.

The Soles Are Pliable

When we resole a pair of shoes, the soles will be found pliable—easy to bend—as seen in the above illustration. They will give to every movement of your feet, and not impede circulation. Having your shoes re-built by us means protecting your feet and your general health.

While You Wait, Or Called For and Delivered

This plant is equipped to handle efficiently any class of repairing. If unable to bring or send your shoes to the Store, phone 172w and we'll call for and deliver the work. Or come to the Store in person, when we'll give you a first-class repair job while you wait in one of our comfortable waiting-rooms. After working hours shoes can be dropped into our door-box with instructions as to what you need done to them, and your name and address for delivery, if delivery is wanted.

Out-of-town orders are filled and the shoes returned by mail free of carrying charges.

CHANGING HEELS ON SHOES

Ladies should note that we do not destroy the original appearance of their shoes when changing one style of heel for another that is more comfortable.

Ladies' Shoes Shined

We do this work with electric brushes, which give a brilliant polish that penetrates into the leather and consequently lasts longer than an ordinary shine.

Shoe and Purse Dyeing

Being fully equipped for this class of work, our specialist will give the greatest satisfaction in dyeing either leather or cloth shoes any fashionable color desired. Ladies' purses also are re-coloured by us with a dye that is fast and will not rub off onto the hands or clothing. Spring is here. Have your shoes and purse dyed by us to match your costume. They'll look like new at a small cost.

Do you remember the character, the White Queen in Alice in Wonderland?

• • • • • • •

And do you remember the peculiarity she had of always crying before she was hurt? Well, I have noticed that there are some people in Peterborough who follow just that example.

• • • • • • •

They may not actually shed tears, but they make loud lamentations just the same. They bewail the trouble that looms ahead of them. They distress family and friends.

• • • • • • •

And by the time the happening occurs, about which they are making such a fuss, everyone is so worn out that there is no strength left to expend on further demonstrations of misery.

• • • • • • •

They may appear to take their troubles calmly to those outside the range of personal acquaintance. But those inside this range know it is the calm after a storm.

• • • • • • •

Certainly it is not the beauty of poise that come from trust in that Power which makes all things work together for good.

• • • • • • •

Those who in real life cry before they are hurt are the people who insist on looking on the dark side. They take a sort of joy in their lamentations.

• • • • • • •

They attract attention to themselves through pity, but they get noticed. It is when this peculiarity is discovered that the friends become amused and the amusement is not infrequently tinged with contempt.

• • • • • • •

There is also an uncalculated element that often enters into what we assume to be the natural course of events. Something unexpected happens and the whole face of things is altered The disaster is averted as if by a miracle.

• • • • • • •

A grateful sense of escape cannot fail to envelop us. This sense of escape should be so tempered with regrets that we "borrowed trouble" that never again would we lament beforehand.

• • • • • • •

Always to be looking for trouble is an unattractive habit. The person who looks forward to life with optimism and who never cries before he is hurt, has the magic charm of attractiveness.

RAILWAY COMMISSION TO CONTROL NEW TOWNSITE AT MOOSE FACTORY

Decision is Outcome of Parley Between T. and N. O. Chairman and Premier Henry.

LINE FINISHED BY FALL.

NORTH BAY, Ont., Mar. 28. —Before leaving today for Moose River the present terminus of the James Bay rail extension, George W. Lee, chairman of Temiskaming and Northern Ontario Railway Commission announced a conference with Premier G. S. Henry had resulted in a decision to retain control of Moose Factory townsite under the direct supervision of railway commission.

The boundaries of the seaport terminal of Government railway were designated and a survey made about a month ago. A townsite survey will be made within the near future.

The finishing touches are being put to the Moose River bridge with the expectation of completing the seventeen piers to bear the 1500 foot steel span early next week. The Dominion Bridge Company is scheduled to arrive on the scene to commence erecting the superstructure of steel on April 5. As quickly as the bed is made for a temporary rail line over the river, the contractors will shift their equipment to the north side to commence the extension of the last lap, forty-five miles in length to Moose Factory.

Mr. Lee is confident that rail head will reach the James Bay shores before fall. Rapid progress is being made with power development construction at Abitibi canyon where 1700 men are employed.

C. D. S. Window Display Attracts Town Shoppers

Crowds of shoppers grouped themselves around the show windows of the Canadian Department Store at Simcoe and George street at intervals throughout to-day to witness the demonstrations of a new Canadian-made specialty line of childrens' shoes manufactured by the Jack and Jill Company, and retailed locally exclusively at the C.D.S.

Two dainty little demonstrators, nattily attired as Jack and Jill, of story-book fame, completed the novel window display, specially prepared by the head window dresser, W. H. Turvey, assisted by A. F. Allan.

The children are the little Misses Shirley Grant and Margaret Pitchford, and the special Jack and Jill Company demonstrator, Mr. Gosnell.

L. I. Woman Robbed Twice In Two Days

NEW YORK, March 28.—Tuesday, Mrs. Mary Hodoly, of 74 Hunter avenue., Long Island City, sought a thief who stole $2,200 from her home. Wednesday, she paid another man $400 when he promised to catch the thief. Yesterday, she was looking for the thief and his pursuer.

The first thief, she told police, interested her in a money-making machine. When she left him alone for a moment, he took the money, which had been hidden in a mattress, and disappeared.

Five Blooms Grow On Single Tulip

PEMBROKE, March 28.—About a year ago Fraser Brothers, florists, produced a tulip with two blooms. This year, however, they have gone themselves one better. They have on display a tulip with five perfectly formed blooms. The main bloom, which rose in the centre, was full sized, and was surrounded by a cluster of four other blooms only slightly smaller. More than one bloom on a tulip is said to be unusual, and five an extreme oddity.

BOY IS IN NEED OF LEADERSHIP FROM FATHER

Fathers and Sons of Murray Street Church Hold Annual Banquet.

DR. McLEAN SPEAKS.

Father and Son Banquet Should Be Three Times a Day Says Speaker.

"Tha father must cease to be the blind leader of the boy, but must cooperate with him to bring out his latent possibilities," declared Rev. Dr. C. V. McLean in an address at the First Annual Father and Son Banquet at Murray Street Baptist Church last evening. "A father and son banquet should be held about three times a day," continued the speaker. "I wonder if the father really values all that is in a son." Dr. McLean related an incident of lumbermen journeying into the north of the Province searching for timber. On their way they passed thousands of dollars' worth of valuable mineral, looking only at the trees. Similarly, a father looking for values in a son may miss the supreme values.

The speaker then enumerated the various powers or values of a boy. "He has the power to consume, as this evening's meal will testify." He has the power of humanizing men, of making them see more truly life as it really is. The boy has also the faculty for correcting misconceptions. This is exemplified in the boy's love of play and almost immediate forgiveness of an enemy, and therefore there ought to be a spirit of play in a man's life. The boy is full of life, of curiosity and enthusiasm, and these sometimes lead him into peril's way. Therefore he needs a leader at all times during his young life. The father must understand the boy, he must cease to be a blind leader and become an expert one.

Possibilities are Vast

The possibilities of a boy are vast; they are like the tiny mustard seed which grows and flowers to a large plant. The fact that his schoolmaster removed his hat to boys because of their possibilities, awakened the spark of greatness within Luther. The boy who foolishly grafted twigs into an ancient plum tree became the great Burbank, a man who has changed the countryside by his work on plants and trees. The lad who tried to talk over wire became famous as the inventor of the Bell Telephone. Likewise the babe in Bethlehem's manger became the greatest factor in the world's history. There are possibilities in the home which the father can help to develop, and for this purpose there must be a closer spirit of co-operation between old and young.

Following the banquet, John C. McClenaghan led the sing song. H. H. Graham, President of the Men's Association of the church, occupied the post of chairman throughout the evening. He asked the men to forget their dignity for the time being and be as free and easy as the boys who were their guests. The toast to the King was proposed by the chairman, and was followed by the singing of "God Save The King." W. G. Shiner gave the toast to "The Church," by quoting a poem commencing: "I love thy Kingdom, Lord: I love thy Church, O God." This was replied to by Rev. J. H. Sutcliffe. Dr. S. J. Graham sang the piece "Sonny Boy" which was particularly suited to the occasion. The toast "To our Dads" was proposed by Gordon Pammett and replied to by Howard Quinn, who read Edgar Guest's "A Father's Prayer." J. C. Ellis gave the toast "To our Sons" by reciting "Boy O' Mine," by Guest, and Jack Miller answered by quoting another poem.

The guest speaker for the occasion was introduced by W. H. Kidd who briefly reviewed the life history and attainments of Dr. McLean. At the close of the address, A. S. Zavitz thanked the speaker for his words of advice and inspiration to all fathers. Rev. Sutcliffe gave the benediction and brought the banquet to a successful close.

JANE AUSTEN HER LIFE AND WORK SUBJECT OF ADDRESS TO ART CLUB

Adrian Macdonald Addresses Members of the Women's Art Association.

REALLY HAS A MESSAGE.

Jane Austen—her life and work—was the subject of an interesting talk given by Adrian Macdonald in the studios of the Conservatory of Music yesterday afternoon, to the members of the Lyceum Women's Art Association.

"I am not going to give you a learned paper on Jane Austen," said Mr. Macdonald, "because there was nothing learned nor hifalutin about her and it would be most incongruous.

"Jane Austen wrote many years ago, but her name is just as fresh now as it was then. There is something about her that remains continually fresh. Sir Walter Scott was the great romantic writer of that day and Jane Austen was the great realist in prose. You have there the two purposes of a novel: realism and romance. You may read a novel, as Scott wrote it, as an excursion into an unreal world, or you may read it as Jane Austen wrote it, as a picture of life as it really is.

Greater Than Scott.

"What would the contemporaries of Sir Walter Scott think, could they but know that the great Sir Walter and the demure Jane Austen would shift places in this day and age, and that Jane Austen would be considered so much greater than Scott? Galsworthy is perhaps the greatest novelist of this day, and he might be termed a re-incarnated Jane Austen, except that he does not possess her sense of humour.

"We read Scott's novels, why, good ness only knows! With their great, long descriptions and their excessive romance. If they were dropped altogether no one would care much. Everyone says that Scott's descriptions are wonderful, but nobody reads them.

"Jane Austen depicted a life entirely different from the life we live to-day. Her books are interesting as a historical study of rural England in that time, the time of the French R3volution and the Napoleonic Wars. But, although she lived in that troublous period, and had two brothers who were in the Navy, one of them an admiral, she scarcely mentions the great wars of the period. Her novels are not concerned with heroics, but with the peaceful life of rural England. The industrial and social tendencies which have completely changed our lives had scarcely started then.

"And she pictured the better-class English people, the men who hunted and fished, who went into the navy and the law and the church, and the ladies who stayed around the house or visited their friends, had tea together, picked strawberries, made transparencies for their windows, played on the piano or the harp, or sketched. A picture of the lady of the day is afforded in one of her books, where she speaks of the woman who spent most of her time in a sofa corner, embroidering things that were of little use and of no beauty.

"They were inveterate matchmakers in those days and a girl's main desire was to catch a husband."

Mr. Macdonald thought Jane Austen's failure to marry lay in the fact that she could never take seriously enough, the gentlemen who might happen to be paying attention to her.

Life as it Was.

Sir Walter Scott, he said, took his stories from the foundations of the ancient past or from some great event, but Jane Austen wrote only about the people who came into her everyday life and into the quiet rectory where she lived. She said she could no more attempt a serious romantic novel than write an epic poem and persisted in this attitude until the last. She was very self-conscious about her own work and could never be persuaded to alter her mode of writing.

"In Jane Austen's novels you will find only quiet and quaint situations, with rather subtle effects, never boisterous. She had the distinctive feminine touch wanting in so many women novelists, who persist in modelling their work on that of a man. She followed the system of a little narrative and then plenty of conversation which is also distinctive of Galworthy's novels, and avoided much descriptive matter."

"Just a word as to her message, for she really had a message. It is sinply the message of common sense, for she had a great ddeal of common sense herself. It is exactly the same quality as that possessed by George Bernard Shaw, who has spent a long life in puncturing rosy bubbles of romance and humbug. She has done the same in a more subtle way."

Mr. Macdonald briefly sketched the life of Jane Austen, who was born in the little village of Steventon, in Hampshire, in 1775. There she spent much of her life. Her father, the rector, was an Oxford man and her mother was a charming and intellectual woman with much common sense and cleverness.

She commenced writing at an early age, but concealed her work on account of the prejudice against such work by women, which obtained in her day. She would write on small slips of paper and hide them under a blotter on the little table at which she worked. For "Pride and Prejudice" a publisher paid £10 and then never printed the book, which was later bought back by her brother and published later.

In 1801, the family removed to Bath, the fashionable watering place, and there her father died in 1809. With her mother and sister, she went to live in the village of Chawton, where she died in 1817 after a lingering illness, through which she preserved to the last moment her sense of humour and her desire to write.

Mr. Macdonald concluded by quoting a few excerpts from Jane Austen's novels.

Rising to move the vote of thanks to the speaker, Mrs. J. F. Allan, in a brief, eloquent speech, thanked him for the delightful talk, but took exception to his statement with regard to Sir Walter Scott, regarding the latter, she said, as a greater novelst than Jane Austen. She was of the opinion also that Thomas Hardy and Joseph Conrad might well be classed with Galsworthy among the moderns, but finished with an appreciative word of thanks to the speaker.

The president, Mrs. W. Blackwell, presiding at the meeting, also thanked Mr. Macdonald and the afternoon concluded with the service of tea.

What To-day Means To You

"ARIES"

If March 28th is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 8:30 a.m. to 10 a.m., and from 5 p.m. to 8:40 p.m. The danger periods are from noon to 2 p.m. and from 9:30 p.m.to 10:45 p.m.

Events on this date (March 28th) will throw you on the threshhold of an altered course of life, bringing with it both regrets and pleasing compensations. Do not give any decisive answers, or enter into any binding contract at this time.

The child born on this March 28th will have a passive nature, and be indifferently ambitious. It will thoroughly enjoy the good things of life, but will never fight for them. Attention should be given to its physical welfare, if a sound adulthood is desired for it. Music will make a strong appeal to it, and it could become a musician of renown.

Activity and change are strongly shown in your life. One of your type must be busy to be happy and contented, and you are seldom caught mooning or with idle hands. With you it is work and play, and not the reverse; you never neglect your duties for your pleasures. When you have made up your mind about anything, you usually stick to your decision, and you are not given to postmortem regrets. Destiny has planned many changes for you, and you will never be sailing so smoothly, that you may not expect unsettled winds to blow you off your course without much warning.

One of the nicest things about you is your silent intelligence—your ear is more powerful than many tongues. You could never be called "brainy" but you are most understanding, and have a large fund of common sense, and a good sprinkling of humour. Others like to confide in you, and they do so with little risk, for you are not a tale-bearer. You are almost too secretive about your own affairs, and you are often bent with your own burdens or sorrows, when there are many willing hands ready to help you. You usually suffer your lot with a smile, as you are rather fatalistic in your views.

You love harmonious surroundings, and possessing artistic tastes, you generally seek to make your environment as beautiful as possible. It is not easy to deceive those born under your influence of above sign, and you have remarkable intuition.

If March 29th is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 9:30 a.m. to 11:10 a.m., from 1:15 p.m. to 2:45 p.m. and from 3 p.m. to 6:30 p.m., and from 9:10 p.m. to 10:30 p.m. No danger hours are in evidence for you on this date.

The astrological signs of March 29th indicate powerful influences that must materially help. Emotions that stimulate, and an atmosphere that mentally invigorates; full advantage cannot, possibly, be taken of these ideal conditions on a Sunday, but they should enable plans to be made for the coming week which will fructify to your advantage. Auspicious for lovers.

The child born on this March 29th will have an artistic temperament, and be particularly fond of music. It will be kind-hearted and loving, although rather absent-minded. Girls born on this date will be good mothers, more careful of character making than of external appearances.

If born on March 29th, you are popular, as you are convivial, congenial, and a good listener. In addition, your superficial knowledge is extensive, your mannerisms are cordial, and your frankness is engaging. In spite of these conditions, you have very few real friends, as you lack that depth of sincerity which signifies dependability. You only say pleasant things. At times, it is essential to be absolutely frank, even though it hurts. You are without strong convictions, and subscribe, far too easily, to opinions advanced by others. Different views convincingly expressed do not always cause enmity, but invariably breed respect.

You have a good measure of wit and natural ability. If to these gifts there was added a generous supply of common sense and practicability, your success would be assured. You are too anxious to shine, too keen to seek approval, and, as a result your character suffers, and your real self is hidden by glitter.

At your work, you are fairly industrious. At your play, you must be in the limelight—and generally are. You make a wonderful first impression, but a longer acquaintance reveals your lack of ballast. If married to one born in January or October, you stand a fair chance of a happy home life.

Mrs. Elizabeth Fenton, Pickerel, Ont., Needed a Spring Tonic —Says Dr. Williams' Pink Pills (Tonic) Did Wonders For Her

Clay Model Work Of Two New Canadians At Vocational Exhibit Very Attractive

Among the numerous exhibits that attracted more than usual attention at the annual display of work of Peterborough Vocational students yesterday, was a group of cleverly executed clay models of animal life and a quaint little statuette of Buddha.

It is learned that this exhibit while it did not represent work taught in the school, is the product of the deft fingers of Clement Armand and Robert Riedel, two new Canadians, who came to this country six months ago from the vicinity of Munich, Bavaria, and who are now mastering the English language under the tuition of L. J. Pettitt, B.A., who has charge of the special class at night school for new Canadians.

Both young men are craftsmen of the Pottery Trade, and it is worthy of note that they fashioned the models which were on display, from common clay procured at the Curtis' Brick Yard here, and baked them in a local china oven.

They are contemplating manufacturing these models on a commercial basis, and believe they would find a ready market for their product in this city.

Riedel it is understood worked for one year with Anton Lang, himself a potter and who has won international fame as 'the best Jesus' at the Oberammgau Passion Play.

Elmwoods Win Canadian Junior Hockey Title

WINNIPEG BLANKS PRIMROSES 3 TO 0 IN DOMINION FINAL

Westerners Score Twice in Second Period and Once in Third.

OTTAWA GOAL DISALLOWED.

OTTAWA, Ont., March 28.—There will be no trip to Ontario for the O.H.A. Memorial Cup, emblematic of the junior hockey championship of Canada this year. The trophy, won last year by Regina Patricias, will remain in the West, merely changing its resting place to Winnipeg. Last night the Winnipeg Elmwood Millionnaires proved beyond all doubt their right to the Dominion title when they blanked Ottawa Primroses by 3 to 0 on the latters' ice.

Elmwoods utilized their fine knowledge of combination play and their dazzling speed to the fullest advantage, and outplayed the battling local youngsters to just as great an extent as they outscored them. "Rick" Perley, stellar Ottawa goaltender, was given a busy evening, and he stood up manfully under a barrage of shots that would have meant a much higher score against most goal-tenders.

The new champions are evidently firm believers in the old adage that a strong offensive is the best defensive, for, even after securing a lead of three goals, they showed no inclination to lie back and allow the locals to do the attacking. Whenever the desperate Primrose youngsters became dangerous, Winnipeg set to work in masterful fashion to take play to the Ottawa end of the rink.

The Series Record.

Games decided the championship, but Elmwoods had the better of it in goals also, scoring five goals to Ottawa's three in the three games played. Primroses won the first game at Toronto last Monday, 2 to 0, but lost the second, also at Toronto, on Wednesday by 2 to 1.

Bill Makenzie passed for the first goal last night and scored the second on a solo effort. He transferred the puck to "Duke" Macdonald, whose business-like shot from the side gave Perley no chance to avert the initial goal. The scoring was done after 10 minutes and 25 seconds of play in the second period. Just sixty-five seconds later Mackenzie added another goal when Perley failed to stop his shot from outside the defense.

Primroses threw caution to the winds in the third period in a vain attempt to cut down the Winnipeg lead. It was while the Ottawans were in the midst of a fierce attack on the Elmwoods' net that Massey "sneaked" the puck from an Ottawa player behind his own blue line and streaked up the ice with only one defense man to beat. He swept in on Perley and sent the puck whizzing into the net for the third and final goal of the game.

Ottawa did score once, but the referee ruled that the play was offside when Sharp netted the puck and refused to allow the goal. The decision almost precipitated a riot, the fans, who had showered vegetables on the ice a few minutes previously, hurling a fresh supply of missiles onto the playing area.

In their amazing march to the Eastern crown, the Ottawans, banded together for the first time this season, showed surprising co-ordination for a young team to register victory after victory. But in Elmwoods they met a systematized attack which overshadowed their own and inevitable demgoralization followed. In place of their usual fast-passing attack, Primroses presented a machine with solo dashes its major weapon, and therein lies the story of their defeat.

SCHOOLS BURNED AT GRAND FORKS

Buildings at Sandcreek and Outlook Make 19 Destroyed in Past Few Years.

IN DOUKHOBOR DISTRICT.

NELSON, B.C., March 28. — One Doukhobor school at Outlook and a Public School at Sandcreek, a short distance from Grand Forks, were a mass of flames at midnight, a long distance telephone message received here this morning reported. Flames broke out in the two buildings almost simultaneously about 11.30 o'clock last night. Both were of frame construction.

Doukhobors who have been causing trouble of late in the Grand Fork and Nelson districts are believed by the police to be responsible for the conflagrations.

Police officers had made an inspection of the Outlook School two hours before flames suddenly enveloped it. It is the third time in recent years that the Outlook school house has been destroyed by fire.

Destruction of the Outlook and Sandcreek school buildings this morning brings the total number of schoolhouses that have fallen prey to flames in this district in the past few years to 19. No Doukhobor pupils attended the Sandcreek school.

Wilbur Good will again manage the Johnstown club of the Middle Atlantic League. At the age of 42 he still plays.

Joe Bird, catcher, who attempted a comeback with the Pirates, was released after two weeks in camp.

Team Standing—Men's City League Five Pin

	First	Second
Big Five	31	17
Rangers	24	25
Canadiens	28	25
Lucky Strikes	27	21
Bowlrites	20	23
Westclox	13	17
x Belmonts	11	4
Night Hawks	9	13
x Cognawagas	8	19
Brintons	9	12

x—Postponed game.

The above list shows the final team standing in the City League with the exception of a postponed game between the Cognawagas and the Belmonts, the result of which has no bearing on the play-offs, and which will be played off on Tuesday of next week. The Big Five are firmly rooted in first place in the first half with the Canadiens on the second rung of the ladder, three points behind. In the second half the Canadiens and Rangers are tied for the leading honors with 25 points apiece while the Bowlrites are next in line with 23. The Canadiens and Rangers will break the tie in the last half and if the former win they will forfeit their second place position in the first section thereby enabling the Lucky Strikes to move up into the charmed circle.

Although no definite date has been set for the final duels, it is more than likely that these will be staged on Thursday of next week at the usual league hours, but regardless of when they are played, followers of five pins are assured of a series bristling with action, when the leaders clash.

John Playford's league triple of 909 made a few weeks back is a new record for this league, last year's highest total being in the neighborhood of 850, while his single of 410 made at the same time is another high mark that will undoubtedly stand for some time in this loop. Joe Marsden, one of the most consistent of the old-timers is well up again this season, being only four pins down on Playford in the triple totals. Fred Hickey with 892, Bill Sweetman with 882 and Vince O'Connell with 843 are the next three highest.

Three enthusiastic exponents of the ten pin game namely, Bud Weese, Vince Anthony and Fred Hickey indulged in a friendly game last night for unknown stakes, using only the left hand to propel the big sphere down the aisles. Nothing further, however can be reported on this game as the score sheets dissappeared mysteriously.

Four teams in the Brinton Carpet company are setting a new record for keen competition in five pins, as with only two more nights to go the standing puts the Spool Axminster team in first place with 18 points while the other three crews are tied for second with 16 points apiece.

Today 35 bowlers from the Canadian General Electric plant will motor to Toronto to battle with the Toronto Davenport Works bowlers in the return games of the annual Inter-Works five pin tournament. The locals will be the guests of the Queen City trundlers in the afternoon at the Hamilton-Truro hockey game at the Arena. A banquet will follow the game and the bowling games will be run off at night.

American League President Dies Suddenly

Inside Sportin' Dope—By A. Wise Cracker

Mister Sporting Editor:

Well, Mac, it looks now as if my selections in the cash and carry playoff serious has pretty near wrecked the whole Canadian section of the same. This is Thurs., p.m., and I can't tell what's going to happen tonite, but right now the outlook ain't none too brilliant. I called the Flying Frenchmen, the Leaves and the Maroons to weather the 1st round, and look what happened Tues. nite! The Maroons was smothered 5 to 1 down in New York, and spotting the Rangers 4 markers in a 2-game serious looks like the quickest way of retiring for the season I can think of for the moment. The Maroons, even without the peppery Mister Hooley Smith, had been going great guns, but somebody musta put a sleeping powder in their soup the other nite. The Canadiens, too, took it on the chin, but Mister Morenz and his pals outplayed the chesty Bruins most of the journey, and was only nosed out after nearly 20 mins. overtime. The Canucks ain't out yet—even if I did handicap them by calling them to win.

As for the Leaves and the Chicago Black Hawks, Mac, the only consolation a lotta folks got outa Tuesday's game was they hadn't been able to get a ticket for the settoo. The way it was Foster Hewitted the other nite it sounded about as lively as a tiddley-winks tournament. The Hawks just keep dropping droves of players over the boards with orders to tie up the Leaves, and apparently they did just what they was told. Mister Smythe's machine apparently crumpled along the much touted kid line, for the youngsters not only failed to brake into the score sheet but both the Chicago goals was scored when they were out on the ice. The veterans got both the Toronto markers, and tied the Hawks up during their turn of duty, so that's that. Looks like them 2 soft games the Leaves finished up with kinda give 'em the idea they was just going to coast into the 2nd round. If they ain't lost that theory by this time they're dumb enough to deserve to lose to-night.

Since my last, Mac, a senior ball club has moved outa the nowhere into here—at least a coupla stout-hearted citizens with a bank roll has promised to supply the necessary jack, and that looks like action. The players is here and raring to go, so the Rangers look like a sure bet for the Central doings. This town didn't look natural last year without a sr. team, and climbing back into the majors will please a lotta fans, including

LOUGHRAN DEFEATS GRIFFITHS FOR 7TH CONSECUTIVE VICTORY

Quaker Boxer Earns Decision of Judges in Ten Round Battle.

CUSTOMERS SATISFIED.

CHICAGO, Ill., March 28.—(CP)—Tommy Loughran, the maker of boxing from Philadelphia, is still at large on his ambitious raid through the ranks of the heavyweights, and his latest victim is tough Gerald Ambrose Griffiths of Sioux City, Ia.

Loughran, with eleven years of campaigning behind him, last night gave the youthful Griffiths a boxing lesson in ten rounds, in the feature event of Chicago stadium's second anniversary show, to add the Iowan to a list of seven straight conquests which included Max Baer, Ernie Schaaf, Dick Daniels and King Levinsky.

The task was a little more difficult than usual, however, for the weaving bobbing Griffiths offered a poor target during the first four rounds, and the decision was not unanimous. The judges cast their votes for the former light heavyweight champion, while Referee Dave Barry called it a draw.

Andy High, Carmen Hill, Pete Scott and George Binder balked on joining Rochester. High and Hill will remain with the Cards; Scott was sold to Jersey City and Minder returned to Houston.

Winner of To-night's Battle Will Enter Stanley Cup Finals.

RANGERS AT CHICAGO.

New Yorkers and Hawks Evenly Matched For Sunday's Game.

TORONTO, Ont., Mar. 28. (By Geo. Maguire, C. P. Sports Writer). Standing all square with one victory apiece, Les Canadiens of Montreal and Boston Bruins, renew their spectacular feud for the championship of the National Hockey League at Montreal to-night after playing two thrilling games at Boston.

The Bruins, staging one of the greatest comebacks ever witnessed in Stanley Cup annals, won the first tussle, 5 to 4, after 78 minutes of hockey which bordered on the sensational at times.

Early in the third period of this memorable struggle the Habitants basked in the spotlight with a three goal lead, which melted quickly before the furious drives of their opponents near the finish.

Undaunted the Canucks, conquerors of the Bostonians in the Stanley Cup final last season, came right back to win the second test on Thursday by one to nothing in regulation time. Howie Morenz, the greatest satellate in the game today, and his team mate George Hainsworth were injured in the second match, but are reported ready to take their places to-night.

The championship and the right to enter the Stanley Cup final goes to the team winning three games. This makes it certain Montreal fans will see at least two more of these great struggles.

Rangers at Chicago

On Sunday night the Stanley Cup drama switches to Chicago where the Blackhawks of that city and New York Rangers tangle in the cup semi-final.

Rangers earned the right to meet the Hawks by vanquishing Montreal Maroons in two straight games to pile up an eight to one margin on the round. The Chicagoans produced plenty of gloom in Toronto by downing the Maple Leafs, 4 to 3. The first game ended in a two-all stalemate at Toronto with the Hawks winning the return at Chicago, 2 to 1, after almost 20 minutes extra play.

The Hawks are in the same position as were the Leafs. The latter had defeated the Windy City puck chasers in all four league games but failed when victory meant so much more. Now the Hawks are meeting the team they whipped regularly through the regular season and perhaps the Rangers will duplicate the act performed by the Chicagoans in the first round play-offs.

Following Sunday's game the teams entrain for New York where they meet again on Tuesday. Unlike the league final, goals count on the round in this series.

League Tie Likely Shattered To-Night

TORONTO, Ont., March 28 (C.P.).—The three-cornered tie for the leadership in the International Hockey League's play-off series is just about certain to be shattered to-night. Two games are scheduled and the three leading teams will all swing into action.

Windsor Bulidogs who trounced Cleveland Indians on Thursday at the Border City to enter the contending class journey to the Ohio city to-night for the return match. The Bulldogs finished the regular season in second place behind the Buffalo Bisons and are expected to repeat their triumph over the Indians who didn't meet with any marked success against Herbie Mitchell's smart band of puck-chasers at any stage of the race.

In the other game Buffalo entertains the fading Pittsburgh Yellow Jackets. The Bisons beat the Smoke Eaters 3 to 0 in Pittsburgh on Thursday and are unlikely to lose at home. The Bisons, Bulldogs, and Indians are the three teams with one victory to their credit.

"KID" FRANCIS LOSES TO FIDEL LA BARBA

Unanimous Decision Goes to Coast Featherwegiht After New York Battle.

NEW YORK, N.Y., Mar. 28.—(C.P.)— Fidel La Barba, Los Angeles veteran, had evened his score with Kid Francis of Italy to-day and was steaming ahead at full speed toward a "shot" at the world's featherweight championship.

The one-time flyweight champion of the world fought a well-planned, cagey battle to whip Francis decisively and in a ten round bout in Madison Square Garden last night even thought the scanty crowd of 7,800 cash customers didn't like it. About two years ago in Paris, Francis had punched out a decision over La Barba in 15 rounds.

The Associated Press score card gave La Barba six round and Francis two, with two even.

La Barba scaled 125 pounds, Francis 122½.

GETS 6 MONTHS FOR ARSON

HAMILTON, Ont., March 28. — Henry Tosh, Appleby farmer, was found guilty of arson in Police Court at Burlington this morning and sentenced to a term of 6 months determinate and 18 months indeterminate in the Ontario Reformatory.

Tosh occupied a house which was destroyed by fire, including the contents. Neighbors raised a fund to reestablish him but inquiries revealed that insurance had been placed on the destroyed goods and that the blaze was of incendiary origin.

ERNEST S. BARNARD SUCCUMBS FROM SUDDEN HEART ATTACK

Deceased Had Been In Poor Health Since American League Convention in December.

56 YEARS OLD.

Ban Johnson, Former Head of American League, Dies in St. Louis Hospital.

CHICAGO, Ill., March 28 (C.P.).—Grief prevails throughout the baseball world to-day over the sudden death of Ernest S. Barnard, president of the American Baseball League. He died yesterday afternoon, the victim of a heart attack at the Mayo Brothers' Clinic at Rochester, Minn.

The baseball leader had been in apparently good health until the time of the annual meeting of the American League in New York last December, when he suffered an attack of influenza. He continued his work, however, against the advice of his physicians until the meeting was over. Then he went to Florida for a brief rest before starting his annual inspection tour of the American League training camps.

Mr. Barnard's health, however, had not returned to normal, and he decided to consult the Mayos, believing he was suffering from stomach trouble. He reached Rochester on Wednesday. His case was diagnosed immediately by specialists as heart disease. He was ordered to bed, but was not informed of the seriousness of his condition. He was resting easily and in apparently no distress when he was seized with a violent attack and passed away while his wife was at his bedside talking with him.

Was 56 Years Old.

Barnard, who was 56 years old, succeeded Byron Bancroft Johnson as second president of the American League in November, 1927, after Johnson's quarrels with Kenesaw Mountain Landis, commissioner of baseball, caused the baseball owners to virtually oust him from the office he had held since the organization of the league.

By strange coincidence, Johnson is now gravely ill at a hospital in St. Louis and attending physicians expect his death any day.

William Harridge, secretary of the league, left last night for Rochester to take care of the funeral arrangements. Mr. Barnard formerly lived in Cleveland and his burial probably will be held there on Tuesday. He is survived only by his widow and his mother.

Pending the election of another president, the office probably will be administered by Frank J. Navin, the owner of the Detroit Club, and vice-president of the league, with the assistance of Secretary Harridge. Harridge was chosen secretary at the time of Mr. Barnard's election, and previously had served Ban Johnson as private secretary.

BAN JOHNSON DEAD

ST. LOUIS, Mar. 28. (CP)—Ban Johnson, 67, former president of the American baseball league, who built baseball to its commanding position as the national pastime of the United States, died at St. John's Hospital here at 8.10 o'clock this morning from diabetes and complications.

RANCH FENCING NEAR COMPLETION

Old Colony Lake Fur Company to Conduct Operations on Larger Scale.

NORWOOD, March 28.—(Examiner Correspondence)—The Old Colony Lake Fur Company is about ready to take the fifty acres of land purchased from A. R. Wigmore into their ranch enclosure. The work of ditching and fencing which has been going on since last October is about completed. This will give much more space for larger operations on this ranch.

W.M.S. Meets.

The April meeting of the W.M.S. of the United Church was held at the home of Mrs. W. A. Richardson, Peterborough street, and took the form of an Easter meeting.

The president, Mrs. Stillman, was in charge for the opening exercises following which the meeting was in charge of Mrs. Richardson's group and Mrs. J. G. Keefer presided. Mrs. Frank Jenkins and Mrs. Basil Tucker gave readings and Mrs. Roy Brown rendered a delightful Easter solo. Mrs. R. G. Lawlor gave a very helpful and instructive Easter story. The Easter thankoffering was taken and Mrs. Stillman closed the meeting with prayer. Lunch was served and a social hour enjoyed. A vote of thanks was tendered Mrs. Richardson for her hospitality in opening her home to the ladies.

CHURCH TEAM NOSES OUT "Y" SENIORS 10-9

Superior Offense and Combination Display Accounts for Saints' Victory.

BLUE PETES OUTSED 17-4

De Laval Wins City Championship Honors from P.C.I. Squad 28-25

St. Paul's are Ladies' Senior Basketball champions of the city. They were opposed by the seemingly mountainous "Y" Senior outfit and the clever little church team were just good enough to nose out a 10-9 win.

Both teams were quite evenly matched but the seniors had the advantage in size and weight and continually kept intercepting opposition passes to come dangerously near scoring. St. Paul's on the other hand showed a nicer attack and much smoother basket work. Each one of their tallies was a close-in try and it was nice combination that carried the ball to the basket.

Maizie Cowan leads way.

No individual star showed up for the Saints but Maizie Cowan led the way with 8 points and "Toady" Patterson added another to make the total ten Arleigh Comstock played her usual steady game at centre and received several assists on baskets scored. Jeannett Allin and Edna Morrow left little to be desired on defence and any close in tallies by the seniors were richly deserved. The "Y" team also had its starry performers, and Irene Robinson, Eva Armstrong and Hazel Jackson, besides turning in fine cards, were responsible for their team's entire total. A bit of loose basket work hurt the team and several fine chances were lost.

Play opened rather cautiously, neither squad willing to open up, but the Presbyterians appeared to have a slight advantage and a long pass from Arleigh Comstock to Maizie Cowan allowed the latter to score. Jeannette Allin's foul let Ev. Armstrong's tally a single but Maizie Cowan came right back to tally again and increase the lead. The seniors put on a spurt here and had the opposition pressed back to a standstill for several minutes and Irene Robinson scored a nice shot to end the scoring for the period, giving St. Paul's a 4-3 lead.

Things livened up considerably in the final dash and first one team would lead, then the other. St. Paul's took an early lead again when a nice bit of combination play let Maizie Cowan tally but Hazel Jackson scored a long marker from the defence and Ev. Armstrong added another to give the seniors the lead, 7-6. This was short-lived, however, as "Toady Patterson took a pass from centre for a count and then the seniors came right back to take the lead again when Irene Robinson tallied. The gallant little church team were fighting desperately about this time and Jeannette Allin was having her hands full checking everything that came her way. A nice shot by Maizie Cowan put the Presbyterians one up again and they were able to hold this lead till the final whistle and took the game, 10-9.

The teams: St. Paul's, 10: forwards, C. Patterson, M. Cowan, G. Comstock; centre, A. Comstock; defence, J. Allin, E. Morrow, S. Jackson. "Y" Seniors, 9: forwards, S. Sharpe, M. Holmes, E. Armstrong, K. Haggart; centre, I. Robinson; defence, H. Jackson, G. Hewitt.

Referee, Joe Cooper, Umpire, Carl Routley, Scorer, Helen Cole, Timer, H. Macdonald.

Banish Blue Petes.

In the Junior play-off contest, the "Y" Elementary team met and vanquished the Blue Petes by a 17-4 count. As a result of this win the "Y" team will hold the Junior Trophy for the year.

Till half time the Petes turned in a sterling exhibition and held the more experience Elementary team to a 4-4 tie. After the rest, the Elementary turned on the steam and the Petes began to find things going a bit hard. They were plainly tired and couldn't cope with the opposition attacks, but put up a fine fight and will show up even better next year.

Sybil Ecobichon turned in the highest scoring card, being credited with 11 points. Margaret Simpson, on the other forward accounted for the other 6 markers.

For the losers, Pat McClellan and Betsy Scott showed up well and the latter tallied the entire four points for her team.

The Petes drew first blood when Betsy Scott got free and found the hoop ona close in try and they added another a few minutes later when the same player tallied again.

Sybil Ecobichon kept her team in the running with two nice baskets to close the scoring for the period.

The final fifteen minutes was a grand parade for the Elementary and though the Petes were trying hard to stop them Margaret Simpson and Sybil Ecobichon together garnered thirteen counters. The Elementary being the older team, naturally had the advantage, but great credit should be given the Petes for their determined stand and they will be heard from again.

Blue Petes, 4. "Y" Elementary, 17.

The teams:

Blue Petes, 4: Forwards, M. Rogers, B. Scott, B. Rogers; centre, P. McClellan; defence, K. Caddy, J. Howson, D. Kelly, L. Lundy.

"Y" Elementary, 17: Forwards, M. Simpson, S. Ecobichon; centre, E. Lynch C. Crawford; Defence, C. Millard, P. Coursey, L. McGee, J. Dawson.

Referee, Bim Sturgeon; scorer, Helen Cole; timer, Hec. McLeod.

DeLaval Wins Title.

In the Men's City Series play-offs, the De Laval took the title when they squeezed a 28-25 win over a hard fighting P.C.I. squad. The separator team deserved their victory for in the last few minutes they were forced to play one man short when Palmer was disqualified with fouls but the Collegiate boys crossed everyone when they actually had the better of the play and played heads up ball all the way. The school team had more man power than the opposition and were able to keep up a fast pace while Joe Cooper's famous no-sub team, while playing smart basketball, were tiring noticeably towards the close.

De Laval's forward line of Sturgeon, Routley and Levine again turned in a nice performance, but they were closely checked at all times and weren't allowed to run loose. Sturgeon was high man with 11 points, but Swartz for P.C.I. ran him a close second with 10 markers to his credit.

Cooper turned in a fine performance on defence and had to work overtime when his team was short handed.

The entire school team worked hard all the time but Swartz led the marksmen and Macdonald, Chesler and Art Ward followed in the order mentioned.

Stanger, Reynolds and Chesler proved a bulwark of strength on the rear guard and the opposition found it no easy task to get through.

Play was even from the start, but dead on shooting on the part of the DeLaval gave them a 16-12 lead at half time.

In the final dash, play became quite spirited and fouls were handed out in wholesale lots.

"The Alpha" team showed nice form in this session but the P.C.I. forwards let loose some smooth passing attacks that drew the plaudits of the large gallery of fans.

With the DeLaval playing a man short the school squad tried heavy offensive but after a fine attempt, fell short of a win by 4 points and DeLaval took the contest 28-25.

The teams:

De Laval, 28: Forwards, B. Sturgeon, C. Routley; Centre, Z. Levine; Defence, J. Cooper, G. Palmer.

P.C.I., 25: Forwards, A. Ward, L. Chesler, J. Wolstholme, M. Swartz; Centre, H. Macdonald; Defence, N. Stanger, A. Reynolds.

Referee, C. McLeish; scorer, Helen Cole; timer, Hec. McLeod.

CASUAL COMMENT

Harry Ranger informed us last night that it was due to a misunderstanding that there was no senior representative at the baseball meeting at Duffus' Thursday night.

* * * * * * *

He said he thought the meeting was just an East Peterborough League one, rather than a general baseball get-together. Otherwise, there would have been at least one representative present. Harry hopes to see them all at another general meeting soon.

* * * * * * *

Ranger also said he appreciated very much the offer of the E.P.L. to co-operate with his team, and in turn he said he would help local leagues in any way he could. He was speaking for "Shiner" and the others connected with the senior team.

* * * * * * *

That's good stuff. There should be nothing but harmony in baseball circles around here this year, and a little frank talk and a sporting gesture or two will create the necessary co-operation to make this a big years form Peterborough in baseball.

* * * * * * *

The sports writer on the Belleville paper says there is little doubt but that town will field a senior team this Spring. He says that Kingston has signified their intention to enter, and that Oshawa will likely be right there too. Just like old times, what?

* * * * * * *

The Quinte scribe adds that Hoot Gibson, Alex Weir and Tommy Pointer are available for pitching, and the veteran "Peeney" Mills will likely be ready to don the mask again. While most of the infield and outfield of last year is intact.

* * * * * * *

He also says there is rumor in Belleville that a real sensation in the way of an Indian pitcher is living in that town, and may yet cause fans to forget Jack Williams.

* * * * * * *

The next meeting of the Lakeshore Baseball League will be held on Thursday, April 9, in Port Hope. Things do not look any too promising for that circuit so far, but they may get going at this meeting.

* * * * * * *

Coach Joe Woods of Yale is busy cutting down on his Varsity baseball squad in preparation for their trip through Virginia. Angus MacDonald, well-known Peterborough boy, has been kept on the pitching staff so far, and will probably be retained.

* * * * * * *

"Lefty" was only home for a short time last summer, and.... pitched for the Cogs at that time. Under "Smokey" Joe Woods' coaching, he will develop fast on the mound.

* * * * * * *

There should be a good turnout at the City Baseball League meeting at Duffus' next Monday night. This is the time to start things off, and make any suggestions pertaining to this league.

* * * * * * *

And the East Peterborough Baseball League meets to-night in the Board Room at Duffus' at eight bells to discuss plans for the summer. It is an important meeting for those interested in that league, and should be well attended.

* * * * * * *

The City Five-Pin League begins its play-offs next Thursday night down at the Duffus Bowling Alleys. This league is composed of the cream of five-pin bowlers in the city.

* * * * * * *

It was a happy gathering of young "sports" at the King Edward School banquet last night. The boys from the rival schools, King George and King Edward, are great friends, and get a lot of fun playing each other.

* * * * * * *

While they work their heads off to beat the other in every sport, yet there is no public school either one would sooner lose to. They're fortunate in having Principals Bolton and Munro in charge, and Sports Directors Crawford and Northey to coach them.

Two famous figures in America baseball died within eighteen hours of each other yesterday and to-day. E. S. Barnard, president of the National League, died at 4.30 yesterday afternoon in Rochester, Minn., and Ban Johnson, former president and the man who is really responsible for the American League, passed away this morning in St. Louis. The news will come as a shock to the baseball world.

Six Year Illness Ends.

BAN R. JOHNSON

Perhaps It's a sluggish liver

The death of Ban Johnson in St. Louis this morning ended a six-year quest of health in which Johnson went from hospital to hospital and sanitarium to sanitarium in search of relief from his dread enemy, diabetes.

His final illness had kept him in a hospital bed here since last September, except for a few weeks in January when he apparently was on the road to recovery and was able to go to Hot Springs, Ark. There he suffered a relapse and physicians advised amputation of a leg because of infection.

He returned to St. Louis. Amputation was avoided by a blood transfusion was resorted to February 19.

For a day or two after the transfusion Johnson's condition seemed improved, but both he and his physician soon gave up hope for recovery. He was unconscious and delirious much of the time before the end.

'NEATH SUNNY SKIES

Spicy Bits of Baseball Gossip From Majors' Camps.

Manager Walter Johnson will release three rookie pitchers who have had a spring tryout with the Senators at Biloxi, Miss., Art Fidler, Lanky Canadian, George Grayson from Warrentown, Virginia; and Joe Smith, of Uniontown, Pennsylvania, are due to get the gate shortly. Hadley, Crowder, Brown, Marberry and possibly Liska will start the first two weeks of the flag chase, while Lunn Griffith and Walter Tauscher, youngsters, probably will stick.

Wilbert Robinson, manager of the Brooklyn Robins, has swung the well-known axe and lopped off the heads of seven rookies at Miami, Fla.

John McGraw has gone into an intensive huddle with himself at San Antonio, Tex., and come up with what he says will be the New York Giant's starting lineup.

Terry Critz, Jackson and Vergez will take care of the infield, says John, and Ott, Lindstrom and Leach of the outfield. The catchers, of course, are Frank Hogan and Bob O'Farrell. McGraw doesn't know who'll pitch the first game but he has a hunch it will be Bill Walker.

Philadelphia Athletics were glad to get away from Orlando today, not alone because Cincinnati handed them a defeat yesterday but also because the game placed two more Mackmen on the injured list. Fox already ailing, was forced to leave the game when a swift pitch caught him on the elbow and Dykes was floored by a hot grounder that struck him in the mouth.

The acquisition of Eddie Roush by the Cincinnati Reds has brought a new alignment in the outfield, which probably will shape up like this when the season opens: Nick Culloo in left; Roush in centre, with Cliff Heathcote and Wally Roettger alternating in right, depending upon the brand of pitching the Reds face. Manager Howley expects to go easy with Roush who is scheduled to report Tuesday, but plans to have him in the regular lineup at the start of the season.

Jack Quinn visited Hot Springs this year for the thirteenth straight year. He gets his legs in shape at the resort.

PRIZES AWARDED TO SCHOOL TEAMS

King Edward Students Hosts to Championship Teams at Banquet.

King Edward School boys were hosts last night to the boys from King George at a banquet held at the former school. The spread was prepared and served by the ladies of the King Edward Home and School Association under the direction of Mrs. Groombridge, and was voted a huge success. Boys of the winning relay team and championship football team of King Edward, and the hockey winners of King George were present and had a great time.

Among the guests present were: A. Mowat, public school inspector; Dr. G. R. Scott, of the Board of Education; I. E. R. Munro, principal, and G. Northey, vice-principal of King George; R. J. Bolton, principal, and D. T. Crawford, vice-principal of King Edward; Vince Stewart, president and S. Leith, vice-president of the Peterborough and District Football Association.

S. Leith presented the Alex Kay football cup and the Ford Strickland Eversharp pencils to Capt. Ed Boyler of the football team, and D. T. Crawford presented the hockey trophy to Clarence Lipsett, captain of the hockey team. A number of speeches lauding the two schools, the principals and the sports directors, was made and responded to after the banquet. King George orchestra played several selections, and every one joined in the singing. It was a very enjoyable affair all around.

GUELPH DEFEATED BY NIAGARA FALLS

Cataracts Virtually Clinch Ontario League Championship by 6-3 Victory.

TORONTO, March 28 (By the Canadian Press).—Indications to-day point to Niagara Falls hockeyists garnering at least one championship. Last night the Cataract city entrants in the Ontario Hockey League defeated Guelph Maple Leafs 6 to 3, at Niagara, to gain a stronghold on the title.

Stratford Nationals lent the Cataracts a helping hand by downing their nearest rivals for the honors, Oshawa Pats, 4 to 3, at Stratford.

There was never any doubt about the Niagara team winning for they secured a four-goal lead in the first 30 minutes before the Leafs entered the scoring summary with a brace of markers. Each team notched two more to round out the scoring spree.

Nationals never looked like winning the game with the Pats until they rallied cleverly toward the end. The Pats opened the tilt with a whirlwind attack which netted them three goals in the first frame. Thereafter, however, the Nats had the edge and finally edged out in front.

PENSION TRIBUNAL HEARS TEN CASES

Tribunal Holds Sessions in the City Council Chamber.

Careful and considerate attention was given the claims of ten local pensioners this week, by the Pension Tribunal who sat in the City Council Chamber on Thursday and Friday, under the presidency of W. Grove of Toronto and J. A. McKie of Winnipeg.

Evidence was given by several local medical men and by the pensioners themselves.

The tribunal composed of the above named men was also supported by five representatives of the Pension Commission.

James Abraham, president of the local branch Canadian Legion and chairman of the local Pensions Committee, thanked the tribunal for the impartial way in which the inquiry had been conducted, and the manner in which all the evidence had been carefully reviewed. He was absolutely satisfied that deep thought had been given to the decisions of the tribunal and that such decisions were very fair.

Mr. Abraham stated that he would be pleased to report back to the local branch of the Legion. He also complimented Mr. O'Neill, pensions advocate, for the manner in which he had presented his cases.

CALEDONIANS HEAR ILLUSTRATED TALK

Rev. J. B. McCormack, of Lakefield Gave Splendid Address Last Night.

A large number of Caledonians and their friends met in the Woodmen of the World Hall last evening to enjoy an illustrated travelogue given by the Rev. J. B. McCormack of Lakefield. This travelogue included a trip from Toronto via New York to Liverpool, then an extensive tour through the British Isles.

W. Petrie, president, occupied the chair, and welcomed Mr. McCormack, who needed no introduction, as he had been their speaker on a former occasion.

In England many interesting places were visited in the Manchester district, but Scottish views occupied the greater part. A trip from Glasgow down the water to Rothesay proved very fascinating, especially to those to whom the sights were familiar. The views were wonderfully distinct and clear, and the happy manner and broad accent of the speaker were enjoyed to the full and much appreciated.

Burns' country was traversed, and the speaker here was at his best as he was on familiar ground—Saltcoats being his birthplace, Edinburgh with its beautiful surroundings was shown, also Loch Lomond and Loch Katrine.

Mr. McCormack interspersed his lecture with old Scottish songs, sung by himself in fine voice, with the audience joining in the refrain.

W. Petrie and A. D. Clark voiced their appreciation of the most enjoyable entertainment put on by Mr. McCormack, and mentioned the fact with regret that he would soon be leaving this district.

After the serving of a luncheon by the Executive, an hour was spent in dancing to music supplied by R. Gilmour and G. G. Low.

Next Friday the members will hold a whist party.

EASTER HERO IN DEAD HEAT

Coupe de Chateau and Easter Hero Run Dead Heat in Champion Steeplechase.

PURSE WAS $5,000.

LIVERPOOL, Eng., Mar. 28. (CP) Easter Hero, owned by John Hay Whitney, who fell yesterday in the Grand National, to-day ran a dead heat with J. J. Drake's Coupe De Chateau in the champion steeplechase.

The race was at two miles and seven and a half furlongs, over a mile and a half shorter than the gruelling Grand National course.

The purse was $5 000.

R. Greeson's Tide was third. Fourteen ran.

Easter Hero showed no effects of yesterday's grind, was well up with the leaders throughout. He was over the last fence behind Coupe De Chateau but challenged last few strides to get his nose even at the wire.

Despite the disappointment of yesterday Easter Hero was the favorite at nine to four, with Coupe De Chateau 20 to one.

Large Crowds Attend Detroit Boat Show

According to letters received from Fred Roy who is at present at the Detroit Motor Boat Show attending the Trent Waterways-Iroquois Trail exhibit there are large crowds in attendance at the show. The motion pictures are proving to be more popular than ever and literature on this district is very much in demand. The oil painting of Rice Lake from Gore's Landing is attracting a great deal of attention.

Mr. Roy also states that there is evidence of a very fine class of people who have signified their intention of spending their holidays either in Peterborough on the Kawartha Lakes or on a trip through the Trent Canal. Most of the prospective tourists will come by car though a substantial number have stated that they will arrive here in their cruisers.

MARKET JOB IS GIVEN BRADSHAW

Peterborough Fuel and Transfer Company Awarded the Coal Contract.

ICE CONTRACT IS LET.

Alderman Tuggey's motion, made in Council in February, that Peterborough fall in line with several other city councils throughout the Dominion to urge the Government to make December 26 a holiday, was thrown out last night at a meeting of the Legal Committee. The alderman held that workmen should be permitted to get in every day of work possible. There was very little discussion, Chairman Fitzpatrick stating that he could not see in what manner the holiday would benefit clerks in retail stores.

Wellington Bradshaw was appointed Market clerk for the year. His tender for the job was $650, as compared with the tender of $650 put in by Walter Fisher, former clerk. Last year Fisher paid $800 for the privilege of collecting the market tolls.

The tender the the Peterborough Fuel and Transfer, of 45 tons of Red Jacket coal for the City Hall at $7.70 was accepted. Tenders for coaling the Fire Hall were held up to be dealt with by the Fire, Water and Light Commission.

The tender for the servicing of the ice reservoirs in the city parks during the summer was given the Sanitary Ice Company at $196. The Allin Ice Company's tender was $199.

The lights on the Market clock will soon turn on automatically, since the Property Committee gave Chairman Holland authority to purchase a time clock for this purpose.

Tenders for coal were;

McCarthy and Johnston—For the Fire Hall, 70 tons of slack coal, $6.49; for City Hall, 45 tons of Red Jacket two inch lump at $7.85; 2 inch by 4 inch Red Jacket at $7.65 and Pathfinder, 2 inch at $7.33.

W. Scott—Fire Hall, 70 tons of slack coal at $6.55 and $7.70; City Buildings, Red Jacket coal at $7.45 and $7.65.

Springfield And Boston Teams Set Record For Playing Longest Tie Game In History

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Mar. 28.—The Springfield and Boston teams of the Canadian-American hockey league today were credited with having played the longest no-decision game in the history of the game. Six thousand groggy fans last night watched the groggy players battle for two hours and forty minutes, and, at the end, went home leaving the teams deadlocked in a 2-2 tie.

Springfield, winner of the regular Canadian-American League race, tallied on goals by Saunders and Carrigan in the first period, but failed again to pass Benny Grant, Boston goalie. Boston scored in the second frame, when Burke tied the score.

A regular ten minute overtime period followed, then four 20 minutes sudden death frames. Still the score was unbroken and the teams agreed to play one more sudden death period of 10 minutes. Nothing happened. The players were wilting. The referees called the game a tie. The teams will meet again tonight in Boston.

As the result of a rationalization policy adopted b ya group of Scottish shipbuilders, Beardmore's shipyard at Dalmuir, Scotland, which originally cost $5,000,0000, was turned out some of the finest naval craft during the World war, has been sold under the hammer.

THE SON OF TARZAN No. 24 (Metropolitan Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.) By Edgar Rice Burroughs

His first night in the jungle was one which the son of Tarzan held longest in his memory. No savage beasts menaced him; there was no sign of hideous barbarians. But crouched close to the great ape in the crotch of the tree, the boy shivered through a sleepless night. Fear had thrust him into the jungle, a fugitive, and because of the murder by the ape he thought he could never return to his parents to bring shame upon their honored name.

Self-blame plunged him into deep misery. Through the night he longed to die, but with the rising sun his spirits rose. He would return to civilization by another way, avoiding the little trading place where even now the body of the stranger so mysteriously slain was being discovered. He shook Akut into wakefulness. "Come," he said, "I am cold and hungry. We must search for food out there."

He pointed to the open plain and slid to the ground. The ape looked carefully about first, sniffing the morning air. Then, satisfied that no danger lurked near, he descended slowly to the boy's side. "Numa and Sabor, his mate, feast upon those who descend first and look afterward," said the old ape, giving the son of Tarzan his first lesson in jungle lore. Side by side they set off across the rough plain running until the boy was warm.

Some eggs they found and these he sucked raw, as also he ate the roots and tubers which Akut unearthed. The ape contented himself with some rodents and worms he dug up. Beyond the plain across a low bluff they found a shallow water hole. A herd of zebra galloped away as they approached to drink. Akut now took the lead, the boy following close upon its heels, his every sense alert, his nerves keyed to a high pitch of excitement. This was life!

ANSWERS FOUR CALLS

The members of the Fire Department had a busy hour and a half this morning when they answered four calls from different parts of the city, all for chimney fires. This necessitated two sets of apparatus being pressed into service, and one of them going straight from one fire to another.

At 9.10 this morning an alarm was sent in from 550 Romaine street for a chimney fire. Another call was answered at 9.34 for a similar fire at 205 Park Hill Road. Chemicals were used to extinguish both fires. An alarm from 531 Parnell street was sent in at 10.30 and another was received from 91 Park street south at 10.43 a.m. also for chimney fires.

Plan To Complete Highway This Year

DETROIT, Mich., March 28 (C.P.)—Completion this year of the 204-foot super-highway between Detroit and Pontiac was predicted by Governor Wilber M. Brucker after a conference with Sir Henry Thornton, President of the Grand Trunk Western and Canadian Nationals Railways, in which final difficulties in the way of consummation of the $5,000,000 project were cleared away.

The Governor said the final link will be constructed this fall, thus completing the project only a year behind schedule, in spite of unforseen circumstances that have arisen since the first steps were taken in 1925. Actual construction was begun in 1927, and six miles of pavement remain to be laid this year.

7,345 CITIZENS NOW EMPLOYED IN PETERBORO'

C. A. Salmonsen Gives Some Interesting Figures Concerning This City.

1,400 IN STORES.

If statistics prove anything, they certainly assisted C. A. Salmonsen, general works manager of the Canadian General Electric Company's Peterborough plant, in clinching a strong and conclusive argument in which he carefully analyzed the economic and industrial situation as it obtains in this city, and dispelled any illusion which may be fostered concerning abnormal trade depression.

Mr. Salmonsen's address delivered before the Royal Arch Masons at the Masonic Hall last evening sounded a clarion note of optimism, based on hard solid and indisputable facts.

These facts compiled through the courtesy of the local Chamber of Commerce was a labor of two weeks, and the figures which they embodied covered almost every phase of the city's industrial and business activity.

For instance, they give the present employment figures for this city of some 23,000 people, engaged in the 68 different industries here represented as 3,974, as compared with 4,625 normally. It must be observed, however, that the difference between these two figures does not indicate anything more than a 10 per cent. decrease in the normal figures of employment, as even at the peak of prosperity there is a certain amount of unemployment in various trades of a more or less seasonal nature.

The total number of employed persons in the city at the present time, including the various trades, professions, and businesses is given as 7,345, made up of 5,310 males and 2,035 females.

The restaurant and hotel trade alone employs a total of 146 persons, there being eight hotels and twelve restaurants.

Educational institutions throughout the city find employment for some 222 persons, the largest percentage of which are women, while the eighteen insurance companies here employ 101 persons.

It is interesting to note that a very minute percentage of persons are engaged in the preservation of law and order, including thirteen police officers, fourteen barristers, and seven other officials.

Service stations and garages, of which there are 44 in Peterborough, find work for 198 people, while the city's 280 merchants give employment to 1,400.

At the present time the Canadian General Electric Company's employment roll records 1,176 males and 185 females a total of 1,361.

The total population of Peterborough County is given as 40,786, made up of 36 per cent. rural, 8 per cent. in villages, and 54 per cent. in this city.

IN MEMORIAM.

In loving remembrance of Helen Pease Langton, who went to be with Jesus 2 years ago to-day;
That morning the Saviour came
And walked among the flowers,
He touched the lillies one by one
And took this one of ours.

And now you are a glorious angel dear
In unseen realms above,
But you are just our little Helen
God knows how much we loved.

We loved our precious darling
But Jesus loved her more,
We'll meet her in the morning
On that eternal shore.
—Sadly Missed By Mother, Daddy, Sister and Brother.

IN MEMORIAM

LANGTON—In loving remembrance of Helen and Phyllis Langton who went to be with Jesus; Helen 2 years ago and Phyllis 6 months ago.

The Lord opened wide his portals
And tenderly He bade them come,
And two loving smiling faces
Entered His Heavenly home.

Although I miss them daily
And would love to clasp their hands,
But some day we will surely meet them
And then we will understand.

We shall sleep, but not forever;
There will be a glorious day—
We shall meet to part, no never,
On that resurrection day.
—Sadly missed by Mother.

IN MEMORIAM.

BLODGETT. — In sad and loving memory of Leonard Blodgett, who died March 29th, 1927, aged 10 years and 9 months.

Peaceful be thy sleep, dear son,
It is sweet to breathe thy name;
In life we loved you dearly,
In death we do the same.

Oft we think of you, dear son,
And our hearts are sad with pain;
Oh, this would be a Heaven
Could we hear your voice again.

ou are gone, but not forgotten,
Never shall your memory fade;
Sweetest thoughts shall ever linger
Around the grave where you are laid.

There is a mother who misses you sadly,
And finds the time long since you went
And I think of you daily and hourly,
But try to be brave and content.

But the tears that I shed in silence,
And I breathe a sigh of regret,
For you were mine, and I remember,
Though all the world forget.

City Relief Grants Extended Month

CITY OFFICIALS TO DECIDE FORM WORK WILL TAKE

City Clerk Receives Definite Word From J. A. Ellis in Toronto.

MONIES ALL SPENT.

Formerly Provincial Aid Was to Lapse at the End of March.

Definite word reached City Clerk Armstrong to-day from J. A. Ellis, chairman of the Provincial Relief Committee, that the period of relief assistance for Peterborough from the Government had been extended one month. Previously the limit for moneys from the Provincial Treasury for relief had been set for the end of March, but at the city's request this has been extended to the end of April..

What form this relief will take Mr. Armstrong could not state, but a conference of city officials will be held first thing to-morrow to consider the details further. Mr. Armstrong said that the amount allotted to Peterborough for unemployment relief work, such as laying surface drains, had been expended.

He said that the direct relief will be extended the extra month, but whether the city will be able to undertake any work is not certain as yet.

The need for relief here has not shown any decrease, Mr. Armstrong stated. On the other hand he said that each week it was rolling up new maximums.

MAKING READY LEGATION HOME

Repairs and General Clean-up Being Done at Canada's Home in Washington.

VACANT NEARLY A YEAR.

WASHINGTON, D.C., March 30.—(C.P.)— The Canadian Legation, which has been in disuse, except for the Chancery, since the departure of Hon. Vincent Massey and Mrs. Massey almost a year ago, is being refurnished in the prospect of the coming of the new Minister, Major W. D. Herridge.

The oaken panelling, heavily carved, which walls the hall and dining room on the second floor is being carefully dusted and polished. The chairs in the three drawing rooms are bright with new summer chintz. The white elephants, having no relation to the Republican party, as they stand on the magnificent mantel over the fire-place on the third floor, have again become white.

Necessary repairs are being made to the roof and the windows. The whole building is being cleaned and necessary redecorations are being attended to so that when Major Herridge comes to Washington his Canadian home will be completely ready to receive him even to the sardonic and again clear grins of the satyrs who support the hall lights above their curly marble heads.

Cell succeeded Sentiment Call

BOSTON, Mass., Mar. 30 (C.P.) — The long arm of co-incidence reached out the other night and gathered Raffael Angelo In. Raffael was attending a movie, at which Policewoman Irene McAuliffe was also spending part of her leisure time. The dim lights, the soft music, and the vicarious emotions aroused by the screened drama did things to Angelo. He stretched out his right arm and placed it gently around the waist of the comely woman who sat beside him and whispered tender words in her ear. Her responses were not so tender. Angelo was picked up by the neck and deposited in the aisle. There he grew pugilistic to no avail. The thriller on the screen flickered on unwatched as the audience turned with interest to observe the battle in the aisle. It ended when the youth was hauled from the movie house to police headquarters, where he was booked on a charge of assault.

The recipient of Raffael's attentions was Policewoman McAuliffe.

NATIONALISTS RATIFY TRUCE WITH VICEROY

Congress Condemns British Govt's Attempts to Separate Burma.

ENDORSE CLOTH BOYCOTT.

Situation Quietens in Cawnpore After Period of Rioting and Murders.

KARACHI, India, March 30.—(AP) The Delhi truce between Mahatma Ganhdi and Viceroy Irwin ending the civil disobedience campaign was ratified by the entire assembly of the all-India national congress today.

Resolutions, couched in vigorous terms, condemning attempts of the British Government to separate Burma from India and endorsing the economic boycott by India of foreign cloth were passed here to-day by the all-Indian subjects committee. The committee is a miniature Nationalist Congress, made up of 300 delegates from Provincial Congress throughout India.

Seeking Oil

In framing the resolutions, Jawaharial Nehru, their author, declared it is not gold and silver that nations are seeking to-day, but oil.

The move toward separation for Burma from India it was charged in the resolutions, Seems to be deliberately engineered to perpetuate British domination there so as to make Burma, together with Singapore, by reason of the presence of oil there, an imperialism in Eastern Asia.

CITIES OPPOSING FIREMEN'S BILL TO SET UP FUND

Deputation From Ontario Cities Appear Before House Committee.

BILL IS THROWN OUT.

City Council Brands the Bill as Unnecessary—Include all Branches.

Along with other cities in Ontario Peterborough has a deputation, headed by Mayor Denne, in Toronto today to voice this city's opposition to the Firemen's Superannuation and Benefit Funds' bill which comes before the Municipal Laws Committee of the Onario Legislature.

Peterborough's council is solidly opposed to the bill which would cost this city $26 000 as the original outlay to start and at least two percent of the firemen's salaries annually. According to the bill, the fund is to be established by 1933.

Should Include all Branches

The local Council brand the bill as unnecessary and maintain that if superannuation is to be established it should provide for all city servants and not merely one branch of the civic service.

Word reached the Council last week that there had been considerable lobbying for the bill and that it would take a united voice by the cities to keep it from passing the House and becoming law. To-day Mayor Swayze of Niagara Falls marshalled his opposition forces to the bill which came from: Kitchener, Chatham, Woodstock, Galt, Walkerville, Windsor, Peterborough, Guelph, St. Catharines, Brantford, Kingston and Sarnia.

E. J. Murphy member for Toronto-St. Patricks, who introduced the bill, maintains that it was simply an insurance scheme for the benefit of men engaged in a particularly hazardous occupation. In addition to providing a superannuation allowance the bill provides for payments to men injured permanently or temporarily.

BILL THROWN OUT.

TORONTO, March 30. — After a couple of city representatives had been heard, Austin Smith, (Conservative, Essex South), said the committee was satisfied and moved the bill be thown out. W. E. N. Sinclair, Liberal, said he thought some steps should be taken to study the bill before the next session.

The bill was forcing a liability on the municipalities against their wishes, said Hon. Leopold McAulay, Ontario Provincial Secretary, suggested the Firemen's Association should confer with the Ontario Muncipal Association and try to work out a voluntary scheme with the cities.

The Bill was defeated by a vote of four to two.

LOSS OF FORTUNE ENDS IN SHOOTING

Rochester Man Kills Wife, Brother-in-law, Then Turns Gun on Self.

FOUND 40 HOURS LATER.

ROCHESTER, N. Y, Mar. 30.—His hopes of a comeback in the stock market apparently abandoned and faced with growing despair at the loss of his home, Fred O. Morse, 65, shot and killed his wife and brother-in-law, and then turned the revolver on himself, according to police reconstruction of the triple tragedy today.

The bodies of Mrs. May Morse, 61, her brother Loren G. Cushman, 59, and her husband were found yesterday, more than forty hours after the shootings. Cushman held a copy of Friday's paper in his hand and the body of Mrs. Morse was on the bed, fully clothed.

Police said positions of the bodies and a revolver near Morse indicated he had slain his wife and her brother and then killed himself.

BREATH SMELLER WILL AID POLICE

Latest Device Registers Any Degree of Drunkeness By Detecting Alcohol.

HARD ON DRUNKEN DRIVERS.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., March 30 (C.P.). — A new scientific breath-smeller is ready for use by police, enforcement officers, and suspicious spouses.

It registers any degree of drunkenness, merely by catching some of the drinker's breath, and is so sensitive that it detects alcohol even when all odor is expurgated from the breath.

A description of the apparatus was made public to-day by the American Chemical Society at whose meeting here it will be demonstrated this week in the act of trapping alcoholic breath. It was perfected by Dr. R. N. Harger of the Medical School of the University of Indiana.

The suspected breath is blown into a ten-cent-store toy balloon. From there it is bubbled through a red liquid, which speedily turns almost white if there is alcohol.

Should the drinker object to blowing balloons, it is only necessary to hold a small glass suction tube within an inch or two of his nose or mouth. Even if the tube sucks in ten times as much outside air as exhalation, the bubbler still works accurately.

Dr. Harger said that need for testing drunken drivers of automobiles was responsible for producing the breath-smeller. He credited Emil Bogen, M.D., of Cincinnati, with starting the breath indexing method.

Wolves Ravage Deer In North Victoria

LINDSAY, March 30 (Special to The Examiner). — Settlers in the northern part of Victoria are again reporting the presence of wolf packs and of the slaughter of deer by these animals during the winter months. Archie Taggart, who resides in Somerville Township, has deposited the pelt of a large dog wolf with County Clerk and Treasurer Weldon. This wolf, which was a member of a pack of ten, was caught in a trap. The others have since made themselves scarce. Deer were reported quite plentiful in the northern part of the county during the winter, but according to reports reaching Lindsay, wolves have wiped them out.

DR. McWILLIAMS DIES IN TORONTO

Old Peterborough Boy Succumbs Following a Brief Illness.

SPLENDID WAR RECORD.

TORONTO, March 30. — Another veteran of the Great War and a noted local physician attached to the civic Department of Health is dead. Dr. Victor H. McWilliams, 288 Russell Hill Road, died, following a brief illness, in Grace Hospital early yesterday.

Dr. McWilliams had a splendid record of war service, and at the outset of hostilities joined the Royal Army Medical Corps, and served with it in Egypt and France. He later returned to Canada, and was attached to the C.A.M.C. at Camp Borden, and recently was Adjutant at the Base Hospital, Gerrard Street East.

Service in Siberia

In 1919 he again joined the R.A.M.C. and went to Siberia with the British Expeditionary Force, and on his return became a District Medical Officer in the Department of Health. During his arm service he was a great friend to the boys in the ranks.

He was widely known in sport circles, and was a member of the Rosedale Golf Club, and was one of the original members of the Granite Club. He was an ardent bowler and curler. In his early days he played lacrosse with Peterborough and rugby with Varsity.

Born in Peterborough

Dr. McWilliams was born in Peterborough 54 years ago, and was educated in that city and at the University of Toronto. On graduating from University of Toronto he practised medicine for some few years at Keene. He is survived by his widow, Josephine Sheppard McWilliams; his mother, Mrs. J. B. McWilliams; a brother, Theodore; and a sister, Mrs. J. B. Miller, all of Peterborough, and another brother, R. F. McWilliams of Winnipeg.

The funeral will be held from his late residence on Tuesday at 1.30 o'clock, leaving by motor for Peterborough after a service at the home. Another service will be held at the residence of his brother, 542 Gilmour street, on Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock, following which interment will be made at Little Lake Cemetery.

$50,000 WILL BE SPENT ON LOCAL BELL EXPANSION

J. H. Brace, Bell Executive, Tells Rotary of Plans for Development Here.

RAPID PROGRESS.

Fascinating Story of Growth of Long Distance Service is Eloquently Told.

The Bell Telephone Company intends to expend $50,000 in expanding its services in Peterborough, J. H. Brace, general manager of the Western area of the Bell Company told the Peterborough Rotary Club when he addressed the members at noon to-day. "And $50,000 in a city of this size is a notable item in any budget in this year 1931," commented Mr. Brace.

Incidentally the visiting speaker expressed relief that Mayor Denne was not present. The city's Chief Magistrate, he said, had been on his trail during other visits to urge that some unsightly telephone poles should be removed and he was glad to say that the offending objects were programed to come down. "I had hoped they would be out of the way before I got to Peterborough," said Mr. Brace, with a smile.

FEWER CHILDREN KILLED BY CARS

Fatalities Among U. S. Adults Increase 24 Per Cent. From 1927 to 1929.

TOTAL DEATHS 100,000.

WASHINGTON, D.C., Mar. 30. (CP) The automobile kills an increasing number of adults annually and fewer children, according to the Childrens' Bureau of the Department of Labor.

City children in the United States are becoming automobile conscious and developing a sixth or traffic sense. The bureau announces that among the population area of 38,000,000 fatalities among adults increased from 1927 to 1929 by 24 per cent., while they decreased among the children of school age by 10 per cent. Children of pre-school age showed an increase of 7 per cent. In New York city fatalities mounted 35 per cent. among adults and declined 24 per cent. among children between the ages of 5 and 16.

Total automobile fatalities in the United States for the year 1930 reached the astounding figure of 100,000.

The bureau attributes part of the decline in child fatalities to educational campaigns but there seems no doubt that it is also the result of the same traffic mindedness which now enables city children to read the signals of red and green lights almost before they can talk.

Prisoners' Youth Tempers Sentence By Judge Huycke

Blanchard, Clifford and Forbes Given Two Years Less One Day Each in Ontario Reformatory as Trio Appear in Cobourg Police Court.

WALTER CLIFFORD, OLDEST OF YOUTHFUL HOLD-UPS, PLEADS GUILTY—PRELIMINARY EVIDENCE ACCEPTED

"You Have Made a Stupid Mistake and I Want You to Think Things Over and Realize Folly of Getting Into Crime," Are Judge's Parting Words.

COBOURG, Ont., March 30 (C.P.). — Two years each in the Ontario Reformatory near Guelph was the sentence imposed to-day on the trio convicted of holding up the Dominion Bank here, and robbing it of $1,985 on February 17. The young men are Harold Blanchard, Des Moines, Iowa, Walter Clifford, aged 21, Little Bras d'Or, Nova Scotia, and Leslie Forbes, aged 20, London, Ont.

In passing sentence, Judge Huycke stated he had taken the youth of the boys into consideration and that he wished to impress the fact that he wished the sentence to be taken as a deterrent against future actions of this kind.

"You have made a stupid mistake and I want you three to think things over while in prison, and to realize the folly of getting into crime."

Clifford pleaded guilty this morning, and evidence taken at the preliminary hearing was accepted without further testimony.

SHEEP HERDERS TRAPPED.

Zero Temperatures Follow, Killing Live Stock, Damaging Early Crops.

KANSAS CITY, March 30.—The Middle-West, digging out from a snowstorm which took a known toll of 16 lives last week, found its efforts mocked by a fresh fall to-day.

Snow began falling in the Rocky Mountain States of Colorado, Wyoming and Montana yesterday and late last night was falling in Nebraska, Kansas and Western Missouri. Temperatures were moderate, however, and there was no wind. Forecasts were moderate, however, and there was no wind. Forecasts were for precipitation in Oklahoma and Northern Texas to-day.

Meanwhile the sections which felt the fury of last week's blizzard, accompanied by zero temperatures, took stock of the loss in lives and damage to early crops and fruit.

Seven-year-Old Lad Found Dead

The known death list reached 16 yesterday, when the body of Boyd Edwards, seven-year-old Max, Neb., schoolboy, was recovered in a snow-filled canyon, midway between his farm home and the school house which he left Thursday. Finding of the boy's body culminated a three-day hunt. Fifteen of the twenty school children who survived the cold in a stalled school bus near Towner, Colo., were in a Lamar hospital.

The other deaths attributed to the storm included those of three sheep herders, one in Wyoming and two in New Mexico. The body of Charles Beach, 50-year-old Wyoming herdsman, was found half a mile from his camp wagon. His four-year-old son and a dog were safe at the camp.

CATHOLIC PRIEST DIES IN CAPTIVITY

Victim Been Held Prisoner By Chinese Communists Since Last November.

BRUTALLY TREATED.

SHANGHAI, Mar. 30.—(AP)—Word has been received here by the St. Columban's Mission of the death, March 5 of Father Superior Tierney of the Kiencheng mission while a captive of Chinese Communists near here. While details of his death were not learned the bandits frequently had said they would kill him if ransome money of $40,000 (silver) were not immediately forthcoming.

In a letter which Father Tierney contrived to smuggle through his captors, some weeks ago, he stated that he was failing and that he was quite resigned to die.

Captured Last November

Father Tierney, Superior of St. Columban's mission at Kiencheng, a small interior city located southeast of Nanchang in the South China Province of Kiangsi, was captured last Nov. 17. British authorities made strong representations to the Chinese Governments in an effort to obtain his release but with the bandits hidden in the wild mountain regions of Kiangsi, all attempts of soldier detachments to reach them failed.

Liner Is Able To Sail After Bumping Pier

HALIFAX, N. S., Mar. 30—The liner Andania, damaged yesterday when her stem swung against the long concrete seawall at the ocean terminal as she was attempting to leave her berth for New York, will probably sail this afternoon. The mishap occurred, it was said, when the ship's twin propellors failed to take headway off her in a simple piece of manoeuvering. The accident occurred close to the spot where the Andania's sister ship, the Alaunia, bumped her nose three weeks ago.

Transient passengers remained on board as temporary repairs proceeded. Concrete was poured in back of the damaged plates as a precautionary measure.

47 ENUMERATORS TO BE REQUIRED TO TAKE CENSUS IN LOCAL RIDING

C. H. Williamson, Census Commissioner, is Desirous of Selecting Capable Staff.

START JUNE 1.

At least forty-seven enumerators will be required for the taking of the census in the electoral district of west Peterborough. C. H. Williamson, local census commissioner, has already received many applications, but as the census does not begin until June 1 there is no need of making immediate appointments. It is understood that a few men who are exceptionally well qualified for the work have been engaged, and it is Mr. Williamson's desire to select as capable a staff as possible to assist him in counting the population of this district over which he has charge.

This district comprises the city of Peterborough, the village of Lakefield and the townships of North and South Monaghan, Otonabee, Douro, Smith, Ennismore, Harvey, Galway and Cavendish.

Census By Houses

The census will be taken by homes, and urban residents will have forty questions to answer, while farmers will be confronted with 254 questions. Enumerators will be supplied with credentials, and will be obliged to

SOLDIER DIES AT AGE OF 104 YEARS AFTER FIGHTING UNDER FIVE FLAGS

Capt. A. W. Rowland Claimed to be Last Survivor of Light Brigade Charge.

ONCE LOST IN CANADA.

DETROIT, Mich., Mar. 30.—A 104-year-old soldier who fought under the flags of five nations died in the Burtha M. Fisher Home for the aged here yesterday.

He was Captain Arthur Walpole Rowland. He had lived in Michigan for 65 years and celebrated the 104th anniversary of his birth of last January 26.

Captain Rowland was born in India, the son of a British army officer, and was educated in Edinburgh. He was an army engineer and served far more than the normal span of years as a soldier. He was said to be the last survivor of the famous charge of the Light Brigade. He fought in India, under Chinese Gordon in China, with the Federal forces in the American Civil War and with the Bonapartists in Vera Cruz.

Unable to get into the Spanish-American war because of age, Captain Rowland lived to become an inspector of supplies at Pittsburgh during the Great War. He became a citizen of the United States in 1923.

Beaverbrook and Baldwin Forces Unite

MOVE IS HAILED AS CONCESSION BY PRESS BARON

Agricultural Tariff Matters Figure Largely in Bringing About Truce.

CHAMBERLAIN PLAYS PART.

Attitude of Rothermere Who Makes No Comment Causes Speculation.

BY THOS. T. CHAMPION
(C. P. Staff Correspondent)

LONDON, Mar. 30. — The Conservative Party and Lord Beaverbrook, Canadian - born peer who has been leading his own political crusade, have been re-united. How Rt. Hon. Stanley Baldwin and Lord Beaverbrook will work together remains to be seen. They have been at loggerheads for years.

Agricultural tariff matters figured in the exchange of letters between Lord Beaverbrook, and Rt. Hon. Neville Chamberlain, head of the Conservative Party organization, in which agreement was reached. It was Lord Beaverbrook's move, and he tendered his support if the party adopted a general policy of increasing manufacturing, and increasing general agricultural production by quotas, prohibitions or duties on foreign foodstuffs.

Seen as Surrender

Apparently it was a concession on Lord Beaverbrook's part to agree to the quota and partial prohibition scheme, for he has hitherto been full out for free admittance of dominion foodstuffs and a tariff tax on foreign foodstuffs.

The Conservative Party intends to employ any or all of the suggested methods as they may be the best way to effect the object aimed at, and to ask the electors for a mandate for that purpose, Mr. Chamberlain replied.

As a result, Lord Beaverbrook's Daily Express said to-day: It means this message goes to the Dominions: 'You shall never come to us again as last year and be turned away empty-handed. Partnership between the Dominions and the Mother Country can no longer be frustrated by the senseless obstinacy of a section or party of politicians.

The Daily Mail, organ of Lord Rothermere, who has apparently broken in a measure with Beaverbrook, had no comment. The chief speculation to-day was on Lord Rothermere's attitude toward his fellow newspaper-magnate's reconciliation with Mr. Baldwin.

Not for the first time has Lord Rothermere been left in the air by his baronial colleague, said the Liberal Manchester Guardian. The only conclusion is that St. George's has taught Lord Beaverbrook a lesson, both as a newspaper owner and an amateur statesman.

Capable of Magnanimity.

The Guardian added there was nothing petty about Lord Beaverbrook and anybody who saw him at work in the last two by-elections was quickly convinced that as a foeman he was capable of magnanimity. His

RECLUSE HAD SMALL FORTUNE

Lived Alone Amid Wretched Conditions Believed to be Pauper.

NOT WIFE OF EVANGELIST.

HAMILTON, March 30. — Found dead in her squalid cottage at 114 Rebecca street Friday night, after being missing for several days, Mrs. Sarah Kidd, aged and half blind recluse, was discovered to have had a small fortune invested in real estate and bank savings.

Mrs. Kidd who lived alone amid indescribable conditions, was a well-known figure. She was believed to be penniless but it is now learned that on her infrequent trips up town when she groped her way from one office to another, she was really bent on business in connection with her possessions.

Mrs. Kidd claimed to be the wife of the Rev. David Kidd Byrne, who attained considerable newspaper publicity some years ago when he laid claim to millions of dollars which he alleged had been bequeathed to him by a millionaire. Mrs. Kidd was estranged from her husband.

Rev. Kidd Byrne denied that the marriage was legal, stating that Sara Benner had been previously married to another who was still living.

McCREA FAVORS BANNING OF DOGS IN DEER HUNTING

Peterborough Fish and Game Association Congratulated By Minister.

BALLOT WAS TAKEN.

Hunters in Northern Section of Province Do Not Want Dogs.

The probability of the Ontario Government excluding dogs in the hunting of deer was materially strengthened by Hon. Chas. McCrea's statement at the meeting of the fish and game committee of the Legislature Friday that the government was in favor of banning dogs.

This opinion was expressed by Jas. W. Gravestock, who represented the Peterborough Fish and Game Protective Association at the meeting. According to the Minister's statement, the government is mainly concerned about the preservation of deer, and believes that the banning of dogs would be an effective means of accomplishing that objective.

"In my judgment, speaking as minister, I think we will make greater strides if deer hunting is done without dogs," Hon. Mr. McCrea said. "In the last analysis the government has to take the responsibility of putting legislation on the statute books of this province."

This remark was a reference to the possibility of hunters opposing the government if the proposed restriction is adopted.

Promotes Conservation

Mr. McCrea complimented the Peterborough Fish and Game Protective Association as being the only Club that had shown its active interest in the conservation of game by sending its own delegate to the meeting.

Mr. Gravestock told The Examiner that Mr. McCrea's address yesterday disclosed his thorough knowledge of the question, also of the importance of maintaining the stock of deer in this province, and his official impartiality in his attitude toward the abolition of dogs simply as means of conservation. The Minister's address made a deep impression, Mr. Gravestock added.

The Government has been investigating this question for three or four years, obtaining information both at home and abroad. Sportsmen were canvassed last year by the method of attaching a coupon to the licenses which was virtually a ballot on the dog ban question. Of the 20,000 licenses which were issued only 4,000 were returned to the department. They showed that the sentiment in the northern section of the province was almost unanimously against the dog, and in the southeast area there was a majority in favor of retaining dogs in hunting.

Mr. Gravestock said he believed the Government intended to pass a law excluding dogs. At least that was his impression of Hon. Mr. McCrea's statement.

In regard to the local Association's request for the appointment of two assistant game wardens, Mr. Gravestock said he hadn't much hope of the Department granting it. He was supported by T. P. Lancaster, M.P.P., who is convinced of the necessity of increasing the protection of the county's game resources, especially in the eastern townships.

Closing By-law is Effective May 1st

CAMPBELLFORD, Mar. 30. — The late closing by-law for the town of Campbellford, which was to have come into effect in April, has by the unanimous wish of the merchants of the town been altered and will take effect the first of May. The council will amend the by-law accordingly.

The regular half holiday will also commence on May 1, although not definitely settled, it is expected that the day set will be Thursdays. This however, will be decided before the open night goes into force.

NELSON SCHOOLS BEING GUARDED

Nude Parades By Members of Sons of Freedom Sect Continue All Week.

NO ARRESTS MADE.

NELSON, B.C. March 30. (CP)—All was quiet in the Doukhobor communities below Nelson and in the vicinity of Grand Forks over the week-end, according to provincial police, who are constantly patrolling Doukhobor territory since the latest outbreak of incendiarism and a bomb attempt on the life of Peter Veregin of Glade Thursday night.

All schools in the colonies are under guard each night in the Grand Forks districts, where three schoolhouses were destroyed by fire last week. Efforts to provide accommodation for continuing school classes among the Doukhobors in the destroyed school areas will be made today.

All last week nude demonstrations, mostly by women members of the Sons of Freedom sect of Doukhobors, occurred at various points below Nelson, according to reports made to provincial police. Known nude demonstrations total eight in number and between 70 and 80 persons participated. Four demonstrations were in the vicinity of Thrums when trains were passing the settlement, two occurred at Glade, one at Thrums and one at Slocan Park.

No arrests have been made in connection with the attempt to take the life of Veregin or the school burnings.

GAS FUMES KILL TORONTO YOUTH

M. B. Wilson Returns to Find Wife, Children and Maid Unconscious.

TORONTO, Ont., Mar. 30.—(CP)—A family of four had a narrow escape from death here last night when coal gas fumes seeped through the house from a basement furnace. Cameron Watson, aged 11, failed to respond to treatment when the father, M. Barry Watson returning from a stroll before retiring, found his wife, two children and the maid unconscious from the fumes.

He immediately summond aid. Mrs. Watson, eight-year-old Nancy Watson and the maid, May Westgate, were revived but all efforts failed to restore a spark of life in the boy.

Mr. Watson informed the police he had banked the furnace fire shortly before midnight and had then gone out for a walk. On returning he found the house reeking with fumes and his family unconscious. Police state there was a defect in the blower attached to the furnace and gas fumes were blown through the house instead of up the chimney.

ESTIMATE ACTION SEEN FOR TO-DAY

Heavy Barrage of Criticism Predicted for Reports From Several Departments.

MONEY BILLS TO COME UP.

OTTAWA, Ont., Mar. 30. (CP)—The House of Commons is being asked to-day to pass the supplementary estimates, money needed to take care of commitments in the expiring fiscal year not covered in the main estimates approved a year ago. The total is just under $20,000,000.

Ordinarily the supplementary estimates do not occupy very much of the time of the House, but there are signs that a storm of criticism may descend on the heads of some of the ministers when estimates for their departments come under review. Hon. Robt. Weir, Minister of Agriculture, is expected to have an onslaught to face from the opposition members who have been continuously pressing for a statement on agricultural policy. Western members have professed to see no ray of hope for the wheat farmers in the speech from the throne and may be hard to mollify before the $443,000 of Agricultural Department estimates is approved.

The money bills provide an interlude to the debate on the address in reply to the speech from the throne, which is entering its third week. On Wednesday the House adjourns for Easter recess and unless there is some curtailment of the list of speakers, still numbering about 20, the expectation is that the debate will continue after the holiday.

Week's Death Toll In India At Least 150

ALLAHABAD, India, March 30 (C.P.).—Sporadic outbursts of Communist fighting at Cawnpore, United Provinces, over the week-end accounted for one more dead and six injured. It is estimated that the total of dead since the first of last week is between 150 and 200 with about 1,000 injured.

The leaders of the Hindu and Moslem communities are holding conferences in attempt to find a way of returning to normal conditions.

The correspondent of Pioneer said that the rioting had spread across the Ganges to villages there with considerable bloodshed. Bodies of the dead were being thrown into the Ganges, sacred river of the Hindus.

LAST 7 MONTHS RAINFALL BEEN HALF OF NORMAL

Drought Began on July 13 Last, Setting Record For Past 30 Years.

RAIN WILL COME.

February Was Lowest Month With Only .72 Inches of Precipitation.

"Rain, rain, go away" runs the childish jingle, and that is what the rain has been doing so consistently in Peterborough County and the whole Trent Valley during the past seven months that agriculturists have reason for alarm and the power situation is disquieting. So much has the rain kept away from this district that in the period since the middle of July the precipitation is little better than half the average.

The mythical Weather Man owes this district 9.72 inches of rain and that moisture is long overdue. Farms, wells, creeks, rivers and lakes are, figuratively, crying for rain.

Needed Rain Will Come

Weather experts predict that this needed rain will come. It has never failed before and the average precipitation year in and year out in this district has always maintained itself as quite sufficient to meet all the demands of agriculture.

These same weather experts, however, as they flip back precipitation files of the past 30 years, will tell you that never has this district gone for so long a period with so little rain. From the middle of July up until this month the rainfall for each month has been well below two inches, thus making the deficit which amounts to 9.72 inches. In the years of this century twice has precipitation been less than two inches per month for three successive, but for seven months was an unheard of thing in the weather history of the district.

The drought began on July 13. During the early part of July there was considerable rain, but after the 13th only .18 inches fell. Following through month by month the official records of Walter Peters, weather expert for the Government for this district, show as follows: August, 1.85; September, 1.65; October, 1.04; November, 1.13; December, 1.13; January, 1.91; and February, .72.

March has already seen the precipitation working back to its usual average. The big snowstorm accounted for 1.95 inches and since that there has been another .20 inch, making for the month thus far 2.15 inches.

Weather experts expect a heavy rain for the next half-year, because say they, "It must come back to the average and make up for those 9.72 inches that we are now lacking."

COUNCIL IN BELMONT TOWNSHIP ASSUMES REINS OF GOVERNMENT

Considerable Discussion Arises Over Appointment of Road Superintendent.

SCHOOL OFFICER REPORTS.

HAVELOCK, March 30 (Examiner Correspondence). — After a month's absence from the cares and responsibilities of municipal affairs, Belmont Township Council once more took up the reins of government on Saturday, March 28.

Perhaps the members felt more confident at this meeting, since the voters on March 19 had expressed without leaving any room for doubt, just who they wanted to represent them in the Council.

The Reeve, Mr. Breckenridge, increased his majority from one in January last to 123 over his opponent on March 19. Councillors Steenburg and Vansickle, who each had 343 votes, and were tied for first place on the Council, were heard to remark, jocosely, that they would not ask for a recount to see if either had a vote more than the other fellow.

Anderson and Whitney each had a good majority over the next nearest man, and all were well pleased with the outcome of the election.

The work of the former road superintendent having proved unsatisfactory, his resignation was asked for some time ago. This was not forthcoming without a great deal of routine. Once a Council has passed a by-law appointing a road superintendent, provided by Section 44 of the Highway Improvement Act, and the by-law has been approved by the Minister of Highways, it cannot be repealed or amended without the consent in writing of the Minister.

Reeve Breckenridge, along with Councillors Whitney and Anderson, interviewed the district engineer at Peterborough some time ago, and were advised that the best thing to do was ask for the resignation of G. W. Steenburg. This was done, but the man did not relinquish the position. A resolution was then passed by the Council, again asking for his resignation, with the Highways De-

OTTAWA, Ont., March 28 (C.P.). —Hon. Robert Rogers, Conservative member of Parliament for Winnipeg South, who has been suffering from a very severe cold, was slightly improved to-day. The illness of Mr. Rogers has necessitated his absence from the House of Commons for the past ten days.

Nearly 235,000 pounds of prunes were exported from the United States last year.

RAILWAY TRAFFIC TIE-UP LOOMING

Workers Start "Go Slow" Movement as Result of Wage Reduction.

LONDON, March 30.—(A.P.)—The Metropolitan district was threatened to-day with a serious dislocation of railway traffic as a consequence of inauguration of a go slow or obey the rules movement among workers in the freight yards.

The movement, which is intended through meticulous observance of a large set of intricate and unwieldly rules, to delay the service greatly in protest against acceptance of wage reductions by the National Union of Railwaymen.

The men in some of the yards began the movement last night and to-day it seemed to be spreading. At two depots alone more than 300 carloads of perishable goods which should have been unloaded Saturday were still awaiting handling because the rules regarding movement of cars had been too closely observed.

In this case union officials are condemning the movement but in the past the method has been occasionally resorted to by workers who did not wish to go to the extreme of a strike. Official complaints of delays they always meet with reference to the rule book.

Commonwealth Gov't To Pay Interest Due

SYDNEY, N.S.W., March 30.— (A.P.)— The Commonwealth Government to-day announced that it would meet the interest due in London April 1 on New South Wales bond issues, the interest of which Premier Lang of the State Government had announced would not be paid.

Lang, who heads the Labor Government of New South Wales, last week announced a default on the interest due in London April 1, but said that due in New York on that date would be paid.

Premier Scullin, who made the Commonwealth announcement, said that Council had advised that under terms of the financial agreement of the Commonwealth and States that the Commonwealth was liable for interest payments on State loans. The belief exists here that the Commonwealth could sue the State for defaulted interest, and it was understood that the Commonwealth would take that course.

Spanish Consul's Home Is Destroyed By Bomb

HAVANA, March 30 (C.P.).—One of the largest bombs yet exploded in Cuba in the course of the present campaign by anti-Government terrorists, last night destroyed the living quarters of the Spanish Consul at Santa Calara, Fernando Estran Cuenca.

Windows of the Consulate and adjoining buildings were shattered by the terrific detonation. The Consul's bedroom was wrecked and his bed blown to bits. No one was injured since he and his family had not yet returned from a Sunday-evening social call.

Quebec Bans Signs Advertising Liquor

QUEBEC, Que., March 30 (C.P.).—A Bill, drawn up so as to provide the machinery for provincial operation of all radio matters provided the Supreme Court of Canada decides that such matters are under provincial control, was passed on Saturday in the Quebec Legislature.

The Bill, sponsored by Hon. Honore Mercier, Minister of Lands and Forests, went through after an amendment by Paul Sauve (Cons. Two Mountains) was defeated 31 to 5. In the amendment Mr. Sauve stated it was not fitting to legislate on the matter of radio while it was before the courts.

DOROTHY DIX

"This Message I've had in my Heart for years," says DOROTHY DIX

GIRLS, for years I've had it in my heart to say what follows. It is important.

Do keep everything about you as dainty and pretty and colourful as possible. Everything, including and especially the things that don't show—your underthings.

Why do I say this?

Well, we women are made so that pretty clothes give us CONFIDENCE in ourselves. This applies to underthings, too, as every girl knows. When you put on a new bit of dainty, colourful lingerie, you feel very exquisite. And when you yourself feel charming, others find you so. There's something contagious about it.

"But, Miss Dix," girls often say to me, "we can't always be buying pretty new lingerie—we'd like to, but we aren't millionaires."

Now, girls, I'm NOT advising extravagance! What I do want you to do, is summed up in two simple rules:

1. Buy the prettiest lingerie you can, and

2. Keep it colour-fresh, new looking, as long as you wear it.

Daintiness demands frequent washing, of course, but this NEEDN'T FADE your things or wear them out. Ordinary "good" soaps often do take away some of the colour, especially delicate pinks and other pastel shades—and if you rub a soft silk or chiffon or rayon with cake soap, it wears and looks thin, often "sleazy," as we used to say.

But just take a bowlful of Lux suds and dip your pretty things in and out—stockings as well as undies—and they'll come out as charming in colour and as soft and lovely as though they'd come straight from the store! Lux is especially made to keep colours charming, just like new.

In Your Home, Too

MOREOVER, not only can dainty, colourful lingerie give you confidence of charm—but your very SURROUNDINGS can help!

Pretty curtains, slip covers, cushions, colourful table linens, all form part of the magic spell, when they are kept ever lovely with Lux. DOROTHY DIX

If it's safe in water . . it's safe in LUX!

"Colourful, lace-trimmed lingerie makes you feel exquisite"!

Famous Silver Cup To Be Shown In Paris

NEW YORK, N.Y., March 30 (C.P.) —A silver cup, believed by some scientists to be the one used by Jesus and His apostles at the Last Supper—the Holy Grail of the legends of King Arthur—will soon be sent to Paris as part of an exhibition of Christian art.

Announcement of the removal of the cup was made by its owner, Fahim Kouchakji. The cup now rests in a bank vault here. It was found in 1910 by archaeologists in Syria.

Just Between Us Women

A daily chat with Examiner neighbors conducted by Anne Wilcox

Let us dwell to-day on gardens—I think a garden in which all kinds of flowers bloom is one of the most beautiful things one can possess.

• • • • • • •

There is fun in having a garden—something that no money can buy—the joy that comes in planting seeds, in nurturing their growth and watching day by day the development of a new life in the form of some little flower that is as fragile as it is complex.

• • • • • • •

If you have not had the joy of a garden of your own—if you haven't watched eagerly to see the little plants sending forth their leaves into the bright sunshine, then you have missed one of the greatest joys that it is possible to have.

• • • • • • •

I can hardly describe the feeling that comes when the seedlings develop and so to find out for yourself, try as hard as you can to have a garden of your own this year.

• • • • • • •

We want our gardens to revel in naturalness of design and color, and so we must spend time and effort. Let us start immediately in front of the house proper.

• • • • • • •

There is nothing more beautiful than shrubbery and if you have a sufficient amount of ground, you can use shrubbery to advantage. On either side of the walk approaching the house, you might have an evergreen tree, but be sure that it is small enough not to make your home appear small.

• • • • • • •

Toward the side of the house you might plant rose bushes so that as they grow they will be in pyramid form—that is higher toward the front of the house and finally low, baby bushes toward the rear.

• • • • • • •

Peonies too, are very colorful and in white, pink and crimson add effectively to the beauty of any garden.

• • • • • • •

At the back of your house plant tall, bright colorful flowers. It seems unfortunate that so many people fail to realize that the back of their home is seen just as much as the front of it and they usually neglect it, letting the grass grow up high so that the lot resembles a vacant one more than private property.

• • • • • • •

You might grow sun flowers, snow balls and iris and make a trellis on which you can have an ivy or morning-glory vine.

• • • • • • •

And if you still have some ground left, why not have a little vegetable garden? Most vegetables are easy to plant, hardy and there is nothing more delightful than serving fresh from the garden foods that the whole family has helped grow.

• • • • • • •

Peas, lettuce, white cabbage, beets, lima beans, carrots and radish are perhaps the most popular vegetables among amateur growers. Be sure the earth is not too dry and rake the ground in nice even beds so that as the plants grow each will follow a straight line.

What To-day Means To You

"ARIES."

If March 30th is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 8:30 a.m. to 10:10 a.m., from 2 p.m. to 3:45 p.m. and from 8 p.m. to 9 p.m. The danger hours are from noon to 1:30 and from 10 p.m to midnight.

There will be a tendency for moods on March 30th owing to the planetary aspects in operation, and all the world and his wife will appear plotting against you. In spite of your personal efforts or feelings, however, the day's ledger will be balanced in your favor and progress will be made in the right direction.

The child born on this March 30th will have an extremely sensitive nature underneath a very positive exterior, and it will suffer in silence. Temperamentally it will be an ardent lover and a violent hater. Its life history is marked by periods of ill luck intermingled with success.

If born on a March 30th, what is your make-up? First, you have ambition, and are born for action. You are not too ambitious to be happy, are not a mere self-seeker, but you love to be in the thick of things and you fight to win. If you see a mess, you feel an instinctive urge to clear it up. When at work you lose yourself in your job. You have good powers of concentration, and are not easily distracted.

You have a great deal of pride, expressed in dignity, not arrogance, and you are naturally respected. People instinctively keep their proper distance from you, and seldom attempt so-called familiarities. You sometimes wish that you could be more free and easy, but it is best for you to stick to your natural role, which becomes you.

If you be a woman, you belong to be pioneer type, who make good wives and comrades. You have high ideals, splendid courage, resourcefulness, plenty of love and pity, and true understanding. You would never let your mate down, and you would forgive him seventy times seven. Once you are through with anyone. However, you are through for good. Both men and women born on this date are fond of home life, and make devoted and loving parents. You choose your friends because of their personalities or characters, and not because of their rank.

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M.D

WEIGHT AND HEIGHT

One of the handicaps a health writer is under in trying to give helpful suggestions to overweight and underweight individuals is that he is writing to men and women of 20, 30 40, 50, 60 and 70 years of age, and to all types of build.

You can readily see that what might be good advice for a young man or woman an 20 to 30 years of age would hardly be so good for those of 30 to 40, or 40 to 50.

Further, where there is a tendency to tuberculosis or anaemia in the family, the advice would be to try and keep a few pounds overweight, whereas if the tendency was to diabetes, then the advice would be to try and keep a few pounds underweight.

Then one individual of 5 feet 7 inches may possess a slender narrow body, and another of the same height a wide body. Naturally a wide one should carry more weight than the narrow one. And, as mentioned before one may have long legs and a long body. Here again the same weight would not be correct for both.

Now you see that it would be impossible to get out a table that would give the correct weight for every height and age.

All that can be done is to use what are called average tables. The average man 35 years of age is considered to be of a height of 5 feet 7 inches and should weigh 150 pounds. For every inch over add 6 pounds and every inch less subtract 6 pounds. The average woman, 5 feet 4 inches in height, age 30, should weigh 130 pounds. For every inch over and under, add or subtract 4 pounds.

However, our insurance companies have been able to show that if the weight is a little more than these figures when we are young, and a little less as we get older, that we will not feel better but our chances of living are much better.

They suggest that between 20 and 30 years of age we should be 8 to 10 pounds heavier than the above figures.

At the ages of 30 to 40 we should be exactly the average weight outlined above.

At the age of 50, we can be 30 pounds below the average.

The general idea then is that a few pounds overweight in our youth is an asset; something to "grow on," but as we grow older we should cut down on our food intake if we wish to live well and long.

1 cup milk

Cream the butter, and flour, and add it to the hot milk. Cook in double boiler five minutes, and add yolks of eggs beaten until thick and lemon-colored. MACHINES AND UNEMPLOYMENT

Are machines the cause of unemployment, or has man neglected the all-important human machine to such an extent that it is becoming more and more unreliable and inventive genius is called upon to supplant human attention with machine activity.

We abuse this human body of ours to a greater extent than ever before in life's history, and still expect to obtain accurate, intelligent work from it without taking precaution to build up burned-out energy.

The means to supply the needed energy is at hand. Vitamins will do it, and now a new discovery makes it convenient to take the essential Vitamins in the form of VITALEX, the New Day Tonic. Make today the day you start a new era in your life's history. Get a bottle of VITALEX. Take it regularly and note the difference. It gives you a new hold on life, pep, ambition, and a will to do bigger and better things.

Townsend Denies His Wife Suicided

NICE France, Mar. 30. (AP) — David Townsend, made wealthy in Wall Street, to-day would not accept the police explanation of suicide in the death of his wife, a former Follies beauty, but insisted that must have been an accident.

Margaret was happy, he said, she had my entire fortune at her disposal. I cannot explain this tragedy. Anyway I won't accept the suicide theory. It is too horrible.

Mrs. Townsend drove her automobile over the edge of a cliff and dropped 200 feet into a ravine.

EMPTY FRONT BENCHES.

Complaints are being voiced among the Opposition at Ottawa at the frequent absence from the House of Premier Bennett and his Cabinet Ministers.

On one occasion during the debate last week Hon. H. J. Manion, Minister of Railways and Canals, was the only member of the Cabinet to occupy his seat in the House.

Some allowance, of course, must be made for the Prime Minister, who continues to hold the position of Minister of Finance, and who in the preparation of the budget, in the consideration of tariff changes and in the hearing of representations from numerous deputations finds it necessary to give to these matters and other important business the time that he might otherwise devote to proceedings in the House.

There is not the same justification for Mr. Bennett's lieutenants, however—granted they have important and onerous duties—but it is surely going a bit too far to have the ministerial representation in the House reduced to only two or three Ministers.

Naturally Opposition members find it galling to have to direct their remarks to empty ministerial seats and to see the front benches of the Government deserted.

MR. SINCLAIR'S CHARGES.

In an editorial article in these columns on Saturday a reference to the failure of the Liberal and Progressive leaders to press for a meeting of the public accounts committee of the Legislature was unintentionally unfair to Mr. Sinclair.

It was written before the Liberal leader's speech in which he called attention to irregularities in regard to Northern Ontario development work, and urged an investigation by a commission into the whole matter of the expenditure of the funds voted for work in New Ontario.

Mr. Sinclair has not asked for the public accounts committee to the called together, he explained in this particular speech, for the reason that he was not satisfied with the investigation into similar matters by the committee last year, and would prefer a probe by a royal commission.

Money for Northern Ontario government is voted in a lump sum, with the Legislature having no estimates to guide it, and the Liberal leader, informed of apparent illegal payments, is quite justified in demanding a thorough investigation.

To The Examiner the failure to press for the calling of the private bills committee seemed to be a weakness, but in the light of Mr. Sinclair's demand for a non-partisan inquiry, that criticism did him an injustice which, it is to be hoped, will be considered wiped out by this explanation.

DOING A GREAT WORK.

A feature of the work of the Canadian Red Cross in this Province is the splendid service that is being given by the organization through its outpost hospitals, several of which are situated in our immediate district—at Apsley, Coe Hill and Bancroft.

If the Red Cross had no other peace-time work than this fine activity it would be thoroughly deserving of the generous support of the people of Ontario.

A recent bulletin has as its front page cover design photographs of the Red Cross outposts, which are situated at Quibel, Bancroft, St. Joseph's Island, Wilberforce, Hornepayne, Lion's Head, Bonfield, Coe Hill, Bracebridge, Kirkland Lake, Nakina, Englehart, Apsley, Redditt, Thessalon, Kakabeka Falls, Whitney, Dryden, New Liskeard, Rain River and Port Loring.

The first of these—the Wilberforce outpost—was organized in 1922.

In the nine years since that time the Red Cross hospitals have taken care of 12,507 patients, 1,663 babies have been born in the outposts, 7,595 out patients have been treated, 22,268 public health and nursing visits have been made to homes, 278 confinement cases in the homes have been attended by Red Cross nurses, and 15,754 school children have been examined in the schools of the districts served by these institutions.

That record is one upon which the Ontario branch of the Canadian Red Cross is to be heartily congratulated.

THE HORTICULTURAL SOCIETY.

The attractive list of premiums offered by the Peterborough Horticultural Society to its members this year should result in a largely increased membership.

The society is aiming at—and should have—a numerical strength of one thousand Peterborough citizens, and when it is realized that every person who pays the annual fee of one dollar also receives a dollar's worth of splendid plants, the drive for more members should have no trouble in getting up speed and attaining results.

A liberal choice of shrubs, roses, bulbs, perennials, boxed annuals, climbers and bedding plants is offered each member—an unusually fine premium for membership in an organization that exists for the beautification of Peterborough and that should therefore on its own account attract the interest and support of home-loving citizens.

The stout-hearted activities of those faithful officers and members of the Horticultural Society who have perservered in their laudable efforts to encourage a love for the beautiful and a civic pride in the community, despite the fact that the membership at times was far short of what it should have been, should be reinforced this year by an influx of new and enthusiastic members.

The work of the organization is deserving of wholehearted support from the community generally.

KEEPING THE RIVER OPEN.

Montreal and other St. Lawrence ports will be ready to receive ocean liners by April 1, and all aids to navigation along the mighty waterway should be in full operation by that date. This is the opinion of Hon. Alfred Duranleau, Canada's efficient Minister of Marine. For some years the Department of Marine has made every effort to shorten the closed season on the St. Lawrence, and the Minister is of the opinion that, barring extremely severe weather, there is no reason why the river should not be open from eight to nine months each year. Much valuable information and experience has been obtained by the icebreakers, which hasten the clearing of the river each spring, and it is the hope of the department that the present early opening will be further improved upon from year to year, with the possibility that the winter season will eventually be reduced to no more than two months.

The arrival of the icebreakers, Miluka and Saurel, at Montreal on March 14, reduced by fifteen days the former record, which was established in 1921, when the ship Lady Grey fought her way to the metropolis by March 29. It is interesting to note that the Miluka, the largest icebreaker, thus makes her first visit to Montreal since her launching there in 1916. She was sent to Russia, and was operated successfully in the White Sea near Archangel. Later she returned to the St. Lawrence, but due to her size and draught she never progressed above Sorel. This year, however, it was decided to take a chance, and she was ordered to try to break through to Montreal. Her early arrival there was evident justification of the attempt.

The considerable lengthening of the St. Lawrence's open season should have a favorable effect upon Canada's shipping trade. The Maritime Provinces boast excellent winter ports, yet it is obviously desirable for the river route to be used as long as possible, the transportation costs on goods to and from the interior of the country being thus materially reduced. The Department of Marine is to be commended for its vigorous efforts in this regard.—Brantford Expositor.

TOPSY-TURVYDOM OF BRITISH POLITICS.

With Mr. J. L. Garvin urging a National Government to be headed by Lloyd George, Rothermere and Beaverbrook heading a "Baldwin Must Go" movement, Winston Churchill in rebellion, Sir John Simon flirting with the Tories, Mr. Ramsay MacDonald gradually losing his Left Wing, Sir Oswald Mosley forming a new party, and Liberal newspapers hinting that Lloyd George is to join the Labor party, British politics have reached a stage of topsy-turvydom and bewilderment unparalleled since the war. What the outcome of it will be, nobody appears to know, or even to pretend to know.

The only clear thing at the present time is that Mr. MacDonald seems determined to hold on to office no matter what happens. He has lost his Education Bill and his Trades Dispute Bill and has all but lost his Electoral Bill, but, judging from his recent Northampton speech he is prepared to lose most anything in preference to losing an election.

It is difficult to determine which of the three parties, Tory, Liberal or Labor, is in the worst position. Mr. Baldwin may score over Churchill in the House and be supreme with his followers in Parliament, but it is different with the country. Churchill, unquestionably, has his followers, and so have Rothermere and Beaverbrook, and in any general election such a division in the Tory ranks might prove a fatal weakness. The extraordinary part of it all is that there is no personality in sight who, succeeding Baldwin, could unite all the party's warring factions. Mr. Churchill, all his ability notwithstanding, is anathema to tens of thousands, and there is little likelihood of any great rally around the banner of Sir Robert Horne.

Equally impotent and distressed are Liberals. On one side is Mr. Lloyd George with his "brilliantly fatal tactics," on the other Sir John Simon, cold and uninspiring. Simon, it is clear, is moving steadily towards Toryism, and moving with him are Liberals who, distrusting Lloyd George and unwilling to embrace Labor, are compelled to go somewhere. Lloyd George himself, while still idolized by many and boomed by Mr. Garvin as a potential national saviour, makes little headway. By-election after by-election unbares the almost pathetic decline of his party. More than that, and worse for his prestige, he has been unable to hold his party in the House, unable even to carry out his undertakings with the Government. In the circumstances, it may well be that, a prince of opportunists, and with little moral impediments so far as politics is concerned, he will step into the MacDonald Ministry.

It would be an extraordinary final development of an extraordinary career—a complete boxing of the compass. Welsh nationalist; pacifist; Little Englander; Imperialist; War Premier; Home Ruler and patron of the Black and Tans; Coalitionist and Liberal, his evolution into a Laborite, preaching once more the old doctrines of his pre-war years, would be a strange close to his career. And it would be the close. Not even a Lloyd George can gamble to such an extent with the trust of an electorate.

Labor, finally, is under darkening skies. Brilliant in foreign affairs, and with major achievements to its credit, it has been weak and impotent at home; has failed to help unemployment, failed to help industry, failed to do most of the things that it used to put into its platforms. Its old war-cries are gone. No more can it lay up unemployment to capitalism and Toryism, nor hold out the old threadbare theories of Socialism as a panacea for all ills. It has lost some of its best captains; seen others discredited. Mr. J. H. Thomas is no longer the Moses to lead workers to the Promised Land; Mr. Snowden is suspected by his followers; Mr. MacDonald is put down as too moderate.

It is all n extrordinary confusing state, baffling to outlanders. Yet there is one thing to remember. It is that the British have a curious way of overcoming difficulties, see even a little more clearly on a cloudy day (to use a famous phrase of Emerson's) and will somehow muddle through. It is a part of the genius of the breed.—Ottawa Journal.

FELLOWSHIP OF PRAYER

DAILY LENTEN DEVOTION

PREPARED BY THE REV. CLARENCE H. WILSON, D.D. FOR THE COMMISSION ON EVANGELISM OF THE FEDERAL COUNCIL OF THE CHURCHES OF CHRIST IN AMERICA

POLITICS AND RELIGION.

"Render therefore unto Caesar the things which be Caesar's, and unto God the things which be God's." Luke 20:25. (Read Luke 20:19-26.)

Meditation

It is a matter of history that the Roman rule afforded Christianity it great opportunity. The new religion spread rapidly within the empire and did notspread beyond it.Wemay not say that Jesus had that in mind at this time but He was not a political revolutionist. The independence of the Jewish nation would not have made free the people whom the truth had not made free. God can be served under any form of government while no form of government can save men from their bondage to sin. In their political agitations the Jews were forgetting their primary allegiance to God. That and not the clever escape from the trap set for him, is the point of Jesus' answer. The first thing is to let God have His own.

Prayer

Almighty God from whom proceed all power and dominion, grant unto us wisdom and grace to seek first the Kingdom of God and His righteousness. And hasten, we beseech Thee, the fulness of the times when the kingdom of this world shall become the kingdom of ourLord and of His Christ. In His name. Amen.

The Red-Headed Goddess

By ALICE ROSS COLVER

"Old Scarface is the shaman, or leader. He says it's all right. We can camp where we choose. I suggested that ledge, because we can see the approach of anyone across the desert. I don't think there's any other way up, and we can make a quick exit to the path if necessary. Let's move over right away. There's room for the horses there too."

Accordingly they went, as unconcernedly as possible, to make themselves comfortable in the place they had chosen. The ledge was broad and sunny and open on two sides but protected on the third by a huge rock. Here Dan set to work at once erecting a stone fireplace, so that they might have a meal before dark, and the others fell into their customary tasks of unpacking and taking care of the animals. Only Dirk stood immovable, his eyes fixed on the scene before him,his glance moving slowly and carefully from person to person, from place to place. Where was Lorraine? If she was here, why wasn't she visible in the midst of these Indians, a radiant, gleaming figure with her white skin and red hair? If she wasn't here, where was she? Where was she? The desire to dash madly among them and make a furious search in all their secret places became an uncontrollable anguish. Just as he thought he could not contain himself, he was startled by Powell's low voice behind him:

"What is it, Jim?"

Turning, Dirk saw Red Jim standing with his back toward him, scanning the desert through his powerful glasses. H is answer came reluctantly:

"I'm damned if I don't think that's Silver Tongue's pinto and Silver Tongue himself, riding like fury away from here!"

CHAPTER XX.
THE FIRE DANCE.

Down under the ground in the stuffy "kiva" crouching on a blanket in a corner was Lorraine. But an unrecognizable Lorraine, a girl whose bright hair had been dyed black, as black as that of the Indian woman who guarded her, whose white body was stained a walnut brown and whose face, now a mask of mingled misery, terror and despair, held no resemblance to the laughing goddess who had danced before the sun-god.

She had lived through days of torture, when neglect and rough treatment had been her lot. Since that moment on the desert when Scarface had snatched her from the protecting arms of Silver Tongue, she had not see the young Indian. Scarface himself was her jailer, a grim watchman, who gave her food and water when it pleased him, who kept her bound in her saddle for long, terrible hours of heat and thirst, who dropped her, fainting, onto the ground and left her there, unprotected, in the bitter nights of their journey to the Mountain Chant.

Scarface it was who had decided her fate. There had been a council meeting in the canyon before they left, led by the powerful old shaman. Lying shivering in her hogan, Lorraine had heard his voice going on and on endlessly. Once there had been a rush of feet for her shelter, and she had closed her eyes, thinking her end had come, but Silver Tongue's intervention had somehow again saved her life. The steps retreated the council continued. She fell into an exhausted sleep and the next morning was led forth, a captive. She had lived in constant terror of her unknown end ever since.

The trip had been a nightmare. It alone would have broken the girl's morale, but added to it was the grinding uncertainty of her future. That she must die, she did not once doubt. But what torture was to be hers before she was to know the release of death? All the stories she had ever heard of the cruelty of Indians crowded her imagination, until she shook in a fever of fear night and day, unable to sleep, unable to eat, unable to control her thoughts. Would she be scalped? Would she be tied on the desert and left to starve to death? Would her eyelids be cut off and she turned to wander loose in the terrible sunlight? By the time she reached the kiva she was nearly out of her mind, and so weak that she had to be carried down the rude ladder to her prison.

What saved her reason was the feeble hope that her father might somehow get to her before she was killed. Dirk was dead, she knew, having met a dreadful death on the desert. But her father—her father—who was aware that she was alive, who was already on his way to this place; wouldn't he, couldn't he save her? The frail hope supported her, until the idea crossed her mind that they might not take her to the place where her father was coming, after all. And then, when she was turned over to the care of the two women who transformed her appearance, until she was no longer distinguishable as a white woman, hope vanished entirely. Even if her father came here, even if he saw her being tortured to death, he would not know it was she. And if she called, or he lifted a hand to save her, he too would be killed.

It was then that despair palsied her spirit and numbed her whole being, so that she was a mere automatom in the hands of these savages. She ate what was put before her when she could, not tasting it not seeing, it scarcely realizing it kept her alive. For the rest she lay in a kind of stupor at one end of the small, underground room, dimly aware of movement about her, of comings and goings, of the dull, barbaric music that came to her ears from other hidden rooms, of darkness growing more dark—that was night—of periods of quiet, and other periods of confusion when a number of people came to stare at her, to go away, to come and stare again. Time passed over her like a drowning wave. How much longer before she would sink beneath it?

In the meantime Dirk and Kent, still ignorant of her presence, were also wondering how much longer they could endure the slow passage of the hours. Silver Tongue had not returned. Had he gone for Lorraine, or had he left her here? Red Jim and Powell could find out nothing about either of them and, with a growing forlorness of hope, they waited for the last day. From a respectful distance they had listened to the ceremonies that went on within the medicine lodge, had watched whatever activities Powel told them it was safe to observe going on in the clearing until the chanting and the dancing, the whooping and yelling, the feasting and sand-painting were old stories, and finally the ninth day arrived. By that time close to a thousand Indians were gathered in the "Windy Ditch," so called because of the whirlpool of air that circulated through it.

Throughout the daylight hours there was an immense amount of activity, gathering of wood, preparing of wands and arrows and other paraphernalia necessary to the last rites, but at sunset preparations ceased and the performance began.

While the heavens were still a burning lake of crimson and gold, the men and boys erected a huge, circular fence of pinon boughs about the edge of the clearing. It took them just a half hour, and when it was done it stood about eight feet high and was about forty paces in diameter. Within this fence, Powell explained, was "holy land." No animal must enter therein. Into this enclosure the Indians moved their possessions, for there were thieves among the Navajos, and they did not trust each other. They settled in little groups around the extreme edge ,with small fires near by to keep them warm, and light up their belongings so that any suspicious prowling person would be seen. While the women were transferring themselves, the men and boys were again busy in the center of the "holy land," this time building a gigantic woodpile of seasoned juniper and cedar trees from the collection of firewood that had been stacked up throughout the previous week. This was done to the tireless chant of a single Indian, who sang without stopping until the woodpile stood about twelve feet high and measured some forty paces around. Silmutaneously labo and song ended.

By this time the white men, too—excepting Hine and Rockwell, who remained behind to guard the horses and camp—had passed through the opening in the fence in the east, and were grouped together, discussing their plans in low voices while they watched proceedings. The general feeling was one of unrest and dissatisfaction. These men had come here for a purpose and their purpose was not being accomplished.

Dirk and the other hotblooded youngsters were in favor of holding up the ceremony and directly demanding information from the wrinkled old leader. Where was Silver Tongue? If he was here, they had business with him and wanted to see him. If he was not here, why wasn't he? Did Scarface know anything about the white girl Silver Tongue had found? Was she here? If so—

But Powell and Red Jim were both firm in their reiterated order to wait. Red Jim, indeed, was now convinced that Lorraine was not alive. What else could Silver Tongue's flight mean? But Powell still more familiar with the Indians than the hermit, sensed something unusual in the air and insisted on a continuation of the policy of watchful waiting.

"When they get started on their stunts, Red Jim and I can do more scouting around than we've been able to up to now," he said. "This is an open night. They aren't so guarded, and all but a few performers are here within the fence. Wait, Dirk, I tell you. I know Silver Tongue. You can trust him. Something's gone wrong, but it may come right if you don't break in too soon. Besides, if Scarface doesn't want to tell you anything he won't. So far he hasn't wanted to say a word in reply to my careful questions. You will only put him on his watch. No. You must wait. We must not appear to be anything but spectators." He paused a moment. "Silver Tongue may have excellent reasons for not bringing Lorraine in view until the last moment," he added. "Now just hold on to yourself another hour or two."

It was difficult, but his positiveness prevailed, so they settled themselves to watch the ceremonies, while Jim and Powell unobstrusively slipped away again It was now late in the evening and quite dark After the violent activity and noise of the last hour, the sudden hush that fell was startling—and curiously ominous. They all drew close together in silence.

Suddenly the musicians entered. Simultaneously the immense woodpile was lighted and there arose to the heavens a storm of fiery red and gold sparks. The heat was intense and the white men perforce withdrew from the glare, the ashes falling like snow upon them. When the fire was at its hottest, there was a trumpet call, and out from one of the kivas issued a group of dancers, bare, except for white beech cloths and moccasins. Their brown bodies were daubed with a white clay and this, coupled to the painting of their faces, gave them an extraordinary, inhuman look. They seemed, indeed, like statues come to life.

MAPLE SUGAR ACT.

The local office of the Department of Agriculture has recently received a number of inquiries regarding the new Maple Sugar Industry Act and as to how this Act affects the producers of maple products in this district.

The Maple Sugar Industry Act was passed to protect the quality of maple products sold. The following are the main provisions:

1—Materials that are not wholly pure maple products must not be sold as maple sugar or syrup.

2—Producers of maple products who ship their produce to other provinces or other countries must be licensed.

3—Other producers may have their sugar bush registered free of charge, but this is not compulsory.

4—All maple products for sale must be clearly labelled with the following information:

a. Name of the product.

b. Net weight contained in the unit.

c. Name and address of the producer.

d. License number if the bush is registered.

Producers of maple syrup should secure a copy of the Act from the Department of Agriculture, Peterborough, or the Fruit Branch of the Department at Ottawa.

Merchants of Havana, Cuba, are complaining that a large part of the throng which visited there during the winter slept and took most of their meals on board ship.

MINING BRIEFS.

TORONTO, Ont., Mar. 30.—(Special to Examiner.)—Strength continued to mark action in the producing gold stocks on the mining market to-day, with a good part of the buying attributed to New York. As predicted by many market followers the gold stocks are receiving attention as a result of weakness in industrial securities and the business situation generally, the reverse having taken place earlier in the year when the latter class of issues enjoyed a sustained advance.

Sylvanite gold output is now running around $71,000 per month with the mill treating some 250 tons a day against 210 tons for the greater part of last year. Officials, however, expect production to advance to 270 tons daily at an early date. The average grade including a good portion from the lower levels is keeping up to $10 per ton.

One of a number of methods which are being considered to utilize the waste gas of Turner Valley is a process for the extraction of benzine. The development of this is being assisted by the Alberta government, in the hope that the benzine may be extracted on a commercial sca'e. Premier J. E. Brownlee announced recently in the provincial legislature that the government would buil'd a semi commercial plant at Calgary this year for test purposes. The government action was determined after as a result of a series of highly successfu' experiments in the development of the new process conducted by Dr. E. H. Bomber of the University of Alberta. These experiments will now be continued in the test plant to be built at Calgary.

Lake Shores strength was ascribed to reports that on the 2200 foot level a length of 1,850 feet of ore averaging $40 a ton across drift width had been opened up to date and approximately 700 feet remained to be developed before the boundaries of the property were reached. No. 2 shaft was now reached the 2,825 foot level its present objective and one shaft is being opened up below the 2,000 foot horizon.

The amount of claim staking going on in the province of Quebec during the past couple of months has been second only to that of the Matachewan field in Northern Ontario. The greater part of the staking has been along the easterly continuation of the sedimentary formation which runs through the township of Joanne, but there has been considerable activity in various other places including Pascalis, Duparquet and other townships.

Hudson Bay Mining and Smelting Co. is reported to have taken a sampling option on the Searle group of claims, in northern Manitoba. The claims were originally staked for base metal showings, but it is now believed favorable gold values will be obtained on the property. Hudson Bay is interested in gold properties as a means of obtaining flux for smelting operations at the flin flon sme'ter.

General List Drops On Montreal Exchange

MONTREAL, Que., March (C.P.)—The weak trend at the opening of trading on the Montreal Stock Exchange to-day was intensified at noon, with a general decline of almost the entire list, though losses ranged up to only two points.

Smelters was the biggest loser, yielding two points to sell at 165 at noon. Quebec Power was off 1⅞ at 45, and Power Corporation showed a drop of 1½ at 61. Brazilian sold off ⅞ to 21⅜ and National Breweries lost ¾ at 33. Nickel eased ⅛ to 17½, and Canadian Pacific was off ½ at 41. Dominion Bridge turned up a point to 50.

CANAD AN COTTONS.

The fiscal year of Canadian Cottons Ltd., comes to a close on March 31st 1931 and as operations were approximately 60% of normal capacity on the average it is not expected that the annual report will reveal earnings sufficient to take care of the preferred dividends. The financial statement for the previous year showed earnings equal to $1.57 a share on the preferred. A strong balance sheet position was shown as the net working capital was $3,285,133. The shares of this company are closely held and seldom is a trade recorded.

Frederick K. Morrow Joins Massey-Harris

TORONTO, Mar. 30.—A meeting of the directors of Massey-Harris Company, held on Saturday, Frederick K. Morrow was added to the board for a five-year period. According to provisions laid down at the annual general meeting, the election of directors, appointments are made on a scale from one to five years. Provision has also been made for 15 directors, and Mr. Morrow's election fills the thirteenth position, leaving two directors still to be elected.

NATIONAL BREWERIES.

According to information reaching Financial Service a new field of endeavor for National Breweries has been opened up recently by the determination of the British Columbia Government to break up the virtual monopoly which apparently existed for some time in the brewing industry in that province. A considerable amount of business will, it is expected, accrue to this company from this source.

The annual report of National Breweries will be published very shortly and it is generally anticipated that the document will make cheerful reading for the shareholders.

Canada's Gold Output Is Climbing Steadily

OTTAWA, Mar. 30.—(CP)—More gold, silver, lead, zinc, cement and petroleum were produced in Canada during January, 1931, than in the corresponding month of 1930, according to the Dominion Bureau of Statistics' latest report on Canada's leading mineral products.

Copper production totalled 21,859,903 pounds in January as compared with 22,148,648 pounds in December and 24,936,756 pounds in January, 1930. Output during the month under review consisted of 4.9 million pounds from Quebec, 9.0 million pounds from Ontario 2.3 million pounds from Manitoba and 5.6 million pounds from British Columbia.

January's gold production totalled 202,785 ounces, made up of 160,016 ounces from Ontario, 20,264 ounces from Quebec, 11,048 ounces from British Columbia and the remainder from Nova Scotia, Manitoba and the Yukon. In December, 1930, the output was 220,558 ounces, while in January of the same year, 154,114 ounces were produced.

ALCOHOL WAR WITH 11-CENT PRICE CUT.

What was described as a price war in New York was on to-day in the alcohol industry as the result of an 11-cent cut in alcohol prices by large producers.

Alcohol for current and April delivery was quoted at 24 cents a gallon in tank car lots and 27 cents a gallon in drums, against 35 and 37 cents a gallon previously. Still lower prices were given in some instances to large buyers, it was reported.

Competition for business was keen and distillers were said to be bidding for large contracts at nearly any price buyers were willing to offer. The collapse in prices has been threatened for some time. A similar situation existed in the industry last spring.

News of Higher Sales Tax Stimulates Dealer Demand

TORONTO, Mar. 30.—The prospect of an increase in the sales tax from 1per cent to ¼ per cent or 5 per cent has acted as a stimulant to business during the past few weeks, states Canadian Grocer in the current issue. Many large buyers have been ordering in quantity in an endeavour to escape the coming impost.

There is peculation as to whether the new tax will apply to new business only or to all goods that have not been shipped from manufacturers' warehouses at the time the budget comes down. A good deal of business has been awaiting the opening of navigation but it is not likely this will take place until the Premier presents his statement. It is therefore anticipated that as the budget date nears buyers will take delivery of as much of their orders as possible.

TESTING INVESTOR'S STAMINA.

The stamina of investors is being put to a severe test just now with the rank and file of corporation finding themselves forced to take a hitch in their belts in the interests of conservatism. It is just about a decade since the average investor has had to stand by and see his income whittled down by reason of the necessity upon corporations of reducing their rates of dividend payments. The individual investor is hardly alone in his present plight when one considers the host of fixed investment trusts which have been brought out over the last ten or twelve months. It is safe to assume that the inability of the market to withstand the strain of this steady and widespread cutting of dividends will depend very largely on the extent to which discouraged liquidation results.

Report Says Copper Going At 9¾ Cents

NEW YORK, Mar. 30.—(AP)—Several hundred tons of copper were reported Saturday in trade circles to have been offered by speculators for 9¾ cents a pound delivered, in the domestic market. The price is one-quarter of a cent under that at which custom smelters are quoting and also a quarter of a cent under the level of 10.30 cents at which the metal is quoted in the export market.

Imports of unmanufactured copper by the United States in February fell to 13,539 from 17,433 tons in January and 21,895 tons in December, the American Bureau of Metal Statistics reports.

INVESTMENT TRUST ISSUE.

An offering will be made shortly of a new issue of a fixed investment trust under the name of First All-Canadian Trustee Shares, differing in its organization in many respects from any other fixed trust being offered in Canada or the United States.

Realizing that the practice in organizing most fixed trusts has been to continue the rust over a period of twenty to fifty years, allowing the holders of shares to sell at any time, the sponsors of First All-Canadian Truste Shares have varied this practice by creating a short time trust for a period of twelve years and by fixing selling prices of the stocks deposited, at prices, in each case determined by the investmen counsel of the trust as a probable price the stock will attain within the period.

C.P.R. Starts Year With Earnings Drop

MONTREAL, Mar. 30.—(CP)—Net profits of $513,690 for the month of February were announced Saturday by the Canadian Pacific Railway, a decrease of $398,945 as compared with $912,635 for the corresponding period last year. The gross earnings for the month were $10,553,181, as compared with $12,350,000 for February, 1930, a drop of $1,806,719. Working expenses were $10,039,490, a decrease of $1,407,773, under the figure of $11,447,264, in 1930.

Net profits for the two months ended Feb. 28 were $1,377,698 as compared with $1,701,465, a drop of $232,766.

NORANDA STOCK IS HIT HEAVILY

Issue Sells Down Heavily on Toronto Exchange as New York Unloads.

NICKEL IS EASIER.

TORONTO, Ont., March 30 (C.P.).—Toronto stock exchange market was heavy this morning. Action of the local list was a direct reflection of early prices in New York. Trading was limited almost wholly to interlisted issues and the board presented a jagged appearance of sales dragging downward in only occassional spots.

Noranda was hit heavily at the opening. The stock came out practically unchanged from last week but sold down swiftly as New York unloaded. Reports were that stop loss orders resulted in a large volume of Noranda going over board at 23, driving the price there down to almost 22. Locally the decline halted at 23 and swung upward slightly from that figure.

Nickel was easier, but fluctuating within a very limited range Brazilian had to absorb fairly heavy realizing again with the price off 21⅝, just about 1 point above the low for the year. Ford dipped to 27 under moderately heavy trading. C. P. R. was another prominent issue sold, the price being uniform, however, at 41. Dominion Stores, after the late strength of last week, slumped more than a point. Liquor stocks were easier but not under heavy pressure.

Outlook for the oils shows no improvement and the daily liquidation continued. Leaders were driven back to previously untouched prices this morning. B. A. Oil selling at 12, Imperial at 15, International Petroleum under 12. Service Stations was unchanged.

Absence Of Buying Sends Wheat Down

CHICAGO, Ill., March 30 (C.P.).—All grains went downward in price early today as a result of absence of any aggressive buying. Auspicious weather and crop reports regarding domestic winter wheat had a bearish effect, especially heavy snow in the Texas Panhandle.

Switching of wheat brokers to the largest trading pit on the exchange floor, whereas corn brokers returned to their former quarters took place smoothly, the change being wellunderstoodbeforehand.

Wheat opened ⅝ cent lower to ¼ up, and afterward showed an additional sag. Corn statred unchanged to ⅛ off, and subsequently receded all around.

Heads Kotex Company

L. E. PHENNER,
Manager, Kotex Company of Canada, Limited.

Mr. Phenner stated to-day that the Company's factory at Niagara Falls, Ontario, has been altered to permit the manufacture of Kleenex cleansing tissues for the Canadian and export trade.

The staff at the factory has been increased 37 p.c. Kleneex sales for 1930 were phenomenal. An advance in 1931 of more than 150 p.c. over last year's sales is predicted. If sales volume increases as is anticipated, the Kotex Company probably will build an entirely new Canadian factory.

Winnipeg Review

Special Service to The Examiner through the courtesy of E. J. Bawlf Company, Grain and Stock Brokers, of Toronto

Week-end liquidation by tired longs was the feature of the wheat market Saturday which found buying power quite thin, and prices declined about ¾ under the close Saturday night. The Chicago market for wheat and corn were also easier while the New York stock market was weak. The market fell into the daily bids which brought in some support but it was barely sufficient to absorb the offerings. There was a fair export business worked overnight, but estimates varied, running from 200 to 450,000 bushels. The Pool confirmed eight loads being worked, which would be around 80,000 bushles. Some durums were worked and there was an inquiry in the market for 300,000 bushels, but this round lot was difficult to get as the supply of durums is becoming fairly well cleaned up. Seaboard reported only a moderate scattered business. Broomhall reports that buyers are cautious and watching the international conference at Rome, which is investigating the possibility of obtaining their requirements from European countries as much as possible by the granting of preferential import tariffs. This is a bearish feature on these markets. The whole winter wheat territory is now well supplied with moisture and it is not expected that the frost has done much damage. Winnipeg futures closed 5-8 to 7-8 lower, 1-8 from the bottom in all futures.

Coarse Grains.—There was also scattered liquidation going on in these markets, otherwise there was very little doing. The demand was very thin. Flax market continued weak, dull and draggy.

Liverpool due ½ to ¾ lower based on Winnipeg.

MARCH EMPLOYMENT SITUATION

Largely owing to seasonal curtailment in the out-door industries, there was a falling-off in employment at the beginning of March, which, however, involved a smaller number of workers than that indicated on March 1, 1930. Statements were furnished to the Dominion Bureau of Statistics by 7,452 of the larger employers of labour throughout Canada, whose payrolls aggregated 901,585 persons, as compared with 906,813 in the preceding month. This decrease caused the index number (based upon the average for 1926 as 100) to decline from 100.7 on February 1, 1931, to 100.2 at the beginning of March, as compared with 110.2, 111.4, 102.6, 97.5, 92.6, 88.1, 91.0, 82.9 and 89.1 on March 1, 1930, 1929, 1928, 1927, 1926, 1925, 1924, 1923, 1922 and 1921, respectively. Thus the index was lower than on March 1, 1930, 1929 and 1928, but with these exceptions, was higher than in any previous year of the record.

McIntyre, Dome and Lake Shore Move Up Quarter in Good Demand on Standard.

ACCUMULATION IN GOLDS.

TORONTO, Ont., March 30.—(CP)—Accumulation was still in evidence among the producing gold stocks on the Standard Mining Exchange to-day. General list was steady, but base metals stocks suffered under selling. Noranda losing further ground.

McIntyre, Dome and Lake Shore moved up a quarter each in good demand Wright-Hargreaves was active and 15 Higher at $2.60 and Sylvanite, Hollinger and Teck Hughes gained 5 apiece. Siscoe lost 4 on reports of a disagreement in election of directors, Gem Lake sold off 3 to 21, Eldorado 5 to $1.05 and Macassa and Mining Corp. were down a cent or so each. Pennies were quiet, Algonquin and Brownlee easy and Manitoba Basin up a fraction.

Dropping to a low of $23, Noranda recovered towards noon but was off $1.15 to $23.50 at noon. International Nickel dropped a half to $17.50, Sherritt Gordon was down 7 to $1.11 and Pend Oreille and Amulet were easy.

Cheaper oils were listless with Ajax oil up 3 to $1.40, Peninsular Pete a cent higher at 19 and the balance practically unchanged.

47 ENUMERATORS TO TAKE CENSUS

take an oath that the information they obtain will be confidential.

Col. Everett Birdsall is the commissioner for the electoral district of Hastings-Peterborough which includes the villages of Norwood and Havelock and the townships of Anstruther, Burleigh, Dummer, Asphodel, Belmont, Methuen and Chandos, with the group of municipalities in Hastings county, which together comprise a large and scattered constituency. In fact it is one of the broadest in southern Ontario, and presents many difficulties for Col. Birdsall.

Questions to be asked in compiling the urban census include the address, a description of the house, including the value, type and materials of construction, rooms occupied, whether or not there is a radio, a personal description, giving age and sex, place of birth of self and parents, whether naturalized, and if so, how long, nationality and racial origin, language, the ability to speak French and English, and languages other than those spoken as the mother tongue, religion, education, occupation and industry, class of work and salary, unemployment.

Rural uestionaire

The farmer will have many more questions to answer. In addition to name, address, age, birthplace and nationality, he must tell how many persons he has employed during the years; how many persons live on his farm; farm acreage; condition of land; farm values; mortgages; expenses; facilities; crops and their values under the headings of grain, hay, and forage, potatoes and roots, miscellaneous field crops; farm gardens; orchard fruits; small fruits with the amount harvested and the value in each case; forest products; maple syrup and sugar; live stock; mules and mule colts; disposition of milk; sheep and lambs; wool clips; goats; swine; poultry; eggs and chickens; bees and bee products, young animals raised during the year; domestic animals and poultry slaughtered in year; domestic animals and poultry sold alive; animals bought in 1930; purebred animals; co-operation in marketing; co-operative purchasing of farm supplies.

In the urban centres, a census will be taken of every place of business. In cases of boarding houses, where the owners are unable to give information about boarders who happen to be absent when the census talker calls, forms will be left which will be filled out and called for by the census taker.

GAS COMPANY MAKES OFFER

Hamilton Firm Applies For Franchise to Supply Windsor With Gas.

CONFERENCE THURSDAY.

WINDSOR, Ont., Mar. 30. (CP)—Formal application for a franchise to supply Windsor with natural gas was made to-day to Mayor David A. Croll by the Southern Ontario Gas Company, Limited, and its proprietors, the Dominion Natural Gas Company Limited, of Hamilton.

The application was made by Hartley and Sweet of Brantford, solicitors for the gas companies and request is made that a by-law be submitted to the voters to provide for the franchise.

The company offers to supply gas at 85 cents for the first thousand cubic feet, 65 cents a thousand for the next 19,000 cubic feet and 50 cents per thousand for all above the consumption. There would also be a service charge of 85 cents per month.

The proposed price would be increased over the new rates of the Windsor Gas Company for the first 10,000 cubic feet but would be lower for any larger amount of gas used.

A conference between council and representatives of the company will be held on Thursday Mayor Croll announced to-day.

McCREA PROMISES TO TAKE ACTION IF GAS WAR THREAT PROVES TRUE

Action Be Taken on Ground That Consumer Would Pay in the Long Run.

PEEBLES DEFENDS OFFER

HAMILTON, Ont., March 30.—That Hon. Charles McCrea had intimated that he would use his power to prevent any gas war in Ontario, was the Statement made by Mayor Peebles today in discussing the announcement made by the Dominion Natural Gas Company that they would cut their price in Hamilton to 25 cents per thousand feet, and offer lower prices in other sections of Ontario. Such interference, he said, would be on the ground that if there was a war the consumer would pay for it in the long run.

The Mayor then discussed the motives of the Dominion Company in making the cut.

Perhaps they hope to prevent the passage of our agreement with the United Gas and Fuel company, he said.

Controller Riselay interjected the remark that there seemed a chance of the agreement not being approved. Mayor Peebles then defended the United Gas and Fuel Company's offer, asserting that there was nothing in the agreement affecting the Dominion Company's rights.

Woman Is Burned In Gas Explosion

GUELPH, March 30 (C.P.).—When a liquid which she had placed in a washing machine to cleanse overalls exploded, Mrs. John Halliburton sustained serious burns about the face and arms to-day. The explosion flung the machine out of the cellar, ignited woodwork, causing a fire which resulted in considerable damage before it was extinguished.

TRAGEDY IS TOLD BY LITTLE CHAP

WINDOWS BROKEN IN FRIGHT

LAMAR, Colo., March 30.—Bryan Untiedt, 13-year-old schoolboy, who survived a 36-hour ordeal in a snowdrift trapped bus, recuperated in a hospital here to-day.

Five perished Friday in the battle against hunger and freezing winds in a stalled Summit Hill bus. Bryan sought to drive his companions out of lethargy when they dropped in zero-cold.

"My Daddy will find," he said. His father, H. A. Untiedt, was one of the first to reach the snow-filled machine.

Opening the door, Untiedt saw two children lying on the floor in the front of the bus. One of them was his son, Arlo, 9, and the other, Rosemary Miller, 9, daughter of the bus driver who lost his life when he braved the storm to bring aid.

Both still were breathing, but died soon after being rushed to a ranch house.

Three Outside Bus

Untiedt said three bodies were buried in snow in the rear of the bus. Two windows had been broken by the children in their fright and the flakes had been driven through to fill two-thirds of the interior.

NEW YORK DECLINE BROKEN BY RALLIES

Allied Chemical Falls 7 Points —Several Other Issues Continue Drop.

NEW YORK, N.Y., March 30 (C.P.)—The decline in share prices showed signs of flattening out in to-day's stock market, but bears were in no rush to take their profits.

The list developed moderate rallying tendencies occasionally, but was unable to make notable progress on the upside. Allied Chemical was again a weak spot, falling about 7 points. Shares declining 2 or 3 points included American Telephone, American and Foreign Power, Atchison, Dupont, Byers, American Water Works and Eastman. Utilities were conspicuously heavy, but losses of a point or so well well distributed throughout the list, embracing such issues as American Can, U. S. Steel, Radio, Sears, United Corp., and others. In the rails, Pennsylvania and Nickle Plate penetrated new low territory. Trading was in substantial volume in the morning, but slackened as the day wore on.

$50,000 WILL BE

gave a most interesting review of recent developments in the field of long distance telephone work. Land systems and the use of the radio telephone to span the oceans had made so much progress in recent years, Mr. Brace declared, that thirty-two million out of the thirty-five million telephones in the world could now talk to each other. The first radio telephone service was only commenced four years ago, so that the development that had taken place could rightly be described as the most miraculous in the history of telephone communication.

Speaking of long distance land telephone service, Mr. Brace pointed out that it was not until 1919 that telephone service between the Atlantic seaboard and Denver was established and not until 1915 that it was possible to span the continent and talk from New York to San Francisco.

So far as Canada was concerned the All-Red route had not yet been completed, the speaker said, but by next year it would be possible to talk from Halifax to Vancouver over practically Canadian line, something that was not possible at present.

Trans - Atlantic radio telephone communication began with experiments in 1914 between the United States and France, experiments that were ended with the war. Then came the establishment in 1927 of radio-telephone communication between the United States and Great Britain, and the rapid development of similar services in other parts of the globe. Meanwhile land service in Europe had so improved that it was now possible to talk from any part of the North American continent to almost everywhere in Europe except Russia.

Mr. Brace referred to other recent developments, including the one that had taken place in Canada of telephoning from a moving train. So successful had this proved, he said, that a representative of a British firm who was travelling on a train between Toronto and Montreal, telephoned his head office in England. He had a possible customer with him and when a matter of price adjustment came up put in a call from the train which at that time was between Cobourg and Kingston. He was able to get into communication with his home office, the price was fixed and the deal completed before the train reached Kingston.

Rotarian Ross L. Dobbin thanked Mr. Brace on behalf of the club, incidentally referring to the speaker as an "engineer who has made good in business."

Fred Reed was introduced by Rotarian W. R. Morris as a new member to the club and given a hearty welcome.

President Robert Abbott called attention to the Y.W.C.A. Pageant and Rotarian George A. Macdonald urged hearty support for the event and for the Y.W.C.A. generally. It was a shame, he said, that the institution was not better appreciated in Peterborough.

CHAUTAUQUA STAGES FINE PLAY BEFORE BIG MILLBROOK AUDIENCE

Circuit Director Gives Interesting Description of Organization's History and Work.

REEVE GIVES ADDRESS.

MILLBROOK, Mar. 30.—(Examiner Correspondence.)—Humor, pathos, and a bit of tragedy each had a place in the play, "Turn to the Right," presented by the Peerless Players at the opening concert of the Canadian Chautauqua Festival, held in the Town Hall on Thursday an audience that filled the auditorium fairly well, being in attendance.

Reeve P. Stinson made the opening address, welcoming those present on behalf of the Chautauqua organization, and incidentally referring to the feeling on the part of the local committee, there had been a lack of co-operation on the part of the community generally in helping them to successfully sponsor the Chautauqua entertainments this season.

Miss Torrey, Chautauqua superintendent for the week here, also spoke outlining the treat in store through the excellent programs to be presented, urging appreciation of the initiative of the local committee in assuming the financial responsibility, and t... personal work necessary, to make possible the bringing of first-class artists to the community for the week's entertainments.

The privilege of meeting and hearing Mrs. Ericson, who with her husband has been directing Chautauqua circuits for some years, first in the west and now in eastern Canada, was accorded the audience, Miss Torrey introducing this gifted artist who was received with an outburst of prolonged applause.

The wonderful growth of Chautauqua was emphasized by Mrs. Ericson who said there were now nine circuits, four each in summer and winter, and one at this spring season, visiting six hundred towns and cities from Quebec westward to the Pacific coast, as compared with forty-two in the original plan. Great success has been attained in the cities as well as in the rural sections, Calgary now having three Chautauquas, annu...; Winnipeg three, Port Arthur and Fort William four, and Edmonton tw... growing interest and increasing engag... ments in the east may cause the r... of headquarters to Toronto in the near future.

Manitoba and Alberta have already eliminated the tax from all Chautauqua tickets, and it is expected Ontario will presently follow suit.

Marmora

MADOC, March 30 (Examiner Correspondence)—Trinity United W.M.S. held their meeting at home of Mrs. Bristol, on Thursday, 25th, one week early, on account of the Chatauqua which meets her e next week. The meeting was opened with the Easter responsive service in charge of Mrs. A. Thompson, and the reading being given by Mrs. Huffman.

Mrs. Ashley, the president, took charge during the business session, and called for reports of secretaries and treasurer, all of which showed progress. Mrs. Irwin gave a reading on temperance, which was followed by a paper on systematic giving; "Opportunities," by Mrs. M. Maybee; a vocal duet was well rendered by Mesdames L. Ashley and W. Hulin, "I Will Walk with Him," after which Mrs. Ludbrook introduced the subject, "A Hole in the Wall," dealing with the national traffic in liquor. Mrs. Rutherford followed showing that the "Hole in the Wall' was leading to the door of homes of our land. Mrs. Fair then dealt with it as leading to crime and immorality, and Mrs. Bailey showed that it led to loss of self-control, and lack of support of home and children. Concluding Mrs. Rivers showed that the traffic means to our people, poverty, domestic unhappiness and illicit sales. Truly a huge "Hole in the Wall."

The Heralds of the Watch Tower reported: for Africa, Mrs. Maybee; for China, Mrs. Fair; for Japan, Mrs. Bailey; for Indian work in Canada, Mrs. L. Ashley, gave in a very entertaining way, the twenty-third Psalm in the sign language of the Indians; Mrs. Hough gave an account of the organized work of the W.M.S. in Korea; Miss Wood reported the affiliation of twenty-one societies in Trinidad; Mrs. Huffman reported for work among the Orientals and Mrs. Bristol gave some alarming figures as to the amount of money spent for liquor in Canada in 1929. She says that $192,000,000 represents the money spent, according to statistics. "Is it any wonder that there is a depression in all other lines of business?"

A very pleasing feature of the afternoon was the presentation by Mrs. A. Thompson and Mrs. M. Maybee of a Life Certificate to Mrs. O. Dingman. The presentation was made in a few graceful words, acknowledging the earnest and faithful work of Mrs. Dingman during many years in the W.M.S. Although taken entirely by surprise, Mrs. Dingman thanked the members for the honor done her, and only regretted that she had not been able to do more, but assuring them that the work was very dear to her, and she hoped to be always faithful.

The meeting closed by singing the hymn, "Take time to be Holy."

partment in full accord. This automatically releases him from his office. The business now in hand is the appointment of his successor.

Need to Watch His Step.

That the man who is appointed as road superintendent will have to watch his step, and earn his wages, was made clear by Reeve Breckenridge some time ago. "The only request I make to the Council is, that whoever is chosen shall be chosen on his merits, and that the Council shall be unanimous in the matter. If the new road superintendent wants to keep his job, he will have to stay on it for ten hours each day, for which he receives a days pay. Otherwise I shall fire him also."

There are six applications for the vacant position, and it is expected there will be as many more. The Council does not intend to act precipitately in the matter of his appointment, and it is expeted the position will be vacant for a while yet. Last year the pay was $4.25 per day while on the job. This year it is thought that rate will be reduced.

On motion by Whitney and Steenburg, the poll clerks and constables are to receive $33.00 each for the last election.

The report of Mrs. Freeman, school attendance officer, was read and adopted. Motion by Vanslckle and Steenburg. Belmont School Fair will receive a grant of $15.00.

The expenses in connection with the last election, amounting to $151.33, were ordered paid as follows: For acting as D.R.O. at $4.00 each, R. W. Burgess, W. J. Peoples, H. W. Brown, Frank Pollock, W. R. Purdy, Marcus Quakenbush, Fred Post $5.00, Stewart Dulmage $10.00. For poll clerks at $33.00 each, Austin Wilde, Melville Dafoe, James Freeman, Robert Marshall, Isaac Post, Arthur Steenburg, Bert Hart, Sheldon Wallbridge. Constables at $3.00 each, James Mann, James Toms, Wellington Ellis, John Pollock, Fred Bowen, Arthur Munroe. For polling booths at $3.00, James Hubble, Sr., Will Houses, John Pollock, Arthur Steenburg, Mrs. Norris Whitney, S. S. No. 11, Thomas Steen, S.S. No. 14, Secretary-treasurer, S.S. No. 14, Peterborough Examiner, Ltd., supplies, $8.08; The Havelock Standard, supplies, $29.30; Grant Dafoe, returning officer an dexpenses, $11.83.

Other bills passed were: Ross Barrons, supplies for family at Cordova, $48.97; Melville Dafoe, part salary as assessor, $50.00; William King, for attending Peterson family at Blairton, while in quarantine, $17.50.

The Council then adjourned for supper, and finished the remaining business at seven o'clock.

REV. E. HARSTON GIVES ADDRESS

Preaches Palm Sunday Sermon at Christ Church to Capacity Congregation.

AT CAMPBELLFORD.

CAMPBELLFORD, March 30 (By Examiner Staff Correspondent). — With every available seat taken, and the gallery crowded to capacity, a record congregation at Christ Church, Campbellford, Sunday evening, listened to a splendid and inspiring sermon delivered by the Rev. Ernest Harston, of the Oshawa United Church, who was the guest preacher.

The rector, the Rev. N. Clark Wallace, conducted the service and introduced the guest speaker. The choir, under the leadership of William Pearson, A.L.C.M., rendered special music for the occasion, emphasizing the Palm Sunday theme. A contralto solo, "The Palms," was sung by Mrs. F. deF. Free, and Major J. M. Bygott and E. H. Lewis rendered a tenor and bass duet, "So Thou Liftest Thy Divine Petition," from "The Crucifixion" (Stainer).

Mr. Harston took for his text, Luke 19: 37-38. "And when He was come nigh—even now at the descent of the Mount of Olives, the whole multitude—began to rejoice, saying: 'Blessed be the King that cometh in the name of the Lard'." He said that this was one of those pictures which has a special appeal to all. Jesus, the prophet of Nazareth, coming in triumph to his capital amid the acclamation of the people, with the strewn garments and waving palm branches and the cry of "Hosannah." Jesus accepted the enthusiasm of the multitude, the preacher said, but he was not deceived by it. He saw through the palm branches the shadow of the Cross, and hear through the cry of "Hosannah," the cry of "Crucify Him."

The multitude welcomed Jesus in a happy mood, and they expected Him to be happy for the same reason they were. Because they thought that He had come as a king to deliver them from the Roman authority. And when they discovered this was not the case, they turned against Him. And so Christ was crucified five days later.

"And so with us," said Mr. Harston, "we may look for the sunshine, but have to see the shadows—we may see the palms, but have to feel the cross." This is a great age in which we live. An age of publicity, gossip and scandal, when men and women had their ears to the ground, listening for the applause or blame of the multitude. But what Jesus wants is that He should be written on our hearts. The men who do the worth-while things of life do not listen to the multitude, but do their duty in life, quietly and surely, exemplifying Christ in their work.

Jesus on the colt was the true picture of Him, said Mr. Harston, for it presented the true character of Jesus as King. If you take away the divinity of Christ, he said, you take away that which gives Christianity its power and attraction. Creeds are mere approximations, the preacher declared. It takes more than words to discover what Jesus put into life. It takes poetry, music, the arts, the deeds of Jesus, for Jesus is different from all other men. When we come to Jesus, we should come to worship Him, recognizing Him in His true character, the Lord of Life.

"What right," asked Mr. Harston, "has Jesus to ride triumphantly into our lives, asking that we recognize Him as king?" In the first place because we always find in Him the thing that one calls sacred—God. It is His divine quality in perfection that makes Him rise triumphantly in our lives. His character is not emphasized by the sinless man, but by his active goodness.

And secondly, the preacher said, Jesus Christ is the only one who can give life its real meaning. Without Him we cannot understand life. For Jesus is life, and we can only get it through Him. Everything in life works out for the one great purpose, to make us Christlike. And lately, men of all ages have felt that Jesus can do for them and in them as no other man can do. There have been and are many good men, but none could or can change the inner life. That was what Jesus did and is doing, and why He can ride triumphantly into our lives.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE WILL SUPPORT HIGHWAY RESOLUTION

For Completion of Highway No. 7 Which Was Commenced Last Year.

NEEDED AS TRADE ROUTE.

At a meeting of the Executive of the Chamber of Commerce yesterday it was decided that the Chamber would support the City Council of Peterborough and the Town Councils of Norwood, Havelock and Marmora in pressing the Ontario Department of Highways to complete Highway 7 which was commenced last year. Several reasons why the road should be completed were enumerated. The construction of such a highway would cost less this summer as the costs of labor and material are temporarily down. The undertaking would aid the unemployment by the using of men and teams now idle. The new artery is greatly needed as a trade route, and as work and plans were commenced last year it would be diplomatic to discontinue the construction.

As a tourist route, it would provide a scenic drive from the popular Rideau Lakes down to the Kawartha Lakes. Peterborough has the lowest per capita cost of highways in the Province up to the end of 1930. Every person in this country pays about one half of that expended in neighboring counties on the construction and maintenance of roads.

Alderman Wm. Hamilton, Chairman of the Membership Committee reported membership fee receipts for the period of February 7 to March 24 of $690.00 and Activities Fund subscriptions amounting to $280. In the absence of the treasurer, C. S. Cummer, the manager read the report of the Finance and Headquarters Committe showing a deficit of $1,000 for the past fiscal year. It was the opinion of the executive that this debit should be offset by the collection of fees due and the signing up of new members.

The Advertising and Publicity Committee under C. D. Cook gave particulars of the Peterborough-Kawartha Lakes exhibits at Philadelphia and Detroit, where this district had been given great publicity at a minimum cost of $125 to the Chamber of Commerce and a similar amount to the Trent Waterways.

campaign has been honest, and never personally against Mr. Baldwin, like the United Empire movement of Rothermere) was, the Guardian said.

Probably the election of the official, Baldwin supporting Conservative in the St. George's, Westminster, by-election recently played an important part in the negotiations towards the truce. In that election an unofficial Conservative, backed to the limit by the Beaverbrook-Rothermere press in a campaign against Mr. Baldwin's leadership of the party, was defeated by more than 5,000 votes.

Modern rationalization in agriculture was the feature of the 1931 agricultural show in Berlin, Germany.

HIS WIFE'S SECRET

Why Lifelong Headaches Stopped

SHE PUT KRUSCHEN IN HIS TEA OR COFFEE

Without saying a word to him this man's wife put Kruschen in his tea or coffee for two years. And he couldn't understand why headaches he had been subject to for 50 years suddenly disappeared. Recently, she told him the reason, and he at once sat down and wrote this letter:—

"I am 62 years of age, and ever since I was a boy of ten years, I was subject to a very bad headache and a severe pain in my shoulders. But over two years ago the vomiting and headache stopped—for what reason I did not know. I was surprised when one day my wife told me I had been using Kruschen Salts in my tea or coffee for over 2 years. I am still using them, and also recommending them to others, as I know of nothing finer for the system."—J. T.

How do you deal with headaches? Do you just take something to deaden the pain without getting rid of the trouble which causes the pain? Thousands do, despite the medical profession's warning cry of "Don't!" Such makeshift methods simply suppress the symptoms of headaches. They merely numb the nerves and leave the underlying cause to look after itself. And it only obtains a firmer grip. Headaches can nearly always be traced to a disordered stomach, and to the unsuspected retention in the system of stagnating waste material which poisons the blood. Remove these poisons—prevent them forming again—and you'll never have to worry any more. And that is just how Kruschen Salts brings swift and lasting relief from headaches. Kruschen Salts aid Nature to cleanse your body completely of all clogging waste matter. Buy a bottle of Kruschen to-day and start on "the little daily dose" to-morrow. Then you will very soon have done with headaches for all time. Kruschen Salts is obtainable at all Drug Stores at 45c. and 75c. per bottle.

24 CONFIRMED AT LAKEFIELD

Bishop Seager of Ontario Diocese, Takes Part in Service in Grove Chapel.

BOYS' CHOIR.

LAKEFIELD, March 30 (Examiner Correspondence). — A class of twenty-four boys was confirmed by Bishop Seager of the Ontario Diocese, in the chapel of The Grove on Wednesday evening. The service was very impressive and the setting an ideal one for the administration of the apostalic rite. The service was simple and hearty, with the singing of familiar and well-beloved hymns by the boyish voices a real inspiration to both young and adult listeners. Rev. A. W. Mackenzie, D.D., headmaster, was in charge of the service, and was assisted by Rev. W. J. Creighton, M.A., rector of Lakefield.

The Bishop took as his text a part of the 27th verse of the 16th chapter of the Gospel according to St. John: "For the Father Himself loveth you."

Recalling his own Confirmation by the late Bishop Baldwin of Huron Diocese, the Bishop spoke of the custom of giving the candidates a text to remember and the text given by Bishop Baldwin to the speaker, 'Pray without ceasing, "has never been forgotten. The most important thing in the world is what people believe about God, not only because we look forward to that other life spent with Him, but because what we believe about God forms our character and makes our relationship with our fellow-men.

As an illustration on the negative side of the terrible and tremendous effect on our lives and character the wrong idea of God has, the speaker told of an African tribe living in a dense forest near a great river with an unfortunate religion believing in many gods or demons really, all bad tempered, cruel, and vindictive spirits. Their religion was a series of offerings to placate these gods and especially the superior one who only came at certain seasons, grim and terrible, accompanied by black clouds thunder and lightning, bringing terrible destruction. These people were terribly cruel and degraded. Like God, like people, and the most terrible and destructive influence in life is fear. Fear still rules us to a tremendous extent, apprehension, we often know not what is underneath all. The under current of fear of death is the heritage of us all. Sheer animal fear dominates civilized people to an extraordinary degree. The Apostle said "Perfect love casteth out fear,' 'and if our spirits are in touch with it, our inner character is transformed. Perfect external love casteth out fear and changes our relationship to all the world. The great revelation of the God of love is the dominant note of the New Testament where Jesus is shown us as the Eternal Son of God. Without the teaching of the Lord, the world would never have known that God is love. Our Lord Himself spoke the words of the text. During the first century of the Christian era this new and startling truth that God is love came out from Jewry and spread like wildfire over all the known world and changed human society as is seen very plainly in St. Paul's Epistle to Philemon, who was a well-to-do friend and convert of St. Paul, and had a slave Onesimus, who had run away and drifted to Rome, where he came into contact with St. Paul and became a Christian. St. Paul sent him back to Philemon, and with him a letter telling him to receive Onesimus, not as a slave, but as a brother beloved. What a transformation of attitude. If one could believe that every professing Christian said the Lord's Prayer twice each day one would feel easier. There are some busy men who, when the noon whistles blow, let their thoughts dwell for a moment on Him, Who hung on the cross at noonday, and say a brief prayer. No day can be quite selfish when the thought of the Saviour's love had a place in the middle of it. Worship is the natural outcome of the love of God, and don't let anything separate you from the life and work of the church. There is something for everyone to do for God in the church more than we have wakened up to.

The candidates were presented by Rev. A. W. Mackenzie. The spring flowers, daffodils, and narcissi on the altar were combined with calla lilies and added to the service in the way beautiful flowers always do on God.'s altar.

British women claim to live longer than their American sisters, whose death-rate between the ages of 25 and 64 is more than 30 per cent higher than that in Berlin.

CATTLE, GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL PRODUCE

MONTREAL, March 30.—Egg and butter prices were higher, and cheese quotations were lower, while potato prices were unchanged at the produce and dairy market here last week. On Saturday, butter and egg prices advanced, and cheese and potato quotations were unchanged.

Regraded Eastern Townships and fresh Western No. 1 butter gained ¼c, at 31½c to 31¾c a pound; and, to retailers, solids and prints were unchanged at 33c and 34c a pound, respectively. Receipts last week were 1,083 boxes.

On the egg market, fresh seconds to retailers gained 1c at 21c a dozen. Carlot prices of fresh Ontario and Prairie extras were quoted unchanged at 24c to 14½c, firsts at 22c to 22½c, and seconds at 18c a dozen. Last week's receipts were 14,020 cases.

Winter colored cheese was quoted at 14c a pound, and receipts for the week were 305 boxes.

New Brunswick Green Mountain potatoes, in carlots, were quoted at 82½c per 80-pound bag, and, to retailers, 95c per 80-pound bag.

CHICAGO, March 30. — Notwithstanding that widespread rain and snow were bearish on wheat and bullish on corn, both grains underwent sharp price breaks Saturday. Pronounced weakness of securities served as a notable handicap especially on wheat buyers, who also were deterred owing to an apparent fizzle as to predicted crop damage from abnormal cold. Considerable uneasiness was shown regarding likelihood of enlarged wheat shipments from Russia, as ice-bound Russian ports were expected to re-open soon.

Wheat closed nervous, 2c lower to ¼c advance; corn ⅝c to ¾c down; oats, ¼c off to ½c up, and provisions unchanged to 7c decline.

New crop deliveries of wheat and the June delivery as well closed at the day's bottom level, with traders recalling the big rush of wheat fresh from the harvest fields last year at the beginning of July. The receipts for July, 1930, as compiled Saturday, showed Chicago arrivals were 9,101 cars, Omaha 8,935 cars, St. Louis 9,486 cars, and Kansas City 22,131 cars. Contributing also to wheat weakness were advices that Australia had yet 100,000,000 bushels to dispose of and that millers were finding difficulty in selling Australian flour as against British flour made from cheap Russian wheat.

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, March 30. — Tired holders of wheat turned to the selling side of the market here on Saturday and values at the close were depressed fractionally. Losses of from ⅝c to ¾c were recorded at the end of the short session.

May closed at 57¼c, down ⅝c; July at 58⅝c, was down ⅝c; while October closed at 60⅝c, down ⅝c.

Pit operations were light in the aggregate and not particularly noteworthy. A little seaboard buying was in evidence and traders reported 400,000 bushels worked for export overnight and during the morning.

Foreign markets continued to display a firm tone.

Trading in cash and coarse grains was dull with prices little changed from Friday.

Habitants-Hawks Likely Stanley Cup Opponents

CANADIENS TAKE 4-3 GAME FROM BOSTON BRUINS WHILE HAWKS DEFEAT RANGERS 2-0

Flying Frenchmen Now Hold Advantage of Two Games to One in Series.

MANTHA SCORES GOAL.

Gotteslig and Romnes Get Counters in Brilliant Game at Chicago.

TORONTO, Ont., March 30 (By George Maguire, Canadian Press Sport Writer).—A sparkling 4 to 3 overtime victory for Montreal Canadiens over Boston in the third game of the National Hockey League championship series at the week-end coupled with a 2 to 0 shoutout victory for Chicago Blackhawks over New York Rangers, strengthens the possibility the Habitants and Chicagoans may meet in the final for the Stanley Cup for the first time in History.

George Mantha and Wildor Larochelle, two sterling relief players, proved the heroes of the night for some 13,000 excited Habitant fans. The pair combined for the winning goal five minutes and ten seconds after the extra session had started, the former notching the goal after Lerochelle had made a perfect play to draw the Bruin checkers from his team-mate.

The victory gave the present Stanley Cup holders two wins against one defeat and should they win the fourth clash to-night, they will be crowned league champions. If Boston wins, the series will be deadlocked and the fifth game will be played Wednesday.

Saturday, Canadiens adopted the tactics they used unsuccessfully in the first game at Boston which ended in a 5 to 4 triumph for the Bruins after almost 20 minutes overtime. They unleashed a whirlwind attack during the first two periods which saw them gain a three to one lead. Sylvio Mantha opened the scoring less than three minutes after the start, but the Bostonians equalized the count when "Dit" Clapper converted Dutch Gainor's pass into a tally.

Gus Rivers, famous pinch hitter from Winnipeg, sent the Canucks to the fore early in the middle frame, and George Mantha increased the lead some 15 minutes later and the Montrealers appeared safe.

The Bruins, however, rallied brilliantly and goals by Cooney Weiland and George Barry saw the count knotted for the second time. Barry's goal came with less than three minutes regulation playing time left.

Will Make Protest

Art Ross, fiery manager of the Boston representatives, announced a protest will be filed with President Frank Calder over the failure of the officials, Mickey Ion and Bobby Hewitson, to report to him each penalty and score in the first two periods, as stipulated in the N.H.L. play-off regulations. Ross declared he was not protesting the result of the game and does not ask the contest be replayed.

The Blackhawks, who are proving a decided menace to other teams, completely dominated the situation at Chicago. Checking as thoroughly as against the Maple Leafs of Toronto, who they downed in the first round of the Stanley Cup play-offs, the Windy City hockeyists subdued the famous front line of Frankie Boucher and Bill and Bun Cook. With this trio tamed the chief Ranger threat was effectively squashed and by scoring a goal in each of the first and third frames, the Hawks appear to be in a favorable position to advance into the final.

The next game of this series will be played in New York on Tuesday. The Hawks have not lost a game on the ice at Madison Square Garden this season.

Johnny Gootselig combined with Doc Romnes to give the Hawks the lead half-way through the first period and it was Romnes who clinched the verdict in the final 20 minutes when she scored on a pass from Lola Couture.

Oscar Stannage, veteran catcher and coach, advises young pitchers not to throw the knuckle ball and other freak deliveries, because he says, the arm wears out too soon under the strain.

BISONS WIN 2ND STRAIGHT

Defeat Pittsburgh 3-1 in International League Play-off Fixture on Saturday.

INDIANS DOWN WINDSOR.

TORONTO, Ont., Mar. 30. (CP)—After making a gallant bid to enter the International Hockey League play-offs by climbing from sixth place to fourth in the closing stages of the schedule, Pittsburgh Yellow Jackets saw their championship hopes blasted by Buffalo on Saturday night.

Two goals during the first seven minutes of the second frame provided the Bisons with a substantial lead, considering the merits of the respective teams, and as each side entered the scoring summary in the final frame, the Buffalonians finished on the long end of a 3 to 1 count.

It was the second straight victory for Micky Roache's pace setters and as it was the third consecutive defeat for the Smoke Eaters they have practically no chance to finish first in the six game championship series.

Martin and Voss

Ronnie Martin notched the Bisons' first goal less than four minutes after the start of the middle chapter on a pass from Carl Voss. The latter got the second on a pass from Martin some three minutes later, Gamey Lederman increased Buffalo's lead halfway through the last period by scoring unassisted. Gregg secured Pittsburgh' lone marker in the last minute of play.

Cleveland Indians, present titleholders kept in the running for their second straight crown, by defeating Windsor Bulldogs, 6 to 5 in spectacular overtime contest at Cleveland on Saturday.

Archie Briden, evergreen veteran of pro hockey, notched the winning goal unassisted after nearly seven minutes of the extra session had elapsed.

A brilliant rally by the Windsorites enabled them to knot the count in the third period. The Indians outscored the Canadian team 3 to 2 in the first 20 minutes and two to one in the second, but they were unable to halt the Bulldogs' powerful thrusts in the final chapter and goals by Bat Phillips and Earl Robinson, league leading point scorer, saw the count squared.

The Bisons, Indians and Bulldogs are leading the play-off parade with two victories each to their credit. The Buffalo squad, however, has not lost a game, while Cleveland and Windsor have suffered one loss.

Bruin Cubs Take First From Springfield -3

BOSTON, Mass., March 30. — The Boston Bruins Cubs finished with a rush and defeated Springfield Indians, 4 to 3, in a Canadian-American League play-off game before 12,000 at the Boston Garden Saturday night.

The Cubs scored three goals in the third period on shots by Mackey, Runge and Burke. Both teams showed the effects of Friday night's marathon game at Springfield, which ended in a 2-2 deadlock after one hour and 40 minutes overtime.

The series between the Cubs and the Indians for the championship of the league is for three out of five games. Tonight's victory put the Cubs one up, counting as the first game of the series because of the tie Friday night.

Foster scored for Boston in the first period, and Callighen and Saunders for Springfield in the second. Callighen tallied another in the third.

Baker, of Ohio, and fifteen for former Senator James M. Reid of Missouri. The remainder were scattered.

MERCHANT FLEET SLIGHTLY LARGER

Survey Shows Canada to Have 111 Ships of 410,747 Tons on Great Lakes.

TOTAL FLEET IS 555.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Mar. 30.—The Great Lakes Merchant fleet is slightly larger than a year ago as it waits for its navigation season to open.

A survey published by the shipping board's bureau of research showed that this fleet, the largest group of vessels in the world operating on fresh water consisted of 555 vessels of 2,000 gross tons or more aggregating 2,760,914 tons; a gain of four ships and 24,494 tons during the past year.

The U. S. portion of the fleet — 444 ships and 2,350,167 tons— was three ships less, but 1,228 gross tons larger than at the beginning of 1930, while the British-Canadian part — 111 ships of 410,747 tons—showed a net gain of seven ships and 23,270 tons.

Most of the vessels are old, 365 being 20 years or more. Only two are as large as 10,000 gross tons, one U. S. one British.

Fred Walker cost the Yanks $9,000 and Myril Hoag $75,000, but Walker appears as good as Hoag.

The Cards will carry ten pitchers throughout the 1931 campaign.

The White Sox may use Ray Radcliff at first base regularly. He jumped to the majors from Selma of the Southeastern League, where he hit .369 last year.

TIGERS BEAT BEARCATS ON ROUND 11-3; 'PEGS BLANK SUPERIORS 3-0

Mountain City Players to Contest First Game of Finals at Winnipeg To-morrow—Hamilton Takes 5-1 Decision From Truro in Second Game— Seniors Score in First and Third Periods in Western Final.

GOOD COMBINATION ACCOUNTS FOR WINNIPEG VICTORY.

TORONTO, Mar. 30.—Hamilton's hockey ambitions were partly realized on Saturday when the snarling Tigers, who, although stalking powerful foes in the early season travelled unscathed over the thorny path, turned an easy prey in the ill-fated Truro Bearcats, capturing the games 5 to 1, and the series and Eastern Canada hockey championship 11 to 3. The Yellow and Black crew are already on their way to meet Winnipeg, conquerors of the Edmonton Superiors, in a best two-out-of-three series for the much-coveted Allan Cup and the right to represent Canada at the Olympic Games next year.

For an Eastern Canada final, Saturday's game was a weird one. A small crowd, which numbered between two and three thousand, and sloppy ice, caused by the breaking of a pipe, made play very ragged at times. Superior man-power, which enabled them to take a big lead in the first contest, had the Tigers just toying with the Bearcats in this contest, and they were never really extended.

Losers Work Hard

But those Bearcats never for one minute stopped trying, and it is the opinion of many that if they had their regular squad they would have given the Tigers an interesting battle. But with two stars and their regular goalkeeper barred, the odds against them were too great.

A strip of poor ice, about five feet in width, caused by the bursting of one of the pipes, handicapped the players greatly. A short time after the game was under way the strip was nothing but slush, and many times the players, upon hitting it, went sprawling headfirst. Other times on speedy rushes, the puck was brought to an abrupt standstill and found sticking in this trap.

The large score in favor of Hamilton is by no means an indication of how the play went. The Bearcats had a clean-cut advantage in the initial session and only the spectacular saving of "Hawse" Marsh, averted their scoring two or three goals. At that, they did count twice, only to have the goals called back for offside. With the Bearcats tiring about midway through the second period, the Tigers took full advantage, running in three quick goals within the space of three minutes. In the last session they counted twice, while the Easterners scored their lone tally in the last minute of play.

WINNIPEG, March 30 (C.P.). — Vaunted "pinch-hit" power of Winnipeg's Crimson Winnipegs rose Saturday night to oust Edmonton Superiors from the Western senior hockey final and to bear the Manitobans into the last stage of Allan Cup play. Henchmen of old Jack Hughes crushed the foothill fighters into a 3 to 0 submission and won the two-game round by 4 to 1 as the result of a one-all draw in the series opener.

National amateur hockey supremacy will be at stake when Winnipegs tackle the Tigers of Hamilton, in a two-of-three games series opening Tuesday at the Manitoba Capital. Winnipegs strode into the cup final by successive playdown victories over Port Arthur, North Battleford and Edmonton.

Winners Combine Well

Staleness incurred by a tiring rush of more than a dozen post-season contests was thrust aside last night by the Manitoba crew. System-play, wanting in recent games, reappeared, and old-time speed rose again to its wonted brilliance. Two of the three goals were scored on combination sorties.

From the time that lanky "Stoney" Wise put the Redshirts in the lead half-way through the first period, Winnipeg held a wide margin of territorial exchanges. Only the uncanny craft of Don Stuart in the Edmonton net proscribed immediate conclusion that the Albertans could not win. Stuart yielded to Wise when the 'Peg wingman swerved in on the goal after accepting a perfect pass from Vic Lindquist, right-winger.

Tide of Winnipeg scoring, penned up by Stuart's brilliance during the middle session, rolled on in the third period. Hack Simpson scored the prettiest series goal a minute after the period opened. The young 'Peg centre-man clambered through the Albertans' defense, sent Stuart sprawling with a feint to the left, and swerved to the right, back-handing the puck into the open net.

Another minute, another goal—this time from the flashing stick of Romeo Rivers, sturdy left-boardsman. Once again Lindquist was in on the play. He passed to Rivers, who rounded the left side of the Edmonton rearguard with a sudden burst of speed and lifted the puck over Netman Stuart, to place Winnipeg three goals ahead. There was no further scoring—Winnipeg needed none; and the fighting "soops" could get none.

Regis Leheny, Braves' pitching recruit, had previously been looked over by the Pirates, Giants, and Toronto clubs.

BUMPER PROGRAM READY FOR O.B.A.A. DELEGATES

Reception and Entertainment Committee to Hold Final Meeting on Wednesday Evening.

ADVERTISING FOR CITY.

Plans are moving ahead rapidly by the Reception and Entertainment Committee and everything is expected to be in readiness when the executive and the delegates begin arriving for the annual O.B.A.A. convention at the Empress Hotel on Saturday.

There will be a final meeting of this committee Wednesday night at eight o'clock in the Board Room of the Duffus Bowling Alleys. A check-up on everything accomplished so far will be made and final plans outlined so that the machinery may be put in motion Friday night when the business meeting of the executive takes place.

The various members of the local committee report a satisfactory amount received in donations to date and are confident enough money will be raised to meet the heavy expense entailed by such a convention. The matters of transportation and obtaining of badges along with the question of publicity should be cleared up at Wednesday night's gathering. A great many letters have already been sent out and a number of answers received. The names of the speakers at the big banquet Saturday will be announced at this meeting. A big crowd of out-of-town guests is expected to be present, and all will be entertained royally. Cars will be at their service at all times, and they will be shown any part of the city they care to see.

While many are expected to motor here for the occasion, there will be a welcoming car meet all trains at the station and drive the guests to the hotel. A number of the visitors are likely to remain in Peterborough over the week-end. Mayor Denne will officially welcome the executive of the O.B.A.A., the delegates and the other visitors at the Saturday noon banquet.

Risko Listed Against New Jersey Heavyweight

NEW YORK, N.Y., March 30. —(C.P.)—The week's fistic entertainment opens in double barrelled fashion to-night at New York where Jersey City's belting heavyweight, Young Stanley Poreda, gets his first test against big league opposition, meeting Johnny Risko, of Cleveland, in the ten round feature at Madison Square Garden.

Poreda has been given expert handling so far. Slowly but surely he has been brought along until now his handlers think he is ready to step out into the big time. A heavy hitter, Poreda nevertheless will be on the short end of the betting at ring-time to-night. Risko, called the Spoiler because he has ruined the title hopes of so many first-lass heavyeights, knows all the tricks of the trade and the betting fraternity feels that Old John's experience will be too much of a handicap for Poreda to hurdle.

THEATRES

AT THE CAPITOL

'RANGO' AND 'ONLY SAPS WORK'

The double bill at the Capitol for Saturday and to-day makes a very entertaining program.

'Rango' is one of those extraordinary travel and wild animal pictures that holds the attention of its audiences with its thrilling and really marvellous effects. How any camera man would have the nerve to face those terrible big cats, the tigers, when they race madly through the jungle in search of their prey, is a puzzle. One can only hope that the intrep'd photographer who got those pictures was well fortified by an armed bodyguard.

Sumatra is the scene of this picture and the killers of the jungle, the tiger cats, along with the funny orang utans, or "men of the forest" those almost human-like creatures that make one think uncomfortably about Darwin and his ideas, divide the honors. It is teeming with excitement and interest and with glimpses of an out of the way life on that far-away island that spans the equator. The prologue is very fine with a very likeable child actor and a man with faultless enunciation to provide an introduction for the animal picture. But, alas, the picture itself has the same musical background as "The Big Trail" where an unseen orchestra played fine music while the Indians attacked the covered wagons. Even when the "tiger burning bright", engages in a duel to the death with the water buffalo, that music sounds offside, giving an aspect of artificiality to something that must have been terribly real at the time, at least to the camera man.

"Only Saps Work" in the second feature of the bill, is full of laughs, just as full of humour as the 'Rango' picture is full of thrills. It has that rubber-kneed comedian, Leon Errol, as a star, and he gets lots of fun out of his work, with his many wise-cracks and his contiunal round of tricks of legerdemain. What he can't steal, he appropriates and his final exit is just as funny as his entrance.

Playing Dates Set For Davis Cup-Tie

BERLIN, March 30 (C.P.). — The Davis Cup-tie between Germany and South Africa, a first round match in the European zone, will be played at Dusseldorf, Germany, May 1-3, T. B. Barker, South Africa's representative, and the German tennis board have agreed.

The South American team is expected to arrive in London April 20 for a few days' workout before proceeding to Dusseldorf for the matches.

The German tennis board has asked Dr. H. Landmann, Dr. W. Dessart, Dr. P. Buss, F. Kuhlmann and Nourney to begin training for the Davis Cup, the team to be selected from those five players. Landmann, Germany's number four in the 1929 rankings, is the highest ranked player.

RAYBESTOS INTERMEDIATE CLUB INVITED TO ENTER TEAM INTO NEWLY SUGGESTED BALL LEAGUE

Two of Three E. P. L. Teams Would Be Promoted Into Senior Standing.

DISCUSSED PRO AND CON.

Committee Formed to Thresh Matter Out Before O.B.A.A. Convention.

Members of the East Peterborough Baseball League met at Duffus' Saturday night and discussed the baseball situation. There was a fairly representative gathering present, and Charlie Curtis occupied the chair. Bill Kay of the Raybestos and "Shiner" Johnston, manager of the newly-organized senior team, were invited into the meeting to hear a suggestion concerning senior ball to be played in Peterborough this summer.

The chairman thought it might be worthy of some thought for the Raybestos, the new senior team, and two or three of the East Peterborough League teams to get together and form a senior league right here, thus eliminating out of town trips until the provincial play-offs began in the Fall. It would simply mean raising the Rays and the E.P.L. teams from an intermediate to a senior standing, and including the already-organized senior outfit.

As it was said that some of the local factories were agains the idea of having players losing time from work to play out of town games through the summer, this arrangement would permit more players here to get into senior ball without having to make these trips until late in the summer or early in the Fall. Another advantage claimed was the cutting down of expenses connected with travelling around Central Ontario. It was also maintained that fans would be enabled to see two senior games a week in Peterborough instead of one, and at a cheaper admission charge.

But it was pointed out that with four or five senior teams in Peterborough, the winners would not be able to field a good enough team to compete with other group winners throughout Ontario. The idea was that while there was material for one good team here, the best players divided among several teams would result in a poor brand of senior ball It seemed to boil down to the question: "Do the fans want to see one good senior team representing Peterborough, or a local league of some four fair senior teams?"

There was considerable discussion on the matter with some of the E.P.L. managers and others favoring it, and still others, including "Shiner" refusing to commit themselves for the present. It was decided to let the idea stand for a few days and early in the week for a committee, chosen at the meeting, to meet Joseph and Harry Ranger and "Shiner" Johnston and thresh it out. It is hoped that something definite one way or another will come of this conference. And so the matter was left for the time being.

'NEATH SUNNY SKIES

Spicy Bits of Baseball Gossip From Majors' Camps.

The Cubs find no solace to-day in a 12 to 3 victory over the San Francisco Missions. They had memory of a beating earlier in the day, administered 5 to 3 by the Seals of the Coast League. Chiefly to blame for the loss, the third straight of their series, was the slump in Hack Wilson's showing. He struck out twice in crucial circumstances.

Some sort of a revision hung over the Chicago White Sox at San Antonio, Tex., to-day, determined by the 15-8 trouncing that the Giants administered yesterday. Smead Jolley, the big give-and-take man, did the usual by presenting the Giants with runs and then taking them back with two homers.

George Uhle, veteran right-handed pitcher of the Detroit Tigers, may be ready to take his turn on the mound shortly after the season opens. Uhle is having a sore arm treated by specialists at Los Angeles, Cal. It is responding to treatment better than was expected.

To-day inaugurated the Cleveland Indians' final and toughest week in their Spring training camp at New Orleans, La. Manager Roger Peckinpaugh, anxious to settle a number of indefnite positions, will work the Tribe at top speed and send them against exhibition teams every day.

The Tribe announced the signing of Earl Wolgamot, former Terre Haute manager in the Three-Eye League, as a coach.

The Cincinnati Reds are breaking camp at Tampa, Fla., to-day, preparatory to their trip north, which will require three weeks, with exhibitions scheduled en route. There was no practice session to-day. Macon, Ga., is the Reds' first stop.

Manager Bill Killefer and his St. Louis Browns has seen the last of West Palm Beach until next Spring. The entire squad left here last night on its homeward journey, which will be broken by numerous stops for exhibition games; the first at Atlanta tomorrow. Killefer has not definitely decided when he will start swinging the axe.

The Brooklyn Robins have completed the Florida end of their Spring training at Miami, and Manager Wilbert Robinson seems pretty well satisfied with their record.

Of 14 exhibition games the Robins won 11, all without the services of the ace right-hander, Dazzy Vance. The Dazzler is one of the most determined hold-outs in the big leagues but is expected to come to terms within a few days.

DAVENPORT WORKS WIN TOURNAMENT

Pile Up Winning Margin of 558 Pins in Annual C.G.E. Bowling Tourney.

The Toronto Davenport Works of the Canadian General Electric Co., won the fifth annual inter-works five pin bowling tournament on Saturday night in Toronto, against the local C.G.E. by the decisive margin of 558 pins.

The tournament which is a very popular annual contest is conducted on the home-and-home games basis, and the first games this year were played in Peterborough two weeks ago, when the Queen City pin spillers romped away with a winning majority of 58 pins. This total did not appear very formidable to the locals, who felt that they could put the skids under the Toronto boys in the return games. Their aspirations went for naught, however, when their opponents cut loose in big league style on the St. Clair Recreation Club alsles and not only maintained the 58-pin lead but added 500 more to it, to win the round by 558 points. The team composed of the heaviest hitters from the local plant, strange to say were defeated by the greatest margin, being pitted against the best bowlers in the Toronto works, four of whom topped the 700 mark. This particular game was Toronto 4,333, Peterborough 3,806, and this result strictly speaking decided the winner as the rest of the teams just about broke even.

The sting of defeat, however, was not very keenly felt by the visitors due to the royal manner in which they were entertained by the Davenport bowlers who arranged a program that was perfect in every detail. The bowlers first attended the Hamilton-Truro hockey match and saw the aggressive Bear-Cats go to defeat before the teamplay and brilliant defensive work of the Tigers. A feature of this item was the uncanny goal-tending exhibition staged by Marsh in the Hamilton net, which was certainly good to look at.

Following the game the sixty bowlers went to the Stoodleigh Cafeteria and made merry around the banquet table, where friendships were renewed, bets laid and much boasting done, while they all did full justice to the sumptuous chicken dinner.

The bowlers were welcomed by Ed. Barrett, president of the Davenport Bowling Club, who was master of ceremonies and spoke briefly expressing the enjoyment which was afforded by the inter-works bowling competition. Robert Cotton, president of the Peterborough C.G.E. Social and Athletic Club, in responding for the local contingent, thanked the Toronto bowlers for the splendid reception given the visitors and stressed the fact that inter-works activities along social and athletic lines was something which should be encouraged. Bud Weese, president of the local shop bowling league, and Fred Martin, secretary, also spoke words of appreciation and thanks to the Toronto teams.

The entire party then journeyed to the St. Clair Recreation Club, where the bowling battle took place, the Toronto victory making the third win for them in the five years of interfactory five-pin competition.

Many Former Operas Appearing In London

LONDON, March 30. (By Thos. T. Champion C. P. Staff Correspondent) At one time the principal London theatres closed during Holy Week. On the contrary this week sees several new productions or revivals. Specially interesting among the latter is the reappearance of the Belle of New York at Daly's on Thursday. It had been produced at the Shaftesbury in 1898.

Intermittently there arises a demand for the good old pieces, but the experience of reviving Les Cloches de Cor Eville ten days ago proved unfortunate and it was suddenly withdrawn on Saturday. This opera-bouffe had been seen 50 years ago.

The promoters intended to follow it up with old-time opera but the experience has persuaded them they must find a smaller house with less expenses attached to the production.

CASUAL COMMENT

The first City Baseball League meeting of the year is called for to-night at the Duffus Bowling Alleys. Everyone in any way interested should be on hand at 7.30 sharp, as there will be considerable business to push through.

• • • • • • •

Officers will be elected for the coming year, and a line on the entries into the various sections will take up a lot of the time. The meeting is open to anyone who is interested in the City League and the more present the merrier.

• • • • • • •

Harry Ranger was speaking over the phone Saturday to Prexy Bob Elliott of Deloro. The latter was glad Peterborough had again entered the C.O.B.L. He said he had written to Belleville, Oshawa and Kingston to find out what they were doing this summer.

• • • • • • •

While he had not heard from any of them yet, Bob was confident the Central League would be well rounded out once more. He will have something definite to say on the matter at the O.B.A.A. meeting here next Saturday.

• • • • • • •

At the East Peterborough League meeting Saturday night, most of those present seemed to favor the suggestion put forth by Charlie Curtis, chairman This was that four or five strong Peterborough teams enter a senior league right here, the winner to play off with other Ontario winners for the O.B.A.A. senior championship.

• • • • • • •

This local league would include the newly-organized senior team here, the Raybestos and the East Peterborough League. In this way, expenses would be low, no time would be lost through trips until the end of the summer, and more players would get into senior baseball. Also, the fans would see more and better games.

• • • • • • •

This was the suggestion made and the arguments advanced for it. Managers and the executive of the E.P.L. who were present thought it a good plan. "Shiner" Johnston, manager of the new senior team, would not commit himself for the present.

• • • • • • •

The biggest drawback to the suggestion that we can see is that the Peterborough team entering the Ontario playoffs would not be the strongest team possible in Peterborough. The real good players would be scattered among four or five teams.

• • • • • • •

So the winning team from here would have very little chance of getting anywhere playing off with stronger league leaders in the province. There is much to be said for and against the suggestion. It provides food for some deep thinking. And it shows a fine spirit of co-operation between the different baseball interests of this town.

• • • • • • •

Anyway, a committee was appointed to meet those in charge of the present senior entry early in the week and arrive at some decision as soon as possible. After this meeting, something definite concerning the situation will be known.

• • • • • • •

A number of the merchants here are getting right behind the Entertainment Committee to put the O.B.A.A. Convention over the top next Saturday. Things are shaping up well so far.

• • • • • • •

The size of the softball to be used this summer will come in for a lot of discussion at the big softball get-together in Paris, Ontario, on Good Friday.

• • • • • • •

The idea of a smaller ball originated around Toronto, but may be all right despite that. Offhand, we'd say a smaller ball would speed up the game more and call for more skill both in batting and fielding. And speed never hurt any game.

LONE BURGLAR GETS POKER POT

Former Player is Arrested as Suspect by Estevan Police.

WORE GAY COSTUME.

ESTEVAN, Sask., March 30.—Surprising four men who were playing poker here early Sunday, a lone hold-up artist, gaily garbed, held them up and scooped into his pockets the entire pot amounting to over $15.

When one of the players started to argue, the bandit, arrayed in a flowing black robe with a white handkerchief over his face and an orange-colored toque on his head, silenced him with a heavy blow on the jaw. Then he made a quick get-away.

Acting on the suspicions of the card players, police went to the home of a young man who had been in the room about an hour previously and took him into custody. He denied any knowledge of the affair, but the orange toque is said to have been found by police in his home.

Higher Duty Protested On Trees And Shrubs

KITCHENER, Ont., Mar. 30. (CP) Formal protest against the proposed increase in the import duty on trees, shrubs and bulbs has been made to Premier Bennett Hon. E. B. Ryckman, Minister of National Revenue, and Hon. Robert Weir, Minister of Agriculture, by the Ontario Horticultural Association, comprising over 80,000 members according to J. Albert Smith of this city, president of the organization. The Association believes that an increased tariff would result only in an increased price to the public accompanied by a falling off in planting. Moreover, they believe the growing of bulbs and shrubs in Canada for commercial purposes is not possible. In short, they are protesting against a tariff which they say will profit a few professional growers at the expense of the public.

Better methods of culture last year gave Hawaii a pineapple crop which was 37 per cent greater than that of 1929.

1ST. PETERBOROUGH TROOP

The weekly meeting of the 1st St. John's Peterborough Troop of Boy Scouts was called to order on Friday when the Assistant Scoutmaster called the boys into "horseshoe formation" for flag break. There were not as many boys out as usual but it is expected that all will be on hand at the next meeting.

After the usual inspection the patrols were sent to their corners to carry on with "Patrol in Council" and instruction work.

Later in the evening a representative of the St. John's Ambulance Corp was present and gave the boys a very interesting talk in First Aid work.

This period of instruction was followed by a series of three relay races. The Troop was divided into two teams, one under P.L. Bill Coleman, and the other under P.L. Haines-Howard. In this Coleman's team won two out of the three races.

Camp-fire followed. At this the Scoutmaster distributed tickets for the Father and Son banquet to be held April 17th. Each boy present was given tickets to sell. During this period the boys practised some songs to be used at the banquet. A hike for next Friday was also discussed.

Before the close of the meeting the Scoutmaster announced that since next Friday is Good Friday there will be no meeting in the evening. However the Scouter plans to take as many Scouts as will go on a hike next Friday. The boys are to meet at the corner of Water and Brock streets at 10.30 in the morning.

London will have colored telephones.

TRENT RIVER, March 30.— (Examiner Correspondence.)—The ladies of the Women's Institute are planning to erect a community hall in the near future, the site they have in view is on the Athletic Park grounds.

On Monday night a committee consisting of three of the members of the Institute met the officials of the Fish and Game Protective Association at the home of Mr. Wilfrid Cook to make negotiations with them. The members of the Institute have the right idea regarding the location of the hall, which would prove beneficiary to the Institute in catering to the public at all events held on the park grounds.

OBITUARY

EAST EMILY, March 30 (Examiner Correspondence)—The sympathy of the entire community goes out to Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Sulivan and family in the death of their little son John Gerald, which took place on Monday evening, aged one year and six months after an attack of pneumonia.

He leaves to mourn his loss his sorrowing parents, eight sisters and one brother. One of his sisters who is in Rochester, N.Y., did not get home for the funeral which took place on Wednesday morning to St. Martin's cemetery, Ennismore.

MISS MARIA COLLINS

MILLBROOK, March 30 (Examiner Correspondence)—Born in Cavan township eighty-seven years ago, Miss Maria Collins, eldest daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. James Collins, was a highly-respected resident connected with pioneer days in this vicinity, her death occurring suddenly on Wednesday, March 25, at the home of her niece, Mrs. Norman Dunford, Oshawa.

In the early days of her womanhood Miss Collins lived for a time at Port Hope with her youngest sister, after the latter's marriage, and when Mr. and Mrs. Cochrane moved to Helena, Montana, she accompanied them, remaining there until Mrs. Cochrane's death when she returned to Millbrook, with the family of five small children, to whom she filled a mother's place with unvarying faithfulness for many years.

Deceased was a lifelong member of the former Methodist, and later of the United Church, and during some time spent with her sister, the late Mrs. Samuel Might, was an active worker in the Fraserville church, singing in the choir, and receiving as a token of esteem for faithful service, a life membership in the Ladies' Aid Society at that appointment.

Twelve years ago when Mr. and Mrs. Dunford and family moved to Oshawa to reside, Miss Collins accompanied her youngest niece to that city, making her home with them until her decease. Considering her years, Miss Collins retained her faculties to a remarkable degree, and remained surprisingly active, interested in current happenings, friends of former days being always glad to greet her during the fairly frequent visits she made here at the home of her nephew and niece, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Smith.

The funeral took place from the residence of F. H. Smith, King street, on Friday at 2.30 p.m., the remains, accompanied by relatives and friends having brought here by motor earlier in the day. Rev. Mr. Swayne, of Fraserville, conducted the services at the house and graveside, in the absence of Rev. W. W. Jones, pastor of Saint Andrew's United Church, who was prevented by illness from being present.

The pall-bearers were six nephews: Messrs. F. H. Smith, Norman Dunford (Oshawa; George McBain, Thomas Douglas, James H. Might and Charles Evans (Port Hope). Many beautiful floral tributes were laid in loving memory on the casket. Interment was in the Fraserville cemetery.

Among those from outside points attending the funeral were: Mr. and Mrs. Evans, Port Hope; Mrs. Charles Larmer, Oshawa; Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Kennedy, Bewdley; Mr. and Mrs. N. Dunford, Oshawa; Mr. and Mrs. McBain, Springville; Mr. and Mrs. C. Goss, and Mr. Carl Smith, Bewdley.

MRS. SAMUEL EAKINS

MILLBROOK, March 28 (Examiner Correspondence) — The death of Mrs. Samuel Eakins, which occurred suddenly on the morning of Wednesday, March 25, in her eighty-ninth year, removed probably the oldest resident of the community, and one whose family history has been bound up with that of the village and of Cavan township practically from pioneer days.

Deceased was a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Richardson, and was on of a large family of children born on the farm homestead a short distance east of Millbrook. After the marriage of Sarah Jane Richardson to the late Samuel Eakins, which event took place over seventy-two years ago, their home was for some years on the Fourth Line, Cavan, nearly half a century having passed since their removal to Millbrook, residing ever since in the large and comfortable red brick homestead at the southern end of Main street.

Mrs. Eakins was a member of the Presbyterian Church since her marriage, interested in its activities, and a faithful contributor. She had not been in robust health for some years, but was able to care for herself and her household, and to walk for some little distance regularly until the past winter when, except for joining the family gathering on Christmas day at the home of her youngest son, S. E. Eakins, she had remained indoors, enjoying thoroughly frequent visits from members of her family, neighbors and friends.

Predeceased by her husband by thirty-two years, the immediate surviving relatives include: four daughters, Mrs. John Dawson, Millbrook; Mrs. liWMTms o--ich-tdybnq21..dar Mrs. William Turner, Victoria, B.C.; Mrs. Arthur Mulligan, Cleveland, Ohio; Mrs. Harry Armstrong, Toronto; and three sons, John R. and S. Edward, Cleveland, Ohio. Also one brother, Isaac Richardson, of Omemee.

The funeral, which was largely attended, took place from her late residence on Friday, at 2 p.m., her pastor, Rev. John Riddell, assisted by Rev. William Simpson, rector of the parish of Millbrook and Cavan, conducting the service. The pall-bearers were: Messrs. Bruce Eakins, Peterborough, W. T. Wood, J. A. Vance, John Spence, R. O. Larmer and I. W. Larmer. Interment was in the Presbyterian cemetery.

Among the many beautiful floral tributes was a wreath from Grace Presbyterian church.

Those from a distance attending the funeral were: Miss Ada Mulligan, Mrs. William Eakins and son, Jack, Mr. Thomas Clark and Miss Chalk, of Port Hope; Robert Eakins, Toronto; Messrs. Hubert and Bruce Eakins, Peterborough; Mr. and Mrs. Harry Armstrong, Toronto; Mr. Virtue, Brantford; Mr. Stinson, Lindsay; Mr. A. Larmer, Oshawa; Mrs. Mulligan, of Cleveland and Isaac Richardson, Omemee.

MRS. MARY LEEPER

ROSENEATH, March 30 (Examiner Correspondence) — Died suddenly, on Sunday, March 22nd, at the home of her daughter, Mrs. O. Goodfellow, 15 Keele street, Toronto, Ont., Mary Shearer, widow of the late James Leeper, formerly of Roseneath. Deceased was in her 77th year and although she was in declining health at the last, the call came suddenly, yet the passing was peaceful, "There was no moaning of the bar when she put out to sea." In the valley of the shadow of death she feared no evil, for she was comforted by the rod and staff of the Good Shepherd. Death had no terror for her, for He, who is the resurrection and the life was by her side. Her ambition in life was always to make every one welcome to her home and happy while there, and she fell asleep in Jesus with a smile on her face the same as in life.

Mrs. Leeper was a daughter of the late Alexander and Lydia Shearer of Alnwick township who lived on a farm about two and a half miles from the village of Roseneath. In the early seventies she was united in marriage to Mr. James Leeper and lived in the village of Roseneath for a number of years where he was proprietor of the Commercial House, later moving to Wooler and resided for a short time before moving to Toronto. Her husband predeceased her three and a half years ago and since then the late Mrs. Leeper made her home with her daughter, Mrs. Ogle Godfellow.

The funeral service was conducted by her pastor, Rev. Mr. McLean of St. John's Garrison Church, on Tuesday afternoon, March 24th to Mount Pleasant cemetery for interment.

She leaves to mourn her loss three daughters, Mrs. Ogle Goodfellow, Mrs. Arthur Polley, Mrs. Arthur Raven and nine grandchildren and one great grandchild, all of Toronto. Also four sisters, Mrs. Annie Dillon, Mount Pleasant, Mich.; Mrs. Eliza Shearer, Moose Jaw, Sask.; Mrs. Bertha Sykes, Warkworth, Ont.; Mrs. William Mark, Norman, Ont. and one brother, Mr. Alexander Shearer of Roseneath, Ont.

The pall-bearers were her three sons-in-law, Messrs. Ogle Goodfellow, Arthur Polley, Arthur Raven; her nephew, Lawrence Leeper; her great-grand son, M. Fergueson and Gordon Black.

There were many floral tributes from the family and friends who, with flowers, expressed the sympathy in their hearts for those left to mourn, bereft of a loved and cherished member.

THEODORE BARR

TRENT RIVER, Mar. 30 (Examiner Correspondence).—The funeral of the late Theodore Barr, son of Mr. George Barr of Cottesloe, who was drowned in the Trent River on Wednesday last, was held Saturday afternoon from his home. The service at the Cottesloe United Church was in charge of Rev. Mr. Stillman of Norwood.

Interment was made in Norwood Cemetery beside his mother, formerly Pearl Barrie. The pall bearers were six young men, Newton Stevens, Gordon Miles, Beryl Clysdale, Maitland Forsythe, from Cottesloe, and Leslie McMillan and Harold Thompson from Trent Bridge. He is survived by three young brothers, Elroyd, David, and Morrison, and sisters, Ann, Marjorie, Pauline, and Betty.

His death has cast a gloom over the whole district, particularly because he gave his life in a heroic attempt to help his uncle, W. G. Barrie save Kenneth, who was thrown into the river when the ice broke from under the sleighs along the shore. He was a good swimmer and it is though he struck his head as he dived into the water.

GRIST MILL OPENS.

Lack of Power at Queensboro Since December 17 Been Big Disadvantage to Farmers.

QUEENSBORO, March 30 (Examiner Correspondence). — The grist mill operated by Edmond Groves began work on Friday after being closed since the 17th of December on account of low water. There are a number of logs in the yard to be sawn, the work having to be delayed on account of a lack of power. Last year the sawmill began on March 12. The lack of power for grinding has been a big disadvantage to the farmers, as most of them were obliged to go either to Tweed or Madoc, and sometimes were disappointed in Tweed because of a lack of power there on account of low water.

Including in the sale list were 10 cows, 13 pigs, 7 sheep, 4 head of horses and a full line of farm implements.

Everything brought good prices. Cows average about $80, sheep brought around $12, and a grey team of horses realized $280.

QUEENSBORO.

There was a large crowd at the auction sale of James Blakley on Thursday afternoon, and it is reported that the prices realized were in advance of those paid during the winter at sales. Cows averaged around $50 each.

Mr. Leslie Herbertson was in Tweed on business on Friday.

Mrs. Thomas Broad is visiting with her son Howard in Oshawa.

Miss Jennie Ketcheson spent the week-end with the Misses Feda and Mabel Sager.

Miss Jessie Delyea, R.N., spent the week-end with friends in Stirling.

Ontario Lady Used Dodd's Kidney Pills
DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS
FOR ALL KIDNEY DISEASES
"My back pained me but I found great relief in Dodd's Kidney Pills," writes Mrs. W. J. Hammond, Massey Station, Ont. "My kidneys were in bad order and after a few boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills I felt like a new woman. Consequently I recommend Dodd's Kidney Pills to all those who suffer."
Ninety per cent. of the ills from which women suffer come from weak or diseased kidneys. They are the organs that strain all the impurities out of the blood. If they fail to do their work, the impurities remain in the blood and are deposited all over the body. Dodd's Kidney Pills strengthen and stimulate weak kidneys.

SACRED CANTATA BY TRINITY CHOIR WELL RENDERED

Olivet to Calvary Recalls Scenes Which Marks Last Days of Christ's Life.

WORTH WHILE OFFERING.

(By Jeanette)

Sacred Cantatas that tell in chanted and choral periods the story of the Passion and Death of the Saviour are appropriate to Holy Week, probably more than at any other season of the year. These tone pictures which use song and recitative to weave tapestry of melody about those last sorrowful hours in Christ's life, are singularly touching, bringing, as they do, memories of the ancient Biblical story.

"Olivet to Calvary" with music by J. H. Maunder, is one of the favorite Holy Week cantatas of this type and it had a very notable rendering last night in Trinity United Church, when the choir, directed by Miss Mabel Clarry, presented it before a most attentive and appreciative congregation. Forty-one members of the choir took part.

Miss Clarry and her singers are to be congratulated on the worth of their offering. Far from trying to unduly dramatize that Sacred Tragedy of long ago, they sang it with a quality of reverent expression that was outstanding, and that colored the stanzas from beginning to end. This reverent handling was notable and made the cantata one of the most beautifully rendered of many heard in the past few years.

"Olivet to Calvary" recalls the scenes which mark the last few days of the Saviour's life on earth, and some of the reflections suggested thereby. The rejoicing of the multitude with hosannas and palms, the view of Jerusalem from the steep of Olibet, the lament over the beautiful city, the scene in the Temple, and the lonely walk back over the Mount at night, form the chief features of the first part.

The second part opens with the Supper of the Passover, at which Jesus washes his disciples' feet, and gives to His friends the new commandment of love for one another, as the sign of true discipleship. From this the scene passes to the infinite pathos of the Garden of Gethsemane, the sudden appearance of the hostile crowd, Jesus forsaken by His disciples, His utter loneliness among ruthless foes, the tumult before Pilate in the Judgment Hall, the Passage of the Cross, the tragedy and triumph of Calvary.

Solo Work

The solo parts were taken by M. H. Park, tenor, A. Barton, baritone, and Miss Blanche Clegg, soprano, whose sweet, fresh voice was heard in a brief bit; "Another temple waits thee, Lord divine."

The recitative and main narrative thread of the sacred drama were in the capable hands of Mr. Park and Mr. Barton, who handled them exceptionally well.

The recitative for the tenor after the Gethsemane scene in the second part of the Cantata was outstandingly fine. "O was there ever loneliness like His." This scene in the Judgment Hall, opening the drama of the Passion, was very effective, with the closing crescendo in Mr. Park's fine tenor, one of the highlights of the rendition.

Mr. Barton was especially good in the sentences of "A New Commandment" and the sad thoughtfulness of the words of Christ, mourning over the proud city of Jerusalem.

A very pleasing rendition of "O Thou whose Sweet Compassion" was given by an octette composed of Mesdames Barton, Fainman, Richmond, Miss Clegg, and Messrs. Downey, Barton, Park and Ford.

But the chorus had the outstanding work of the evening. Again was apparent that quality of reverent appreciation of this subject. Their modulations were notable. They sang with a smooth roundness of concerted tone that brought out the full beauty of the score, without any attempt at making one section paramount to another. Their expressive shading was exquisite in several portions, notably in "'Twas Night O'er Lonely Olivet", while there was an especially fine diminuendo handling in the opening of the March to Calvary. A fine contrast was afforded by the soft resignation of "Thy Will be Done" that was followed by the sudden agitation of "Betrayed and Forsaken." Then there were the strident cries of the crowd in the interval where the multitude shrieks for the blood of Christ.

The sopranos of the choir sang alone with delicate, sweet tone, the sorrowful cadences of "Droop, Sacred Head."

The hymns which interspersed the rendering of the cantata were very appropriate and pleasingly sung. They were "Just as I am", "Thy Will be Done", and "Rock of Ages."

THE SON OF TARZAN No. 25 (Metropolitan Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.). By Edgar Rice Burroughs

The son of Tarzan thought now only of the savage joy of living, and of pitting his wits and prowess against the wiles and might of the jungle. He knew no fear. His father had had none to transmit to him. The ape and he had gone but a little farther when the boy caught the scent of a lion. His face lighted with a smile. Something told him he would have known that scent among all in the jungle even if Akut had not said a lion was near.

There was a weird familiarity in it that made the short hairs rise at the nape of his neck, and brought his upper lip into an involuntary snarl. His skin tingled with a pleasurable sensation he had never known before. Now was he another creature—wary, alert, ready. He felt his ears were flattening back against his skull in preparation for deadly combat. Thus did the scent of Numa, the lion, transform the boy into a beast.

He was some distance ahead of Akut when suddenly he heard a shrill scream of warning from the ape. Turning quickly, the boy saw directly before him that which sent tremors of excitement racing along every nerve of his body. In his path stood a sleek, beautiful lioness, her yellow-green eyes glittering wickedly. Behind the lioness bellowed the ape, hurling taunts to distract the beast and instructions to the boy.

But Sabor was not to be diverted. The boy stood between her and her mate. It was suspicious. Probably he had ulterior designs upon her lord and master or upon the fruits of their kill. A lioness is short-tempered. Akut's bellowing annoyed her. She uttered a low rumbling growl, taking a step toward the boy. "The tree!" screamed Akut. The boy turned and fled, and at the same instant the lioness charged with a swift, crouching spring.

His former stand was at 406½ George and his new shop is located at 440, near Brock street. He had been in the first shop about two years, moving only because larger quarters were needed.

Dog Tags Go On Sale At Police Station

Another form of census began in the city to-day, when the dog tags for 1931 went on sale at the Police Station. You might be surprised at the amount of revenue piled up by the sale of these canine labels. Last year more than 800 were taken out by dog owners, and more than $900 thus added to the city's coffers.

It is the only registration the city keeps of its dog population, and if your dog is not tagged and is found wandering abroad, he may be carried off to the pound without further notice.

CURVIN GIVEN WEEK IN JAIL

Case Has Been Hanging Fire in Police Court Since January 19.

Tom Curvin was found guilty by Magistrate Langley in police court to-day of being drunk in charge of a car and was sentenced to seven days in the county jail.

This case has been hanging fire in the court since January 19, and the information paper was pock-marked with adjournment after adjournment when it finally came up to-day.

Sergeant William Wigg, testifying, told of investigating the accident near the corner of George and Edinburgh streets in which Curvin, proceeding south on George street, ran over almost to the curb on the east side and crashed into a car driven north by Walter Hargrave. The officer stated that Curvin was intoxicated.

In the course of cross-examination, Sergeant Wigg admitted that while he drove the police car he did not have a chauffeur's or driver's permit. J. A. O'Brien, defence counsel, asked if it were not true that Curvin at the time of the accident was driving to the bowling alleys to bowl for the police team, but the question was not answered.

Hargrave stated that after the accident, Curvin had asked "What's wrong?" and had given every indication of being drunk. Other police officers, who had seen Curvin in the cells stated that he was drunk.

Charles Brewer, George Brenton, E. F. Sheehy and Norman Laing stated that they had seen Curvin that evening and he did not appear intoxicated to them.

Magistrate Langley held that the Crown's evidence was conclusive while that of the defence was not satisfactory.

Mark Street Hears Bloomfield Pastor

The congregation of Mark Street United Church was favored yesterday when Rev. C. S. Reddick, B.A., B.D., of Bloomfield, was the preacher, the sermons being eloquent and scholarly.

At the open session of the Mark Street Sunday School yesterday there was an attendance of two hundred and twelve and Rev. Dr. J. E. Moore delivered an inspiring address on "The Sublimity of Christian work." He stated that of four thousand boys who appeared before a Judge in the United States for wrong doing, only six had ever been to Sunday School.

Rev. A. E. Thornley preached at Bloomfield yesterday.

Mrs. John McCormack Pioneer Citizen Dead

With the passing Sunday morning of Mrs. John McCormack, 8 Victoria avenue, Peterborough loses another of its few surviving pioneers. Mrs. McCormack, formerly Johannah Tangney, was born in Ireland 92 years ago, the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Jeremiah Tangney. When Mrs. Tangney was ten years of age she and her parents embarked on a sailboat to come to Canada. The passage took from two and a half to three months. The family arrived in Peterborough in 1849, when George street was but a footpath past a few scattered buildings. Mrs. McCormack attended the village school, and has continued to live in the city ever since. Her death is mourned by two daughters, Anne of Peterborough and Mrs. McDonald of St. Mary's, Ont., three sons, Frederick of this city, William of Toronto and Edward of Montreal, two sisters, Mrs. Irwin and Mrs. Gibson of Toronto, and one brother, Patrick, of Peterborough.

The funeral will take place from the residence of the deceased at 8.45 Tuesday morning, to St. Peter's Cathedral for Requiem Mass at 9. Interment will be made in St. Peter's Cemetery.

PAINFUL PILES

Go Quick—No Cutting—No Salves

It takes only one bottle of Dr. J. S. Leonhardt's prescription — HEM-ROID —to end itching, bleeding, protruding piles. This internal remedy acts quickly even in old, stubborn cases. HEM-ROID succeeds because it heals and restores the affected parts and removes blood congestion in the lower bowel—the cause of piles. Only an internal medicine can do this, that's why salves and cutting fail. McDermid & Jury, Bond's Drug Store says HEM-ROID Tablets must end your Pile misery or money back.

Use of Dogs in Hunting Decided Today

PARTY RANKS ARE SPLIT, MEMBERS MEET IN CAUCUS

Most Vigorous Opposition to Bill Comes From Ranks of Conservatives.

GOVERNMENT FAVORS BILL.

Vote in Committee Was 11 to 10 Against Abolition of Dogs.

TORONTO, Ont., March 31 (C.P.).—The fate of dogs for use in deer hunting is being decided to-day. Despite the known desire of the Government to prohibit the use of dogs in Ontario in common with the law of all other provinces of Canada there is still considerable opposition.

At a caucus of Conservative members meeting at noon to-day the matter is being discussed along with other business relating to the wind-up of the session.

The most vigorous opposition to the step in the Fish and Game Committee came from within the ranks of the Conservative Party. One Liberal, William Newman, from North Victoria, and one Progressive, D. J. Taylor, from North Grey, also fought the move. The vote in the committee was 11 to 10 against the abolition of dogs, but Hon. Charles McCrea, Minister of Game and Fisheries, intimated the Government would form its own decision and take responsibility for it. If the action is taken the legislation will be introduced in the House to-day. Whether Conservative members who favor the use of dogs will vote against the Government on the issue is causing no little speculation in the lobbies.

FOREMAN BEATEN ON WAY TO WORK

Toronto Man Struck Down By Pair Who Jump Out of Laneway.

FEARED STRIKERS.

TORONTO, Ont., Mar. 31. (CP)—Struck over the head with a piece of lead pipe while on the way to work to-day, Robert Robinson, foreman of a local dress manufacturing company received a deep scalp wound which necessitated his removal to the hospital.

Since the dressmakers' strike started some weeks ago Robinson has been carrying a length of pipe in his pocket and generally rides to work in a taxi. As a peace conference between strike officials and the Mayor is scheduled for to-day he discarded the taxi thinking he would be safe in walking to the office.

When he was a short distance from his home he was attacked by two men who dashed from a laneway. They knocked him down before seizing his pipe and beating him.

Case Against Oliver's Drawing To Close

HAMILTON, Ont., March 31 (C. P.). — The Crown's case against Charles and Mary Oliver, charged before Judge Thomson with conversion and fraud in connection with the defunct McKnight-Oliver Syndicate was drawing to a close this afternoon.

Much of to-day's session was occupied with the examination of John Fralick, engineer, sent by the Olivers to examine McKnight's plant in New Jersey.

Speaking of the tracks laid into the plant, the engineer called them "childish" and too flimsy to stand any service.

"Who was in charge of the plant?" Norman Somerville asked.

"A man named John Zuro," replied the witness.

"What was his previous occupation?"

"A baker."

WOMEN BEATEN BY MARAUDERS

Housewife and Maid Attacked in Windsor Homes By Night Prowlers.

MONEY TAKEN.

WINDSOR, Ont., March 31 (C.P.). — Two attacks on women, reported within a few hours, have given the Windsor police a new problem.

Mrs. James McManus was struck down in her home by three men who had forced an entry when she opened a door in response to their knock. She managed to get away from them and fled to the cellar, where she was attacked a second time, and left unconscious. Her purse and glasses were taken along with $20 in her purse.

This attack occurred shortly after last midnight while Mr. McManus was absent from home.

A few hours before two men gained entry into the home of R. Madoff, a few blocks away from the scene of the second attack. Rose Matish was a maid in the home, encountered the men and one was given a severe beating and left the house with some scratches on his face. His companion escaped unscratched.

Police are working on the theory that the same men were concerned in both attacks.

DIRIGIBLE EXPERT KILLED.

AKRON, O., March 31. — Lieut.-Charles E. Bauch, dirigible expert of the United State Navy, was killed here early to-day when his automobile struck the concrete pier of a bridge.

FIERCE CONFLICT OVER ESTIMATES WAKES UP HOUSE

Premier Bennett and Mackenzie King Clash Often Over Canal Contract.

CONTRACT DEMANDED.

Civil Service Commission Policy Under Fire of Liberal Members.

OTTAWA, Ont., March 31 (C.P.)—Money votes again will be before the House of Commons when it opens this afternoon. Because this is the last day of the Government fiscal year, it will be necessary to have the items passed both by the Commons and the Senate. With this dead-line in sight, both Houses of Parliament probably will bend to the task and so permit the public books to be balanced for the fiscal year.

When the supply bills have been passed, Hon. Maurice Dupre, Solicitor-General, will resume the address in reply to the Speech from the Throne. It seems unlikely this debate will be concluded to-morrow night when Parliament takes a recess over the Easter season.

Likely Verbal Tilts.

Many lively verbal tilts featured the sittings of the Commons yesterday when the estimates were under consideration. For the past two weeks the address debate has been grinding on to a point where it had become drab and somewhat uninteresting. When it was sidetracked yesterday for the supply bills, the members seized the occasion to let off steam. The day was the liveliest so far this session.

While the Senate members remained within call, in case the supply bills were passed by the Commons, Premier Bennett, as Minister of Finance, piloted the items through a stormy House. The fact that the money was being passed to cover accounts already expended, did not prevent the Opposition members from indulging in sharp criticism and from seeking full information.

Chief fireworks of the day developed over an item of $2,000,000 for the Welland ship canal, which eventually passed.

The item was to pay for works done on the canal during the fall and winter to aid unemployment, explained Premier R. B. Bennett. It was in addition to seven millions voted last year, and it would take another seven or eight million dollars to complete the canal. With Premier Bennett and Rt. Hon. Mackenzie King taking the leads, the incident rose to strenuous proportions and at times, the House became unruly.

Demanded to See Contract

With an open season last fall, the contract for the canal was extended, the Premier explained. The money being voted was to pay for this work. To ask a contractor to continue the work after the year's appropriation

KNUTE ROCKNE IS KILLED IN PLANE CRASH

Famous Notre Dame Fotball Coach Among Victims of Mail Plane Accident.

NEAR BAZAR, KAS.

Rockne Acclaimed as One of Greatest Football Coaches in United States.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., March 31. — (CP)—Knute Rockne, famous football coach of Notre Dame University, and four others were killed when a transcontinental and western air passenger and air mail plane crashed in flames to-day in a pasture several miles southwest of Bazar, Kas.

Edward Baker, farm youth, said he saw the crash, a short distance from where he was feeding cattle. He said apparently something about the craft exploded and a moment later it nosed to the earth.

Baker told Cottonwood Falls, Kansas, authorities that the plane bore the Department of Commerce license number "N3999." The farmer said he believed the craft to be a mail plane. The bodies of the victims were not immediately identified.

Knute Kenneth Rockne became one of the legendary figures of the sports world through his great success as coach of football at Notre Dame University, South Bend, Ind.

His ability to produce winning teams, his own vivid personality, his saneness in his utterances, made anything he did have to say at any time news for the sports pages.

Rockne came to the United States as an immigrant boy from Norway at the turn of the century. Three decades later found him one of a half dozen really important sports figures of the nation. Those years contain a great grist of achievement, all of which was filled with amusing incident.

There's one of the hundreds stories told of Knute Rockne which perhaps, better than any other, typifies the man:

It was after the first half of a game with Nebraska, at that time the greatest rivals of the "Fighting Irish" of Notre Dame. Nebraska was far ahead when the first half ended. The players trembled to think what "Rock" would have to say during the customary dressing room between-halves peroration. But Rockne didn't appear. Just as an assistant manager arrived to tell the captain that it was time to return to the field, Rockne entered the dressing room. He looked around the room, giving a swift glance to all, scowling impartially. With all the disgust he could command he uttered just two words:

"Fighting Irish!"

Notre Dame won the game.

Famous In 1924

Although Rockne produced many a winning team, none has been more celebrated that the Notre Dame 1924 varsity which contained the famous "Four Horsemen of Notre Dame." They were Stuhldreher, Miller, Layden and Crowley, immortally famous backfield, all of whom won in-

James Abraham Reports a Splendid Year in Legion Activities.

OBTAINED 47 PENSIONS.

Comrade A. E. Everett was last night elected to the presidency of the local branch of the Canadian Legion B.E.S.L., in succession to Captain James Abraham, who declined an acclamation.

The election of other officers resulted as follows:

Captain Abraham, in declining re-election, did so in a few well-chosen words, saying he was sorry he found it necessary to refuse the honor.

In spite of all kind remonstrances of his comrades, he remained firm in his decision, and named Comrade Everett as his successor, stating that he was a worthy man, having been 1st vice-president for two years.

Comrade Dr. N. H. Sutton said he understood that for various reasons, "our old Comrade Jimmie must be given a rest after the long and honorable service he has given to the branch and the cause."

Comrade Norman Crowe, also remarked, "Let us not be selfish. I,

Wrigley Plans Relief For Cotton Districts

CHICAGO, Ill., March 31 (C.P.).—The Herald and Examiner said today that it had learned that a plan involving many millions of dollars is to be launched under the leadership of William Wrigley, Jr., and a group of other middle-western capitalists, designed to bring economic relief to the cotton-planting districts of the south.

While precise details of the proposed enterprise were not announced, the newspaper said, it was learned that the basic idea will include heavy accumulation of baled cotton, which is now a drug on the world markets.

CLEVER PRISONER OUTWITS GUARDS

Walks Through Jail Gate Carrying Three Year Girl Left By Visitors.

HELD ON NARCOTIC CHARGE.

SUPERIOR, Wis. Mar. 31.—A man who held against his shoulder a 3-year old girl who said bye-bye, walked leisurely by a jail guard who held open the door for him last night.

To-day authorities of Douglas County were searching everywhere for C. W. (Red) Haggerty, 32, of St. Paul, who escaped while being held in default of $20,000 bond pending hearing on a narcotic charge.

A man, a woman and the little girl had applied earlier for admission to the jail to talk to Haggerty. In a few minutes the man left, then the woman.

Meanwhile guards at the jail were changed and, although Haggerty had been pointed out earlier to Jailer William Moe, he did not recognize the prisoner as he calmly walked by with the small child.

Sweepstakes Money Held Up In England

LONDON, Mar. 31.—(A.P.)— Sums of money which the Post Office Department obtained by opening letters sent from England to Ireland for tickets in the Irish Hospital Sweepstakes are being held up, pending a ruling by the British Home Office on what disposition to make of the money. The Sweepstakes is not legal here.

No announcement would be made regarding the amount of money seized. On Thursday, it was said, the Home Secretary will be asked in the House of Commons to reveal how many letters were opened and how much money was found in them.

JAMES BEATTY, COBOURG VETERAN, IS KILLED BY HIT-AND-RUN DRIVER

Member of Second Battalion Passes Away in Cobourg Hospital.

ACHIEVED NOTORIETY.

COBOURG, Mar. 31.—Struck by a hit-and-run driver early last evening, James Beatty, widely known veteran of the Second Battalion, C.E.F., died at the Cobourg General Hospital. His skull was fractured and he sustained other serious injuries.

Beatty achieved national notoriety during the Great War for writing home a letter criticizing Sir Sam Hughes, Minister of Militia and Defence. This letter appeared in the Cobourg "Sentinel Star" to which he was a regular contributor from "Somewhere in France."

He was court-martialed for his temerity, but the charge was dismissed on review by General Watson, with an admonition. On returning to Cobourg from the front, being invalided towards the close of the war, Beatty was tendered a civic reception in the town hall in recognition both of his gallantry and his widely read articles which had made him, in effect, the only weekly paper correspondent in France.

The accident occurred on the King's Highway at the western outskirt of Cobourg, near his home. He was picked up by Councilor Rubin Jackson and Charles Jackson, the former's son, and brought to the local hospital, where he was attended by Dr. G. M. Ferris.

It was alleged that Covert had misappropriated funds from the sale of an automobile obtained from the Cox Motor Sales of Oshawa, and that the company had not received payment for the car. Judge O'Connor stated that the Cox Motor Sales could have a remedy by instituting an action in the civil courts.

Pall of Smoke Engulfs City, Hindering Rescue Work—Number of Dead and Injured Mount—Hoover Directs War and Navy Depts. With Red Cross to Send Aid.

By S. M. Craig, Tropical Radio Company Operator at Managua. Written for and dispatched by radio to the Associated Press

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, Mar. 31.—(A.P.)—At least forty persons were killed in a devastating earthquake which shook the city of Managua violently for from four to six seconds this morning, bringing down the greater part of all the buildings in the city.

With a great pall of smoke hovering over the town from a fierce fire which followed the quake it was impossible to calculate the number of dead and wounded in the disaster, but the number must be high.

United States Marines stationed here were doing everything possible to rescue the wounded, driving their ambulances through whatever streets were still passable.

U.S. RUSHES AID.

WASHINGTON, D.C., March 31.—The United States Government hastened to-day to the aid of earthquake-stricken Managua.

Three agencies were instructed to participate. The American Red Cross was directed by President Hoover, who also is head of that organization, to extend aid immediately. The War and the Navy Departments also directed engineering and marine corps detachments to Nicaragua to lend aid.

The last message received by the State Department from the United States Legation at Managua, timed 10.35 a.m. yesterday.

The all-America Cables Company announced to-day that its wireless communications and the government telegraphs between San Juan Del Sur Nicaragua, and Managua had been interrupted, apparently by an earthquake.

The San Jan Del Sur office reported that rumors of a severe earthquake were current there.

On Lake Managua

Managua is the capital of Nicaragua and has a population of about 60,000. It is located on Lake Managua, 87 miles from the port of Corinto and 36 miles from Granada. It is an important commercial center and the second largest city in the Republic.

The houses are mostly one story, roofed with red tiles and enjoying inner gardens or patios. Among the principal buildings are the cathedral, the national palace, ancient structures of red sandstone, and the presidential palace a recent handsome addition.

United States marines have occupied the Camp de Marie, at the southern edge of the city, almost continuously since 1912 but were recently ordered withdrawn.

The city is located on the Pacific Railway. Its importance dates from 1855 when it was chosen as the capital of the Province as the result of continuous rivalry between the older cities of Leon and Granada.

THEATRE CROWD SEES GANGSTERS MURDER VICTIM

Killers Escape In Car After Firing Five Shots Into Max Tendler.

IN CHICAGO.

Police Claim Dead Man Was Member of Narcotic and Kidnapping Ring.

CHICAGO, Ill., March 31. (CP)—While throngs of homeward bound show-goers from the Riviera and uptown theatres were passing, two men walked up behind Max Tendler, 42, as he stood buying a newspaper and shot him to death late last night. The killers escaped in an automobile after firing five shots into the victim's body.

Tendler was arrested at the Metropole Hotel with Marie Gibbons and John Baldwin last January 14, the police reporting they found narcotics in their possession worth $2,000 and their investigation of the killing was being made on the theory that it was the result of a drug peddling affair.

Informer for Police

Reports circulated that Tendler had been in informer for the New York police and that he had been instrumental in connection with the conviction of Police Lieutenant Becker, Lefty Louis and "Gyp the Blood" for the murder of Herman R. Senthal New York gambler, but the New York authorities reported they did not recall him.

Chicago police also said they had information indicating Tendler had been a member of a kidnapping ring that had collected large sums from gamblers and saloon keepers. His hearing on the narcotic charge had been set for April 17.

A boy gave the police the number of the automobile the killers used in making their escape but were working on the theory the machine had been stolen.

The Herald and Examiner said that Tendler was known to police as the man to whom Alphonse Capone had granted a concession for selling narcotics in Chicago, and John Norton, Chief of Detectives asserted Tendler was the agent for a narcotic ring doing a nationwide business. Norton added that Tendler had been questioned a month ago relative to the slaying of a member of the ring in New York.

NOGALES, Ariz., Mar. 31.—On the western slope of the wild Sierra Madre range in the Mexican State of Sinaloa, gold has lifted the curtain on another of its powerful dramas.

BLIND 22 YEARS YOUTH NOW SEES

Delicate Operation Successful on Student Born Without Pupils.

MARVELS AT FLOWERS.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., March 31.—The skill of mbdern surgery has brought the wonders of sight to Earl Musselman, 22 year old student at the Pennsylvania Institute for the Blind.

Born without pupils in his eyes he had never seen the light until yesterday, when, weeks after a delicate operation had been performed, the bandages were removed from his eyes. He could see, after a life of darkness.

It is wonderful, almost a miracle, he said later as friends crowded about offering congratulations. I had always hoped that some day I would see. I had faith and I never gave up thinking that the time would come when I would be able to see like other people.

I am particularly thrilled at the vividness and beautiful coloring of flowers. To me they had always been soft and fragrant. I was astonished at their beauty.

Nationalists Draw Up Sweeping Demands

GANDHI ADMITS MANY REQUESTS REVOLUTIONARY

Delegation to Seek Control of Army, Finances—Economic, Social Equality.

26 RESOLUTIONS.

Radical Sections Believed Added to Placate Nebru Who Has Red Leanings.

KARACHI, India, March 31 (C.P.). — The Working Committee, or Cabinet, of the All-India National Congress to-day drew up resolutions indicating the sweeping scope of the demands for Indian independence which Mahatma Gandhi will make at the second Round Table Conference to be held soon in London

The resolutions must be passed by the Congress itself, in annual session here, but since Gandhi's address last night on the truce with Viceroy Lord Irwin at New Delhi ending the civil disobedience campaign, and the Congress approval of the truce, there is no doubt of this issue.

Delegations' Objective.

The program outlined by the resolutions to-day enjoins the delegation which is to be headed by Gandhi to demand not only Indian independence, with Indian control of Army, finances, and foreign affairs, but complete Indian commercial and social equality with Britishers.

Gandhi, in introducing the resolutions, said that he was aware that the demands embodied in them are revolutionary in character and might be rejected outright by the Round Table Conference, but that he was prepared to face this danger. Some members of the Cabinet, believed that they should not be presented until after the second Round Table Conference, but Gandhi, taking a vote, obtained a majority in their favor.

Demands.

This Congress declares that any constitution that may be agreed upon on its behalf should include the following items, the resolution says, or should give ability to a Swaraj (independent) Government to provide them:

Fundamental rights of the people, such as—

(1) Freedom of association and combination.

(2) Freedom of speech and press.

Alcohol And Idleness Blamed For Crime

LINDSAY, March 31.—When Alex. Ayers, aged 41, and John Schell, aged 37, of Kingston and Toronto, respectively, were sentenced by Magistrate Jordan to three months and one year, they attributed their plight to the use of alcohol and the lack of work. "Idleness is the cause" said Schell. The two drifted into Lindsay and were apprehended for stealing two caps from a store, but after they had been fingerprinted it was alleged that they had served terms. "We tried to get work, tramped the country over, and only got the odd job," they said.

TRAIN CHANGE NO HINDRANCE

New C.N.R. Service Will Allow Hastings Residents Longer Time for Shopping in City.

AFFECT SCHOOL STUDENTS.

HASTINGS, March 31 (Examiner Correspondence).—The contemplated change in the C.N.R. time-table will not work to the disadvantage of the citizens in Hastings in general. The cancelling of the morning train at 9.30 will mean that the High School pupils will again have to drive to Norwood as was the case for a great many years. The train going down around four in the afternoon will be of great assistance to local people who go to Peterborough to do their shopping. At the present time they have only about two hours in which to do this, whereas with a later train citizens could do their shopping to much greater advantage.

According to press reports, Campbellford is making complaints to the Railway Board. With the number of students from Keene to Campbellford who use this train every morning and night, as well as the meats and other provisions that come down in the morning, some arrangement might be made to have a special oil burner for the purpose.

COOKE DEFENDS POWER EXPORT TO UNITED STATES

Off-peak Power Sales Are Assailed by Liberal Members.

ATTACKS RESENTED.

If Ontario Industrialist Would Take Power He Can Get it Immediately.

TORONTO, March 31.—Battling against Opposition assaults which poured across the floor in a steady stream for two hours, Hon. J. R. Cooke, minister without portfolio in the Henry Government, and acting chairman of the Ontario Hydro-Electric Commission, yesterday resumed the address which he had first started last Thursday in defence of Hydro administraton.

In a two-hour struggle which began when the House in committee of supply was passing a small additional vote of $900 000 for Hydro, Opposition and Government members joined. In the course of the debate Mr. Cooke declared that if any Ontario industry ever voiced a desire to purchase power exported during off-peak hours to the United States, the power will be delivered to it within 24 hours at prices as low, if not lower, than received now.

Resuming his attack upon Hydro Dr. George McQuibban, (Lib., North-east Wellington), who assailed the commission for purchasing power from Beauharnois interests, demanded that export contracts and private power contracts be annulled and the commission develop its own power. He charged that Mr. Cooke was employing "a cowardly trick by hiding behind the monument of Sir Adam Beck who could not defend himself", and that the "childlike faith of the people of this Province was being undetermined by the tactics of the present Hydro commission."

Premier George S. Henry declared that he "resented with heat" the unwarranted attacks of Dr. McQuibban. He charged that Dr. McQuibban either had an uncertain knowledge of hydro or "he is trying deliberately to mislead the members of this House and cause ill-feeling among the people of Ontario." He reviewed hydro history pointed out that the only power exported was off-peak power which could not be sold in Ontario, or power which was contracted under agreements assumed certain burdens for the eventual good of the province.

Avoided Beauharnois Issue

W. E. N. Sinclair, Liberal leader, asked why Mr. Cooke had avoided any discussion of the Beauharnois interests, first introduced by Dr. McQuibban. He resented suggestion of the minister that someone outside the legislature was spurring Dr. McQuibban to the attack and announced that if Harry Sifton was meant, Mr. Sifton was in Western Canada and had had no part in the present attack. He

GODFREY SCORES DOCTOR'S SALARY

Former Minister of Health Criticizes Salary of Hospital Director.

REFERS TO FERGUSON.

TORONTO, Mar. 31.—The unusual spectacles of a former Minister of Health attacking an item in the estimates of the department of which he was once chief was witnessed in the Ontario Legislature yesterday afternoon.

During the voting of supplementary estimates Hon. Dr. Forbes Godfrey (Conservative, York West) questioned an item under the estimates for the Department of Health providing a salary of $10,000 for the new Director of Hospital Services, B. T. McGhie.

Deputy Gets $6,000

"Personally," said Dr. Godfrey, former Minister of Health, "I would like to know why Dr. McGhie is getting $10,000 as Chief Director of Hospital Services while the salaries of others in the department remain stationary. The Deputy Minister is getting only $6,000."

"The Government was impressed by the services of Dr. McGhie as head of the hospital at Orilla," said Premier Henry. "Dr. McGhie was offered a big increase if he would go to Alberta, and, in order to retain him, we had to offer $10,000 a year."

Dr. Godfrey—I don't know why he wasn't allowed to go to Alberta. This sort of thing affects the whole department and causes discontent. If I were Minister I would want to know that a man was worth $10,000 before I'd give it to him. Of course, this is a relic left to us by a gentleman now overseas.

Refers to Mr. Ferguson

This was taken as an obvious reference to former Premier Ferguson.

Hon. H. C. Nixon, Progressive Leader — If my honorable friend wants to move to reduce this salary I'll support him.

Premier Henry — If Dr. McGhie measures up to the responsibilities of his new position, no one will quarrel with the salary.

William E. N. Sinclair, Liberal House Leader, pointed out the possibility of other able doctors in the department looking forward to increases corresponding to the $10,000 salary paid the Chief Director.

The item was then passed without a division.

Yorkton Bank Loses $3,500 To Lone Bandit

YORKTON, Sask., March 31 (C.P.). — With a peremptory command to the four employees to get down on their hands and knees a lone bandit early to-day held up the local branch of the Bank of Toronto and escaped with an undetermined amount of cash.

There were no customers in the building at the time, and the bandit taking the staff completely by surprise, whipped out an automatic and backed them into a corner, where he ordered them to assume a kneeling posture. Backing into the teller's cage he took part of the cash which totalled $3,500, and quickly made his escape in a waiting automobile.

R. R. McLaughlin, accountant and Walter Hoffman, teller of the bank, gave chase in another automobile, but were soon outdistanced. An intensive search is being carried out by civic and R.C.M.P. officials.

Staff To Be Reduced On Civil Service

OTTAWA, Mar. 31. (CP)—Services of a number of temporary employees of the Civil Service will be dispensed with to-day—the close of the fiscal year. How many could not be ascertained; but officials of the Civil Service Commission said here to-day the number would depend upon the administrative heads of the departments concerned. The prevailing belief is that it will be quite large.

With respect to the reductions which are to be put into effect throughout the service generally, no information was available to-day that would indicate the positions which have been slated for abolition.

WESTERN STORM HARD ON CATTLE

Montana, Wyoming Stockmen Warned Blizzards Not Yet Over.

DEATH LIST MOUNTS.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., March 31. — (C.P.). — The second snowstorm in a week over the Rocky Mountain area and the adjoining Prairie States appeared to be dissipating to-day, but forecasts indicated another was due to roar out of the north-west.

While snow continued to fall in sections of Oklahoma and Kansas, stockmen in Montana and Wyoming were warned by the United States Weather Bureau against renewal of the storm. Elsewhere in the region, with the exception of Colorado and New Mexico, unsettled weather and rain was predicted.

Scattered reports of live stock losses continued to filter in. Railroads and commission men estimated the loss would reach several thousand head. Preparations were being made to ship the carcasses to rendering plants here and at Hutchinson. The Santa Fe reported the probable loading of 700 at Syracuse, Kas.

One death, attributed to the storm, was that of A. L. Leonard, whose body was found yesterday in the Cuny Table district of the South Dakota badlands. Sixteen deaths had been previously reported.

CURTIUS DEFENDS CUSTOMS UNION AGAINST ATTACK

Claims New European Order Must Arise From Series of Partial Agreements.

RAISE BARRIERS SLOWLY.

BERLIN, March 31. (AP)—Julius Curtius, upholding the projected Austro-German economic union against attacks of the British and French Foreign Ministers Rt. Hon. Arthur Henderson and Aristide Briand, in an address to the Reichstrat to-day declared that it violated no treaties and was intended to fit thto plans for better economic organization of Europe.

Studiously avoiding controversey, he said, however, much occasion there might be therefore he delved into the economic motives underlying the accord and attempted to refute Henderson's statement that the manner in which it was reached was calculated to arouse suspician, and M. Briand's comment that it was a threat to peace.

Economic Worries Cause

Economic worries brought the Austrian and German nations together, he declared. It is economic distress which urges us on. He briefly recapitulated the German-Austrian economic situation and then declared: We both expect by co-ordinating our customs and trade relations to give new life to improve and expand the economy of both peoples.

Our accord moves along the lines of Pan-European co-operation: We've enthusiastically welcomed all plans for improving European order by the closest possible co-operation.

The Reich Foreign Minister, however, expressed the opinion that the new European order must arise from a series of partial agreements by which customs barriers are gradually raised and internal markets created.

The idea of regional understanding comes more and more into the foreground, he said.

The German and Austrian Governments have declared their willingness to negotiate with other States for similar arrangements and in so doing believe that they are obeying the laws of European economics.

Turning to the legal aspects of the accord, he said, the purely economic character of the German-Austrian plan does not contravene obligations and undertakings of an international or legal character. Germany's and Austria's jurists, he said, carefully examined the Geneva Protocol of 1922, which sought to assure Austria's perpetual independence, and had been extremely cautious of cimmitments in view of it.

No Legal Violations

Taking up Mr. Henderson's proposal to take the juridicial aspects of the proposed union before the Council of the League of Nations, the German Foreign Minister said his Government saw no reason for occupying the League with matter which he was convinced contained no legal violations. Yet Germany, he said, would not oppose that step.

70th Birthday Of Marshall Saunders

TORONTO, Ont., April 13.— (By the Canadian Press.) —To-day's attainment of 70 years means nothing at all in Miss Marshall Saunders' eager, happy life, unless it means crowding every minute a little fuller. She is lecturing in city church associations two or three times a week, and taking on outside tours, with delightful enthusiasm. She admits that she loves talking. A member of Authors' Association, Canadian Literature, Canadian Women's Press and Heliconian Clubs, etc., she is often seen at their gatherings, the "life of the party" in each case.

Thef amous author of "Beautiful Joe" has recently been engaged on a book about Toronto and a Toronto dog. She has attained the dignity of writer of a story considered "rare" in book collections, a first edition bein scarce anyway, but hard to find in good condition, because it was thumbed to pieces when it first came out.

Snowden To Deliver Budget On April 27

LONDON, March 31 (A.P.)—Premier Ramsay MacDonald announced in the House of Commons yesterday that Rt. Hon. Philip Snowden, Chancellor of the Exchequer, would personally deliver the annual budget address before Parliament on April 27.

Usually the most important Parliamentary utterance in the year, the Budget speech is awaited with more than ordinary interest this year.

FALSE TEETH ARE A GREAT INVENTION but KEEP YOUR OWN AS LONG AS YOU CAN

FALSE TEETH are worn in thousands of mouths today because these simple rules of health were almost unknown a few years ago

Science blames one disease FOR HALF THE TEETH EXTRACTIONS

HALF the adult teeth lost are pulled because of pyorrhea. This startling fact was published in a famous medical journal. Pyorrhea is a sly disease—it attacks so slowly that you may have it for ten years before outward signs appear.

Do not wait for gums to become spongy and tender—do not delay till infection creeps down the roots of the teeth. Most pyorrhea can be prevented if you start treatment in time—do your share, by seeing your dentist at least twice a year, and try keeping your teeth clean and your gums firm and healthy.

Twice a day brush your teeth, massage your gums with Forhan's, the dentists' dentifrice. It was originated by R. J. Forhan, D. D. S., a specialist in pyorrhea. This safe, protective dentifrice removes discolorations and deposits on the teeth, which may cause gum infections—it does all the finest toothpaste can do to keep the teeth beautifully sparkling and clean.

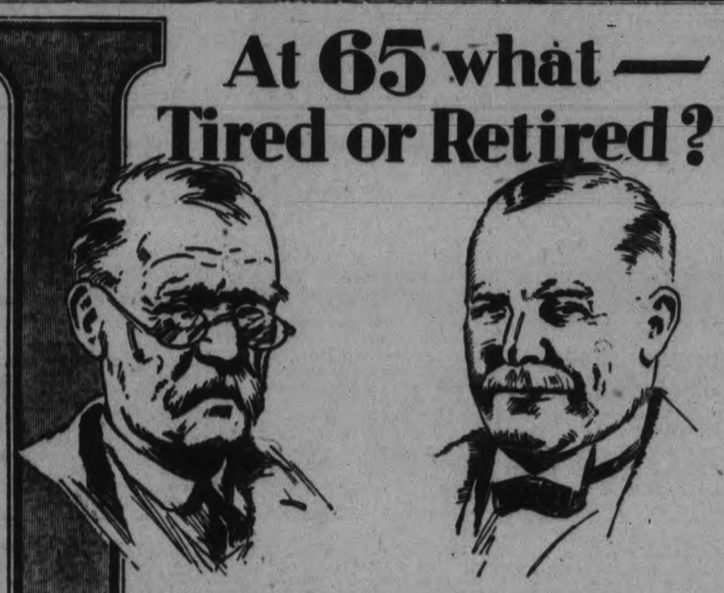
And in addition, it tones up the gums. Applied with massage (full instructions with every tube) Forhan's helps to arouse vigorous circulation, firms up the gums, and helps to keep them tingling with the coral glow of health.

You cannot start this care too soon —the whole family needs Forhan's protection. This dentifrice comes in two sizes, 35¢ and 60¢—just a few cents per tube more than the ordinary toothpaste and exceedingly well worth it. Forhan's Ltd., Montreal.

FORHAN'S FOR THE GUMS

Any mouth may have pyorrhea and at 40 the odds are 4 out of 5

At 65 what — Tired or Retired?



WILL any adequate provision be made for your old age except what you arrange yourself?

Here's how you can fix things for yourself:

You can arrange for a guaranteed income of $100.00 a month for life, commencing at age 65. (If you prefer cash there will be a guaranteed sum of $13,020 awaiting you.)

From the moment you make your first deposit, your family has $10,000 life insurance protection.

Present dollars cannot buy future happiness to better advantage. For instance, a man age 34 can procure a $100.00 a month pension by an annual deposit at the rate of $28.25 a month.

Annual dividends greatly reduce the premiums or increase the benefits.

If you have to provide for your own future out of present income, you can get a London Life proposal to meet your particular requirements without obligation.

"I thought that we had some appreciation of the value of the A. B. C. until we started work in countries where circulations are not audited. It is difficult for anyone in this country to realize what the absence of audited figures means in additional outlay of time, work, and money. In many offices in other countries it has taken our organization literally months of intensive advance work solely on the problems of circulation. Most of the information obtained under these difficulties, had there been an A. B. C., would have been instantly available.

"To these first costs must be added the continuing cost of keeping circulation data up to date.

"I think it can be safely said that the A. B. C. is one of the outstanding successful co-operative undertakings of the generation."

"Perhaps only those of us who have been buying advertising space for a time we have to measure in decades, can fully appreciate the great job the A. B. C. has done. And its work is just as necessary now as it ever was in the past.

"I think the current trend of business requires us all to give more detailed study than ever before to actual A. B. C. Audit Reports and Publisher's Statements. To appraise the circulation of a publication intelligently, we must know the distribution, circulation methods, subscription prices and other facts that are reliably shown only in the reports of the Bureau.

Geo Pearson

Would you picture for yourself American advertising as it existed two decades ago? Follow business, then, as it seeks the markets of the world. Survey with men in American advertising agencies, the field of media in Britain, on the Continent, in South America, in the Far East.

There, in circulation claims, chaos still prevails. Expensive research and constant vigilance are needed in buying space. Advertising must surmount a needless hurdle—an obstacle which in this country has been removed forever.

Facing the same conditions under which advertising still struggles in other lands, American advertising sixteen years ago demanded a change. The regulatory force came from within. Advertisers, advertising agencies and publishers joined in founding the Audit Bureau of Circulations.

Everybody today knows the plainly printed reports of the A. B. C. They cover almost every important publication. They are packed with facts which the wise buyer of space takes pains to heed.

Men who seek the last dollar of value in their advertising budgets are not content with figures on paid circulation only. They search out the whole story, as told in the complete A. B. C. reports. And therein they find the gauge to true values in the selection of advertising media, the means to make an appropriation yield the results that modern business demands.

As a recognition of service, not only agencies and publishers, but a distinguished group of advertisers in the United States and Canada, hold membership today in the Audit Bureau of Circulations.

Boldness and Aggression Essential to Making Success of Life, Says Speaker.

INWARD PROMPTING

MILLBROOK, March 31.—(Examiner Correspondence). — Preaching from the text, "He that regardeth the clouds shall not reap" (Eccles. 11:4), Rev. A. H. Going of Peterborough, preached an impressive and practical sermon at morning worship in Saint Andrew's United Church on Sunday, the pastor, Rev. W. W. Jones, B.D., being absent through illness.

Two thoughts grew out of the text, the danger of overcaution, and a warning not to expend time and effort in fruitless fretting over the possibilities that may lie ahead.

"Boldness and aggression are essential to making a success of life in this world, over-timidity leading to failure, and this is especially true in regard to the Christian life. An inward prompting comes to every follower of God to do something for the kingdom, and once sure that this inner voice is urging along right lines, it is a wise man who gives heed to it. Too many of us are afraid to move out; we hesitate when we should go forward straightway in the service of God. So we accomplish very little in His cause, fearing difficulties that might possibly, though probably they never do, arise."

"The shores of eternity are strewn with the wrecks of opportunities that might have been used by humanity, and many a life's failure may be traced to this fearfulness that lets another step in and take the chance and blessing from his hands. Overcaution leads to moral weakness, and to hesitate to give to charity for fear kindness may be imposed upon will soon sap the spirit of kindliness and generosity out of the nature. To be afraid to help another for fear of being imposed upon will sap out of the nature faith in humanity, and separate one from the rank and file of the human race."

In conclusion the speaker pointed out that while foolhardiness is to be avoided, it is a mistake to be always contemplating the awful possibilities that may lie ahead—rather one should leave these out of count in laying plans for future activities and usefulness. "He that regardeth the clouds shall not reap." "The same God still rules, and though we are facing strenuous times, somehow, somewhere, He will bring order and beauty to-morrow."

"Pessimism is disloyalty to God, and optimism in the light of faith in Christ the only really practical common sense."

The choir sang the anthem, "Lead On O King Eternal", with soprano solo and alto duet by Mrs. G. W. and Miss Marjorie Sayles. The evening service was withdrawn.

asked that credit be given one member for having probed the affairs of hydro and reaching some spot which was, apparently, worthy of attention.

Dr. McQuibban then elaborated his Beauharnois arguments by stating that the hydro "loaned" its chief engineer, Dr. Hogg, to the Beauharnois group. Further, he stated, an engineer named Lee of the Beauharnois employ, had been "borrowed" by hydro during its Nipigon development although Lee was an avowed opponent of St. Lawrence power development and public ownership. The hydro engineer, Dr. Hogg, he added, was also loaned to Manitoba to make a report on the "famous Seven Sisters project and he advised against public development, stating that it should be left to private enterprise." That Dr. McQuibban charged, "was one of the champions of our hydro system, evidence of the private power cancer eating into the heart of public ownership."

Dehial of Dr. McQuibban's charges of "more and more power from Quebec" was made by Mr. Cooke. Present contracts, he said, were giving Ontario power at a rate cheaper than the publicly developed power of Niagara. Without investing a cent and by means of long term contracts, Ontario was availing herself of power sites outside the province which would still be supplying power in years when Ontario's own sources were completely developed and still found lacking.

SIGNS OF THE TIMES IS THEME OF ROTARY TALK BY REV. HARSTON

Campbellford Club Guest From Oshawa Deals With Russian Situation and Unemployment.

FIVE YEAR PLAN.

CAMPBELLFORD, March 31.—(By Examiner Staff Correspondent.)—The Rev. Ernest Harston, of Oshawa, was the guest speaker at the weekly luncheon of the Campbellford Rotary Club, held yesterday in the St. Lawrence Hotel, when he gave a splendid address on "Signs of the Times," emphasizing the unemployment situation and touching on conditions in Russia. The club president, H. N. Carr, occupied the chair.

In his opening remarks the speaker stated that he prided himself on being a student and a close observer of the times and seasons and all those things that have to do withthe human elements. He said that it had been his privilege to welcome to his church in Ottawa as preacher, a rabbi from Toronto, who had preached as powerful sermon on "If I were a Christian." This sermon had created in him interests along certain lines said Mr. Hartson, and he based his address on the content of the Rabbi's talk.

The preacher, said the speaker, had issued a three fold challenge. In the first place he stated that he would be an uncompromising apostle of peace, and pictured a world without war, in the second place he would do something to help the struggling masses condemned to work in the bowels of the earth,in the heat of the furnaces and the dust of the factories, and to create a condition that would lessen the bread lines of the country, and thirdly, he would practice brotherhood, declaring that what was wanted was not tolerance but friendship and brotherhood. With these challenges in his ears, Mr. Harston stated, It had made him study the situation more thoroughly and work harder to find the solution to the many great problems that face the world to-day.

Calls for the Best.

The speaker drew the attention of his listeners to some of the big problems that face us, declaring that it calls for what is biggest and best in manhood to-day to solve them. There was the problem of unemployment, he said. A decided unrest was haunting the footsteps of men in every sphere and department of life to-day. There were many answers to this question, some declaring it to be caused by the machine age and the only solution to it being war. Others said it was through over-production, but Mr. Harston hotly denied this, branding it as a lie.

"Imagine, he declared, the thousands of children who had not enough to eat, who were going about half naked, picking scraps out of garbage cans to keep themselves alive," It was a case of under consumption, he said. We have been so long satisfied with the system under which we live, that lets the products of the machine go into the hands of a few, giving to the few the purchasing power instead of letting some of the profits go into the hands of those who earn. From the industrial point of view, that is how wealth is related.

From this point Mr. Harston touched on the Russian situation. He stated that during the past year a mass of literature had been prevalent, every paper had carried news items and editorials, all with one purpose, to prejudice people against the country. "I have not developed into a Communist,' he declared, saying that he hated the system and that it would have to be dealt with in a firm way, pointing out that in Oshawa there was already established a Communist Sunday school with an enrolment of over 250. But he saw in the Russian upheaval many things that we can learn, springing as it did from a wrong economical condition. To get the right viewpoint of Russia the speaker, said, it must be viewed in the light of Russia of the past and not from a Canadian standard.

Praises System.

In 1913 he stated, the whole of the wealth of Russia was in the hands of a few, the royalty, who controlled the whole country, while the poor were the machines who made these few rich. To-day, although Stalin, the uncrowned king of the country, was a man with an unsavoury past, some fine things have been accomplished. Never in the history of Russia was the health of the people at such a high standard, or were there so many children attending schools. The government was busy building homes for its people, and children born there came into the world under better condition than many do in his country. Mr. Harston pointed out that mothers were given two months perfect rest in hospital before and after the birth of the child, and received her pay as usual. The wage question, taken on a yearly basis, he considered to compare favourably with the Canadian situation.

Of the Five Year Plan, the speaker said that the people were depriving themselves to help the country to right itself. If this period can be gotten over successfully, then Russia would be able to acquire the machinery it wanted, and what is more,establish an army by which it could force its Communist doctrines on the rest of the world." It is utterly impossible for us to keep our eyes closed to this drastic situation," he declared.

Favors Dole.

"The only way out for this great problem, said the speaker was brotherhood and friendship, not tolerance." Of how to apply it to the unemployment situation was difficult. He spoke of the dole system in England, declaring that it was better than the system we have in this country. We insure everything here Mr. Harston stated, from our car to our dog, but fail to insure the most precious thing of all, the workingman's job. What was needed was a, proper equalization of wealth. We cannot sit around our fires and see the present conditions continue, where men and women are starving while others are living in luxury. For if this condition continues we will have to face a revolution.

And in conclusion Mr. Harston appealed to the members of Rotary to at least practice the principals of friendship and brotherhood among themselves and others, for this was the only way out.

A hearty vote of thanks was moved and seconded by Alex MacColl and Dr. B. Longmore and conveyed to the speaker by President Carr, who in accepting it stated that one thing he omitted to state was, that the Russian Five Year Plan was doomed to failure, for amy organization that dethroned God would never live.

Satisfies Nehru

It was said that Gandhi introduced many of these demands, which generally were regarded as radical in order to placate Pandit Jawaharlal Nehru, extremeist member of the Nationalist Cabinet, who has decided Communistic leanings. Nehru spent some time in Soviet Russia and since has advanced some of the ideas gained there in India.

The Congress also passed a resolution which declared: This Congress declares that the people of India have no quarrel with countres and people bordering India, and desires to maintain friendly relations with them. The Congress disapproves the so-called "forward" policy of the British Government in India on the north-west frontier and all Imperialist attempts to destroy the freedom of the people of the frontier.

The Congress is strongly of the opinion that the military and financial resources of India should not be employed in furtherance of this policy and that military occupation of the tribesmen's territory should be terminated.

FIERCE CONFLICT

had been exhausted and to endeavor later to find the money in the supplementary estimates, was irregular, countered Mr. King. Under such a practice Parliament had no control over expenditures. When the Liberal Leader demanded one of the contracts be produced, there were some sharp passages between him and the Premier but it later was produced after Mr. King refused to permit the item to pass without it.

When Premier Bennett personally answered all questions, even when the money being voted effected some Governmental department other than his own Mr. King objected. The House was entitled to hear the explanation of the Minister whose department was seeking the money. Premier Bennett did not agree with the latter statement—it was customary for the Minister of Finance to give any explanation requested and to take complete charge of such estimates.

The general estimates amounted to $6,148,644 and, in addition, Canadian National Railway estimates totalled $13,694,008. This money was needed, the Prime Minister explained, so the Government books, which close the fiscal year to-day, might be balanced. The obligations had been incurred and it was not proposed to carry them into the new fiscal year.

Slow Progress

Progress was slow from the start and the Opposition members showed no inclination to pass the votes without careful scrutiny. Almost from the first item, Quebec Liberals, especially Major C. G. Powers and J. F. Pouliot attempted to draw from the Government an announcement of policy regarding the Civil Service Commissioin. Premier Bennett, however, refused to make any definite announcement either on this subject or whether there would be wholesale staff reductions in the Government service.

The latter question was interjected by Mr. Pouliot who, when Mr. Bennett refused to answer him directly, drew rounds of laughter from the Liberals with a quarter-of-an-hour monologue. In his cryptic and staccato style of speaking, Mr. Pouliot attempted unsuccessfully in several different ways to secure an answer from the Prime Minister. Finally, to close the incident, Mr. Pouliot declared the Government members were dumb, they thought so much they had nothing to say.

Liberal members endeavored unsuccessfully to draw from the Government an announcement on its general agricultural policy when votes totalling $443,000 for that department were being discussed. A. L. Beaubien (Lib.-Prog., Provencher) said members from agrarian ridings wanted to discuss it with their constituents during the Easter recess.

Before these items were passed, Mr. King protested against Ministers absenting themselves from the House, after noting that Hon. Robert Weir, Minister of Agriculture, was not in the House at the time.

Mr. Weir, Premier Bennett replied, had left the House at his suggestion to secure some additional information.

Probe Hotel Patronization.

An immediate investigation will be conducted by the Government into charges made by R. W. Gray (Lib., West Lambton) that certain officers of the Department of Agriculture had been instructed to patronize one particular hotel in Halifax N.S. He read to the House what he said was a letter signed by A. E. Moore, Chief Travelling Inspector, instructing his men to stay at the hotel. The matter would be investigated, Premier Bennett promised.

The incident ended humorously when William Duff, Lib., Antigonish-Guysborough) facetiously said he had lo objection to such an order—he owned stock in the hotel.

PERSONAL BUDGET IN REGARD TO LIFE

Young People's Society of Queensboro Hold Meeting in Church.

QUEENSBORO, March 31 (Examiner Correspondence)—There was a good attendance at the Young People's meeting held in the church on Friday evening. The theme for the evening was "A personal budget in its relation to the life of a young person." The scripture lesson from Cor. 16, 1 and 2 and St. Luke 14, 28-33 was read and explained by Mrs. Fred Sager, president of the township O.R.E.C. Mrs. Sager said, "If one is going to live for Jesus he must count the cost and live so no one can point the finger of scorn." "Money" she said, "was first mentioned in the Bible in the book of Genesis where it is recorded that Abraham purchased a plot of ground in which to bury the remains of his beloved wife Sarah." "Every concern has a budget" said the speaker "and while the love of money may be the root of all evil, money is a great essential and much good may be and is accomplished through its possession and use. We should remember that God helps us get our money. Individuals should have a carefully planned budget that it might be possible for the church to do its best work, for which a budget is a necessity."

Miss Jennie Thompson gave a paper on the topic, in which was pointed out the advantage of young people early in life finding out the cost of maintaining themselves, because some day they will have to buy their own food, clothes, shelter, education and medical care; then to know this helps us to understand how indebted we are to our parents during the periods of childhood and youth. Provision should be made for saving and also giving. Spending should be done wisely and it is good for us to have to do without and can do it with a smile. There are things not really necessities which should be planned for, such as hobbies, holidays, books, recreational and social expenses. Young people should learn to save and pay cash rather than run the risk of becoming involved in credit deals.

A solo, "Moment by Moment" by Margery Delyea was much enjoyed. Miss Helen McCaw gave a reading entitled "A package of seeds" in which life was compared to a package of seeds possessing great possibilities. The hymns sung were, "My Father is rich in houses and lands," "Jesus wants me for a sunbeam," "There shall be showers of blessing," and "Jesus the very thought of Thee."

Ladies' Aid Meets

The Ladies' Aid met on Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Harry Delyea with a fair attendance. In the absence of the president, Mrs. Harry DeClair, the meeting was taken by Mrs. Fred Rollins. Mrs. Rollins read Psalm 86 and after the roll call several items of business were discussed after which the meeting was closed. The remainder of the time was spent in needlework in preparation for the bazaar. A delicious lunch was served by the hostess.

GO SLOW MOVE CLOGS FREIGHT

London Yards Tied Up as Men Stick to Rules to Cause Embarrassment.

OBJECT TO WAGE CUT.

LONDON, March 31 (C.P.). — Two of London's largest freight yards —that at Broad Street and that at King's Cross—are rapidly becoming clogged with unhandled freight cars as a consequence of the institution of a go slow movement among yard workers.

Other yards are affected to a minor degree by the movement which has been begun as a protest at a wage reduction accepted by the National Union of Railwaymen. The basis of the movement is meticulous observance by employees of an unwieldy, intricate set of rules which usually are somewhat disregarded in the interest of expediting merchandise.

The regulations demand only a specified amount of work in most cases, but the men obtain bonuses by exceeding this. In the present case they have foregone the opportunity for bonuses in order to cause embarrassment to the railway companies, who fear such a movement next to a strike.

Many of the rules are designed as insurance against accidents, but some of these are customarily disregarded by the men and their offences winked at by officials who find much work is done by not adhering to them. At present, however, the men are observing them closely.

Pneumonia Left Her With a Terrible Cough

Mrs. A. W. Power, 581 Jane St., Toronto, Ont., writes:—"Eight years ago I had a very serious illness. I had a bad attack of pleurisy and pneumonia and was six months in bed. This illness left me with a terrible cough. I tried several cough medicines, but they did not seem to have any effect. One day my mother brought me home a bottle of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, and after I had taken several more I noticed my cough gradually leaving me. Since that time if ever my husband and children or myself have bad colds I always get 'Dr. Wood's'."

IN DEFENCE OF SPATS.

The announcement from Scarboro Township that men who drive cars and wear spats have been getting relief and are likely to be cut off, has given the newspaper commentators something to talk about.

Everybody agrees that it is not seemly that men who can find the money to buy gasoline to keep a motor car in commission should receive assistance out of the public funds, but, strange to say, the spat has found its journalistic supporters throughout the Province.

The Stratford Beacon-Herald raises its voice in protest against the suggestion that spats should be discriminated against, its defence being based on two claims—first, that this "little bit of fencing" is a stout bulwark against the biting winds of winter, and, second, because "they hide the shoe laces, and shoe laces as tied and operated by the average man are straggly looking things."

The Border Cities Star, on the other hand, champions the cause of spats from another viewpoint, namely, that they merely conceal the lack of socks.

Perhaps the Scarboro Council has been too hasty in its condemnation—anyway their action has disclosed more friends for the ankle cuffs than most people imagined they had.

THE RIGHT COURSE.

It is not surprising to learn that the bill which proposed to set up a firemen's superannuation and benefit fund in Ontario cities has been thrown out by the municipal laws committee of the Legislature.

Certainly the time is not ripe for such a step, and the Legislature would have been guilty of a very serious error in judgment if it had attempted to force another liability upon Ontario municipalities in a year when the burden of taxation is giving municipal councils and municipal ratepayers grave concern.

Some form of superannuation for firemen may be desirable, but there is much in the contention of the Peterborough City Council that if the principle is to be accepted it should be applied to all city services and not merely to the employees of one branch.

At all events, the general opposition from Ontario cities to the Murphy bill indicates that the municipalities do not care to be saddled at this time with the heavy expense involved in putting a firemen's superannuation fund on a sound acturial basis.

If there are cities in the Province that are willing to enter upon such a scheme on a voluntary basis all well and good, but to attempt to have the Legislature force the plan upon unwilling municipalities was going too far, and the municipal committee did the proper thing in throwing out the bill.

Queen's Park has loaded enough liabilities upon the shoulders of the municipalities without adding to the load with a pensions bill for firemen.

MORE DEADLY THAN WARFARE.

"It must be," comments the Stratford Beacon-Herald in discussing the toll taken in traffic accidents, "that the world to-day is ready to accept auto killings as part of the day's work."

The record of lives lost in recent months in the United States certainly justifies this inference.

It is a shock to learn that in the past eighteen months more people have been killed in the United States by automobiles than there were American soldiers killed in the eighteen months the United States soldiers were engaged in the World War.

The total slain by automobiles in the United States in the last year and one-half was 50,900.

The American army fought in the Great War for a similar length of time and the total number of soldiers who were killed or died of wounds was 50,510.

In other words, the automobile is taking more lives than the deadliest war the world has ever seen.

There is one faint glimmer of hope.

Experts declare that fewer children are being killed each year, and they deduce from that fact the comforting thought that the new generation is developing an automobile consciousness that is protecting itself against traffic dangers.

And yet the toll of young lives is still heavy enough to make it one of the gravest problems of to-day.

IMMENSE NEW LOANS.

If Mr. Bennett continues to hold the portfolio of the Minister of Finance, the Premier will have on his hands some of the greatest financial problems any statesman in Canada has had to grapple with.

During the next three years refunding operations for the public debt will have to be carried on at a scale never before heard of in Canadian history.

During the present year two loans aggregating $78,000,000, which fall due, will have to be dealt with by the issue of new bonds, but this is easy compared with the problem next year and in 1934, for next year the 1918 Victory Loan of $446,000,000 matures, while the year after sees the $511,000,000 1919 Victory Loan fall due.

There is only one course open to the Government in the circumstances, and that is to meet these obligations with new bond issues.

The King Government during its term of office did not have to conduct such massive financial operations, because the debts which were then coming due were not on the colossal scale of the 1918 and 1919 loans and as there were annual surpluses available for paying off a good proportion of the issues as they matured, about $275,000,000 of the debt was extinguished, says the Border Cities Star in discussing the refunding that will be necessary.

Circumstances now do not permit of such a happy vent, and Mr. Bennett, as Minister of Finance, will be bliged to refund these loans with new issues of bonds. rtunately, the market for first-class securities is good, d the loans of the Dominion of Canada rank in the y forefront of Government issues. Moreover, the e of money is considerably lower than it was dur- the war days, and there will be a substantial saving the treasury in interest charges when the existing h-interest bonds are replaced by those to be issued on a more favorable bond market than that of the war and immediate post-war era.

The two huge Victory Loans, amounting to nearly half of Canada's national debt, were issued at 5½ per cent. per annum. In addition to this, the 1918 loans was made tax free, as an inducement to investors confronted with rising income taxes to invest their money in them. The new loans will probably be issued at around 4½ per cent., a saving of one per cent. per annum on approximately a billion dollars, or $10,000,000 a year—quite a tidy sum when it is considered that this saving is annual.

THE BARBERS' BILL.

The Master Barbers of the Province are the latest to request the Legislature to create them into a close corporation through the establishment of a board which would be empowered to grant or to refuse licenses to barbers and which would act as a group of examiners similar to those directing the medical and dental professions. Such legislation, with other legislation relating to license fees, certain sanitary standards and inspection of barbers' premises, is sought in a bill prepared by a special committee of the Toronto Master Barbers' Association that is to be introduced at Toronto by one of the members for that city.

If this bill should become law, there is no reason why members of other trades, as distinct from professions, should not ask for corresponding legislation. Why should not the carpenters, for instance, demand of the Legislature that it should set a certain standard to be attained by those engaged in that trade and require all those seeking entrance to it to pass an examination in how hammers and saws and planes should be manipulated? A carpenter will probably argue that just as much skill is involved in putting a house together as in cutting hair or shaving faces. And he will also argue that if the Master Barbers wish to keep out of their trade those who lack training or are otherwise unsuitable, the Master Carpenters should be in a position to apply similar restrictions. And so with the electricians, the moulders, the machinists, the roofers, the painters, the plasterers and every other trade under the sun.

It is all very well to demand of barbers that they should keep their premises in a certain sanitary state and that those premises should be subject to inspection by local boards of health. But to require every person who is desirous of setting up shop as a barber, perhaps in a small village, to submit to an examination by an august board established by act of the Legislature of Ontario and that he should be able to satisfy such a board of examiners of his fitness to chop hair and shave faces, would be ridiculous and would open the way to similar action being demanded by other trades.

If a man is a poor barber, his patrons very soon discover that fact (perhaps to their sorrow, even to their pain), and he rapidly disappears from the ranks of those competing with legitimate, efficient barbers. It does not take an examining board or an act of Parliament to weed out the undesirables in that trade; the public attends to that, as it attends to incompetents or misfits in any other branch of trade or business. If this thing keeps up, we shall soon have the trade of barbering open only to those who are graduates of courses in barbering established in connection with the provincial university and holders of the degree of B. Sc. To. (Bachelor of the Science of Tonsoriology). — Brockville Recorder and Times.

TRADE WITH RUSSIA.

Some of those interested in the trade deprecate the protests which have been made against the importation of Russian timber. They urge that the question should be examined, not from the angle of one or two timber camps, but from that of the position of the Russian people as a whole and the ultimate result of the present tendencies. A leading authority in the timber trade puts it very bluntly:

> The danger is not in buying timber from Russia, but in having any connection with that country at all. If the rest of the world does not want Communism, it should refuse, by agreement, to trade with Russia in any way, because, in a few years' time, when all the factories now being built are fully working, with the country's vast internal resources and the energy of 150,000,000 people to draw upon, they will not only provide all that the Russian people want, but will swamp the world with cheap goods with which other industrial nations cannot compete. . . . Meanwhile every country that has any connection with Russia, and every credit extended to her including that allowed by the British Government, is helping to bring nearer the day when the products of Communism, if not the creed, will swamp the markets of the world.

Exaggerated as these apprehensions may seem, there are reasons to fear that they may prove better founded than is at all pleasant to contemplate. One thing at any rate appears plain enough. If Russia, with the help of foreign credits and foreign engineers and other technical experts, is able to go on industrializing herself at her present pace, other countries will only be able to compete by organizing their production and commerce on something like the scale on which Russia is organizing hers. That is to say, they must regiment and exploit their labor with the same ruthless thoroughness and reduce their standard of living to approach the Russian level.—Stratford Beacon-Herald.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Stories of ravages by wolves in Victoria County form an eloquent argument for an increased wolf bounty.

Now watch the wild rush. The Ontario Legislature is hustling to get through by Thursday night.

Citizens have to tell the census enumerators whether or not they own a radio, but they need not specify how often they pull in the coast stations.

A new device to detect drunkenness by smelling the breath of suspects may prove a little drastic for motorists who attempt to mix gasoline and liquor.

More adults and fewer children are being killed by motor cars. The new generation is becoming automobile conscious, the experts claim.

As a happy thought for the day, your radio license expires to-night.

The Bell Telephone Company is to spend $50,000 this year in Peterborough improvements. That's welcome news in a year of not too great activity in any line.

The Red-Headed Goddess

By

ALICE ROSS COLVER

They ran in with yelps and encircled the fire. Then, leaping and dancing, they tried to burn off the eagles' down on the tips of the wands they carried. In their efforts to accomplish this, they went through every imaginable contortion, twisting and turning their bodies, and grimacing with pain beneath the scorching touch of the intense heat. Some flung themselves flat on the ground, wriggling forward like snakes on their backs with their heads to the fire, and attempted to thrust their wands into the flames close down to the earth. Others made a wild rush directly into the heat. And still others tried to catch the flying sparks on their wand tips. At last every Indian had succeeded, and triumphantly exhibited the burnt, bare, sticks as they danced frenziedly in a pretended effort to do this until, finally to the amazement of the onlookers, there suddenly appeared on the black tips the snowy down of ball that had been there in the beginning.

"It's a trick," Dan explained. "I don't know how they do it. Powell could tell you. He's been down in the kivas and seen them prepare those wands."

As he finished speaking the dancers dashed off, and Red Jim and Powell returned. They had been unable to discover anything, but had not yet succeeded in penetrating to the kivas.

"I'll get there though," said Powell. "Look! Here comes the patient. She doesn't look sick, does she?"

"Is she?"

"Probably not. This affair is partly social and partly religious. It gives them a chance to invoke the good will of the gods. They particularly want a blessing because of their planned rebellion. We'll probably see some rather unusual features to-night."

The patient had advanced and laid herself down on a buffalo robe, with Scarface at her head. When she was comfortably adjusted on the ground, he blew a whistle and two dancers rushed on carrying long arrows. Their bodies were black, except for their fore-arms and legs, which were white. After the usual run around the fire, they stopped and, holding their arrows aloft, pointed to a spot on the shafts and said something which Powell translated:

"So far will I swallow it."

Suiting their actions to their words, they crammed the arrows into their open mouths pushing down upon them with apparent great effort until the arrows had disappeared to the place indicated. The process seemed terribly painful, and their grunts and grimaces horrible to behold but when they at last got them wedged down their throats, they did a dance—a chasse of short shuffling steps right and left—in triumph.

"That's a trick too," Red Jim said. "The arrows fold up inside somehow."

The dance over, the two men went to the patient and applied the arrows to the soles of her feet, her knees, hands, abdomen, back shoulders, crown and mouth, emitting three coyote-like yelps each time they touched her, after which they sprang up, danced once more about the fire and departed.

One rite followed another in steady progression. Some were amusing, some repellant, some dull and some beautiful as when they planted a yucca root and made it appear to grow, bud and blossom before the eyes of the audience, until the great creamy flowers shone in the firelight. Through them all Red Jim and Powell kept disappearing, but each time they came back they had no more to say than the time before, and at last Dirk could stand it no longer.

"I'm going to speak to Scarface, the leader! Come on, Powell! There can't be any harm in asking him!"

But Powell was staring into the enclosure and spoke in a sharp, low voice: "Hush! Listen!"

Dirk turned to look too, and saw that the Indians, all of them, were closely grouped together and were standing in a strange stillness. Suddenly an appalling war whoop rang out on the night, immediately echoed by every one there, and then, to the terrific din of rattles, drums and whizzers, there rose a song that made the blood of the white men run cold, even though it was utterly unintelligible to them all. Powell, however, knew the wild strain of the music, and hearing it, gave a startled ejaculation:

"That's their battle song. Their 'protection' song they call it. It's always sung just before going to war. Listen!"

"Sinahase nagee nagee alili kat bitasa
"Kat nayemaz gani si nishin nita
"Nagee nagee alili kat bitasa
'Dzil hotsis tsida hiveztanila
'Nagee nagee alili kat bitasa
"Kat saan nagai kat bike hozoni si nislin
"Nagee nagee alili kat bitasa."

"Now, slayer of the alien gods, among men am I.
"Now among the alien gods with weapons of magic am I.
"Rubbed with the summits of the mountains.
"Now among the alien gods with weapons of magic am I.
"Now upon the beautiful trail of old age
"Now among the alien gods with weapons of magic am I."

Their harsh voices rang out on the night air. At the end of the song the entire group of men let out wild yelps and began to run in single file about the great fire, led by the nude dancers. Round and round they went, leaping and stamping, shouting and singing, and worked up each moment to a great pitch of excitement by the now frenzied dance leaders and the barbaric music.

"If we're going to get out of here, we'd better get started," said Powell. "There's no fooling about this. They're going to keep their word. They're going to fight! See! Some of them are armed already!" He turned to Kent. "Lorraine's not here. Red Jim's been sure of it for a long time and now I'm convinced. She's either dead or else Silver Tongue has taken her out of this mess, realizing her danger. What do you say, Kent? Is there anything more to wait for?"

But Kent, white faced shook his head.

"You go, Powell—all of you. It's the only thing to do. Thanks for coming. I guess it's no use, but I can't leave until I've been down into those kivas."

"Nor 'I,'" said Dirk through set teeth. "What's more, I'm going now!"

But Powell and Dan caught his arm.

"It's sheer suicide!" Powell cried in his ear.

"It isn't! Everybody's up here now! And I don't care if it is, anyway!"

He was about to pull away when a low sound from Dan stopped him.

"Look!"

The nude dancers broke away from the main group and rushed off to the gateway of the high surrounding fence. Inevitably with their withdrawal came a lull in the dancing and the music, and the Indians melted into a solid group, a mass of restless movement and angry murmurs. Suddenly the air was shattered by a loud trumpeting of a buffalo horn, and at the sound of it the dancers reappeared, brandishing bundles of shredded bark in their hands.

"Watch, look, Powell! There's something—queer." Red Jim muttered.

"They're hiding somebody in the middle of the group!" Powell replied. "By jove! Look at that!"

They gazed in horror at the swiftly enacted scene of the next few moments. For in less time than it takes to tell it the dancers reached a stake driven into the ground, surrounded it for a brief period and then, breaking away with a yell, left revealed the drooping body of an Indian girl, bare to her waist, tied to the stake with her back to the white men. In the following seconds, before the white men could do more than gasp, the savaged had raced around the raging fire, circling nearer and nearer until they were able to thrust their faggots of shredded bark into the flames. Then with these burning torches in their hands, they seemed to become mad men. Yelling and racing, they chased each other about the roaring furnace, the flames from their faggots streaming like banners behind them. Shortly they began striking one another on the back with their fiery scourges, flagellating their own bodies and lashing at the cowering girl as they passed her.

It was a terrible scene. Every Indian there, even the women and children, seemed to be infected by the wild orgy. The air was filled with war whoops, with trumpeting like sand cranes, with beating of drums, while crueler and crueler grew the punishment, as the whirling dancers whipped one another, spat upon one another, and struck again and again. At last they ripped their flaring torches in their hands, as though they were sponges, and rushed upon the girl, sweeping the fire over her bare, cringing body mercilessly.

"My God!" broke from Kent.

"That's awful punishment! Awful!" Ashton said.

"Yes. But it's not as awful as it looks. The white clay on their bodies—see, the girl has some too!—is a pretty good non-conductor. And those cedar twigs ignite at a very low temperature."

"Still, look at her! She feels it!"

"Yes," Powell agreed. "I've never known them to do that to one of their own women before. She must have violated all the codes."

Dirk, however, said nothing at all. With the sweat breaking out on his forehead, he stepped forward well ahead of the others, where he could see better, and from this point of vantage he stared fixedly at the girl bound to the stake. There was nothing familiar about her. That dark hair, that straining brown body daubed with white, those were not Lorraine's. She was not Lorraine. Yet—wouldn't an Indian girl be more stoical? Would she twist and writhe and fight? If only he could see her face!

He began to work his way off to the woods on the right, where he slipped from tree to tree until at last he stood hidden, but directly opposite the girl. By now the Indians had ceased brushing her with their torches and she stood as though spent, sagging against the stake that supported her, her head dropped so low that she might be in a faint.

She was, nearly. She had been led up from the darkness of the kiva into the brilliant glare of the towering fire and had been at once so blinded by it that she could see nothing. Was her father here? Where was he? The leaping savages surrounding her repeatedly cut off her vision and when at last they left her to begin their first mad chase about the fire, she could see nothing outside the rim of light case by its flames. Within the circle she searched closely for a white face, but none was visible. There were just these wild red men, this terrifying fire—and herself. Not even Silver Tongue.

Then they approached her, fiendish, evil, brandishing their burning torches and in the agony that came with the realization of their intent, she forgot everything but the excruciating pain of the moment. Up and down over her breasts and back went the crackling flames. She tried to scream and could not. Her throat was dry, her eyes starting from her head, as she twisted helplessly against the thong that bound her. Just as the moment became unendurable, they suddenly ceased, and sprang away from her. It was then she dropped in a half faint before Dirk's eyes.

But forgetfulness was not to be hers. Through her fading consciousness there crept slowly recognition of another horror that shocked her alert once more. The dancing men were piling sticks behind her stake. In a moment they would ignite these. She was to be burned to death!

Was here no help anywhere? Silver Tongue! Dirk! No, Dirk was dead. But Silver Tongue must be here! She could not die this way—like an animal—without a sound! By a tremendous effort of will she gathered herself together, flung up her head, wet her lips preparatory to a shout, and then felt it die in her throat.

For her wildly roving eyes had fallen upon the figure of a man before her, a tall man, a man who stood alone just without the glare of the fire near the woods, a man with a small white square of bandage on his head—Dirk!

And then behind her came a voice:

"They're burning her at the stake. I can't stand this, Kent——"

"Dirk! Father! Help!"

The scream had scarcely left her lips before recognition of her convulsed face came to Dirk. Like a whirlwind he sprang forward, his shout carrying to the others through the din.

"Lorraine!"

What To-day Means To You

"ARIES"

If March 31st is your birthday, the best hour for you on this date are from 11:30 a.m. to 2 p.m. and from 4:15 p.m. to 6:10 p.m. The danger hours are from 9:30 a.m. to 10:45 a.m., from 2:45 p.m. to 3:30 p.m. and from 8 p.m. to 9 p.m.

The planetary aspects of March 31st are somewhat nebulous, and difficult to interpret. Under such conditions, more than ordinary care should be exercised, and nothing new should be essayed. Toward sundown, the signs become distinct and bright, and augur well for affairs of the heart.

Children born on this March 31st will face two besetting weaknesses: timidity and sensitiveness. They must be made to mix freely with others, so that they may lose their excessive self-consciousness. They will be intellectual, and, as they learn to forget themselves, will become attractive and entertaining.

Yours is a hard character to analyze, if you were born on March 31st. You are not congenial, are not a good mixer, but are a quixotically loyal friend. Your emotions are very powerful, but you take such pains to hide them that most people look upon you as cold and indifferent. You have strong religious inclinations, but are not a disciple of the orthodox. Criticism has little or no effect on your actions. You go your own way, regardless of convention or advice.

You are bored with society and do not hesitate to express your thoughts in a plain and outspoken way. With it all, however, you rarely offend. You can tell unpalatable truths in a manner that disarms resentment, but your words have after effects that cause others to think.

You are always struggling upward, fighting that something within yourself which is forever trying to drag you down. You force yourself to work, although your natural desire is to loaf. Your judgment of others, and the motives that actuate them, is almost uncanny, and you rarely "let down"—either socially or financially. Although not ambitious, you will be successful, and your home life, where you are your natural self, will be replete with happiness.

DR. ANNA BROCWAY GRAY PASSES

DETROIT, Mich., Mar. 31 (C.P.)—Dr. Anna Dedora Brockway Gray, 80, physician, historian, writer of children's verses and daughter of the first white settler west of Sault Ste. Marie in the Michigan Copper Country, died last night at her home in Plymouth.

Dr. Gray's father was Daniel D. Brockway, who went to the L'Anse Indian Reservation in 1846 as a school instructor.

FELLOWSHIP OF PRAYER

DAILY LENTEN DEVOTION

PREPARED BY THE REV CLARENCE H WILSON D.D FOR THE COMMISSION ON EVANGELISM OF THE FEDERAL COUNCIL OF THE CHURCHES OF CHRIST IN AMERICA

A GREAT GIVER

"This poor widow hath cast in more than they all." Luke 21:3. (Read Luke 20:45-21:4.)

Meditation

Did the poor widow ever know of Jesus' commendation? Probably she was unaware of the sacrificial grandeur of her giving. What she did know was that she had done her best and doubtless she went her way happier than those who had given easily of their abundance. It is their cost that puts the value on all our offerings. Our great givers are not the rich who give thousands and millions which they do not need and never miss; they are the poor who deprive themselves of comforts in order to give their small sums. When we consider its resources many a little struggling church puts to shame the rich churches of the cities. The devoted generosity of the poor is the richest asset of the Kingdom.

Prayer

Our Heavenly Father, who hast prospered us and given us abundance, show us the beauty of sacrifice that we do not corrupt our joy by keeping for ourselves that which we owe to Thee. Amen.

Voice of the People

IRISH SWEEPSTAKES

To The Editor of The Examiner.

Dear Editor,—Now that the names of those who were lucky in the Irish Sweepstakes have been published, I would like to voice a little sentiment in regard to the huge sums to be paid out in prize money.

According to the printed lists it can be found that the Free State has not kept one of the large prizes as yet, which speaks well for the system employed, whereas two of the largest prizes and many others are going to a country where the authorities have not shown the slightest consideration for the great charitable object intended.

Should the Dublin authorities decide to hold up or outlaw the winner's share, I am sure it would be backed by considerable sentiment the world over as John Bull has not shown any great amount of sportsmanship in his actions relative to a great object for charity.

Yours very truly,
P. T. Sheridan.

THE RECONCILIATION

To The Editor of The Examiner,

Sir,—The reconciliation between Beaverbrook and Baldwin cuts the last hope from under the feet of those Canadians who supposed that they could shut out Britain but that Britain wouldn't or couldn't shut us out.

But the axe has fallen. These two parties agree that the raising of British foodstuffs in Britain must be "protected" against outside competition and that a protective tariff will be put on. This shuts out Canadian cattle, wheat, butter, eggs, cheese, etc., all because Mr. Bennett and those who supported him were stupid enough to suppose that Britain was helpless or did not know anything.

Canada does not appear at the World Grain conference in Italy, she does not appear to have been invited. Looking back at the Wheat Pool and other big Canadian talk about blasting their way into other people's countries while shutting them out of ours reminds one of the youth who becomes so clever that he ultimately fell through the seat of his wearing apparel and hanged himself.

CANADA'S LIQUOR BILL.

To the Editor of The Examiner.

Dear sir:

The reports of the Liquor Boards and Commissions have been presented to their various provincial legislatures, and it is now possible to compute the expenditures for liquors in Canada for the periods covered. Some provinces close their liquor year in the Spring and others in the Fall. The former will parallel only about six months of depression, the latter practically a full year.

For Quebec, Manitoba, Alberta and British Columbia, the retail value of the beer sales by licensees is estimated on a conservative basis and added. The cost of permits is included. The results are as follows:

Nova Scotia—
Sale for 43 days only....	621,587
New Brunswick—
An increase	4,809,734
Quebec—
An increase	75,700,550
Ontario—
A decrease	54,945,832
Manitoba—
An increase	10,632,392
Saskatchewan—
A decrease	12,380,672
Alberta—
A decrease	14,997,225
British Columbia—
An increase	19,532,682
Total	$193,630,674

Last year, on the same basis, the amount was $192,986,504. If the sales in Nova Scotia, which have no parallel in last year's amount, are deducted, the bill is still up $30,583.

If any allowance is made to cover illegal sales, it is fair to say that expenditures for liquor in Canada are still approximatey $200,000,000.

In 1930, our imports fell off 22.4 per cent.; our domestic exports were less by 25.1 per cent; our railway earnings were down $80,000,000 and our bank debits, usually regarded as a fair index of general trade, decreased by over $9,000,000,000, or 12 per cent.

The magnitude of the liquor trade, its grip upon our people, and its rivalry of other trades scarcely needs comment.

A. J. IRWIN,
Acting Secretary, Canadian Temperance Federation.

GOLD STOCKS IN ACTIVE DEMAND

Balance of Standard Exchange List Displays Somewhat Stronger Appearance.

OIL GROUP DULL.

TORONTO, Ont., Mar. 31.—(CP)—Gold stocks again met brisk demand on the mining market to-day, with balance of the list also displaying a somewhat stronger appearance.

McIntyre and Dome advanced a half each in good turnover, Teck-Hughes and Mining Corp. were up 5 apiece and Kirkland Lake gold, Northern Canada, Vipond and Siscoe were a cent or so higher. Wright-Hargreaves was the active spot, price moving up 8 to $2.70.

Noranda displayed renewed strength from the opening and by noon was up nearly a point at $24.75. International Nickel gained 35 to $17.75 and Amulet and Sherritt Gordon sold above last night.

Oils were a dull group with the cheaper members slowing only minor changes.

INTERLISTED ISSUES FIRM

Turnover Remains Dull as Higher Prices Fail to Hold Interest of Speculators.

OIL STOCKS ADVANCE.

TORONTO, Ont., March 31.—(C)—Extremely dull trading marked the forenoon session on Toronto Stock Exchange to-day. The interlisted leaders came out slightly higher and held practically unchanged throughout the greater portion of the first two hours. Just before midday the market firmed and small net gains were recorded. The improvement in prices did not awaken a responsive interest on the part of the public, however, and turnover remained dull.

Oil stocks rebounded after opening weak. British American oil sold down to a new low level at 11 3-8 during the first hour but at noon was up nearly a point from its low and ⅛ point above last night, selling at 12¼. Imperial improved slightly, International Petroleum registered a gain of ¼ point.

Service Stations not only did not retain yesterday's small gain but slipped nearly two points to plumb new depths at 25. Distillery issues were quiet and unchanged. In the mining section Noranda was up 1¾ points, while the gold stocks showed sizeable gains.

FINANCIAL NEWS AND BRIEFS

A Special Service to The Examiner.

Anti-Trust Sugar Move Has Traders Guessing

TORONTO, Mar. 31.—Announcement from Washington last night that the United States Government had started an anti-trust suit against all cane sugar refiners of the country and that it sought the dissolution of the Sugar Institute, has left some locals wondering what action, if any, will be taken in other directions. Refiners of cane sugar in the States takes care of 85 per cent of the output, and a part of the charge, according to the Washington despatch, is that refiners of cane sugar induced the producers of sugar beets to curtail their output. That, according to the charge, is regarded as illegal.

PUBLIC DEMANDS MORE WORK BY OWNERS OF MINE CLAIMS

The trend of financing mining is toward early development of prospects by private capital, the Financial Post points out.

There is likely to be more real search for mining prospects of merit in the next ten years than there has been in the past Prior to the collapse of the stock market boom, real finds were fewer and fewer; the reason was that claims were too easily marketed The stock market collapse has bred scepticism; claims that will receive financial support are likely to be better claims. It will be a more arduous and patient life for the prospector but the results will be better for the mining industry.—Financial Post.

Agreements Reported On Merger Principle

MONTREAL, March 31.—Agreement in principle has been reached between major principals who last week conferred here upon the long-mooted paper manufacturers merger. Further conversations may be held this week.

It is held that an important step towards consummation of the merger will be the reconstruction of Canada Power and Paper Company's capital structure as new terms will be devised on the basis of this recapitalization. It is also said that some adjustments are to be made in regard to the valuation of properties to be taken in.

Interests in close touch with negotiations state that if operations are maintained under the proposed merger, at about the same level as at present, below 50 per cent of capacity, wood for the various mills can be drawn from pulp limits in such manner as to equalize costs and enable a profit to be shown where none is now possible.

MANUFACTURING INDUSTRIES BUILT ON MINING BASIS

Developments that have taken place in base metal mining in Canada in recent years have laid the foundation for large scale manufacturing industry as well. This result of the opening up of our copper, zinc and lead mines is of the utmost significance in the growth of Canadian posperity, says the Financial Post, Toronto.

The value of the metal produced—representing new wealth distributed in the form of wages, dividends, taxes, freight payments, etc. — is only the beginning. The establishment and expansion of further manufacturing operations, based on the production from our base metal mines, multiply the value of the metal ores as extracted from the ground. These operations represent further new labor, new freight, new dividends. They have brought about a substantial decline in our imports of metals from other countries, a decline that we are only now beginning to notice. They are bringing about a very large increase in the value of our exports of products made from metal. Our base metals are helping to stabilize our balance of trade and to urge us on to the point where we will be even larger exporters of capital—Financial Post.

Allantic Sugar Net Jumps 55 Per Cent.

MONTREAL, March 31.—The financial statement of the Atlantic Sugar Refineries, Ltd., for the fiscal year ended December 31, 1930, shows a wide expansion in profits at $1,104,721, about 55 per cent ahead of the $713,361 reported in the preceding fiscal year. The report also shows an increase of nearly three quarters of a million in net working capital, while investments, which in 1929 totalled $714,589, have now grown to $1,174,987. Total assets are up nearly a million dollars at $12,601,735.

APRIL DIVIDEND STATEMENT PRESENTS FAVORABLE ASPECT

Though Total Loss Less Than Year, It Exceeds Figures For 1929.

C.P.R. PAYS 11 MILLIONS.

By A. D. O'Halloran.

TORONTO, March 31 (SNS).—Despite reductions and omissions in dividends by Canadian corporations in recent months, the estimate of the total disbursements to be made in the month of April compares quite favorably with the record established in 1930, and is well above the estimated total for the corresponding month of 1929. Dividend payments being made at this time for the most part represent distributions for the first quarter of the new year and numerically the list of corporations is large and representative of all branches of industry, commerce and finance.

An estimate compiled from official declarations, securities quoted ex-dividend, etc., indicates dividend disbursements by Canadian corporations in the month of April 1931 of $28,502,437, somewhat below the estimate of $31,039,150 for April 1930 but above the $24,086,126 estimated for April 1929. Most notable among the absentees in this year's list when compared with the previous year, is the quarterly dividend of $1,600,000 paid by Noranda Mines in the first quarter of 1930, the dividend of $544,000 paid by the Massey Harris Company on the common shares and the preferred dividend of $225,000 by Canada Steamship Lines. Of a much brighter aspect is the inclusion of a number of corporations who have found it possible to make initial dividends distribution to their stockholders and others in a position to increase the annual rate paid in the past year.

The feature of April payments is the huge sum being disbursed by the Canadian Pacific Railway Company, amounting to almost $11,000,000 on the preferred and common shares of the company outstanding. Last week the company published its financial statement in pamphlet form and President Beatty's remarks noted an increase in the number of Canadian stockholders of 9,181 or over 50% at the end of 1930 compared with the end of 1929. Stockholders of C. P. R. in the Dominion now number 27,243 and a portion of $11,000,000 in dividends will find its way into the hands of thousands of investors across Canada. This is equally true of all Canadian companies and officials of many have pointed out the growth in their Canadian stockholders in the past year as the result of the lowering of the market price for securities through split-ups and price deflation.

Other bright spots in the list are dividend increases by Canada Northern Power, Canadian General Electric, supertest Petroleum and Hunt's Limited.

Dividends payable in April omitted at this time include that on the Preferred shares of the Belgo-Canadian Pulp and Paper Comapny, the Preferred shares of the St. Maurice Valley Corporation, the Preferred shares of the T. E. Bissell Company, Ltd., and the Class A share of Sarnia Bridge. Canadian Canners, Dominion Engineering, St. Lawrence Corporation and United Fuel Investments are companies that have found it necessary to reduce the rate for the current quarter on one or another of their securities.

Canadian utilities are down for some large distributions with Montreal Light, Heat and Power, making payment of over $1,500,000, Bell Telephone over $1,400,000 and Shawinigan Water and Power almost $1,000,000. Industrial corporations to pay in excess of $500,000 apiece include Abitibi Power and Paper, British American Oil and Canadian Industries.

Six mining companies will reward their stockholders with over $900,000.

BETTER TONE BOND MARKET

New York List Rebounds To-day After Five Consecutive Days' Decline.

ALTHOUGH TRADING LIGHT.

NEW YORK, N.Y., March 31 (C.P.)—Bears were finally content to take profits, and the stock market had its expected rebound to-day.

The market had been declining for five consecutive sessions, and for seven out of the past eight sessions, so traders felt that the bear side might be getting over-crowded. The rebound was not violent, however, and trading was in limited volume. The bond market also showed a better tone.

Auburn about cancelled Saturday's 13-point drop, and shares rising about 3 to 4 points included Electric Autolite, Eastman, Worthington, McKeesport and Dupont. The utilities displayed conspicuous rallying power. Miscellaneous issues rising 2 points or more included Consolidated Gas, American Telephone, American and Foreign Power, Electric Power and Light, Public Service of N.J., Westinghouse, Sears and Atchison. There were further jiggles in the gold mining issues, McIntyre, Porcupine and Homestake reaching new top territory. A broad list of issues advanced a point or more, including U. S. Steel, American Can, Radio and General Electric.

Caution In Buying Cause Of Decline

CHICAGO, Ill., March—31—(CP.) With wheat importing countries showing extreme caution in buying, grain prices averaged lower early to-day. European millers were reported purchasing fresh supplies of wheat only on receipt of shipping instructions for flour. Opening ¼-5-8 cents off to ¼ up, wheat later held near to the initial range. Corn started unchanged to 3-8 lower, but subsequently scored some advances.

MINING BRIEFS.

TORONTO, Ont., Mar. 31.—(Special to Examiner.)—Whatever doubt may surround the claim made from Canadian sources that Canada passed the United States last year in output of gold, there is not the slightest chance for disputing the position of this country as the second largest world gold producer from results obtained in the first two months of the current year. In 1930 the United States output was larger than Canada's if the Philippine Islands are included with the former country. In January and February of this year Canada, produced over 400,000 ounces of gold while the United States produced about 340,000 ounces.

It is learned on good authority that the samples of radium ore from the Eldorado property at Echo Bay, on Great Bear Lake, gave unusually high assays in tests carried out by the Mines department, Ottawa. Besides the high percentage of uranium oxide, the pitchblende also contains important values in precious metals. The government report of tests, results and conclusions is expected to appear in the very near future and a general meeting of shareholders will be called immediately this is issued.

According to a wire received by the Toronto office of Eldorado from Gilbert Labine to-day, another rich discovery has been made 500 feet north of the original find on No. 1 vein. In a letter from Great Bear Lake dated March 22, Mr. Labine states timber has been cut and skidded to the lake and construction of two story buildings to house working crews and plant has been started. A further discovery of pitchblende was made 500 feet north of the original strike on 2 vein and was picked up again at a further distance o 200 feet. An additional 30 claims have been staked this year, bringing the company's holdings on Echo Bay to 44 claims in all.

R. Jowsey, president of Bobjo Mines announces that at a meeting of Bobjo directors Friday, plans were made to actively explore the company's group of nine claims in Bannockburn township, Matachewan, and also the 29 claims staked by the company's prospector in Pascalis township, Quebec. The Bobjo claims in Bannockburn are located southeast of the Mining Corporation property. The Pascalis claims are located east and north of the Smith gold find of last fall, now being explored by the Pascalis Gold Mines Limited. Bobjo still holds its share interest in the Can-Antonio Mines Limited, which is a main operating. The Bobjo treasury, it is stated, is well financed for future operations.

Metal prices continued soft in London to-day with standard copper off 2s 6d to £42 18s 9d and electrolytic copper off 5s to £45 10s per ton. Tin dropped 5s to £1 19s 5d lead 2s 6d to £12 1s3d while zinc firmed 2s 6d to £11 12s 6d. Bar silver was unchanged at 13 3-16d.

Bad Weather Breaks Air Mail Schedule

MONTREAL, Que., March 31.—The weatherman spoiled yesterday's plans for a faster schedule on the delivery of airmail from the Maritimes to the West. Flying had to be suspended east of Montreal owing to the bad weather. The Westbound plane carrying mails from here to Toronto got away all right despite snowflurries and rain, but the weather was too thick between here and Saint John.

Heavy winds and poor visibility this morning forced the eastbound Saint John and Moncton plane back to St. Hubert Airport here. The westbound plane took off from Moncton and Saint John, but was faced with terrific headwinds on the flight to Montreal.

Clubbing Of Prince Cold-Blooded Plot

BERLIN, March 31. — (A.P.)—Counsel for Prince August Wilhelm, fourth son of the former Kaiser, who was clubbed by police during a National Socialist rumpus at Koenigsberg on March 21, made public a statement to-day in which the incident was called "a cold-blooded plot to humiliate the Prince."

Purportedly based on the testimony of fifty non-partisan eye-witnesses, the statement described the alleged brutalities of the police in the presence and against the person of the Prince. The authorities not only maltreated Prince August Wilhelm it was said, but clubbed women off the station platform and even struck a man with a wooden leg because he did not move fast enough.

Another extremly dull day was witnessed in the wheat market if anything, just a little quieter than the dull featureless days of last week. Export business over the week end was estimated at three or four loads, 24,000 or 32,000 bushels and no new business was received yesterday morning. There was a little scattered liquidation at the start and later a little selling by Chicago and New York interests all of which found a very thin demand for everything and prices declined about ¾ cents under the close Saturday, slipping fractionally into the daily bids, which brought in a little support sufficient to take the slack out of the market but there offerings were extremely light during the latter part of the day. Chicago broke from 1 to 1¼ cents but recovered the major part of this loss later and this helped Winnipeg to recover fractionally. There was practically nothing doing in the cash market but no demand while offerings were light. Spreads unchanged to ¼ better for an odd grade that is hard to obtain. There was no change in the flour situation a moderate domestic business passing and very little in expert channels. Liverpool closed 3-8 to ¾ lower, Buenos Aires ¾ lower at 3 o'clock. Canadian Visible decreased 947,000 bushels and the U.S. Visible increased 764,000. Canadian wheat marketings Saturday 260,000 bushels as against 157,000 a year ago. Winnipeg futures closed 3-8 lower, while Chicago closed ¼ higher and corn 3-8 lower.

Coarse Grains—These markets were lower without any particular selling pressure going on. But there is very little demand for anything, a few odd cars of cash grain trading daily for domestic purposes.

Flax continued dull and featureless and extremely light trade passing. Closing figures ¼ to 1 cent lower.

Liverpool cables due unchanged to 1-8 lower.

Friends Pay Tribute To Arnold Bennett

LONDON, March 31 (A.P.)—While the body of Arnold Bennett, famous British author, was being cremated to-day, a group of friends and British literary personalities gathered at a nearby church for a memorial service to the late novelist.

Bishop Russell Wakefield spoke of the life and writings of the author, paying tribute to his shyness and modesty. "His honest modesty" Bishop Wakefield said, "is to me the strongest mark of character of one I would have loved to have known better."

The ceremony was in the little Church of St. Clement Danes, famous in the life of Dr. Samuel Johnson.

The "Four Horsemen," however, are only four among a large group of Rockne pupils who have become capable coaches.

Rockne's "system" has been copied more than any other. Youths have talked blithely about the "Notre Dame system" although they knew no more of what it contained than they did of international banking law.

His coaching schools have ever attracted aspirants to the field as well as other coaches already successful but who sought more knowledge

He disliked almost with a hate, the sissy type of boy. He did not like fraternities. He did not like co-eds. Most of all he detested "drug store cowboys," "mezzanine floor hurdlers" and their ilk. He liked to see his boy wear corduroy trousers and sweaters. He liked to see them walk fast.

Despite the specialization called for in producing a national championship football team, Rockne was sincere in his enthusiasm for intramural sports.

Knute Rockne was a graduate of Notre Dame. He was a star end on the varsity (Jan., 1930.)

OLDEST MEMBER OF EXCHANGE STILL HAUNTS TRADING FLOOR

J. K. Niven Bought Seat on Toronto Stock Exchange in 1882 for $2,000.

KNOWN FAR AND WIDE.

(By J. H. Turnpenny. Copyright, 1931.)

TORONTO, March 31—Some day when the sun is shining brightly and the walking is good, visit the gallery of the Toronto Stock Exchange. The sun does not penetrate into the high-roofed chamber of the trading floor, but it is such days that bring John Kilpatrick Niven out from the sacred precincts of his office for one of his periodic visits to the trading floor. Mr. Niven is the only non-member of the Toronto Stock Exchange who has been accorded the trading privileges of the floor. He sold his seat a couple of years ago and was at that time the oldest living member of the exchange, and he had held his seat continuously since the early eighties. It was at the time of sale the committee conferred upon him the distinction of being granted rights of the floor, although a non-member.

Mr. Niven is a survival of the early days in Canadian stock exchanges circles; of a time when members themselves were continuously on the floor and thought nothing of shopping around half a day in execution of an order, for such was the scale of business in those days. The present era of attorneys, young athletic men whose business it is to execute given orders as expeditiously as possible, of handling thousand share orders and dealing in scores of issues during the life of a single day's session is foreign to Mr. Niven's active trading days.

A tall man of large but sparse frame, Mr. Niven can be easily picked out as he threads his way carefully across the shifting scene of the exchange floor. A trifle stooped and not so sure of foot as in his youthful days, Mr. Niven does not precipitate himself into the whirling mass of men intent upon marketing their securities. If the day be one of comparative quiet, Mr. Niven will himself offer to buy or sell a particular stock, but if the session be active he will wend his way to the haven of the board room and there seek some old-time friend to execute his order for him, for his voice has lost some of its gusto and might not be heard in the general din.

Order for 25 Shares Big.

He may stop to chat with some of the younger men, tell them of those days when an order to buy or sell 25shares of a stock would cause him a sleepless night and marvel at the impersonal way they handle orders amounting to thousands of dollars daily, at the vitality which supports them through five hours of fierce, nerve-trying competition. Oftimes he will reminisce, recall famous market plays, coups by daring operators, make comparisons of past depressions and the present tide in the tide. Perhaps, if he is in the mood, he will recount one famous transaction which meant fortune for a member of nerve and quick decision. In this particular instance, the member in question was bidding for 10 shares of a particular stock, but had spent a couple of hours without being able to find any offerings. Finally a member for another firm spoke up: "If that were 10,000 shares you were bidding for I would sell it to you." Like a flash came the single word "sold." The enormity of the transaction staggered those on the exchange, for even 1,000 share sales were almost unheard of then, but the rules of the exchange were explicit and unyielding on points of order and the offer, presumably made half in jest, had to be fulfilled. During the course of the next few months the stock trebled in price and the purchase laid the foundation for a later fortune.

Mr. Niven is very reticent concerning himself. He will converse at length on the developemnt of the stock exchange business, of the speed with which markets move in the new era of their sensitiveness to the pulse of commerce, but of himself he will talk but little.

His age is a matter of conjecture to even his closest associates. Asked point blank, he will invariably reply: "I can say truthfully that I am over sixty." Which fact no one doubts and which vague information one has to be content with.

The Toronto Stock Exchange was formed in 1852, but it was not until some years later that regular sessions were held. Then members adopted the custom of shopping from one house to the other and transacting business in that manner. Later it was decided to adopt certain hours for meeting at a common building and to transact all business while in session together. Mr. Niven purchased his seat for $2,000 in 1882 and thus he was for practically half a century a member when he sold his seat in 1929 at the then record price of $173,000, though subsewuently seats changed hands at a higher figure.

Of the early active members with Mr. Niven there are living to-day E. B. Freeland, of John Stark and Company, C. Tower Ferguson, Gordon Osler, A. E. Ames, J. O. Buchanan, of Buchanan Seagram and Co., all former presidents; Col. W. G. Mitchel, Col. F. H. Deacon, Norman (Skipper) McCrae, formerly of Pellatt and Pellatt, and more latterly associated with Fergusson, Turner and Company.

Mr. Niven served his apprenticeship with the investment house of Blaikie and Alexander. Later he formed a partnership under the firm name of Morphy and Niven, dealing extensively in stocks on the Chicago market. This partnership was dissolved two years later, and Mr. Niven organized his own business under the John K. Niven and Company, dealing almost entirely in Canadian securities.

ORDERLY MARKETING CONFERENCE SUGGESTED BY FERGUSON AT ROME

Would Plan on International Basis for Export of Crop in 1931-32.

U. S. INVITED TO ATTEND.

ROME, March 31 (By George Hambleton, C.P. Staff Correspondent).—Canada formally proposed during committee meeting to-day that a conference of wheat exporting countries be held to organize orderly marketing, on an international basis, of the next wheat crop.

The Proposal

Hon. G. Howard Ferguson, chief Canadian delegate, submitted the Canadian proposal to the Wheat Conference's Production Committee in the following motion:—

The conference, recognizing the importance of orderly marketing of the export surpluses of wheat, and being convinced the present low price of wheat on the world's market is a serious factor in the present economic depression, is of opinion that it is desirable that delegates of countries exporting wheat, namely Argentina, Australia, Bulgaria, Canada, Hungary, India, Poland, the Union of Soviet Republics, Rumania, and Jugo-Slavia, should meet together as soon as possible to organize on an international basis the exportation of the crop year of 1931-32.

The above-mentioned States will invite the Government of the United States to take part in the discussions.

After some discussion M. Francois-Poncet, chairman, summing up, said it had been revealed that an understanding between the exporting and importing countries for orderly marketing of wheat was possible.

Argentine and Hungary Accept.

The Argentine and Hungary accepted Mr. Ferguson's motion without reserve. The Soviet Union also agreed, but subjet to approval by the Soviet Government. The Russian delegate added however, that the absence of diplomatic relations between Moscow and Washington might make it difficult for Russia to join in the invitation to the United States.

Josef Klandera, president of the Czecho-Slovak Union of Co-operatives, had previously proposed the formation of national organizations of both importing and exporting countries, which could co-operate in orderly marketing. On the submission of the Canadian motion he withdrew his own, but reserved the right to submit it at the coming conference of exporting countries.

Dr. W. A. Riddell, another Canadian delegate, pressed the need for more accurate grain statistics. Accurate statistics must form the basis for any scheme of co-operation for orderly marketing, he argued. Yet the statistics furnished were often erroneous. The discussion revealed dissatisfaction at the present state of statistical knowledge, and Dr. Riddell proposed that in the preparation of statistical tables the International Institute of Agriculture should collaborate with the League of Nations and other competent bodies. The committee agreed to this.

coast and half way between Culiacan and Mazatlan. Now he says he is a millionaire several times over.

One day a friend dropped in and showed Llantada a handful of shiny nuggets, which he said he had picked up in an arroyo at the foot of El Tambor mountain, several miles east of the village and near the Durango border. The two found other nuggets in the canyon, some as big as small onions.

Llantada displayed Mexican Government assay reports showing two carloads of ore taken from the claim bore $149,000 worth of gold to the ton.

Llantada said farm production had ceased, and a critical food shortage developed in the gold camp and flour went up to a peso (47½ cents gold) a pound.

It is useless now, the discoverer said, for more to go to the scene, as all the valuable claims have been staked.

Claims Average 2 Acres

A gold rush began almost immediately. Hundreds of Mexican peons, who had been able to do no more than keep body and soul together with their farming, became immensely wealthy over night. Llantada said in all 33,000 claims had been staked out, each averaging two acres. A boom town came into existence at the base of El Tambor.

'MY IRISH ROSE' ABLY PRESENTED AT SPRINGVILLE

Three-Act Comedy is Presented by Literary Society of Congregation.

SETTING UNUSUAL

SPRINGVILLE, Mar. 31 (Examiner Correspondence).—"My Irish Rose", a three act comedy-drama of Irish life, was presented in Springville United Church on Friday evening by the Literary Society of that congregation. It was greeted by a full house and a delighted audience.

The setting was unusual. An out-of-doors scene on an Irish farm some few years ago provided the scenery for the first and second act. An old fashioned covered well with crank, bucket and rope added to the reality of the picture. An evergreen hedge and gateway provided a realistic background. In the third and last act a well furnished library in a wealthy Dublin home is well represented.

The caste was carefully chosen, each character acting his or her role in an excellent manner.

Rose Creigen (a wild Irish rose) acted by Helen Staples is the pretty eighteen year old niece of Colum McCormack, a prosperous Irish farmer of County Kildare (Robert Armstrong.

Maurice Fitzgerald, a rich young Dublin artist (Sam Staples) has spent the last two months at the McCormack farm presumably to recover from a sprained ankle but speeds the time painting Rose's picture.

The Widow Hannigan, with money in the bank and an eye on Colum (Mrs. M. Johnston) calls on St. Patrick's morn to take Ann Mary McCormack, Colum's sister, with a true Irish heart (Mrs. S. Staples) and Colum to church.

The McCormack's have already been to church so the Widow Hannigan sits a few minutes to unburden her mind of "What half the parish are saying" about their niece Rose and the young artist with whom she has spent so much of her time, also about Terry Creighton, Rose's brother, a young Irish patriot in exile (Kenneth Moyer). Ann Mary and Colum resolve to chastize Rose but it is all too late.

Mr. Michael Pepperdine, an eminent Dublin barrister (Bruce Herron) calls at the farm to inform Mr. Fitzgerald that he has fallen heir to the title and entire estate of a near relative. Rose is introduced as the future Lady Fitzgerald.

Mr Archibald Pennywett, a wealthy English tourist (Walter Brown) accompanied by Eileen Fitzgerald, a Dublin heiress (Hazel Hall) and Lady Agnes Barricklow, who hesitates at nothing (Anita Gilliland) are motoring when their car breaks down near the McCormack farm. The ladies remain at the farm house while necessary repairs are made. Lady Agnes observes the painting of Rose and the artists signature. She is determined to re-win her one time suitor Maurice Fitzgerald. Eileen and Maurice (brother and sister) have a happy re-union while Lady Agnes misconstrues it to Rose as a meeting of long parted lovers. She intends to kill Rose's new found joy but is discovered in her treachery and ordered from the farm.

Pegeen Burke, a servant on the McCormack farm (Jesse Schaffer), and Shawn McGilly, the laziest man in County Kildare (M. H. Johnston) radiate humor in abundance whenever they appear.

The final act is pathetic yet triumphant. Rose finds many joys and problems in her role as Lady Fitzgerald. Lady Agnes is insulting to Rose and still has designs upon the love of Maurice but all works out to a happy ending when Maurice proclaims: "There is only one woman in the wide world for me, and it is you, Rose. Rose O' my heart."

Mrs. (Rev.) Moyer who directed the play introduced the characters and gave a brief interesting synopsis of each act. While she was on the platform this opportunity was taken to present her with a beautiful bouquet of flowers, the presentation being made by Clark Armstrong.

Between the acts a duet was given by Miss Hazel Hall and Bruce Herron who graciously responded to an encore. Mr. Herron also sang a solo of his own composition "The Hat My Father Wore upon St. Patrick's Day" and when the audience insisted upon an encore he responded by singing once more the chorus.

Millbrook Orchestra provided delightful music before the play began and also between acts. They permitted no dull moments during the evening.

The lighting of the stage added immensely to the effect of the play. A spot light contributed by Gordon Bigelow played upon the characters, adding beauty to the costumes and scenery. Two pretty table lamps were also wired by Mr. Bigelow—these for use in the Dublin home.

The entire story of the play was acted in so realistic a manner that the audience was held, breathless indignant, sympathetic and spellbound.

INSPECTOR COPP HEARS RECITAL

Norwood School Pupils Give Demonstration of Music Tuition.

PLEASED WITH PROGRESS

NORWOOD, March 31 (Examiner Correspondence) — Inspector Copp visited the Public School recently and while there heard the pupils of the piano class give a most interesting demonstration of their work, with Mr. Walker, music instructor, and the teachers assisting.

A game was conducted by each teacher which tested the ear training and piano playing of the pupils. The last game conducted by Miss Carter and judged by Mr. Walker was most interesting. Two teams were chosen and captained by Evelyn Buck and Ruth Packenham. Each child was asked to play a selection taken during the year. The way in which it was played earned them marks and the highest total was the winning team.

Mr. Copp was greatly pleased with the progress of the music during the last few months and pointed out to the pupils that they were being given an opportunity to learn something that would give them greater enjoyment of life. He showed them how music creates pictures and illustrated this by playing first a march and then a lullaby, on the gramaphone. The smaller pupils were asked what they saw when each of the numbers was played and they told how the march made them think of marching and one little girl said the lullaby made her see a mother rocking her baby to sleep.

A social hour was spent, ice cream and cake being served.

Preparing Oratorio.

The choir of the United Church under the direction of Charles H. Walker is preparing to render Dr. J. S. Stainer's Oratorio, "The Crucifixion" on the evening of Good Friday in the church when the three other Protestant churches of Norwood will join in the service.

Jewish Missionaries Of Anglican Church

Interesting Lecture Delivered in White Hall, Marmora, on Saturday Night.

MARMORA, March 31 (Examiner Correspondence)—A very fascinating lecture dealing with Jewish missions of the Anglican Church was given at the White Hall, Marmora, on Saturday evening by Rev. D. J. Newgewirtz of Emmanuel Jewish Mission, Montreal. The lecturer is an outstanding figure in the religious life of Montreal having been sent there in 1902 by the London society for the promotion of Christianity among the Jews to further Jewish missions in that city, the work having been organized two years previously.

Rev. Newgewirtz was born in Poland but when he was a child, his parents moved to London, England, and here it was through contact with English lads who were Christians in faith and practice that the lecturer became converted. He has just completed forty years of Christian labors among those of his own race. Despite the heavy rain of Saturday evening a large number gathered at the hall to hear a remarkable description of this phase of missions.

In lucid style and earnest speech, the speaker touched upon the establishment and growth of the Montreal mission. He referred to the persecution besetting the earliest labors and also touched upon the educational work being done in the schools where Jews who are principally newcomers from European countries are taught English. The concluding part of the lecture referred to outstanding converted Jews who have become Anglican bishops and noted missionaries. A silver collection was taken on behalf of the local missionary apportionment.

JEWISH MISSION PASTOR IS SPECIAL SPEAKER AT MARMORA

Rev. D. J. Newgewirtz Delivers Splendid Address in St. Paul's Church.

ON SUNDAY LAST

MARMORA, March 31 (Examiner Correspondence)—Services of a missionary character were held at St. Paul's on Sunday, the special preacher being the Rev. D. J. Newgewirtz, of Emmanuel Jewish Mission, Montreal. This noted cleric very impressively administered the sacrament of Holy Communion at the 8 a.m. celebration and also gave a striking address to the large attendance of scholars at St. Paul's Sunday School.

At the 11 a.m. service, he chose as his text Rom. 1, 14, "I am debtor both to the Greeks and to the Barbarians; both the wise and to the unwise." In this first chapter of the epistle to the Romans said the preacher, "St. Paul strikes a strong and clear missionary note. He would have his readers know that wedding of missionary enthusiasm with a noble profession of faith was necessary. He wrote not because he was a theologian or because he was an apostle but because primarily he was a missionary. Rev. Newgewirtz then showed that in the text and two succeeding verses, St. Paul made four great assertions. He spoke of himself as a debtor. He would not go to Rome with the air of one, imposing an obligation on others. He knew the joy of receiving the gospel. The preacher of the gospel was not to him the imparting of a gift but rather a debt which he had to pay. It was a trust God committed to him.

If the experience of salvation means anything it means that news of it must be passed on to others. Otherwise Christianity will be on the wane and lose its joy. Do we feel we have a mission to perform, each of us in this congregation? earnestly enquired the preacher. "I believe with all my heart" he continued "that everyone who has come to know Jesus is under an obligation to tell others about the Saviour. St. Paul paid his debt by preaching Christ to the Jews, Romans and Greeks. He acknowledged his debt and was prepared to pay it. He was ready to do the work which God assigned him. He did not postpone the payment of what he believed to be his debt."

As years went on, he extended more widely the sphere of his missionary labors. He was ever ready to preach the gospel. He had no guesses or speculations concerning his messages. His message was "All have sinned and come short of the glory of God." As Christians we ought to be ready to preach the gospel to all mankind. Every member of the Christian church cannot go to the far off mission field but every member can do his part towards the spread of the gospel through those whom are sent in their stead. We should support the missionaries who represent us and thus pay the debt we owe all men. Then St. Paul was not ashamed of the gospel of Jesus Christ. He knew what passed for religion outside of the Christian gospel and how unsatisfactory it all was.

The case of St. Paul proves the sincerity of the Jewish convert to Christianity to-day. Answering the question which had so often been put to him, "Why send missionaries to those people who are happy in their religion and disturb or upset them?" Rev. Newgewirtz remarked, "We do not disturb or upset people to whom we present Christ." It has been my joy and privilege to go to my own people for the past forty years. This has wrought in my life such an outlook as I had never before. When a man meets his Lord and is face to face with Christ like St. Paul was on the way to Damascus he will know there is no fault to find with those who go to preach Christ to the other races. No man, be he Jew or non Jew, can be in true relationship with God, except that relationship be established through Jesus Christ. Except we help to propagate the gospel of Jesus Christ in the world, we are going to be face to face with more and more trying problems than are in the world to-day.

It is imperative to-day that the Christian should be more enthusiastic in delivering the message to those who sit in darkness and in the shadow of death. Finally, St. Paul tells us that gospel is the power of God unto salvation. No other power is going to do. Only the power of God can bring about a change of affairs in our troubled civilization. The reason for the deadness of much so called Christianity is that religion with many is a mere outward veneer. Preach the gospel and nothing but the gospel and soon as in Ezekill's vision we will see a movement among the dry bones.

At this service Mrs. P. S. Pearce sang very feelingly, "Just as I Am Without one plea."

Evening Service

Even more remarkable than the morning's sermon was the one delivered at evensong when the reverend gentleman eloquently discussed upon Matt. 23, 37, "O Jerusalem that killest the prophets and stonest them that are sent unto Thee" etc. The preacher unreservedly dealt with the three great obstacles peculiar to the Jews in their acceptance of Christianity.

First the historical obstacle. They looked in vain for the deliverance of the race from the Roman barbarians. It is unfair to say that the Jews did not receive Jesus. Nationally they rejected Him, but individually they received Him. No one nation as a nation has become Christian. You will not have Christian nations until the Jews have become a Christian nation.

Second the theological difficulty. The doctrine of the duty of Christ seems to have been and still is a stumbling block in their acceptance of the Christian message. There is evidence of a national rebirth among the Jews. The national rebirth of the Jewish nation is of little good unless accompanied by a spiritual rebirth.

The unfair attitude of other Christians towards Jewish converts. There is need of Christians realizing more deeply that other Christians are their brothers.

God sees the Jewish race as the instrument whereby He will Christianize the world.

At this service the choir very beautifully rendered the anthem, "The Radiant Sun."

Large congregations were present at the regular services of the day and the collections in aid of M.S.C.C. funds realized over thirty dollars. In the afternoon, Rev. D. J. Newgewirtz preached at Holy Trinity Church, selecting as his text, Acts 1-8, "Ye shall be My witnesses at Jerusalem, in Judea and in Samaria and in the uttermost part of the earth."

Young Bethany Girl Bitten By Woodchuck

BETHANY, March 31 (Examiner Correspondence)—Miss Ruth Hamilton met with a rather strange accident while out walking recently, when she was bitten by a woodchuck.

The woodchuck sat very tamely beside the path and Miss Hamilton petted it. Seemingly resenting being left alone, it chased after her as she proceeded on her walk, biting through Miss Hamilton's golosh, at the back of the ankle.

Dr. Hamilton treated his daughter.

SPLENDID PAPERS READ AT MEETING

Bethany United Church W.M.S. Holds Regular Meeting—W.A. Also Meets.

BETHANY, March 31 (Examiner Correspondence)—A very interesting meeting of the W.M.S. of the United Church was held on Tuesday afternoon when the president, Mrs. T. G. Jackson was in the chair and inspiring papers were given on "Our Easter Thankoffering" by Mrs. Eleanor Rowan; "Lead Us Not Into Temptation" by Miss Weatherit and the chapter from the Study Book, "Industrial and Rural Problems in Japan" given by Mrs. Clarence Rowan.

At the close of the meeting, a social half hour was enjoyed and dainty refreshments served by the hostess, Mrs. Jamieson.

W.A. Meets

The monthly meeting of the Women's Association of the United Church was held on Friday at the home of Mrs. Jamieson. The meeting was a business one, with the president presiding. On motion of Mrs. Arnott and Miss Jackson, it was decided that the parsonage committee be responsible for the decorating that is required at the parsonage.

A donation of 50 cents was received from a visiting lady. On motion of Mrs. Thorndyke and Mrs. Crearer it was decided that a tea be held at the meeting in April, instead of on Easter Monday, as previously arranged, and that bids be taken on the autograph quilt having it sold at the April meeting.

Inspiring Sermon

On Sunday, Rev. Mr. Fierheller preached from the words found in Luke 13, 22-23, "And he said unto them the third time, "Why what evil hath he done. I have found no cause of death in Him. I will therefore chastise and let Him go; And they were instant with loud voices, requiring that He might be crucified and the voices of them and the chief priests prevailed."

RURAL MAIL MAN STRUCK BY CAR

John Rothwell of Fraserville Slightly Injured When Struck by Car.

PASSING ON HILL

FRASERVILLE, March 31 (Examiner Correspondence)—What might have been a serious accident occurred on the highway two miles south of Fraserville on Saturday afternoon when John Bothwell was returning from his mail route.

Mr. Bothwell was driving a horse and buggy, and was travelling north toward the village and while coming up Hanbidge's hill the buggy was struck by a car driven by Benjamin Howell of Trenton, also going north.

The car turned out to pass Mr. Bothwell and another car was coming down the hill, with the result that Mr. Bothwell's horse and buggy being struck.

Mr. Bothwell suffered a severe shaking up while the horse was also injured, and the buggy and harness badly damaged.

SIGNS OF SPRING.

PORT COLBORNE, Ont., Mar. 31—For the first time in many years the local harbor has become a resting place in the annual northern migration of whistling swans. A flock of about twenty birds was found in the bay waters to-day when employees arrived at work. The swans stayed about two hours when they took wing for their new homes in the far north.

RICHES BEWILDER IRISH HOSPITALS

Must Spend Practically $5,000,000 on Twenty Obsolete Buildings.

MANY CONTROVERSIES.

DUBLIN, March 31 (C.P. Cable)—The sudden riches showered upon the Dublin Hospitals as a result of the Irish Free State Hospitals' Sweepstakes is proving as embarrassing as the lack of money had been before. Within a year these sweeps, the biggest of which was on last week's Grand National steeplechase, have furnished the hospitals with $2,500,000, or more than the whole income of the King Edward Hospital Fund which supplies London. Another $2,500,000 is practically certain to come from the new sweep on the Derby.

The Irish are now faced with the responsibility of spending these amounts on what they themselves admit is a wasteful and obsolete hospital system. More than 20 hospitals participate. They are mostly small, inadequate and antiquated, housed in slum areas. If the money is spent in reconditioning them, it will mean the long-discussed plan for centralization will be shelved.

A white-hot controversy has broken out between the supporters of the rival schemes. The Lord Mayor of Dublin declares there is no question of amalgamation and the money must be spent upon the hospitals as they are.

RUSH POINT MAN HAIL AND HEARTY; CAUGHT 14 'MUSKIES' IN FORENOON

Freeman Hart Rode on First G.T.R. Train Between Montreal and Kingston.

74 YEARS AN ORANGEMAN

(By Examiner Correspondent)

Rush Point, Belmont Township, boasts of one resident, Freeman Hart, who seems likely to see his 100th birthday, as he is now in his 93rd year and enjoying splendid health. His eye is clear, his wind sound and he is more active than many men yet to see the 60 mark.

Mr. Hart has just returned to his old homestead on Round Lake after having spent the winter with his son, Jack, at Smith Falls.

Last Of a Family of 16

He is the last of a family of sixteen. He is of Dutch and Irish descent and was born in the Township of Brighton, the son of Peter Hart and Catherine Murphy.

Mr. Hart's memory is keen and vivid and goes back close to ninety years. His father, a wagon and casket maker, was lumbering in Camden Township of Lennox and Addington when the now 92-year-old Freeman was a lad. He tells of assisting in taking more than a 1,000 pounds of maple sugar from the bush with hand-made equipment.

When the family was living near Lindsay, Mr. Hart tells of taking a boat trip to Bobcaygeon, and catching a dozen big "muskies" in a forenoon and requiring a wheelbarrow to convey them home.

Parties were gay in those days, states Mr. Hart and he relates of going to a dance with 15 other "beaus", garbed in straw hats, streaked shirts and overalls, behind a team of oxen.

Mr. Hart was in the United States during the Civil War and he was almost on the point of getting into a blue uniform. Later, however, he served Canada during the Fenian Raids, training for several years at Kingston and Colborne.

Joined L.O.L. at 18

As an Orangeman, he has an enviable record, joining the order at 18 and having missed but three celebrations since.

Mr. Hart was on the first G.T.R. passenger train to make the historic first trip between Montreal and Kingston.

Tests of strength and endurance was the major sport sixty and seventy years ago and Mr. Hart relates of he and Seth Bradd cradling ten acres of grain in a single day, on a wager. At another time, he, and Harvey Dafoe and Tom Fox cut twelve cords of wood in a day and kept this up for a week. They were paid 40 cents per cord and boarded themselves. This feat occurred on the Colborne Road, the farm now being owned by Sam Dayman.

Lumberman For Lifetime.

Seventy years ago Mr. Hart married Rebecca Masters of Hilton Corners. He owned a sawmill near Castleton in Haldimand Township at that time. He has always been a lumberman, and has had timber limits, shanties and drives all through Peterborough County.

30,000 Logs In One Drive

When he came to this part of the county, Havelock was a cedar swamp. He had a saw mill at North River for 25 years and brought down 30,000 logs at a drive. He has lived at Round Lake for 42 years, and he built the house in which he now lives.

Mr. Hart raised a family of nine children. His wife died thirteen years ago, and one daughter, Mrs. Curtis, three years ago.

The children surviving are: Webb, of Carrying Place; Mrs. Ida Copperthwaite, of Campbellford; Wellington, of Smithfield; Mrs. Sergeant Wright, of Havelock; John, of Smith Falls; Albert, of Laswade; Mrs. A. J. Hubble, of Prince George, B.C.; Ross, the youngest on the homestead at Round Lake.

He has 42 grandchildren and 20 great grandchildren, the oldest grandchild being Mrs. Archibald White of Trenton, and the youngest, Bobby Hart, 18-month-old son of Ross Hart of Rush Point.

In politics Mr. Hart is a staunch Conservative and in religion a member of the United Church.

CATTLE, GRAIN, PRODUCE

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, March 31.— All grains yesterday established new bottom price records for 1931, with wheat outdoing the lowest figures since 1895. The general break in values accompanied news that the world wheat conference at Rome had ended in hopeless division. Another decided bearish factor was a report from the United States Department of Agriculture suggesting the likelihood that 1931 corn production in this country would exceed any total since 1923.

Late recoveries, largely due to profit-taking by previous speculative sellers, offset the declines, which at the extreme amounted to about a cent a bushel on wheat and corn. The close, however, was unsteady, wheat 1-8c to 7-8c above Saturday's finish, corn unchanged to 3-8c lower, oats 7-8c to 1-8c off, and provisions varying from 5c decline to 7c advance.

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, March 31. — Continued liquidation by tired holders accounted for declines in the wheat pit here yesterday. Scattered buying was not sufficient to take care of the amount of wheat for sale and values declined ⅝c in all three wheat futures at close of trading.

Closing prices were: May 56⅞c, July 58¼c, October 60¼c.

In the closing stages some buying for foreign account appeared, but on the whole the session was a dull affair. Only a small export business was transacted over the week-end and yesterday sales were estimated at 200,000 bushels.

Cash and coarse grain trading was limited and disappointing. Spreads showed little, if any, change from Saturday.

TORONTO PRODUCE.

TORONTO, March 31. — Keeping in line with the stronger tone shown last week-end, prices for butter made another advance on the local market yesterday. A better demand for Easter trade, and the assurance that imports from now on will be limited have reacted on buying and stimulated conditions. The market was better than just good, it was strong. Brokers were able to secure 31½c to 31¼c for No. 1 creamery, solids, and 30½c to 30¾c for No. 2. These prices were not the top for sales made, as carlots of high scoring Western made 32c. There was a general feeling that the market would go even higher before this week closed, and some sales of Ontario were reported as selling fractionally higher than the prices quoted above. However, most transactions were made on the basis shon under "Dairy Produce," and these prices were ¼c to ½c better than any during the last few weeks.

Cream Steady.

Cream prices were steady, but there was a feeling that new levels would be reached this week, especially if the butter market continued to show strength, and that is altogether likely. Yesterday cream buyers were quoting 31c for specials, 30c for No. 1, and 27c for No. 2, f.o.b., country points.

Cheese.

The cheese market was easier, with trade only fair. New large was quoted at 14¼c to 14½c, twins at 14¾c to 14⅞c, and triplets 14⅞c to 15c, to country shippers, which was steady to a quarter lower. Prices to retailers were steady, for new makes, at 15½c for large, 15¾c for twins, and 16c for triplets.

MONTREAL PRODUCE

MONTREAL, March 31.—Prices on the produce and dairy market here to-day were unchanged.

Fresh Ontario and Prairie eggs, in carlots were quoted at 24c to 24½c for extras, 22c to 21½c for firsts, and 18c a dozen for seconds. Quotations to retailers were unchanged. Receipts were 962 cases.

On the butter market, regraded Eastern Townships and fresh Western butter was quoted at 31½c to 31¾c a pound. Receipts were 117 boxes.

Trading was light on the cheese market, receipts being 3 boxes, and winter colored was quoted at 14c a pound.

New Brunswick Mountain potatoes, in carlots, were quoted at 82½c a pound, per 80-pound bag, and to retailers 95c per 80-pound bag.

Lottery Question Up In British Commons

LONDON, March 31 (Canadian Press Cable). — Alfred Short, M.P., Under-Secretary for Home Affairs, was not to be drawn when questioned in the House of Commons today is to how many letters had been opened by the authorities in an effort to prevent payments to the Irish Grand National Sweepstakes from England.

A questioner suggested that very few letters were opened and the whole show of suppression was an absolute farce, but Mr. Short insisted the department had been strongly attempting to carry out the law.

Theer were three prosecutions in England to-day of persons selling sweepstake tickets. Each resulted in fines of only $1.20. Press opinion is growing stronger on the whole question, and it is declared some alteration must be made in the law, whether it takes the direction of making suppression effective, or whether it legalizes common sweepstakes in England.

BURKE STARTS FIGHT FOR LIFE

Gunman Refuses to Waive Examination When Arraigned For Killing Policeman.

AWAITS ATTORNEY.

ST. JOSEPH, Mich., March 31 — Fred Burke began a determined fight against life imprisonment for murder to-day, refusing to waive examination when arraigned for the killing of Charles Skelly, St. Joseph policeman.

He was held for examination April 8 before Justice of the peace Joseph Collier.

The big gunman, called the most desperate killer in the United States, was camera shy as usual and kept his shifting brown eyes averted from photographers. His arraignment took place in a tiny ante-room of the county jail to which only a handful of officers, camera men and three or four newspaper reporters were admitted.

Burke indicated he would plead not guilty at his April 8 appearance, then lapsed into stolid silence. Prosecutor Wilbur Cunningham, his assistant, and the sheriff went into conference with Burke after the ten minute hearing before Justice Collier, but they said afterwards they could not induce the prisoner to talk. He said he would have an attorney here by to-morrow. Burke seemed tired, but said he had been well treated.

ARTS CLASSES HELD AT MOUNT PLEASANT

Mrs. W. L. Watts of Toronto Acts as Capable Instructress in Women's Institute Courses.

MOUNT PLEASANT, Mar. 31.—(Examiner Correspondence.)—The Women's Institute Hall presented a busy scene while Mrs. M. L. Watts, of Toronto carried on her Arts and Craft classes under the auspices of the local Branch of Women's Institute.

Owing to the present condition of the roads, the attendance was not as large as it otherwise would have been, however, twenty of the women of the community have taken advantage of the classes.

The classes were under instruction of a very capable and popular teacher, Mrs. Watts, who has been a faithful worker in the Women's Institute for many years and has proven herself to be of great assistance on the lecture staff also as demonstrator or instructor for several short courses.

The courses included lessons on the making of dainty boudoir pillows in the different shapes and colors to harmonize with the color scheme of the room, also crocheted rugs, which were dainty as well as serviceable, made from discarded silk stockings and lingerie, the latter proving the better material. Jardiniers were made very attractive looking from the ordinary tin tobacco tin, which is discarded by the merchants as useless, and when enamelled in black with colored flowers outlined in gold and the addition of three tiny feet made from a clothes pin and still leaving the clothes pin useful, when completed made very convenient flower holders.

Very pretty flower vases were made from odd shaped bottles and jars, ranging in size from the tiny bud vase to the wide mouth gallon jar which made a very attractive floor vase for gladiolas, tulips, 'mums or any of the long stem species. These jars were also made into a very pretty and useful electric lamp with parchment shade.

The discarded wooden cigar box also made a very handy and useful workbox or handkerchief box when it was also equipped with the little knob feet, the sides and edges were finished in black enamel and gold paint, while the lid was covered with matched pieces of the pastel shades of colored paper outlined in black and afterwards shellaced while the inside was lined with dainty paper and neatly laid in the bottom.

Another unique feature of the class was the dipping of the ordinary white wax candle in a solution of art colors which were previously whisked together, making very pretty colored candles in various mottled shades. This method also made very pretty bud vases out of glass containers of various shapes, only that the clear glass must have a thin coat of paint first, forming a body on which the art colors will adaptthemselves to.

Pretty tie-backs were made out of colored stiff paper and were also very attractive made from table oil cloth in the color used in a kitchen or bathroom Cute little roosters made from white flannel made dainty egg cosys which are useful in keeping the egg warm and pretty tea-pot holders were made from plush.

The classes were held on Tuesday Wednesday and Thursday afternoons, with 17 in attendance the first day, 19 the second and 21 the final day, when at the conclusion of the class, Mrs. Garnet Shield, President of the Institute voiced the thanks of the class in a neat speech to Mrs. Watts who had so ably conducted the class. Those who took the Arts and Craft Course included: Mrs. H. Seney, Miss A. Jackson, Miss M. Eggleston, Mrs. F. Eggleston, Miss K. Sisson, Mrs. T. C. Morden, Mrs. H. Sisson, Mrs. E. McLean, Mrs. M. Handley, Mrs. B. Worden, Mrs. W. H. Lowes, Mrs. R. W. Downer, Mrs. I. Lowe, Mrs. G. Shield, Mrs. J. Handley, Miss G. Best, Mrs. H. Lowes, Miss S. Easton.

Students Produce Playlets At Apsley

APSLEY, Mar. 31.—(Examiner Correspondence.)—The children of St. Georges Sunday School, under the direction of Mrs. Spence, produced two little delightful Bible plays on Tuesday evening, the first being "Boy Heroes of the Bible" and the second "Joseph and his Brethren," the children acting their parts remarkably well.

The costumes and scenery, the work entirely of Mrs. Spence, produced a charming effect. Those taking part were Dolly and Jean Tanner, Rosalie, Lilian and Virgie Smith, Doris Windsor, Dora Lean Evelyn Reid and Guy James.

Besides the plays, a musical program was given by Mrs. Kilborne and Miss Marion Pickard, consisting of vocal solos and duets, and pianoforte duets.

District Churches

KEENE, Mar. 31.—(Examiner Correspondence.)—Rev. Mr. Sutherland of Knox Presbyterian Church preached from Matthew XI, verse 19, on Sunday morning. The Pharisees accused Jesus of being a gluttonous man, a wine bibber, associating with publicans and sinners. The first part of this was a direct lie, but behind the slander was the truth, that he did seek out publicans and sinners. He was a mixer, fond of company. His religion was natural. Many people to-day with utmost respect for all matters religious, still do not wish to go to church or identify themselves with its life. They claim they had too much of it in their youth, it was "rammed into them." Too true, very often, and the fault lay with their elders trying to give to the young and vigorous and adventurous "an old woman's religion." The elderly person has had a certain rich experience of life and has evolved a religion of maturity, but life has perhaps sobered him. Let the religion of youth be natural as Christ always was. His worship is a feast, not a fast—He was a mixer, a healer of souls, a friend of publicans and sinners.

ST. ANDREW'S CLUB VISITS BAILIEBORO

Play "Polishing Papa" Well Presented in Fletcher's Hall.

BAILIEBORO, March 31 (Examiner Correspondence) — A domestic comedy play in three acts was staged in Fletcher's hall on Friday evening, by the young people of St. Andrew's Church Dramatic Club of Peterborough, under the auspices of the local United Church choir.

The play was one of the finest exhibitions of amateur acting that has ever been staged in this village and the numerous, humorous sides brought forth laughter and applause from the appreciative listeners.

Splendid musical numbers were provided by the orchestra in attendance and a comic reading, "The Census Man," was ably given between the acts by Miss Jessie Tully.

The crowd present was not as large as otherwise would have been, had the roads throughout the township been in a fit condition for motor traffic, still the hall was more than two thirds full and one and all present voted the play entitled "Polishing Papa," a great success.

Just Between Us Women

A daily chat with Examiner neighbors conducted by Anne Wilcox

It won't be very long now before we will be observing Easter and I am hoping it will be nice weather for the occasion.

• • • • • • •

Easter boxes and party powder posies are among the trifling gifts that can be made at home for Easter remembrance gifts to send friends instead of Easter cards.

• • • • • • •

All of these take but little time to make.

• • • • • • •

The equipment for making the boxes consist of fancy colored paper, which may be bought especially for the purpose or cut from colored seed catalogues, advertisements, etc, paste, scissors and empty candy boxes, strong ones, of course, of any size.

• • • • • • •

Cut the paper to fit the sides and top of the box and paste it smoothly over these parts. If a hinged lid is wanted, remove the sides of the cover. Along the back paste two short lengths of narrow ribbon.

• • • • • • •

Paste the other ends to the inside back of the box. Only enough ribbon should be used as will permit the box cover to open and shut as if hinged.

• • • • • • •

These boxes are just the things to put in bureau drawers. Some prefer them with lids, others without. A perfumed wadded mat for the bottom of a box can be made by pasting together two pieces of fancy or plain paper cut to fit and between which a layer of cotton wadding has been put

• • • • • • •

Sprinkle the wadding with sachet powder or a few drops or perfume.

• • • • • • •

Guest room boxes or those for cigarette stands can be made from scraps of the fancy paper. Paste the paper to all but the side of the box on which the matches are struck.

• • • • • • •

Tie three, four or six of these boxes together with narrow ribbon and they make welcome rememberance gifts.

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M.D

HOW LONG SHOULD WE SLEEP

I often wish I could answer the question, how long should we sleep, for everybody asks it. It has been generally agreed that eight hours is about the amount needed for adults.

I have spoken about Edison; he tells us that he gets but four to five hours of sleep in twenty-four.

have spoken also about Gladstone, who required more sleep than this, but who frequently, if the matter before Parliament was not of interest to him, went off to sleep for periods of five to twenty minutes, thus getting much refreshment of body.

Famous men who seemed to get along with much less than eight hours were Herbert Spencer, Charles Darwin, Charles Wesley and many others.

Now if these men of outstanding mental ability could get along with four to six hours sleep, why do we feel that we need eight hours?

These men lived for the most part, quiet, studious lives. In truth, some of them had their worries, plenty of criticism and so forth but there was not the hurry, the noise, the driving, that is now all about us. In fact, some one has stated that the reason that Edison gets along with less sleep than others, is because he is somewhat deaf, and is thus not bothered and fatigued by noise.

As you know it has been demonstrated that typists and other office workers are unable to do as efficient work in a noisy room; their output falling off by 25 to 35 per. cent. Now is they have to do their usual amount of work despite this handicap they are going to be more tired at night and require more sleep.

Thus we can assume that in our present civilization we really require more sleep than our ancestors, owing to our more varied and hurried life.

Of course another important point in estimating the amount of sleep we need is the matter of the soundness of our sleep. If you sleep very soundly, and only move about once in a great while, you are certainly going to get more rest for your nerves, for your entire body with six hours sleep than if you sleep lightly for eight hours. I have in mind a chap who retires at midnight, wakes up regularly about six in the morning though he doesn't get up until eight o'clock, but who sleeps so soundly those six hours that nothing can apparently disturb him. He dozes a part of the time between six and eight, but he has really had all the sleep he needs, owing to the soundness of his sleep.

Don't try to get along with less than eight hours sleep. Most of us need that much. And nothing is as important in renewing strength, and our courage, as sleep.

DRAPERIES MADE NEW

"When we resumed housekeeping a month ago I found my draperies had become creased from packing. I hung them out on the line, hoping to remove the creases. Then I forgot them. The result was they became badly faded and sun-spotted.

"I was heartsick until the happy thought struck me to dye them. I just dyed them a deeper green, and as I used Diamond Dyes they look gorgeous and new. I have never seen easier dyes to use than Diamond Dyes. They give the most beautiful colors—when used either for tinting or dyeing—and never take the life out of cloth as other dyes do."

DRAMATIC SOCIETY PRESENTS VASHTI

Apsley Young People Present Biblical Play in Parish Hall.

APSLEY, March 31.—(Examiner Correspondence). — Owing to the heavy snowstorm and rain that lasted all day Saturday, only a handful of people braved the elements to witness the production at the Parish Hall by the local Dramatic Society of a Biblical play entitled "Vashti". The play, as its title indicates, deals with incidents related in the Book of Esther, affecting the fortunes of Vashti, wife of King Ahasueurus and consists of three acts. The scenery and gorgeous costumes designed by Mrs. Spence were correct reproductions of the Persian court of that period and made a very pleasing spectacle. Between the acts the band of Apsley musicians, now in its embryonic stage, made their first public appearance and played several pieces very creditably.

The cast of the play was as follows: Vashti, a Persian Princess, Mrs. G. Kilborn; Tirah and Xennia, maids-in-waiting, Misses A. Nemo and Gladys Tanner; Beulah, a Jewish maid, Cicely Spence; Xenophon, Vashti's father, C. Spence; Philip, the court fool, Eddie Everett; Samuel, a Hebrew, Willie Everett; Persian soldiers, Harry Tanner and Herbert James; Queen Esther, Dolly Tanner.

At this point, Mr. McMillan, vice president of the Rush Point League took charge of the program which was given by the visiting society and was as follows: hymn, "There's a Royal Banner"; scriptural reading, Miss Jean Pollock; short address, Rev. W. R. Archer; topic, "The Four Pillars." Miss Beavis; reading, "A Bachelor Breaks Bread," Herbert Hoard; solo, Bob Denny, accompanied on banjo by Harold Seeney, responding to encore; reading, "His Last Vacation," Jean Pollock; harmonica selection, Cavan Buchanan; reading, Mrs. H. Hoard; a contest, "The Farmer" was in charge of Rev. Mr. A. Archer assisted by Miss Tate of the Rush Point League.

MORE PATRONS ARE NEEDED FOR PLANT

Increase in Milk Supply Necessary to Conduct Victoria Cheese Factory.

BLAIRTON, March 31—A meeting with the object of creating wider interest in the business of the Victoria Cheese Factory was held in the Victoria School on Friday afternoon. A number of patrons and other interested parties attended and the view expressed was that in order to carry on the business in a profitable way, a larger supply of milk than was received last year would be necessary.

The general opinion was that it was in the producers' interests to operate the cheese factory, in order to provide a market for milk in competition with the creameries.

After considerable discussion, it was agreed to delay final decision as to the operating of the factory for one week, in order to secure, if possible, a number of new patrons in this district.

W. Harris, last year's president was in charge of the meeting.

UNITED CHURCH CONGREGATIONS ATTEND SERVICE

Rev. D. N. McLaughlin, D.D., of Social Service Board, Is Special Speaker.

PASSION WEEK SERVICES.

Albert E. Greenlaw of Detroit is Baritone Soloist for Occasion.

The first of the Passion Week services was held in St. Andrew's United Church, with a large congregation, representative of the six city United Churches in attendance.

The pastor of the church, Rev. Dr. McLean, opened the service with prayer, and a scripture lesson chosen from the eleventh chapter of St. Mark's Gospel.

On the platform with the pastor, was Rev. D. N. McLaughlin, D.D., the secretary of the Social Service Board of the United Church of Canada, who is the speaker at these services: also assisting was the Rev. A. H. Going, who offered prayer.

Bringing inspiration to the meetings, with his wonderful message of song, was Albert E. Greenlaw, the celebrated baritone of Detroit, Mich. His first number, the old familiar hymn, "The Old Rugged Cross," took on a deeper meaning with his sympathetic rendition, while his second selection, "Lord Teach Me How to Live," came as a fitting finale to the impressive sermon.

Speaker Of Evening.

The speaker, Dr. McLaughlin, was introduced and welcomed on behalf of the United Church by Dr. McLean, who spoke of their pleasure in securing so eminent a worker, both in the Church and in social service.

"In the unique situation in which the world finds itself to-day, there are anxious souls," said Dr. McLaughlin, "who are asking, 'Is God far off? Does He not care? Is the Gospel simply some strange mystic power? Is there no way to apply the teaching of the Man crucified, to the events of to-day?' In answer to these questions, let us direct our thoughts to the 25th chapter of St. Matthew. To-day the intellectual strength of men is being bent upon the ethical teachings of Jesus. Every word that He uttered is being closely scrutinized. In the midst of international uncertainty and industrial unrest, men are coming back to the Book, and taking their place at the side of the Cross, in search of a solution. We must either accept the teachings of this Man, or it will mean the end of our civilization.

Referring to the chapter containing his text, the speaker affirmed it to be a very dangerous one to read if we would accept all its implications. It leads to the very heart of Christ, for He is standing in the shadow of the Cross with His mind fixed upon the idea of judgment. He reminds us that God is still concerned with the poor, the hungry and the needy. To-day there are two or three million of our kind who are suffering physical hunger. It is a Christian duty to help solve the great problem of unemployment, which brings about this condition. Ingenuity and brain-power of man has greatly increased production, but we have not learned the Christian method of distribution.

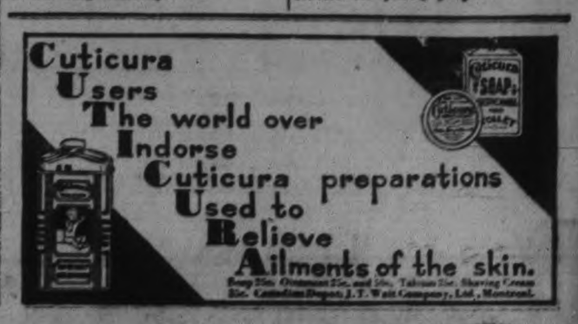
Mental Hunger.

More than physical—we have mental hunger, for half the world can neither read nor write, and the Bible is a closed book to them. Then, too, there is a spiritual hunger, for our large centres show a rift away from orthodox Christianity through a desire for reality in religion.

Jesus said, "I was naked and ye clothed me." Our relief associations are doing much to provide clothing for those in need. But are we clothed mentally? As a nation we rank high in this respect, but are we thinking rationally? Our annual gifts to the United Church amount to $3,500,000.00, while on golf we spend 200 million, tobacco 60 million, and 7 million on perfumes and powders. The disproportion is too great. We are not putting the emphasis where we ought. Jesus spoke, too, of our treatment of strangers. Of the great mass of our foreign population there are about 60 or 70 per cent. without spiritual leadership, but it is wonderful what the Church is doing in this respect, among such people as the Ukrainians and Doukhobors. "I was in prison and ye came unto me." The United Church is living up to this standard in its prison work, but no nation that builds stone walls and iron gratings to imprison men should leave free the traffic that makes men criminals. Are we big enough to accept the challenge of this chapter? Some may say that this is "ideal talk" and not applicable to the real world. When we, in the light of the cross, which means sacrifice, face our duty to ourselves, our homes, land, Church and God, and ask Him to go with us, He will come and give the initiative and power to make this land Christian from sea to sea.

The organist, Mr. Phillips, presided at the organ with the members of his choir assisting in the music.

Both Dr. McLaughlin and Mr. Greenlaw will be present at the meetings throughout the week, which will continue to-morrow night in George Street United Church, in a special service for young people.



Bruins Even Championship Series with Canucks

VICTORY FOR THE BRUINS NECESSITATES 5TH GAME

Contenders For N.H.L. Championship Have Now Won Two Games Each.

FINAL RESULT 3-1.

BY GEORGE MAGUIRE
(Canadian Press Sports Writer)

TORONTO, Ont., Mar. 31. — Just when most fans were ready to concede Montreal Canadiens the National Hockey League championship Boston Bruins last night came through with one of their best performances which was good enough to whip the Stanley Cup champions, 3 to 1. A fifth game therefore is necessary to decide the titilists and the team to meet either Chicago or New York Rangers in the cup final.

Prior to last night the red shirted habitants had won two of the three games played and appeared good enough to end the struggle in the fourth tussle. It was not to be, however, for from the opening face-off the Rossmen showed the better form and as the game progressed the packed Forum of Canadien supporters were forced to admit it was Boston's night.

Little black haired Cooney Weiland, who is point scoring leader of the play-off series teamed up with George Owen for the Bruins first marker late in the opening frame. The one and only Eddie Shore added another nearly nine minutes after the start of the second and six minutes later Owen combined with Art Chapman to thoroughly impress the Canucks it was not their night by adding a third tally.

Colorful Howie Morenz made the play for the goal which saved the Flying Frenchmen from their first shutout in their last six games by passing to Nick Wasnie for a pretty goal halfway through the concluding chapter.

The teams resume hostilities on Wednesday. Tonight Rangers and Chicago Blackhawks meet in New York in the second engagement of their Stanley cup semi-final. The first tilt resulted in a two to nothing triumph for the Hawks who have only been beaten on Madison Square Garden ice once this season. The Americans trounced them on that occasion.

During the regular league schedule the Hawks downed the Rangers four times, tied once and were defeated once at home. The shut-out registered by the Windy City hockeyists last Sunday was the third they have handed the blue shirted Gothamites this season and was the 13th time in 46 games that brilliant Chuck Gardiner, the Hawks all-star goal-guardian had defied opposing sharpshooters to penetrate his guard.

TORONTO, Ont., March 31 (C.P.). —By scoring in the first period of last night's National Hockey League championship game against Les Canadiens of Montreal, Cooney Weiland, diminutive and brainy playing centre of the Boston Bruins, gained the leadership for scoring honors in the play-off series. HERO OF HOCKEY

Every play-off series produces its heroes and its dumbells. In hockey, baseball or any other sport there is always someone to pull the chestnuts out of the fire or someone who puts his foot right into trouble. This time we are telling of a hero, namely Conney Weiland, the little centre on Art Ross's Bruins of Bean Town. Some time ago he was named hockey's great little man and ever since has been living up to the title. He only weights 135 lbs. and so is forced to resort a good deal to headwork to get by. In the first play-off game between Boston and Les Canadiens Weiland's quick thinking and quicker action saved the game for Boston. After 18 minutes and 56 seconds of overtime he apparently seized Hainsworth's pass out of his hand, dropped it to the ice and flashed it into the net before the "Flying Frenchmen" had a chance to do a thing. The play was smart and fast and aroused a great deal of comment and controversy in the hockey ranks. Weiland has developed as fast as any player in the game and has made good right from the start.

WINNIPEG, Man., March 31— Amateur stars of the Eastern hockey world, the Tigers of Hamilton, accompanied by prominent officials of the Ontario Hockey Association and their club directors, came to Winnipeg yesterday, a little tired after the tedious train journey, but all prepared for the annual battle between East and West.

Greeted at the station by members of the Manitoba Hockey Association and civic representatives the Tiger squad were speeded to their hotel where they spen t a morning of freedom. Yesterday afternoon they had a practice turn at the amphitheatre where tonight they meet the Winnipegs in the first of the Allan Cup series.

Dell Hannigan, manager and coach, was right there with expressions of confidence in his boys who best the best the East had to offer, and the smiling squad, too, affirmed the hopes of their mentor.

The team was accompanied by J. M. McGill, president of the Ontario Hockey Association, R. E. Clements, vice-president, and W. N. Downie, secretary-treasurer.

Each team has now a victory apiece. The first contest went 2 hours and 40 minutes of playing time to a tie. "Obs" Heximer, leading scorer in the loop, tallied the deciding goal in the third period. Boston was shy Mackey at the time. Dick Benson, spare forward, was the chief Indian attacker, however, with a goal and an assist.

BISON-BORDER TANGLE HOLDS FAN INTEREST

Buffalo Encounters Team Far Superior to Jackets in the Windsorites.

Victory Over Border City Threat Will Give Them Firm Hold on Oke Trophy.

TORONTO, Ont., March 31 (C.P.) —Only five more games remain after to-night in the International Hockey League's round robin series for the championship. Major interest to-night centres on the clash between the highly-rated Buffalo Bisons and Windsor Bulldogs. Led by the canny Mickey Roach, the league pace-makers won both their play-off fixtures with Pittsburg Yellow Jackets to effectively squash any titular aspirations of the Smoke Eaters.

In the Windsorites, however, the Bisons will be encountering a team of superior calibre and if they can surmount the Border City threat will have a firm hold on the Oke Trophy, emblematic of the championship.

The Bulldogs have met the Cleveland Indians on two occasions, trouncing them thoroughly at Windsor only to lose the return tilt in the Ohio city after overtime. The Indians have defeated the Yellow Jackets one and this victory coupled with their win over the Bulldogs, ranks them next to the Bisons in the post series standing.

To-night the Indians meet the Yellow Jackets and then are scheduled to meet the Thundering Herd in the next two fixtures while the Bulldogs tackle the Smoke Eaters in two games. Therefore, if Herbie Mitchell's hard shooting Bulldogs can hold the Bisons to-night, they will have a fine chance to take the lead while the Bisons and Indians are battling it out.

The Windsor-Buffalo game, programed for March 24 was postponed until April 6 and this contest may prove the deciding tussle.

FALLS AND OSHAWA IN GOALLESS DRAW

Cataracts Capture First Championship of Ontario Professional League.

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., Mar. 31.—The first professional hockey championship ever to come to this city arrived here last night when the Cataracts and Oshawa Patricias staged a goalless tie after 70 minutes of play.

The game was a hard-fought affair, with both teams playing strong defensive hockey and nobody in particular getting into the star column. Both Freddie Faught and "Bud" Fisher, the respective goalers, turned in fine performances.

Strong defensive hockey featured the first period of play, and no real openings were allowed. Heavy body-checking played a big part in the defensive tactics of both teams, with Red Moore of the Cataracts and Davey of the Patricias carrying off the honors. The Falls had the odd man advantage twice, but were unable to go anywhere.

Miss Orcutt Qualifies In North-south Tourney

PINEHURST, N. C., Mar. 31.—(CP) —Maureen Orcutt, Englewood, N. J., who shot a brilliant 75 to win the 18-hole qualifying round yesterday, was paired with Ruth Batchelder, West Newton, Mass., for the first round match play today in the 29th annual north and south tournament.

Miss Orcutt's medal score was two strokes better than Glenna Collett's record 77 in 1926. Glenna's score was matched by Virginia Van Wie, Chicago, runner-up to Miss Orcutt for medal honors.

Defying the difficult number three layout, the Englewood linkswoman reached the turn in 35, men's par, but encountered some difficulty on the in nine.

Miss Batchelder scored an 89 in the medal play, two strokes better than the 91 required for qualifying in the championship flight of 16.

Sarazen Heads Money Kings.

AUGUSTA, Ga., March 31 (C.P.)— Prizes totalling $5,000 awaited the first 26 players to reach the end of the golden trail to-day in the southeastern open golf tournament.

Willie Macfarlane, New York, and Paul Runyon, White Plains, N.Y., entered the finals three strokes ahead of the field.

They shot consistent golf yesterday to turn in 36-hole totals of 142 each, par for the difficult Forest Hill-Rocker course.

Clarence Hackney, Atlantic City, N.J., and Wild Bill Mehlhorn, Chicago, shot 145's to tie for third place.

The battle between Gene Sarazen, New York, and Johnny Golden, Norotan, Conn., to determine the season's biggest money winner, failed to materialize when Golden did not enter the tournament. Sarazen was well down in the list yesterday when he shot a 151. He, however, is leading the field of money kings with a total of $8,320.

Joe Turnesa, Elmsford, N.Y.; Walter Hagen, Detroit, and Bobby Cruickshank, Purchase, N.Y., were in a three-way tie for fifth place with 146 each.

Dave Ogilvie, Augusta pro., was alone at 147. Wiffy Cox, Brooklyn; Craig Wood, Deal, N.J., and Johnny Farrell, Marmaroneck, N.Y., scored 148 each.

FIRST OF TOURISTS ARRIVE FOR SUMMER

Rush Point Young People Provide Program at Trent River Meeting.

RUSH POINT, March 31 (Examiner Correspondent)—The tourist season has begun already in spite of rather backward weather conditions. The first party of the season, with a car bearing Michigan license, went through Rush Point on March 27th on its way north. The car carried a heavy load of campers' necessities.

League Meeting

The regular league meeting was held at the White Church on Thursday evening as usual. About thirty young people were present. A slight illness prevented Rev. Mr. Archer from being at the meeting.

The topic was given by Luella Keating. Vocal solos were rendered by Robert Denny and Jean Pollock. A reading by Miss Taite was greatly appreciated. A flower contest was in charge of Mrs. H. Hoard and the khaki members won first place.

Visit Trent River

The Rush Point League members visited the Trent River League on Friday evening for a social meeting. Some fifteen of boys went in the factory truck while the girls proceeded in three or four cars. The Rush Point members furnished the program, which had been arranged by Archie McMillan.

H. Hoard took charge during the opening excercises. The topic "Life, Death, Sin and Resurrection" was taken by Miss Beavis. Readings by Mrs. Hoard, Jean Pollock and Mr. Hoard, two vocal solos by Robert Denny, a mouthorgan selection by Gavin Buchanan contributed much to the success of the program. Rev. Mr. Archer gave an interesting address and conducted the two contests.

The Trent River members served lunch.

The three leagues, Rush Point, Trent River and Havelock, decided to hold a social at Havelock five weeks from the time of this meeting.

District Notes

We regret to learn that Mr. James Keating is again seriously ill. We hope the coming of nicer spring weather will make a change for the better in his condition.

Mr. Morgan of Campbellford was at Rush Point on Thursday on garage business.

A stranger in the vicinity, who claims to have been around the world twice in two years, is trying hard to find employment on a farm. Several local men are still lacking employment however and it is feared no vacancy will be found for the stranger, but he has paid Rush Point a nice compliment after his wanderings.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Keating from Campbellford were visitors at the home of Mr. Ned Keating on Friday last.

Mr. Ross Hart returned from the north country late Saturday afternoon.

DISAPPOINTING NUMBER ATTEND FIRST MEETING

Nevertheless Optimistic Note Regarding Prospects for Season Sounded at Gathering.

WILL SEEK SPONSORS.

Organization Meeting Date is Set for Week From Wednesday, April 8.

The first City Baseball League meeting of the year drew a very small number out last night at the Duffus Bowling Alleys. Due perhaps to the chilly weather, less than half of those expected out showed up, and most of the business had to be postponed. It was decided to hold another meeting next Wednesday night, April 8th, at eight o'clock, in the same room. At this meeting, officers will be elected and entries in the various sections of the League made.

However, one thing was accomplished at last night's meeting, and that was the appointment of two delegates to the O.B.A.A. convention on Saturday. Art Moffat and Bill Prindible will put in the City League entrance fee and have a vote on Saturday.

Despite the small turnout, several of those present signified their intention of entering teams. So it should not be any trouble to form a good league again this year. It was decided to go after more entries by calling on some of the shops and clubs around town and inviting them to join the City League this year. And anyone wishing to nominate any officer at the next meeting was advised to see that the prospective nominee was present. As nothing more could be done until a week from Wednesday, the meeting was adjourned.

'NEATH SUNNY SKIES

Spicy Bits of Baseball Gossip From Majors' Camps.

In the words of Mickey Cochrane, sparkplug catcher for the Philadelphia Athletics, at Athens, Ga., "Lew Krausse is the best young pitcher I ever saw." "Krausse, a sorel-topped youth from Media, Pa., is getting his first taste of big league ball with the champions.

"First", said Cochrane, "the boy has poise. Then he has fair control, a nice fast ball, a good curve and a 'screw" ball. Rommel showed him how to throw the knuckler—two fingers on the seams and a light wrist motion. The kid has it down pat. He's on the order of Ted Lyons of the White Sox and is the best youngster that has come south with the A's in my time."

"The raised stitches on the new ball won't help many pitchers" said Patsy O'Rourke, scout for the Phillies at Chattanooga, Tenn., because very few grip the ball properly.

"If they held the ball the way I tell them" he said, "the elevated seams might mean a lot." He illustrated by placing the first and second finger on two seams where they were nearest together and let the ball spin off the middle digit. "That," he said, "is the way Alexander grabbed the ball. A fellow who lays his fingers on those seams can develop a whale of a sailor.

Dan Howley, manager of the Cincinnati Reds at Macon, Ga., says he is willing to admit that the team at present is the worst looking major league outfit I have ever seen. But I am positive there are better times coming. We have practically no punch and the defense has faltered but I believe the team has the worst of its efforts out of its system and will show steady improvement from now on.

Whether the Detroi Tigers will have the valuable services of the veteran Marty McManus at third base for the full season may be known shortly. McManus has joined the regular squad at San Francisco, Cal., after spending several weeks in and around Sacramento with the so-called Yannigans and is expected to try out his game leg under the eyes of Manager Buckley Harris within the next few days. McManus is recovering from an operation undergone last winter for an injury received last summer.

W. J. SNYDER RETURNED BY ACCLAMATION

Three Others Are Elected to O.B.A.A. Office Without Contesting Office.

SEVERAL AMENDMENTS.

Expected Lively Discussion Will Follow Minor Ball Play-off Proposal.

The Ontario Baseball Ameatur Association convention here on Saturday next will probably be the last time the annual meeting will be held on the Saturday following Good Friday. The executive have put forth an amendment: "When the first Saturday in April follows Good Friday, the meeting be held on the second Saturday." This should carry without discussion.

Despite the business depression that swept the province last year, the association had a successful year financially. The treasurer's report shows a balance on hand of $500 over a year ago.

Toronto Amateur Baseball Association were the only affiliated association, league or club to send on any amendments. They have three, and with 13 more coming from the executive this makes 17 to confront the delegates on Saturday. The majority of the amendments are of a trivial nature and should be disposed of without much discussion.

One of the amendments that no doubt will cause a lot of discussion is that put forth by the Toronto association in which they ask for all minor semi-finals to be sudden death games. Last year the T.A.B.A. spent $200 sending minor league champions in quest of Ontario titles. With sudden-death games this could greatly be reduced. Representatives of minor league teams in T.A.B.A. are willing to toss with the opponents to decide where the games are to be played or have the O.B.A.A. name the grounds.

Last year an amendment was put through that a player after playing six games could not be released. This applied to all series. The T.A.B.A. is asking a change to read senior and intermediate six games; all series below, four games. In Toronto many of the minor league play only a ten-game schedule and giving a player five games is too much.

Change Residence Date

Players who change their residence after Aug. 1 of the playing year have to Feb. 15 to notify the O.B.A.A. The executive think this date is too late and are asking it to be changed to Jan. 10. They are also completing a questionnaire which all players applying for change of residence must fill in and sign before their case will be considered.

In the list of nominations for office four have been returned by acclamation—second vice-president, W. A. Smith, Galt; secretary, W. J. Snyder, Hamilton; treasurer, A. Hillmer, Oakville, and A.A.U. of C. governor, P. M. Kennedy, Toronto. Two are contesting the presidency, R. A. Elliott, Deloro, and C. K. Jutten, Hamilton. Three are seeking the first vice-president's chair, C. K. Jutten, Hamilton; J. Turner, Toronto, and W. A. Smith, Galt. While there are eight nominated for the executive and this is the number required to complete it, only four of them are to be elected Saturday and the other four are appointed by the president. The following are nominated: R. Fraser, Toronto; H. C. Maguire, St. Catharines; J. W. Scott, Kitchener; A. J. Walsh, Toronto; J. Turner, Toronto; Wm. Kay, of this city; A. J. Kendrick, Guelph, N. A. Taylor, Rodney.

O.A.S.A. TO HOLD MEETING ON FRIDAY

J. E. Sullivan of This City Nominated for Position on Executive Body.

Major G. C. McArthur, Guelph, has been given the office of president of the Amateur Softball Association of Ontario for the year 1931 by acclamation. This is his third season as president of that organization, and he is the first president to hold office more than one term. The ninth annual meeting will be held at Paris on Good Friday.

W. J. Innes, Paris, treasurer of the O.A.S.A. for the past four years, is the only other office to be given acclamation; the other offices being strongly sought after.

For the office of secretary, made vacant through the resignation of Vin. MacKay, Hamilton, three nominations are entered. Verne McIlwraith, Guelph, who has been a member of the executive for the past five years, the oldest member from point of service, who has been publicity agent for three years and who was defeated in the secretarial race the last two years by a single vote, is again nominated for the office, and he will be opposed by Ernie Smith, Hamilton, one of the O.A.S.A. auditors, and William Innes, Paris, the present treasurer. Innes was nominated from Galt, who seek to combine the two offices this year.

Four nominations have been received for each of the two vice-presidencies and 13 for the executive committee.

Percy Randall, Toronto, and Harry Briggs, Hamilton, will again act as A.A.U. of C. governors, being unopposed, while three Hamilton men have been named auditors.

J. E. Sullivan of this city and former president of Ontario Softball Association, has been nominated to occupy a position on the executive body.

CASUAL COMMENT

The Kiwanis Club is thinking of sponsoring a softball league composed of new farmers' teams in this district this summer. The idea is to get farmers who have had no experience in baseball or softball to organize into a league and playoff for a cup.

* * * * * * *

Certain farming centres around here have been more or less active in sports a number of years, while others have never seemed to get together as a league. Sounds like a swell idea all right.

* * * * * * *

Baseball seems to be coming back strong again after being seriously threatened for several years by softball. And with the big O.B.A.A. convention here on Saturday, there'll be nothing but baseball talk around Peterborough for some time.

* * * * * * *

Bert McLeod has been going great guns with Kansas City Pla-Mors all winter. And the husky defense player will be heard from throughout the playoffs no doubt, too.

* * * * * * *

According to a sports writer in Kansas City, Big Bert is the rock of the Pla-Mors defense, and probably the outstanding defenseman in the American Hockey League. Well, that's what this town makes of a promising hockey player, maybe.

* * * * * * *

It was a disappointing turnout at the City Baseball League meeting in Duffus' last night. The fellows that were present deserved better luck than a practically wasted evening.

* * * * * * *

At least two delegates were appointed to attend the O.B.A.A. meeting at the Empress on Saturday. They were Art Moffatt and Bill Prindible. The election of officers will have to be postponed until next Wednesday night when the league meets again in the same place.

* * * * * * *

Several of those present are entering teams this year. The Kiwanis may have both junior and bantam entries. It shouldn't prove hard to get a well-rounded-out City League going once things get started.

* * * * * * *

The executive of the City League wants to thank Bert Duffus for use of the Board Room to conduct meetings. Bert generously offers the room at any time in the interests of sport.

* * * * * * *

A funny thing about meetings. Those attending gather in knots outside the room just before the meeting is due to begin, and most of the new business for the evening is threshed out then. When they enter the room, everything is pretty well cut and dried.

* * * * * * *

In this way, the parties supporting the new idea generally have little or no trouble putting their suggestions over, before others present really have time to think it out carefully. It's a funny thing.

* * * * * * *

Rotary and the Kinsmans' Club, along with the local shops and well-known sportsmen, are going to be approached within a week on the subject of putting a team into the City League. So the meeting a week from Wednesday should find plenty of entries.

* * * * * * *

Word from Lindsay is that a good number of boxers are working out regularly there preparing for the tournament in Peterborough. Also there's a couple of wrestlers keeping in shape.

* * * * * * *

The boys from the town on the Scugog seem to think they'll have a lot of fun scrambling ears down here, or maybe they're just kidding. Anyway, we hope the tournament comes off soon as we haven't seen a good fight since the South-end City League hockey games finished.

* * * * * * *

And speaking of boxing, the boys belonging to All Saints' Athletic Club who want to learn the manly art should come out tonight to the club room where there'll be an instructor.

* * * * * * *

Good Friday is the day of the annual Softball Convention. It is being held in Paris, Ontario, and there will be several representatives from here attend. And the name of J. E. Sullivan is on the list of nominations for the executive office.

Hamilton Tigers and Winnipeg Seniors Do Battle For Dominion Honors.

TEAMS IN FINE FETTLE.

Hughes Will Achieve All-time Record if Westerners Cop Championship.

WINNIPEG, Man., March 31.—(By the Canadian Press.)—Six thousand hockey fans will crowd the historic Amphitheatre rink to-night as Hamilton Tigers and Winnipeg Seniors do battle in the first fray of their two-out-of-three-game series for the Allan Cup and the Canadian championship. Rink officials reported to-day that the game was a sell-out.

For the first time since they cinched the Eastern title by ousting the Truro Bearcats Saturday, Tigers worked out in uniform this morning. Yesterday the Tigers had an easy skate to limber up.

Seeking to add the Allan cup to the Memorial cup, already won by Winnipeg Elmwoods, Coach Jack Hughes will send an unaltered line-up into the game. Hughes, who coached the Elmwoods in their junior play, but was unable to go east for the finals, will have achieved an all-time record if he is able to guide his Senior proteges to a Canadian crown.

Probable line-ups for to-night's game:

Hamilton	Position	Winnipeg
	Goal
Marsh		Cockburn
	Defence
McKay		Hinkel
	Defence
Farrell		Sutherland
	Centre
McGowan		Simpson
	R. Wing
Louch		Linquist

Hamilton subs—Kane, Schwab, Litzen.

Winnipeg subs — Garbutt, Wise, Crowley.

Officials—Alex Irvin, Winnipeg, and Harry Watson, Toronto.

A HEAVYWEIGHT INVASION OF CANADA

Good news at last, strange as it seems, but finally the Shamrock Club of Toronto has decided to give Mr. Phan a break, and when I say a break I don't mean maybe. Last week sporting pages carried the news that Playfair Brown, the Tex Rickard of Canada, would again step into the sportlight by matching Tom Heeney and Johnny Risko to meet at the Arena Gardens, Toronto, on April 6th. There is little doubt that this fight will rouse a great deal of interest in Toronto and other sporting centres as well as in the States. Only five weeks ago Heeny was the headliner at Madison Square Gardens, New York, while Risko has so recently stepped out of the open air bout with Mickey Walker that he might find the weather a bit chilly in Canada yet. However, don't gallop off with the idea this bout is a bout of Champions for both men have seen better days in their career but they will give the buyers of the pasteboards a fight which is more than a lot of championship eliminations have offered recently. In speaking about the past performances of these men, Tom Heeny has a decision over Risko, Jack Delaney, and draws with Uzcudem and Sharkey and was the last man to have fought with Gentleman Gene Tunney. While Johnny Risko started off on the right foot in 1924 and developed into a Madison Square headliner meeting and holding decisions over Jack Sharkey, Jack Delaney, George Godfery, Ernie Shaaf, Paolino Uzcudum, Vittorio Campolo, Tuffy Griffith and Jim Maloney. With records of this nature both men will draw great interest throughout the country. In speaking about future plans for the square-ring game in Canada, here is the low down on future plans of Mr. Playfair Brown. It has been discovered that both of these men have agreed that whoever wins this bout will meet the Canadian Heavyweight Champion Larry Gains who has been on the continent for some time cleaning house with the heavies over there and now that he has done all the damage that can be done he has returned home with the object in view that in the near future at the Maple Leaf Stadium he will meet the winner of the 6th on April 16th. This would make him a logical contender in the fiasco for the heavyweight crown that they can't find a head for at the present time.

CANADA IS IDEAL PAINTERS' LAND

Six Most Fateful Years in History of Canadian Art Were 1806-1812.

MONTREAL, March 31.—(By the Canadian Press)—The years between 1806 and 1812 were the most fateful in the history of Canadian art for in that period were born the five men who were destined to put it on its feet said W. M. Barnes, A.R.C.A., to members of the St. James Literary Society recently.

Tracing the progress of Canadian art Mr. Barne declared that it received its impetus from these five men—Paul Kane, Canada; Otto Jacob, Prussia Cornelius Kreighoff, Holland; Dan Fowler, England; and George Berthon, France. While they were of different nationalities, they chose Canada as their home and produced work here which was characteristally Canadian.

"As a painters land," declared the speaker "Canada is second to none. It offers variety from the snow and ice of Labrador, the rugged coasts and surf of Cape Breton, the pastoral scenes of the Annapolis Valley, the forests of New Brunswick, the historic qualities of old Quebec, Ontario's northern woods, the grandeur of the Rockies to the warmth of the Pacific coast."

At the time of Confederation, he went on, art in Canada was still struggling for existence while England was worrying about the pre-Raphaelites. The Ontario Society of Art was formed about this time and in 1880, the Montreal Art Society was formed. From that time on, Canadian art flourished.

ASKS EUROPEAN COUNTRIES TO GIVE PREFERENCE TO DANUBIAN WHEAT

Austrian Suggests Overseas Exporters Sell Surplus to Africa and China.

SELL AT REDUCED PRICES.

ROME, March 31 (By George Ambleton, C.P. Staff Correspondent). — The wide difference in opinion between European and overseas countries was again illustrated at the World Grain Conference to-day, when Dr Engelbert Dollfuss, Austrian Minister of Agriculture, urgently pleaded that European countries should give preference to wheat grown in the Danubian basin.

With large maps, Dr. Dollfuss showed the high tariff walls as compared with large free trade areas in North America. Is there equal justice for all or not, he demanded, after pointing out the United States had her trade treaties, and the British Dominions their mutual preferences.

Sell to China, Africa.

He suggested that as a means of alleviating the situation, the great overseas wheat exporting countries should agree to dispose of part of their surplus at reduced prices in China and Africa, which would be good propaganda for stimulating the use of wheat and flour in those regions.

Dr. Dollfuss also thought the situation would be relieved if the United States modified its prohibition laws and thereby increased its consumption of malt, barley, and other grains.

The conference's general sessions ended this afternoon for a time, the delegates dividing up into special committees which will meet until Wednesday.

The conference remains divided, while European delegates continue to press for tariff measures ensuring the use of wheat from the Danubian countries, overseas delegates continue to point out the most-favored-nation treaties are obstacles in this path. And nobody is willing to agree to reduce acreage. Russia, on the contrary, has announced she will do everything possible to increase production.

A BEDTIME STORY

By Howard R. Garis

UNCLE WIGGILY AND KITTIES CATNIP

Once upon a time when Uncle Wiggily was sitting in his hollow stump bungalow Saturday, when there was no school, he heard a scratching sound on the front door.

"I wonder who that is?" asked Uncle Wiggily of himself, for there was no one else in the room at the time except the clock, which had its hands up in front of its face and wouldn't talk.

Again came that scratching sound on the door.

"Come in!" Uncle Wiggily invited and then he wished he hadn't. "For it may be the Bob Cat," he murmured, "coming to play another trick on me because that one he tried to play, with the rag on his tail, didn't work." Uncle Wiggily laughed as he remembered how the Bob Cat hid in a stump standing on his head with the rag on his tail.

"And how Red Robin pinched that Bob Cat's tail when the bird pulled the white rag off to make a nest!" chuckled the rabbit gentleman. "Oh, I haven't laughed so hard since I went to the movies!"

Uncle Wiggily giggled and chuckled and smiled and then, all of a sudden, he stopped, for again he heard that scratching sound on his door.

"Come in!" he once more invited, forgetting that he had said the same thing before. And once again he thought, "Oh, maybe it's the Fox!"

But a kind and gentle voice mewed: "I can't come in, the door is locked!"

"Oh, Kittie Kat!" cried Uncle Wiggily in joyful surprise as he heard the voice. "Excuse me! I forgot I hadn't unlocked the door this morning. Wait a moment."

When the door was opened the birds began to sing.

Oh, please excuse me! I was thinking about when the pie was opened the birds began to sing. I mean when Uncle Wiggily opened the door in walked Kittie Kat, the pussy girl, with her tail held high in the air as a boy carries his fishing pole.

"Oh, Uncle Wiggily! I'm so glad to see you!" mewed Kittie.

"I am glad to see you!" spoke the rabbit gentleman with a smile that made his pink nose twinkle twice as fast as before. "How are you?"

"Why, I'm fine!" purred Kittie. "I came to ask you a great favor, Unkie Wig? May I call you Unkie Wig as Baby Bunty does?" she wanted to know.

"I can't see any harm in it as long as you don't speak any more baby talk than just those two words," said Mr. Longears. "Hum! A favor! Let me see if I have any pennies."

"Oh, I didn't come to ask you for a penny!" mewed Kittie. "I just came to ask you if you would come out in the fields with me and help me look for some catnip."

"Catnip! At this time of year!" cried Uncle Wiggily. "No, no, my child. Catnip doesn't get green and grow so early in the Spring, at least around here. Out in the warm Southland it might, but not here."

"Oh, dear!" sighed Kittie. "I so much want some nice, fresh catnip! You found some trailing arbutus growing under the snow, Unkie Wig, and maybe you can find some catnip!"

"No," and Mr. Longears shook his head. "I'm sorry, but it is too early for catnip. You'll have to wait about two months."

"Oh, dear!" purred Kittie. "I'd just love a bit of catnip!" Uncle Wiggily knew how fond pussy cats are of the catnip weed. It is as good for them as candy is for you. All of a sudden Uncle Wiggily remembered an old cat lady whom he had seen gathering catnip in the fall of last year. She said she was going to hang it up in her attic to dry.

"Maybe," thought Mr. Longears, "I can get Kittie some of that dried catnip. And if I wet it with water to freshen it up it may taste very good. Wait here for me, Kittie!" said the bunny gentleman. "I'll go see if I can find you some catnip. But it will not be fresh, green kind growing in the field."

"Oh, any kind of catnip will do," said Kittie.

Uncle Wiggily hopped to the house of the old lady cat. Surely enough she had some dried catnip leaves which she gave him. Hopping back to his bungalow, Uncle Wiggily moistened the catnip with water and then called to Kittie. As soon as she smelled the catnip she danced joyfully. She ate a little and then she stretched out on the floor, rolled over and over in sweet, spicy weed, and, last of all, she turned a somersault head over paws!

"I'm so glad!" said Mr. Longears. "Take some home to your brothers."

So Kittie had her catnip and so did her brothers, Tommie and Joie. And they each turned three somersaults.

Here's a Room that PAYS ITS OWN RENT

... ONCE upon a time it wasn't a room at all. It was just waste space beneath the roof. Then we learned how easy it was to make use of such places with TEN/TEST and we converted it into a recreation room.

But it was afterwards that the big surprise came. In building the room with TEN/TEST we had put insulation between the roof and the rest of the house. Heat no longer escaped. The house at once became more comfortable and the coal bill came down.

Now, every year the saving in fuel represents a nice tidy rent from the room, and we have the room too.

We killed two birds with one stone . . . we got another room and we reduced our fuel bill by practically one-third. Not bad for TEN/TEST.

Right-of-Way Meeting Will Be Held In City

Reeve F. D. McIntyre of Otonabee has received so many letter approving his suggestion for the formation in this district of an association of farmers through whose properties the new Hydro-Electric trunk lines are being constructed, that he is arranging for a meeting in Peterborough on Saturday, April 11.

Reeve McIntyre said he believed that The Examiner's columns had amply broadcast this proposed meeting, and incidentally, he said, he was surprised at the number of letters he had received from farmers and representatives of municipalities.

The exact details will be announced in a few days, but it is understood that the meeting will likely be held in the County Council Chamber at two o'clock in the afternoon. The Pickering Farmers' Right-of-Way Association is active and useful, and a similar association in this district would be able to join forces with their western neighbor in defending the property rights of farmers who may be affected by the Hydro's extension plans.

Monthly Meeting Of School Association

The regular meeting of the Prince of Wales' Home and School Association was held last evening in the Kindergartan room of the school with a good attendance. The president, Mrs. G. A. Spicer, occupied the chair and the meeting opened by repeating the Lord's Prayer in unison and singing 'O Canada,' following which the minutes of the previous meeting were read by the secretary, Mrs. W. R. Parnell and approved.

A very enjoyable program was then rendered.

The speaker of the evening was Mr. Leo Copp, Public School Inspector, who gave a very interesting and educative address on Northern Ontario and his experiences there while engaged as inspector. He had a large number of splendid pictures of the districts he described.

Chorus—Girls and boys of Mr. Munroe's class.

Vocal duet— Helen Cherney and Helen Hetherington.

Piano duet — Nora Hughes and Madeline Rose.

Vocal solo—Celia Foster.

The roll was then called and it was found that the banner went to Mr. Munroe's room for the month.

A hearty vote of thanks to those taking part in the program and especially to Mr. Copp was expressed by Mr. D. Munroe.

The meeting closed by singing the National Anthem.

AUSTRALIAN IMPORTS DROP

Exports in the past eight months were $330,000,000 compared with $415,000,000 in the corresponding period a year previous, the decline chiefly being in bullion and species.

AGED VETERAN ONCE SERVED ON ONTARIO SURVEY PARTY

Late Captain Arthur Rowland Was Personal Friend of F. M. DelaFosse.

DIED AT AGE OF 104

Captain Arthur Walpole Rowland, scion of a great English house and soldier of fortune who had served under the flags of five nations, and who as reported in yesterday's Examiner died in the Burtha M. Fisher Home for the aged in Detroit at the age of 104 years, was a personal friend of F. M. DelaFosse of this city.

Mr. DelaFosse, who recently underwent an operation at Nicholls Hospital, and who is reported to be making satisfactory progress, served under Captain Rowland on a survey party many years ago around the Lake of the Woods territory and treasures some letters written to him by the old veteran within the past few years, and which are remarkable for the neat, legible hand in which they are penned and which provide the recipient with a link of a period of his life which was also not a little tinged with romance.

The amazing and almost incredible career of the grizzled old soldier has been proved and authenticated and documents show that he was born on January 27, 1827 in India the son of a British Army officer, and that he is a graduate of the British Cavalry School at Canterbury, England, and was graduated from the engineering college at Freifurt, Saxony. As he was taking his degree from the latter institution he volunteered for the Turkish service in the Crimea where under Omar Pasha, commander-in-chief, he participated in the battles of Alma, Balaklava, Inkerman and the seige of Sebastopol. He rose to the rank of Bombashi (Major) in the Turkish service and after participating as an engineering officer in the demolition of the fortification of Sebastopol he was presented with a medal by Sultan Medjid VI.

Patient of Florence Nightingale.

During this war he was a patient of Florence Nightingale, and later was one of the party of officers who escorted her through the trenches.

He next volunteered for the British campaign in Persia, went from there to the Indian Mutiny and was present at the relief of Lucknow. He also served with Garibaldi's forces in Italy, and as a gun-runner for the Italian liberator, was invited by the admiral of the Austrian fleet—later to become the ill-fated Emperor Maxmillan—to a luncheon.

His next adventure was in China where he was a general under Li Hung Chang and fought side-by-side with his Crimean comrade, Chinese Gordon, commander of the "Ever Victorious Army" and doomed in a few hours to die at Khartoum.

Following his exploits in China he came to the United States, and was engaged as a cavalry scout for Custer and then served under General Butler in the Bermuda Hundreds.

Escort For Empress.

Captain Rowland next served as colonel of cavalry under Emperor Maxmillan and was cavalry escort for the Empress Carlotta—who was later to suffer the horrors of lifelong madness after learning that her husband had died before a Mexican firing squad.

In 1884-6 he fought under Sir Garnet Wolsley, soon to be made Lord Wolsley in the Egyptian campaign.

In his later peace time career he discovered and developed some of the best paying mines in the Rainy River district and the Lake of the Woods. At the age of 84 years he strayed away from a surveying party and was lost in the Canadian north woods for 31 days subsisting entirely during that period on water and birch leaves. He was found by a Geological Survey group.

In addition to the people already mentioned with whom this remarkable man was acquainted are such notables as the late Queen Victoria, The Duke of Wellington, Emperor Franz Josef, the Empress Elizabeth, Empress Eugenie, Abraham Lincoln, Lord Kitchener, Sir Colin Campbell and Count Cavour.

HITLER TO START COURT ACTION.

MUNICH, Bavaria, Mar. 31. — (A. P.)—Adolf Hitler, in the National Socialist organ Voelkischer Beobachter, announces to-day that his party will start Federal Court proceedings to determine the legality of the recent decree of President Von Hindenburg which curbs drastically the activities of political radicals. Hitler enjoins his followers, however, to comply with the decree strictly until a legal decision is obtained.

EVERETT HEADS

like Comrade Sutton, have worked with our late president for a great number of years. We must remember the good work he has done for the branch in all its phases, and that one may work a willing horse to death."

Comrade Abraham has given hours, days and years to the work of the returned soldiers and has been active in other community efforts in the city. He will still be a guiding light to the incoming president; so do not let us begrudge the year's rest which is due to him."

The speaker also went on to refer to the work which their late president has done as chairman of the Pensions Committee, adding that, "in the future this is one of the principal objects we have in view."

The newly-elected president expressed his regret that Comrade Abraham would not accept another term of office. He felt sure that their late president could have filled the bill, as no other man could, and he accepted office with the assurance that he would be able to rely upon the assistance of Comrade Abraham.

He gave the members of the branch the promise that he would do his level best to follow closely in the footsteps of his predecessor, who commanded the respect of all the citizens of Peterborough and of the returned men in particular.

"Inside the Legion work and outside of its activities nothing has been too large for our past president to tackle," he remarked in closing.

Pension Committee

Reporting on the work of the Pension Committee, of which he is chairman, Captain Abraham stated that his committee had been responsible in obtaining 47 pensions; 17 war veterans' allowance pensions; 5 widows' reinstatement of pension (two of these were in the county) since January, 1930. During this lapse of time the sum of $41,071.77 had been brought into this city through the efforts of the Legion, while a great number of returned men had been secured permanent and temporary employment.

He also spoke of the membership campaign, now under way, and how by means of a pledge made by each member to bring in one new member it is hopefully expected to double the membership this year.

Annual Church Parade

The annual church parade of the branch was decided on for Sunday, April 19th, this Sunday being the nearest to the anniversary of the Second Battle of Ypres. The parade will be held in the morning at All Saints' Church, when Rev. Captain Kidd will officiate at the services.

THE SON OF TARZAN No. 26 (Metropolitan Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.) By Edgar Rice Burroughs

The tree was but a few paces away. A limb hung ten feet from the ground, and as the boy leaped for it the lioness leaped for him. Like a monkey, he pulled himself up and to one side. A great forepaw caught him a glancing blow at the hips—just grazing him. One claw hooked itself into his pajama trousers, ripping them off as the lioness sped by. Half naked the lad drew himself to safety as the beast again leaped for him.

Akut, from a nearby tree, jabbered and scolded. The boy threw dead twigs and branches at the upturned face af Sabor, just as his father had done twenty years before when he, too, had taunted and tantalized the great cats of the jungle. The lioness fretted about awhile and finally stalked majestically away into the underbrush. Freed from danger, the boy and Akut came to the ground to take up their interrupted journey once more.

The old ape scolded the boy in the language that was their common heritage. "It is a lesson. If you would live, use your ears and eyes, but most of all your nose after this.' That night the son of Tarzan was colder than he ever had been. The pajama trousers had not been heavy, but they had been heavier than nothing. And the next day he roasted in the hot sun, for again their way led them across wide and treeless plains.

For a month the two wandeerd on, the boy learning rapidly the laws of the jungle, his muscles adapting themselves to the new mode of life thrust upon them. He found it came quite naturally to him to swing high through the trees. Even at great heights he was never dizzy, and when he had caught the knack of the swing and the release he could hurl himself through space from branch to branch with more agility than Akut could.

Dairies In Ottawa Cut Farmers' Prices

OTTAWA, Ont., March 31 (C.P.).—A deadlock exists between milk producers and dairies of the Ottawa district seeking to fix a reduced summer price for milk delivered to the dairies. Following a meeting of the dissenting parties last night it was disclosed the farmers would accept $2 per hundred pounds, a reduction of 36 cents from the existing rate. The dairies offered $1.80 per hundredweight. Further meetings will be held.

The summer-time milk price last year was $2.50 per cwt., 20 cents below the rate which existed during the months when cows must be largely stable-fed.

MISS E. BETZNER DIES IN NEW YORK

Was Nationally Known as Producer, Director and Author of Pageants.

NATIVE OF KITCHENER.

NEW YORK, N.Y., Mar. 31. (CP)—Miss Era Betzner, native of Kitchener, Ont., and a nationally known producer, director and author of pageants, died yesterday at her home, 426 West Twenty-first Street, after a year's illness. In June, 1929, Miss Betzner went to Shanghai to produce a pageant there for the Women's Clubs and Y.W.C.A. of the city and while in China became ill. She was forced to cancel a number of additional foreign engagements and return to New York.

For the last ten years Miss Betzner, who was in her thirties, was well known in the field of civic, community and organizational celebration work. She organized pageants all over the country and often directed as many as 3 500 persons at a time.

For the conventions of the Y.W.C.A. she produced several notable works which have since been put on for many other occasions. Cities, schools, clubs and other organizations also were her clients. Two of her best known productions were those of "From Mony One" presented in Sacramento, and "Forward Through the Ages," at Milwaukee. The first was written by Mrs. George B. Ford, of New York, the second, tracing the advance of women, she wrote herself.

Born at Kitchener

Born and educated at Kitchener, Ont., she began her career in Atlanta, Ga. teaching school. While there she became interested in pageantry.

Miss Betzner also wrote an operetta, Marenka, which was presented several years ago at the Hockscher Theatre. This, "Three Pantomines" and "The Mystic Flower" have been published by the woman's press of the Y.W.C.A. She also was the author of parties and stunts around the year. The organizations with which she was associated as a producer included the Camp Fire Girls, the Girls' Friendly Society and the Federal Council of Churches. She also had been an instructor in dramatic technique at Barnard, the Aborn Opera School, the National School of the Y.W.C.A. and the Alberta School of Expression.

Surviving are her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry B. Betzner, of Kitchener, a sister, Miss Una Betzner, and a brother, Ira Betzner, of Ossining. The funeral will be held at Kitchener. A memorial service will be conducted at the headquarters of the Y.W.C.A. tomorrow.

TOWED BY HIS DOG.

One enterprising youngster was observed to-day gaily sailing along the thoroughfares of the city, in tow behind his faithful little pal, a fox terrier. The dog appeared to be enjoying the fun as much as his master. He was in harness, while the boy shod with roller skates, was urging his steed forward as he retained a tight grip on the reins.

BOARD BLAMES LEAKY GAS BAGS FOR R-101 CRASH

Inquiry Results Show Human Element Did Not Enter Disaster.

REPORT MADE PUBLIC.

Approach of Imperial Conference Hurried Flight—All Had Confidence.

LONDON, March 31 (C.P.).—The crash of the giant British dirigible R-101 last October 5, which took 48 men to their deaths, was due to a combination of bad weather and leakage in the gas bags, the official board of inquiry ruled in a voluminous report made public to-day.

The human element did not enter into the crash, the board reported, except to the extent that the watch had just been changed before the ship dived in a downward current. The helmsman, the report said, was yet unaccustomed to the feel of the ship.

In its report the inquiry board says that the flight unquestionably would not have been made so soon and further tests would have been undertaken if it had not been for the Imperial Conference, but, nevertheless, all concerned had full confidence in the ship and believed her able to meet any emergency.

Signs Of Spring

A cub reporter strilling the city streets in a vain search for news could only report that Old Man Winter was shaking the snow off his clothing and the ice off his hoary beard. In fact, the old gentleman had cleaned himself up, removing his beard and donning plus-fours.

The "Scoop" noted with evident pleasure that the city was receiving a thorough cleaning. Streets were being swept up and the refuse being taken away by teams. The buildings were following suit; the Royal Bank Building was getting "its face scrubbed" and the tiny crevices caused by winter frosts, filled up. A little further down Hunter Street a family decided that May 1 was too far away, and accordingly determined to open the moving season by commencing to migrate right away.

Following the eyes of a multitude of smiling people, the cub remarked a well-built gentleman ambling up the street with bright brown-red golf knickers and stocking to match. The final evidence of Springtime came when a pair of bluebirds (or maybe swallows) flitted over a building to settle in a nearby tree. The official "Spring Song" will reach the ears of citizens when the bluebirds grace their nest with a couple of tiny, chirping mites.

ST. PAUL'S MEN HEAR ADDRESSES

Delightful Program is Presented at Meeting of St. Paul's Men's Association.

THREE ADDRESSES.

A most interesting program was presented last night by the Men's Association of St. Paul's Presbyterian church. Three young men of the congregation gave short addresses and a splendid musical program was provided by Martin Chenhall, A.R.C.O. Howard Macdonald was the first speaker and he gave to his hearers a most interesting address on student affairs at the Collegiate Institute. Adam Sands related the value of paints and varnishes in the electrical world and Pat Whyte gave a brief synopsis of the history of banking and then outlined concisely how banks are operated and formed in Canada. "Scotty" Eggleton delighted his audience with several mouth organ selections and a mixed quartette from the choir rendered one number which greatly delighted the audience. Lunch was served at the close.

Construction Better During Month March

According to MacLean Building Reports Limited, March construction contracts throughout Canada amounted to $27,311,800. This was an increase of 5.3 per cent. over the awards for February and a 12.6 per cent. increase above the total for March, 1930. Prospects for spring work are at least equal to that of a year ago.

The construction of business buildings assumed a greater proportion of all contracts throughout Canada during March than any other group. $10,080,300 worth of contracts were awarded in this group which was 36.9 per cent. of all construction. Engineering work continued high with $9,993,800 or 36.6 per cent. Residential took care of 23.4 per cent. or $5,568,700, and industrial 6.1 per cent. or $1,669,000.

The majority of the awards during March were shown in the Province of Ontario where 54.3 per cent. of the contracts were awarded, and having a value of $14,842,900. Quebec Province followed with $8,068,300 or 29.6 ter cent., while British Columbia accounted for 7.8 per cent or $2,127,200; the Prairie Provinces $1,399,700 or 5.1 per cent., and the Maritime Provinces 3.2 per cent. or $873,700.

To the end of the first quarter year, Ontario has shared in the contracts to the extent of 38.9 per cent. or $38,579,300; 36.2 per cent. or $36,621,000 has been the record for Quebec. The Prairie Provinces have taken care of 10.6 per cent. or $7,832,700. British Columbia shows $7,234,700 or 9.8 per cent., and the Maritime Provinces $3,273,300 or 4.5 per cent.

Engineering contracts exceed those for any other group for the first three months. So far $36,219,600 worth of contracts have been awarded in this group or 49.2 per cent. Business buildings have taken care of 29.2 per cent. of the work or $21,460,800. Residential contruction has accounted for 18 per cent. or $13,213,900 and industrial $2,646,700 or 3.6 per cent.

IN MEMORIAM

DOBBIN-DUNK.—In loving memory of my dear mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Dobbin-Dunk, who died March 31, 1927, in Peterborough.

In the night there comes the mother-want, that snatches at my heart
When I need her, Oh, I long for her!
—and blinding teardrops start.
I turn my restless pillow and search the sky for day
Another day without her—and the tears will have their way!
For it seems my need is greater than I well know how to bear;
I need her kindly glances, and her dear hand on my hair.
The silence of her sympathy would ease my bitter pain—
But ah—the light of bygone days comes never back again!
I would not wish to tell her all the storms that rock my life
But just to have her near me now, would make an end of strife.
Her voice would banish loneliness and I beside her knee
Would be again the happy child of distant used-to-be.
She does not come—she cannot come!
But some day I shall go
To join her in a better land—her last breath told me so.
Some day in bliss we'll meet again and nevermore we'll part:
And God will ease the mother-want forever from my heart.

—Sadly missed by daughter, Mrs. Chas. G. Petherick, and family.

Belleville Bank Accountant Found Shot

REMAINS REVEAL BULLET WOUND THROUGH HEART

Search Started as E. W. McClarty Fails to Appear at His Desk.

FOUND IN Y.M.C.A. ROOM.

Victim Was Formerly Well Known Hockey Player With Owen Sound Greys.

BELLEVILLE, Ont., Apr. 1.—With a bullet through his heart E. W. McClarty, accountant, in the Royal Bank here, was found dead in his room at the Y.M.C.A. early today.

The discovery was made by George Glover, caretaker of the bank who went to the young man's room to investigate his absence from his desk.

McClarty came to Belleville from Owen Sound, where his parents reside, and where he was a well-known hockey player with the Owen Sound Greys some years ago. He has made many friends since coming to Belleville. He was also employed in the Royal Bank in Toronto and has been here for the past four years.

An inquest has been ordered by Coroner Dr. Tennent and Constable Booth of the City Police force is probing the tragedy.

NIAGARA RIVER LEVEL NORMAL

Despite Figures, Old Residents Claim Water in Channel is Lowest in History.

BOTTOM VISIBLE.

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y., April 1.—Despite the apparently low water conditions in the United States channel of the river above the falls, the level of the river is practically normal and has been so for the past month, water elevation records kept by the Niagara Falls Power Company revealed to-day. The low water in the channel has been noticed by all the old residents of the frontier, who say that they cannot recall a time without an ice blockade, when the channel was as low as it is at present. The Loop Pond, near Port Day, is practically dry, while the rocky bottom of the entire channel from the head of Goat Island to the Falls is plainly visible from the shore.

The records show that on March 8, the level was nearly a foot under normal, but whether this would account for the low water condition is unknown. Niagara State Reservation officials were unable to shed any light on the question, since they have not kept water level records in the channel for many years. It has been suggested that the lower level in the Upper River would, because of the slope, make the river below that point much lower, but no figures are available to prove the point.

The Weather

The rainfall during March 2.63 inches. Of this amount almost two inches fell during the heavy snow storm of the 8th and the two following days. It is worthy of note that March is the only month since last July that has had an average amount of rain. We have heard much about the drought in some of the south-western States. The same conditions to a lesser extent, have prevailed in other sections of the continent. Have you noticed how gently and almost unnoticed the snow has disappeared this Spring? The dry and parched earth has absorbed it, and cried for more. During the past Winter we have had 58 inches of snow. That may appear to the reader as a large amount. As a matter of fact, it is only about half the usual amount. There were only about 40 days of good sleighing this Winter. The usual number of days is 90 to 100. There were not as many below-zero days as average—only 21. The coldest day was February 1, namely 17 degrees below zero. This is a very modest figure compared with many Winters. During the month of March there was one thing that was noticeable that was the little change from day to day. The "probs" reiterated almost every day, "not much change in temperature" for the coming 24 hours and the columns of temperature figures for the month show remarkably few fluctuations.—W.P.

Faifthful Old Car Will Get Burial Just Like Horse

LONDON, April 1.—So sentimentally is he attached to a thirty-year-old automobile that Dr. Francis Pearse has decided to bury it with all honors, rather than let it fall into unkindly hands.

Until three years ago Dr Pearse drove the car regularly. Now he does not want to pay garage bills for it any longer. He said:

"I have bought a plot of ground near a cemetery to give it a decent burial. I shall drive it through the city to the burial ground, where it will be broken up and interred."

BRITISH PRESS NOT SATISFIED ON R-101 PROBE

Claim Reports Fail to Relieve Doubts or Give Guidance for Future Policy.

OPINIONS VARY LITTLE.

Daily Mail Presumes No More Money Will Be "Wasted" on Such Craft.

LONDON, April 1. (C. P. Cable).—The British press to-day while readily acknowledging the ability of Sir John Simon's conduct of the investigation into the R-101 disaster, were virtually unanimous in declaring the report issued last night did nothing to relieve doubt, or furnish a guidance for future airship policy.

The report found the loss of the airship on Oct. 5, with the deaths of 48 men, was due to a combination of bad weather and leaking gas bags, and that although the flight to India was started without completing the full programme of trials, there was nothing to show that responsible officers did not believe the ship was capable of the flight.

On the point of whether the airship had adequate trials the Daily Telegraph declared: "The Air Minister and his staff should have been insistent on caution and adequate preparation." Lord Thomson, Air Minister, was one of the victims.

Reports Unsatisfactory

"Unsatisfactory" is the description of the report by the News-Chronicle, which thinks it is begging the question to say it was pure bad luck that the airship met a much heavier

DECISION MADE BY DELEGATES MEETING IN ROME

London Picked as City in Which to Study Orderly Marketing Situation.

PROPOSAL BY FERGUSON.

ROME, April 1 (By George Hambleton, C.P. Staff Correspondent). — A conference of wheat exporting countries of the world will be held in London in May, according to a provisional arrangement made to-day. A definite announcement is expected later in the day.

Hon. G. H. Ferguson Canadian Commissioner in London, and the Dominion's chief delegate at the conference being held here yesterday proposed that a formal conference of wheat exporting nations should be held to deal with the orderly marketing of the world's next wheat crop.

Suggestion Approved

The draft report of the production committee of the World Wheat Conference, which committee first heard the Canadian proposal yesterday, formally approves the suggestion of a conference of exporting countries to consider orderly marketing of the 1931-32 crop. According to the Canadian motion, this conference would comprise the Argentine, Australia, Bulgaria, Canada, Hungary, India, Poland, Russia, Rumania and Jugo-slavia and the United States would be invited to participate.

Burke May Plead Guilty To Murder

ST. JOSEPH, Mich., April 1 (C. P.). — After a conference with Fred Burke in his cell in the Berrien County Jail, Charles W. Gore, former prosecutor, announced to-day that there is a "possibility" that the notorious gangster may plead guilty to the charge of murdering Patrolman Charles Skelly in December, 1929.

Gore said he had been engaged to represent Burke, but would not say by whom he had been retained. The attorney indicated that Burke may waive examination on April 8, and then plead for mercy on the grounds that he was drunk when he shot Skelly as the latter jumped to the running board of his automobile after an accident.

CAPITAL LOSES FINE CITY HALL IN $150,000 FIRE

Seven Ottawa Firemen Fall 50 Feet Into Blackened Basement.

TOWER GAVE WAY.

Rescuers Fight 90 Minutes Before Extricating Injured Men.

OTTAWA, Ont., April 1 (CP)—A large part of Ottawa's City Hall is in ruins to-day and seven firemen are in hospital, their injuries not yet fully determined, as the result of fire which raged in the aged stone building for four hours last night. Damage to the four storey structure will likely range between $150,000 and $200,000 but there is an added, irreplaceable loss in the destruction of documentary files.

One Seriously Injured

With the exception of one man, the injured firefighters, who were precipitated some 50 feet when a massive vault fell from the top storey of the burning building, into the basement, are not believed to be seriously injured. The men were standing courageously in the interior of the structure, playing water on the flames, when a pile of heavy masonry fell from the City Hall Tower and by its great weight tore away the beams supporting the vault. The great vault and masonry fell through one floor after another and the seven firemen who had stood close by the vault, were thrown into the blackened basement, partially filled with water.

Trapped

Hemmed in by wrecked office furniture and timbers, the men were unable to extricate themselves. It took ninety minutes of incessant toil by fellow firemen before they managed to hack their way through the ruins and bring the injured men out to safety.

Hoseman Lorenza Pichette, who suffered multiple injuries to his face, back and limbs, is the most seriously injured. Lacerations and bruises were suffered by the others but it is not believed any bones were broken.

Whole Force Out

The blaze broke out from an undetermined cause around 9.30 o'clock in the engineering department offices on the top floor. Two alarms brought every piece of fire fighting apparatus to the scene but it was not for four hours, when the entire fourth floor had been wrecked by flames and other damage wrought by water and the hurtling vault and heavy masonry, that the blaze was put under control.

The stone walls of the historic structure easily withstood the flames but the interior of the building which has served the city since 1876, fell a ready prey. The fire had gained headway before being discovered and despite the fast work of firemen stationed immediately to the rear of the city Hall, the entire top floor was soon a seething mass.

Although the loss through destruction of city records is bound to be great, it would have been much heavier but for the work of civic officials and others in rushing into the burning building at great personal risk, to carry many documents and files out to safety.

The flames did not touch the richly furnished Council Chamber but a part of the ceiling fell under the load of water played on the fire. Carpets and furniture were seriously damaged. Full extent of the damage could not however, be determined last night. City officials will survey the ruins to-day before decision can be reached as to how soon the building can be made tenatable.

Man power builds cities and the Chamber of Commerce builds man power.

21 Horses Rescued By Dog in Barn Fire

WESTPORT, Conn., April 1 (C.P.)—The intelligence in a dog so often referred to as almost human, had an illustration in what "Zip," seven-year-old stable dog at the Fairfield Riding Academy in Green's Farms, did yesterday.

Unmindful of the fire which was in the stables, "Zip" by dashing in and out drove out 21 horses and a cow to their safety as his master, Richard Williams, and a helper, released them in their stalls. "Zip" would run into a stall, bark and nip at the legs of an animal and drive it out into the open.

The Academy was burned at a loss of $5,000. It was near the Fairfield Hunt Club.

McHUGH GUILTY IN MURDER CASE HANGS JJUNE 26

Amy Irish Convicted of Manslaughter, Gets Sentence at End of Assizes.

CAB CASHIER SLAIN.

Prisoner Expresses Admiration for Fairness of Courts in Canada.

MONTREAL, Que., April 1 (C.P.)—Convicted of murder after a jury of Court of King's Bench had deliberated 18 hours, Thomas McHugh alias McCaffery of Philadelphia, today received sentence of death with calm assurance and even rose to deliver a short and graceful speech. Chief Justice Greenshields sentenced McHugh to hang on June 26, just five months after Arthur G. Reid, night cashier of the De Luxe Cab Company, met his death in a hold-up, defending $14,000 of the company's money. Amy Irish, who stood trial with McHugh for Reid's murder, was convicted of manslaughter by the same verdict, and will receive sentence at the end of the present term of the Assizes.

Chief Justice Greenshields, attired in black gown, with a three-cornered black hat and black silk gloves, solemnly asked McHugh if he had anything to say before sentence was passed upon him. While everybody in the court stood, the convicted man spoke in a well modulated voice.

Admires Fairness of Courts.

"As an American citizen, may I express my admiration for the fairness of your Courts in Canada," McHugh said. "I feel that I have had a fair trial and that the jury decided according to the evidence. I am deeply grateful to Mr. Franklin, the lawyer who came to my rescue and defended me without hope of receiving a fee. I thank him for his able defence."

Then McHugh stood at attention and received the dread sentence without a quiver. Joseph McHugh, a brother of the condemned man, was in court, having obtained leave from a War Veterans' Hospital at Philadelphia to come to help his brother. In an interview, Joseph McHugh expressed his admiration of the fair manner in which his brother had been tried and a lawyer found for him by the authorities.

Joseph McHugh said that the parents of the condemned man have not yet been informed of the trouble their son is in. Both live in Philadelphia, and are over 70 years of age.

MEMBERS PLEAD FOR MORE RELIEF FOR UNEMPLOYED

Labor Members Lead in Debate on Unemployment Question.

CONDITIONS ARE BAD.

Press is Blamed for Incident in Connection With Returned Soldiers' Relief.

OTTAWA, Ont., April 1 (C.P.).—After sitting until early this morning in an effort to dispose of the supplementary estimates, Parliament to-day had only a short session before adjourning for the Easter recess. The finishing touches were put on the money bills and then they went to the Senate for its consent. The debate on the address in reply to the Speech from the Throne definitely has been adjourned until Parliament reassembles on April 13.

Faced with a dead-line of midnight, the House of Commons last night made a belated effort to apply all haste in dealing with estimates. Because the Government fiscal year ended on March 31, it was necessary to pass the money bills before that hour. Only the final stages were applied to the Bills to-day and because a new fiscal year began at midnight, it was necessary to amend the bills to make them apply to the expenditures incurred prior to that hour.

Unemployment Issue.

Warnings of widespread distress among the laboring classes of Canada, leading to riots and serious developments, were heard in the Commons yesterday. For the entire afternoon and most of the evening, Opposition members, chiefly the three Laborites, pressed the Government to renew its efforts to deal with unemployment and to continue relief payments. The votes for this purpose, they said, expired when the fiscal year ended yesterday, and no time should be lost in voting additional relief.

Because one of the Labor members, Angus McInnes (Vancouver South) lost track of time and exhausted his 40 minutes without moving a motion, the abortive debate petered out. The motion, which would have been interpreted as a vote of want of confidence in the Government, contemplates urging upon the administration the necessity of taking immediate steps to combat unemployment. No member of the Government took part or replied to the charges. When the motion was not put the House automatically went into supply and proceeded with the supplementary estimates for the balance of the evening.

A. A. Heaps, (Lab., Winnipeg Centre) seemed determined to bring unemployment formally before the House and finally succeeded. He first of all attempted to introduce the subject before the orders of the day were called but he was ruled out by Mr. Speaker Black. He succeeded when Premier R. B. Bennett moved the House into Committee of Supply to consider the estimates. This motion is the time-honored occasion for

CHIEF JUSTICE LATCHFORD ROUSED AT DECISIONS BEING METED OUT FOR OFFENSES AGAINST WOMEN

Refers Particularly to Lindsay Case Where Man Tried to to Poison Wife.

WOULD EXPOSE VAGARIES.

Claims Conviction By Magistrate Patterson in Renfrew Appeal is "a Scandal."

TORONTO, Ont., April 1 (C.P.) — Following his sweeping denunciation of a conviction by Magistrate Margaret Patterson, Chief Justice Latchford in Second Appellate Court to-day made a verbal attack on what he characterized as "the light sentences imposed by magistrates for serious offences against women and children."

"I am referring particularly," His Lordship said, "to a case at Lindsay reported to-day, in which a man who pleaded guilty to trying to poison his wife three times was given suspended sentence."

"And then," he added in caustic vein, "this magistrate kindly advised the husband to live with his wife for a while. It is about time we had a magazine like Truth here, to expose the vagaries of magistrates."

This declaration was made on the appeal by W. B. Common on behalf of the Attorney-General for Ontario against the allowing of an appeal by the County Court Judge at Renfrew of a conviction imposed by Magistrate McGregor at Pembroke.

Decision "A Scandal."

Appearing in Second Division Court earlier, Mr. Justice Latchford denounced a conviction recorded against Clara Murphy on a charge of theft by Police Magistrate Margaret Patterson. He allowed the appeal of the accused and termed the decision of the magistrate as "a scandal."

"There isn't a shadow of doubt that this woman's appeal should be allowed. She should not have been prosecuted, and certainly never convicted. It was a scandal to convict under the circumstances, His Lordship added.

The charge arose following a complaint by George Glover, who testified at the trial he had rented two rooms from the appellant at $4.00 each per week. He had paid $10.00 down, he said, and had not received his change.

SIX BEING HELD IN TENDLER CASE

Chicago Police Confiscate $25,000 Worth of Narcotics During Rails.

ONE WOMAN IMPLICATED.

CHICAGO, Ill., April 1 (C.P.) — Moving swiftly to round up the slayers of Max Tendler, who was shot to death on Monday night, Federal and city police to-day claimed to have arrested five men and a woman, who, they said, were members of a narcotic ring operating in many of the principal cities of the United States.

The officers said they confiscated narcotics worth $25,000 in the raids.

Police named one of the prisoners, Dominick Condi, 39, as leader of the national ring. It was in his apartment—only a block from the Uptown Street intersection at which Tendler was shot down on Sunday evening—that they found a .45 calibre revolver which, they said, had been recently fired. This was immediately sent to Ballistic experts to be checked with the bullets taken from Tendler's body.

JOKERS FULL OF FUN 'N PLAY FOR 'TIS APRIL FOOL'S DAY

Practical Jokers Have Field Day—Revival of Ancient Customs.

WATCH YOUR STEP

Surprising how many of our holidays and days of celebration depend upon pagan traditions. Easter, Hallowe'en, Friday 13th, Thanksgiving Day, and others of lesser importance have all been handed down to us by ancient Darwinians.

And from that source we also have to-day, All Fool's Day.

By calling it All Fool's Day, we do not necessarily mean that we are all fools; the day should have been called the Day of All Fools. Such a name would have come nearer to the truth. But why choose only the first half of the first day of April? There are 364 other days in the year that might also be used.

There has been no record ever uncovered to show when, where, why and how this day had its origin. It is certain, however, that it started so long ago that the date doesn't matter; that it was known in nearly every one of the older countries of Europe and the East, particularly in India and England; that fools, (the ancient model, who was all dressed up in funny clothes, not the modern edition) had to have a day when they could run riot and strut their stuff to the public at large; that they celebrated very like we do to-day, only they could afford to go a good deal farther with their jokes.

Feast of the Asses

In Rome they used to have a feast around about the first of April. They called it the Feast of the Asses, and it was always well-attended by the Patricians, the Plebs having no rights in France they call those who "bite" on some wise-crack a

Freight Handling Is Back To Normal

LONDON, April 1.—(A.P.)—Freight handlers in London railway terminals who during the past few days have looked like actors in a slow motion picture, resumed work at their regular speed to-day.

In protest against wage reductions ordered by the National Railway Wages Board, approximately two thousand laborers adopted a "go slow" policy, working strictly according to safety rules.

The "go slow" protest failed, however, when it did not result in a sufficiently slower movement of perishable freight. After a night-long meeting they decided to abandon the policy and to try to make up for the difference in wages by earning the bonuses offered for faster work.

Price Of Natural Gas To Drop In Hamilton

HAMILTON, Ont., April 1 (C.P.). —The cut in the price of gas announced by the Dominion Natural Gas Company will be made as scheduled, T. H. Simpson, solicitor for the company, announced to-day.

The proposed legislation introduced by Hon. Charles McCrea cannot affect the company's plans, the lawyer contended. The cut in price was announced before the legislation was introduced and the law cannot be made retroactive, he intimated.

Thus the price of natural gas will become 25 cents per thousand cubic feet as announced previously.

MANAGUA Nicaragua, April 1. — Stunned by the destruction of their city by earthquake and terrified by constantly recurring tremors, the people of Managua feverishly carried on rescue work to-day against terrific odds.

The day broke bleakly in the stricken Nicaraguan capital with fire still raging in many sections of the city.

Estimates of the dead from yesterday's shocks and flames reached 1,000. The number of injured tentatively was placed at 2,000. The entire population of about 60,000 was homeless. Hardly a building remained standing. Fire threatened to complete the catastrophe.

Two Small Permits All March Building

The extent of the stagnation into which the building trades have sunk this year is further emphasized by a comparison of figures available today at the City Engineer's office. March showed only two building permits issued to a value of $145 as against 14 permits to a total of $29,-80. in the same month last year.

Building for the three months of this year totals $16,670, less than a third of the same period in 1930, when it reached $50,190.

Ferguson Received By Pope Pius At Rome

ROME, April 1.—(By George Hambleton, C. P. Staff Correspondent.)—Hon. G. Howard Ferguson, Canadian High Commissioner to London who is attending the World Wheat Conference here, and Mrs. Ferguson to-day were received by the Pope in private audience.

"It was merely a courtesy call," Mr. Ferguson said afterwards to the Canadian Press. Afterwards he would pay his respects to His Holiness on behalf of the Dominion, Mr. Ferguson said.

54 Births Registered During Past Month

March was just a normal month so far as births, marriages and deaths were concerned in Peterborough. Births numbered 54, a decrease of four from the same month in 1930, and an increase of 11 over February. Marriages showed the upward trend which will culminate in June, 19 couples joining the wedded ranks, as against 20 last March, and 16 in February.

Deaths showed an increase over March of last year, there being 44, an increase of 13 over March, 1930, and eight more than in February.

JUDGMENT IS RESERVED IN O'KEEFE CASE

St. Lawrence Hotel Proprietor Appears Before Magistrate Payne in Campbellford Court.

WITNESSES EXCLUDED.

Charged With Transporting Liquor Contrary to Ontario L.C.A.

CAMPBELLFORD, April 1 (By Examiner Staff Correspondent).—Judgment was reserved yesterday afternoon in the Campbellford Police Court, when Neil O'Keefe, proprietor of the St. Lawrence Hotel, Campbellford, appeared before Magistrate G. A. Payne, in answer to a charge of transporting liquor contrary to the L.C.A. D. J. Lynch of Campbellford handled the prosecution, and A. Cochrane of Cobourg acted for the defence.

Chief G. C. Bromley, in his evidence, stated that on March 4, between midnight and 1 a.m., he was on Bridge street with Constable G. Hardy when a car was observed to drive into the backyard of the St. Lawrence Hotel. Making a short cut to the yard, they both looked into the car and saw four cases of beer. They waited by the car for about 20 or 25 minutes, when they saw O'Keefe come out of the back of the hotel.

He first opened the sample room door, then came over to the car and opened the left door and folded up the front seat and lifted up one case of the beer. He, the Chief, then approached him from the back of the car, and he put the case down. He did not take it out of the car. When asked to whom the beer belonged and what he was going to do with it, O'Keefe stated that it belonged to R. Neill, a butcher, and that he was going to put it in the sample room room overnight because it was late and he did not want to wake Neill up. Chief Bromley stated that later O'Keefe told him that the beer belonged to Harry Lowery. The Chief and Constable Hardy then seized the cases of beer in the car and took them to the police station, following which a charge was laid.

Examined by Mr. Cochrane, Chief Bromley stated that both Neill and Lowery had seen him on March 1st, and it appeared that the beer belonged to them. He denied saying that if the permits had been brought to him, no charge would have been laid. Questioned by Mr. Cochrane as to the events of the night in particular, he stated that he was not watching the hotel for any particular purpose. He saw the car drive into the yard and went to see whose it was. When O'Keefe came out of the hotel he was standing behind the car. It was a bright night with snow on the ground.

Questioned as to why he laid the charge, Chief Bromley said that it was because the defendant had told him two stories, first, that the beer belonged to Neill, and after that it was the property of Lowery.

Original Withdrawn.

Mr. Cochrane asked why the orig-

CRANBERRY BOGS YIELD ENZYME

Discovery Gives Animals Immunity Against Pneumonia of Lungs.

NEW ASPHALT FIND.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., April 1. — (C.P.).—In peat from the Cranberry Bogs of New Jersey the Rockefeller Institute has found an enzyme giving animals immunity against one form of pneumonia of the lungs.

Asphalt can now be produced simultaneously with gasoline in the same cracking still.

Both the pneumonia and asphalt discoveries were reported at the American Chemical Society meeting here.

Enzymes are best known as the essentials in digestive fluids. The peat enzyme digests part of the pneumonia germ, especially his protective overcoat or "capsules"—enough of it so that the body's natural defence against disease do the rest.

The discovery is a new field for developing immunity, but has not been brought to the stage of human use, it was reported by Dr. Oswald T. Avery of Rockefeller Institute.

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, Apr. 1. — Managua, razed by earthquakes, was being burned over today by a fire which as fast as checked in one quarter veered with a fickle wind and spread to other sections. The city will have to be entirely rebuilt.

With detachments of the United States Marines and the Nicaraguan National Guard maintaining martial law, all available man power was mobilized to fight the flames, and take dead and injured from the ruined residence sections.

It was impossible to place an accurate estimate on the number of dead, but between 500 and 1,000 persons are believed to have been killed and 2,000 wounded in the shocks, eleven of which occurred in the short space of two minutes before noon yesterday.

The shocks recurred throughout the day at 9:30 p.m. Another severe tremor shook the city, bringing down buildings about the heads of rescuers and further frightening the panic-stricken population, most of whom were camped in parks and on the shores of Lake Managua.

So far as is known there is not a habitable building left in the once beautiful Central American city, the second in size in the Republic. President Moncado himself abandoned the National Palace for a tent. Both British and United States Legations are in ruins.

No Water Available

There is no water available for drinking purposes or fighting the flames, the tremors having broken the water mains and flooded the streets, while a landslide covered the pumping station on the edge of Lake Aossosca. The Central American Power Company station was not damaged and will furnish limited street lighting to-night. The greatest loss of life occurred in the National Penitentiary, were at least 150 persons were killed when the walls and ceilings of the building tumbled about them. Many Nicaraguans were killed in the public market place and two Nicaraguans National Guards were burned to death while attempting a rescue.

Distribution of food was taken over by the United States Marines, whose officers requested Washington to cancel orders withdrawing them from Nicaragua in order that they may cope with the situation created by the 'quake. President Moncado, in a public statement congratulated and thanked them for the splendid work which they were doing.

The President issued the following decree:

"A state of siege (martial law) has been declared in the Department of Managua. The Director of the National Guard (officered by United States Marines) will undertake the task of caring for the people and guaranteeing property. Food will be purchased at the expense of the Government and distributed gratis. Committees will be organized to relieve the poor and suffering."

Only One City Suffers

Although most of Nicaragua felt the 'quakes, which occurred with deadly suddenness just after ten o'clock, only Managua suffered any real damage. Granada, Massaya and Corinto, port and terminus of the railroad in Managua, were not hurt, but it is possible that some mountain villages with which there is little communication were damaged.

A complete check of casualties will not be possible until the blaze has been quelled and rescue squads have a chance to dig through the debris of the city, if then. Many bodies are buried beneath the crushed adobe walls, and many injured imprisoned in the debris probably have been killed by the flames.

The Marines, in taking charge of the situation, issued orders that individuals caught looting would be shot on the spot, but no looting or depredation has been discovered. Colonel F. L. Bradman is acting in charge of Marines, and General Calvin Bruce Matthews of the National Guard.

The Marine Corps barracks was turned into a large hospital and refugee camp. Fifteen hundred persons came there early in the night and were cared for. Families of United States officers remained there all night, there being no place at all available for them in Managua. It was regarded probable that all United States women would be taken out by airplane to-day, either to Panama

MACDONALD HEADS FOR LOSSIEMOUTH.

LONDON, April 1.—(A.P.) — Premier Ramsay MacDonald to-day left Hendon airdrome by plane for Lossiemouth, Scottish fishing village, where he was born, to spend his Easter vacation free of Parliament worries.

The most strenuous item of his program is golf but when he returns to London he must face, April 16, in the House of Commons, a motion of censure by Conservatives on the Government unemployment program.

Turkey will intensify its good-roads campaign this year.

THIEF RANSACKS PRINCES' ROOM

Buenos Aires Arrest Argentine Friend of Visitors as Suspect.

JEWELRY RECOVERED.

BUENOS AIRES, April 1. (CP)—The newspaper Critica says the bedroom of Prince George at the Embassy was ransacked on the night of March 14 and personal jewelry of considerable value stolen.

Since Prince George and the Prince of Wales left for Brazil, the newspaper said, police have recovered the valuables and identified the thief. As yet unnamed, he was said to be a prominent young Argentine who had been so friendly with the royal visitors that his presence at the Embassy was not considered suspicious.

The Prince of Wales and his brother were attending the British Empire Trade Exposition during the time of the purported robber.

ESTIMATES CUT BY $23,000,000 WANT ECONOMY

Public Works Lead in Big Cut With Drop of Over $2,000,000 From 1930.

SALARIES REDUCED.

No Department Misses in Reducing Expenses to a Minimum.

TORONTO, April 1. — Economy which did not miss a single department or branch of the Henry Government is written in large letters in the main estimates of the fiscal year beginning next October 31, which were tabled in the Legislature yesterday. Compared with the main estimates of the present year $23,000,000 less is shown than were voted last year. The estimates this year total some $52,000,000.

With public works, education, and the Attorney-General's Department leading the way, the estimates for the administration of the 20 departments and branches show substantial reductions. Even the Lieutenant-Governor has received a cut in his allowance for light, heat, and water, his total being reduced by $3 000.

Education is down slightly more than $500.000. This was accomplished by reductions in the salaries of all the masters excepting principals of the Normal and Model Schools, and drastic revisions of expenses. Allowances for travelling and boarding expenses of students in the northern schools were chopped in many instances by 33 per cent. The item for the Monteith Northern Academy dropped from $25,500 this year to $10,000 next year, and other institutions fare accordingly.

Huge Cuts Demanded.

The entire estimates bear marks of the Premier and the Provincial Treasurer having borne down on the departments and demanded huge lowerings of the amounts which could in any way be reduced. Even applying to the session of the Legislature, messengers, and elevator men and other incidentals are chopped from $37,500 to $25.000. Stationery and incidentals dropped from $10,000 to $5,000. The Legislative Committee loses half of its usual $3,000 utilized for art purposes.

Despite a lopping of $18,000,000 from Hydro and the lowering of all departmental figures, other items have caused increases which, it is evident, the Premier and Treasurer are determined will not increase the eventual amounts. Increased expenses because of the creation of a new department of welfare and elaboration of departmental staffs to care for

DEPUTIES VOTE CONFIDENCE IN LAVAL

PARIS, April 1 (A.P.).—The Chamber of Deputies this morning voted its confidence in Premier Laval, 326 to 242, when the Premier made rejection of a budgetary amendment a question of his Government's existence.

The Opposition in the Chamber wished to incorporate in the Budget an amendment for increased credits for war prisoners, which the Senate previously had rejected.

With a small but representative mmebership the Peterborough Chamber of Commerce accomplished wonderful results in the past. A larger membership is required. The Association must be adequately financed if it is to function to the credit of the city.

The Chamber of Commerce, having close affiliation with Provincial, National and International Chambers of Commerce is the only body so constituted that it can quickly develop the opinions of business and professional men and logically present their views to Government.

Optic Blackened; Girl Art Student Has Swain Jailed

NEW YORK, April 1—With her eye blackened, Miss Hayriet Price, twenty-one-year-old art student, appeared Monday in Night Court as complainant against Charles Foster of Torrington, Conn.

She charged Foster, visiting her apartment, had struck her. Foster admitted it. He said he had visited the young woman, apologized for an old quarrel, and left her home in fine spirits. Then he visited a friend, and found Miss Foster's name in the friend's address book. He returned and the quarrel followed.

Foster was held without bail for sentence.

CASTLE'S APPOINTMENT IS SEEN AS LIFT FOR ST. LAWRENCE SEAWAY

New U. S. Under Secretary of State Well Acquainted With Canadian Affairs.

NEXT TO STIMSON.

WASHINGTON, D.C., April 1 (By Ken Clark, C.P. Staff Correspondent). — The appointment of former Assistant Secretary of State William R. Castle as Under-Secretary of State, places as next in command to Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson, a man who as head of the division for Western European affairs has had oversight of the relations of the United States Government with Ottawa.

Mr. Castle has been particularly interested in the development of the St. Lawrence Seaway, a fact recalled upon the announcement of the appointment by President Hoover whose desire to get ahead with that project is common knowledge A couple of years ago Mr. Castle paid a visit to Montreal and addressed the Canadian Club on the St. Lawrence. His speech was criticized in Congress by those who at that time represented a fairly strong faction pushing for the so-called all-American Waterway through New York State. This faction has since lost ground

It is pointed out here President Hoover has now in Ottawa as Minister, Col. Hanford Macnider, as an Iowan, a powerful advocate for the waterway, and as Lieutenant of the State Department, a man well acquainted with Canadian affairs and the people of the Dominion. When Prime Minister Bennett was in Washington Mr. Castle was frequently in his company.

British Flier Seeks Record To Australia

LYMPNE, Eng., Apr. 1. — (AP) — Charles William Anderson Scott started at 4:55 a.m., today on a solo flight to Port Darwin, Australia, to attempt to break the nine day record held by Wing Commander Charles Kingsford Smith.

Scott's Gypsy Moth plane was fitted with extra tanks of gasoline.

DOG-BAN POLICY BEING ABANDONED

Government's Move Follows Meeting of the Conservative Caucus.

ONE SECTION SPECIFIED.

TORONTO, April 1.—The Ontario Government has abandoned, for the time being at least, its policy of a total ban on the use of dogs in hunting deer, moose and caribou.

Amendments to the game laws, which Hon. Charles McCrea, Minister of Mines, brought down to the Legislature late last night, provide for abolition of the use of dogs in that section of the Province lying north and west of the French and Mattawa Rivers, including Manitoulin Island, but permit continuation of dog running south of the French and Mattawa.

Modification of the Government's original Province-wide ban is said to have followed the caucus which the Conservative Party held yesterday noon, at which a number of sportsmen members are said to have stood solidly behind the expressed views of their ridings, and to have protested enactment by legislation of any such policy.

Universities of England are to be hold a wrestling tournament, the prize being a cup presented by the Japanese Ambassador.

Vote In Thuringia Blow To Hitlerites

WEIMAR, Germany, April 1 (C.P.) —Fascist rule was ended in this middle German State of Thuringia today, when the Thuringian Parliament voted non-confidence in Wilhelm Frick, Minister of the Interior and National Socialist Party leader in the Reichstag, and also in W. Marschler, Vice-President of the Thuringian Government.

Thuringia has been the chief stronghold of Adolf Hitler and the vote to-day was the heaviest blow yet sustained by Hitler's party.

MAJESTIES WILL GO TO WINDSOR

King and Queen Spend Easter and Following Weeks at Castle.

USUAL CUSTOM

LONDON, April 1 (By Thos. T. Champion, Canadian Press Staff Correspondent) — Following their usual custom, Their Majesties will spend Easter, and several weeks after, at Windsor Castle. They are expected to leave town for Windsor to-morrow. On the same day the Duke and Duchess of York and their children, and Princess Mary and the Earl of Harewood and their two sons, will join their Majesties at Windsor. The Duke of Gloucester, who is at present on the staff of the 2nd Cavalry Brigade, is likely to join the family party also.

The presence of the Court at Windsor on the day of the National Census (April 26) will mean the addition of nearly 100 persons to the 100 who permanently reside within the Castle walls. The King and Queen, their suite, and the servants of the household will, therefore, be officially added to the normal population of the Royal borough. So will any guests who happen to be staying with them. The King of Spain was included in the Census at Windsor Castle 10 years ago. King George will fill up a form similar to that supplied to other householders in the British Isles.

Some interesting renovations and improvements are being carried out at the Castle. The famous Van Dyck room has been entirely re-decorated; the Royal billiard room has been enlarged and modernised; and some of the apartments in the Victorian Tower and on the south front of the Castle have also been re-decorated and improved.

The work on the interior of the Royal Mausoleum at Frogmore—which has been in progress for two years—has also been completed.

The Van Dyck Room

The Van Dyck room is one of the State Apartments to which the public are admitted when the Court is not in residence. When the Court is at Windsor, it is sometimes used as a drawing-room for evening receptions. When furnished for these occasions it is considered to be one of the most beautiful rooms in Europe. This room has been entirely re-decorated and it is more imposing than ever before.

Valuable additions have been made to the furniture in this apartment during the present reign through the presentation to King George by Lord Rothchild and his brothers of two tall cabinets that formerly belonged to Queen Henrietta Maria. Both cabinets bear the initials "H.M.R."

The Van Dyck room also contains pieces of silver furniture of great interest and value. Nearly all the pictures in the room are original Van Dycks, and the others are copies from the Artists' Works.

The Royal billiard room, which is situated near the entrance to the Grand Quadrangle, has been enlarged and modernised. It has been entirely re-decorated, and the lighting has been brought up to date. This room is in great demand during Ascot Week, when Their Majesties entertain a large number of guests for the races.

MEMBERS PLEAD

members to bring up almost any subject of grievance.

Conditions Worse Now.

Parliament should not adjourn for the Easter recess without adopting some means of replenishing the money voted for unemployment relief which lapsed automatically yesterday, declared Mr. Heaps and his two Labor confreres, J. S. Woodsworth, (Winnipeg North-Centre) and Angus MacInnes. Unemployment conditions were worse at present than when the money originally was voted, declared A. W. Neill (Ind., Comox-Aberni). Reserve supplies of money in the hands of the municipalities had been exhausted by the emergent conditions of the winter. Some municipalities had stretched their resources to the limit, borrowing money in some cases to meet the distress conditions. It was not to be expected they would do so again.

'What is to happen after to-day when the relief is cut off?" asked Mr Woodsworth. Unless something were done by the Government, there would be riots in some cities within two weeks. Although he admitted it was not a cure for unemployment, he suggested to the government it give thought to a scheme of insurance to be brought in at the proper time.

All the National resources of the country should be mobilized to deal with the economic conditions facing Canada, Mr. Heaps asserted. "What is needed are concrete and definite proposals. The fine words and nebulous phrases of the speech from the throne will not fill an empty stomach."

Food Centers

Establishment in every city of distribution centres for food and other necessities of life, was advocated by William Irvine (U. F. A., Westaskwin). The trans-Canada Highway should be built at once and if the Government had no ready money, treasury notes might be issued, to be redeemed when better times came around.

A former Minister of Labor, Hon. Peter Heenan, suggested the appointment of a Royal Commission to investigate wages paid under the unemployment relief scheme. In some sections of Northern Ontario "starvation wages" had been paid by the Provincial Government, in contravention of the terms of the agreement made between the Province and the Dominion, which called for the prevailing rate of wages.

Two Quebec Liberals, Dr. J. A. Denis and Martial Rheaume said the Bennett Government had failed to implement its pre-election promises. Only a few days ago, 2,000 men walked to the Montreal City Hall in search of food. Did this look as if the Government had ended unemployment, asked Mr. Denis.

It was nearly 9.30 o'clock when the House turned to the estimates. The first real snag was encountered when an item of $90,000 for additional unemployment relief for returned soldiers came up for discussion. R. W. Gray (Lib., Lambton West) asked the Premier why the relief payments for veterans had been cut off by Hon. Murray McLaren, the Minister. This had not been done, the Premier declared; the whole incident had been misunderstood. The Minister's statement to the press on the incident had been misinterpreted.

Did the returned soldiers in the Cabinet agree to the temporary suspension of the payments? Mr. Gray wanted to know. When no answer was given, Mr. Gray asked if no Minister was permitted to speak. Major C. G. Power (Lib., Quebec South) asked the same question. Mr. King said the impression was abroad that individual Cabinet Ministers were not free to speak, that they were nonentities. Mr. Bennett declined to reply to the language used by the Liberal Leader.

The item finally passed after Major Power said the Government had been forced to rescind its suspension order by a wave of protest from all parts of the country. This was denied by the Prime Minister, the Opposition was attempting to make political capital from the incident.

ESTIMATES CUT

the change added to the difficulty, but have been overcome by the cuts.

Public works led the big cuts with a drop of more than $2,000,000. This included even main office reduction in amounts allowed for expenses from $94,000 to $84,000. Just ten per cent. of the amount previously allowed for upkeep and additions to public buildings is granted, the total dropping from $2,364,000 to $241,000 for 1932.

The department of mines takes a drop of approximately $80,000. Administration of justice suffered a big decrease. Osgoode Hall will have to be heated and kept in repair for $3,000 less than in previous years. Magistrates and judges will receive their expenses and supplies from a sum just $10,000 less than this year. No lowering, however, is shown in salaries in this end of the department.

The vote for the department of public welfare was first set at $11,589,375, but is now only $3,540,375.

When the estimates for the department of education were under consideration, Louis Cote (Cons., Ottawa East) made a plea for changes in the Assessment Act to give Separate schools a share in the school taxes paid by large corporations, and was assured by Premier Henry that the department of education was giving the matter every possible consideration. Owing to many difficulties in the way, however, nothing more could be done at present.

Of the main estimates those for the departments of lands and forests, public welfare, education, health, public work, attorney general, totalling more than $32,000,000 were passed.

JUDGMENT IS

inal charge, laid on March 11, had been withdrawn and another issued on March 12, intimating that this had been done after information had been gained to the effect that the first charge would not stand. Magistrate Payne interrupted here, stating that he was responsible for the altered charge.

Again questioned by the defence lawyer, Chief Bromley stated that he did not see anyone get out of the car, but on O'Keefe's own admission he knew that he was the driver. He also stated that he had seen the permits.

Magistrate Payne: "Do I understand that O'Keefe took Neill home first before driving to the hotel with the beer?"

Chief Bromley: "Yes, that is what he told me."

Constable George Hardy was next called, and questioned by Mr. Lynch gave evidence corroborating that of Chief Bromley. He stated that he was at the side of the car when O'Keefe came out. He saw him, through the window, put his hands on a case of beer, but did not see him lift it. He had not waited, but walked round to the other side of the car where the other two men were.

Questioned by Mr. Cochrane about the position of the Chief, he stated that Chief Bromley had stepped out when O'Keefe had opened the door. He was sure that the Chief was beside the defendant when he was at the door. He could have seen O'Keefe lift the beer through the door window. He was sure that the Chief met defendant as he opened the door. He further stated that he knew that the beer had been obtained from Belleville, Lowery and Neill driving there with O'Keefe, where the former caught a train for the United States.

Asks For Dismissal.

Mr. Cochrane, addressing the Magistrate, asked that the case be dismissed on the grounds that no evidence had been submitted to prove that what the cartons contained was beer or intoxicating liquor. Also no evidence had been submitted to show that the said beverage had been purchased from a vendor at Belleville. He also stated that the liquor had not been shown in court and that there was no evidence to show that it was liquor within the meaning of the Act.

Mr. Lynch pointed out that both witnesses had sworn that it was beer that had been seized. Magistrate Payne, however, reserved judgment on the objection.

Mr. Cochrane advised the Magistrate that he would let the case rest as it was on the strength of the objection.

Mr. Lynch was permitted to ask one question of Chief Bromley, subject to the objection of the plaintiff, which was to inquire what the cases contained. Chief Bromley stated that the contents were bottles of Budd-weyser ale, two cases of which were exhibited in court.

CANADA'S LIQUOR BILL.

Rev. A. J. Irwin, acting secretary of the Ontario Temperance Federation, declares that Canada's liquor bill during the past year reached a total of approximately $200,000,000, and there is no reason to doubt the accuracy of this estimate, which is based on the reports of the various liquor boards and commissions.

Probably half of that sum has gone into the treasury of the Dominion and into the various provincial coffers, and to the extent that it supplied funds that would have had to be taken out of the pockets in some other form of taxation cannot be regarded as an economic waste.

But allowing for that fact, there still remains an expenditure of one hundred millions on a luxury article, and the diversion of that sum from other lines of business.

The amount spent by Canadians on liquor—with due consideration for the purchases of our American visitors—is undoubtedly large enough to cause general consideration of the question, whether it is good business or sound common sense to plunge so heavily into the buying of something that at its best is a luxury.

Such a situation cannot be dealt with by prohibitory laws, but surely something can be accomplished by intelligent, educational efforts and by appeals to the common sense of the people.

BRITISH COLUMBIA'S NEW TAX.

The British Columbia universal income tax measure, which aroused such a storm of protest when it was announced by Minister of Finance Jones some weeks ago, has been considerably modified as a result of the general disapproval with which it was received.

In its new form, which becomes effective to-day, the levy is a one per cent. super-tax on salaries and wages, but the exemptions have been materially altered.

When first announced the tax was to have applied to all wages in excess of $12 a week.

Now the super-tax is to be levied on salaries of $15 a week or more in the case of single people and of $25 a week and upwards in the case of married persons or widows or widowers with dependent children.

The tax is to be deducted from all pay envelopes or pay cheques whether paid weekly, semi-monthly or monthly, and must be paid on each individual week or period of six consecutive days.

A person working only a few weeks in a year must pay on each week just as the individual who has steady employment.

Under this measure an unmarried worker earning $20 a week would have to pay twenty cents a week tax, or a total for the year of $10.40.

The Government expects to raise from this tax and from a tax of one-quarter of one per cent. imposed on corporations an additional revenue this year of $2,500,000.

PARLIAMENT'S TALKFEST.

Canada's Parliament will adjourn to-day for the Easter recess, and will start in on April 13 just where it is leaving off with the debate on the Address in reply to the Speech from the Throne.

This verbal battle has been going on for several weeks without contributing in the least to a solution of any of the grave problems with which Canada is confronted at the present time.

Beyond giving the politicians a chance to fill a few pages in Hansard to send home to their constituents and affording an opportunity to pay off old scores and take a few swings at political foes, the debate has been meaningless and without value.

Nothing that has been said up to the present or that will be said when the controversy is resumed after the recess will help to sell a single bushel of Canadian wheat, bring about wider markets and better prices for other Canadian products or furnish a solitary Canadian who is now out of work with a job.

That is the big difference between politics and business—and that is why, too, most people are satisfied that Canada's affairs could be run more quickly, more cheaply and certainly more efficiently with a smaller Parliament.

The House wastes so much steam at the beginning of every session that there is hardly enough left to complete the run.

CAMPERS THE CHIEF CULPRITS.

Campers and hunters who frequent the forest regions of Ontario evidently have a lot to answer for, according to the annual report of the Department of Lands and Forests, which shows that 76 per cent. of the forest fires in Ontario last year were caused by the carelessness of campers.

Altogether there were 1,402 fires in Ontario forests in 1930 and 711,800 acres were burned over during the year.

The Government has been doing its part to protect the provincial forests by providing a modern fire detection and fire-fighting force which makes effective use of aircraft in its battle against the scourge of forest fires.

The thoughtlessness of campers and sportsmen, it is evident from the figures given, has offset to a great extent the effect of this modern equipment and has resulted in a totally unnecessary destruction of forest wealth.

There is something wrong when carelessness on the part of those who are in the woods for their own pleasure is responsible for three out of every four forest fires.

Men who take a pride in their knowledge of woodcraft and of a campcraft should surely be careful in the matter of camp fires, but apparently many of them have been neglectful to a degree that has resulted in a vast amount of waste that could have been averted by ordinary care.

"THE BLOWS OF SOUND."

In hat modern Babylon which we call New York we find a greater noise and confusion than in any spot on earth. The word babel, so often on our tongues, still has some historic significance in its association with the confusion and noise of cities. We confess to being optimists in respect to what homo sapiens is accomplishing, and will accomplish, in his pilgrimage on earth. Yet in his devotion to the god of Speed, and in his amazing sufferance of the evils spilt out by the god of Noise, he permits the existence of two noticeable blots on what he proudly notes as "civilization."

It is a cheering indication of progress, however, that the noisiest city on earth has resolutely set itself to the task of mitigating one of its greatest evils. The first Anti-Noise Commission in the United States was appointed last year, and has recently published its findings. And the response which has been elicited from other cities is a welcome indication of better things. Sporadic attempts have been made before along this line; the International Labor Bureau not long ago issued a publication on the evils of noise, and from time to time writers have inveighed against the growing menace. The dweller in a huge modern city, his ears battered by a continual din of screechings and roarings, his nerves unhinged, his mind confused, escapes for a brief surcease of his sufferings to country solitudes, and

"Silence, like a poultice, comes
To heal the blows of sound."

Who can over-estimate the injury inflicted on man by this ceaseless battery of sound? A great German philosopher declared that "noise is the murderer of thought," and its effects, so marked in the physical and emotional nature of man, are no doubt paralysing sometimes to his intellectual work.

The commission comments on some of the evils of loud and continual noise. It impairs the hearing, interferes with the efficiency of the worker, leads to a neurasthenic condition, interferes with sleep, and, generally, plays havoc. In an interesting tabulation of noise complaints, traffic noises (trucks, automobile horns, whistles, etc.), comprise thirty-six per cent. of the objectionable noises; transportation (street and subway cars), sixteen per cent.; then come radios (homes, street and stores) with twelve per cent. The investigations have been carried out comprehensively and with scientific precision.

Amongst the experiments were some in determining the effect of noise on mental efficiency. Fifty subjects were given a reading task. The introduction of a noise caused an increase in breathing and a lessening of speed. As to the result on the ear it has been shown that the New York automobile drivers are becoming hard of hearing and the same thing is true of boiler workers and riveters. The effect of constant noise, says the report, is "disturbance of the blood vessel apparatus and the increase in the degenerative processes of the heart and arteries." Comparative tests of the vocal efforts of the animals in the Bronx Park Zoo and New York street traffic resulted in the statement that a tiger from Bengal could roar indefinitely without attracting the auditory attention of the passers-by. Happily a welding process has been discovered which seems likely to displace the work of the riveter in the erection of the huge skyscrapers.

In the study of automobile horns and radios thirty-four different types of horns were observed, and motor driven horns appear to be the worst offenders. There is strong denunciation of the practice of tooting their horns to call the attention of people for whom they are waiting, and of all unnecessary blowing of motor horns. In regard to radios in the house the Board of Health has now adopted a clause which prevents inconsiderate people from disturbing the "comfort, quiet or repose of persons in therein or in the vicinity." For a month a campaign was made to educate radio listeners in noise etiquette. They were asked as a matter of good sportsmanship to tone down their loudspeakers so as avoid annoying their neighbors, with some good results. There must be many walls so thin as to justify Mark Twain's observation on one occasion, that he "could hear the young lady in the next room changing her mind." We shudder to think what must be the suffering from a radio going full blast on the other side of such a wall.

If our civilization is to prove itself worthy of such a high-sounding name certainly the time has arrived to begin the suppression of such unnecessary roars, shrieks and squeakings as we now endure without protest. We are here mercifully delivered from many of the deafening noises that afflict New York. Yet street cars, automobile horns and loudspeakers invade our peace, and so we are thankful that a campaign has been started which will help to make the world pleasanter for those who believe that a reasonably quiet life is a delectable thing.—Ottawa Journal.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

From the consumers' viewpoint, the only thing wrong with that Hamilton gas war is that the former will eventually have to pay the cost of the fighting.

CHAPTER XXI.

THE DEVIL BOX WORKS MAGIC.

The unexpectedness of Dirk's rush carried him through the small group of savages who were on that side of Lorraine, and enabled him to reach her before the surprised Indians could close in upon her. At the same moment the other white men, led by the stocky form of Powell, with the towering figure of Red Jim beside him, and the rest of the rescuers formed like a narrow wedge, ran at full speed and hit the group of red men on the other side of Lorraine.

The impact of this human wedge against the mass of Navajos was so sudden and powerful that it carried the white men to the girl's side, where they surrounded her and Dirk. So far they had used only their fists and clubbed rifles. Red Jim's flannel skirt had been nearly torn to pieces, and his hairy chest and thick arms, corded with mighty muscles, showed why several savages who had been struck by him, would never go on the war path again.

Not to be cheated of their victim, and roused to the most insane pitch by the ceremonies of the evening, the Indians let out a wild war whoop that echoed and re-echoed against the surrounding walls of stone, as they started to rush the small group of determined men faround Lorraine. Alive to the situation, Powell barked out:

"Shoot! And shoot fast! Then break for camp!"

Instantly the sharp crack of the Colt six-shooters and the steady roar of the high-powered Winchester rep ating rifles was heard. The bullets cut a swath directly before the white men, and as Dirk cut the thongs holding Lorraine, he seized her in his arms and with the others started on a dash for the rocks sheltering their encampment.

Even after the destructive fire of the rescuers, it would have gone hard with them but for the powerful blows of Powell, Red Jim and Dan, who again led the retreat with clubbed rifles swinging. In this manner they were able to reach their camp, where Hine and Rockwell, who had gath red the horses together at the first sound of trouble, were now crouched behind the natural barricade of rocks, covering the re reat with a steady and well directed rifle fire.

As Kent's party reached the shelter, they turned and poured a withering fire into the advancing swarm of screaming avages who, under the fearless leade - ship of old Scarface had followed them closely. This temporarily halted them, but immediately, at a signal from the shaman they dropped to the ground and commenced a slow and stealthy advance on hands and knees, keeping themselves fully protected behind small rocks and depressions in the ground. Now and then the fire lit up the scene sufficiently to enable Powell, Dan and Red Jim to glimpse a swarthy body slipping from stone to stone, and on such occasions their rifles cracked in rapid succession. But the other members of the party did not possess the trained eyes for such shooting, and could not, indeed, even catch a sight of the dark-bodied Indians.

Between shots Powell explained the probable Indian tactics to the others.

"They'll slip up almost to us," he said breathlessly, "and then rush! We haven't a chance in a thousand Kent, take three horses and go down the trail with Dirk and the girl! Nobody will see you! Red Jim go with them. Dan and the rest of us will hold them here as long as we can!"

Before he had finished speaking, his rifle roared again, and this time a dark body leaped into the air and sank into a heap. Almost instantly, however, there came a volley from the foe, and Minor staggered back with a bullet in his shoulder, while a horse reared onto his hind legs and plunged to the ground dead.

Powell turned upon Kent angrily.

"Get started!" he said.

But Kent was staring at his helpless right hand and at Powell's words he looked up with a queer smile.

"They aren't here."

"Aren't here! Who? Dirk and Lorraine?"

Kent nodded.

"It's no use, Powell——"

Moore's sharp whisper interrupted.

"I'll try to slide along behind the rocks and go back——"

"No!" Powell cried. "It's no use! Either they're been killed already or they've got away and hidden. In either case, you'd be spotted and blotted out. Besides—you're needed here. We've got a little advantage. They're in the light of the fire; we're hidden. We may be able to be away on the horses—"

There was another fusillade from the white men and a swift return from the Indians. In the darkness Hines doubled up against a rock and slid slowly to the ground. Powell was heard to mutter a curse and wipe his hand across his cheek. Then he gave a short laugh.

"I got old Scarface, their leader, that time, I think. That'll stop 'em a minute."

It did. There was a pause and in the accompanying silence of uncertainty something strange occurred.

From the woods behind the red men came the clear notes of a bugle sounding the charge. The sound turned them al to images and they listened, startled confused, unbelieving. Had Washington responded? Were the cavalry here? But how had they reached the woods, unnoticed, when there was only the one trail up—here beside the camp?

Again came the trumpeting call of the bugle. All the Indians rose slowly, and stared, as did the white men, toward the spot when the sound came. At that instant there issued from the trees the stalking figure of Silver Tongue, carrying a brown box in his arms. In a dignided, impressive silence he strode toward them, until he reached a spot midway between the two conflicting parties. Here he paused slowly, turned his back on the whites and faced his brothers. His look swept their faces and then touched the fallen figure of old Scarface.

"Scarface is dead. Now Silver Tongue shall be the shaman. Silver Tongue shall be the medicine man, the most powerful among you. Silver Tongue shall tell you what you must do. Silver Tongue—because he is the next in line, and because he has the magic devil box."

Carefully he placed Red Jim's radio on the ground, turned the knob, and once more was heard the clear ringing notes of a caviary bugle sounding the advance. Overawed the red men stepped back. What magic was this? Silver Tongue straightened and folded his arms proudly. The music changed to the crashing notes of a military band. Terrified, the Indians listened. Silver Tongue waited until the piece was finished and the last sound of the rolling drums died away then he bent and twirled the knobs. A man's voice boomed out on the air, then a woman's sweet contralto, and the confused squeaks and squeals of static. Silver Tongue silenced the box and faced his people once more.

"This is a devil box. It is Silver Tongue's devil box. It contains all sounds—as you have heard. It holds singing of gods and goddesses and cries of departed spirits. It also holds all knowledge. In the small space of this box are gathered tidings of all the world. The knowledge that is gathered in this tight, small space leaps the longest lakes and the highest mountains, so that Silver Tongue knows secrets none other knows. The devil box has told Silver Tongue that the white man's father in Washington is sending troops—soldiers—here to-night. They are approaching over the sands now. There are many of them and they will look with unfriendly eyes at the guns of the Indians."

Uneasily the red men stirred. Silver Tongue's calm was undisturbed. He spoke again, authoritatively.

"Pick up the body wherein Scarface once dwelt. Let us withdraw to our kivas with our dead. Let us leave the white men in peace."

Still the red men hesitated. Fury had not yet died in their breasts, wild hatred in their hearts. Here were white men, white men who had snatched away the girl that knew too much white men who had killed Scarface their honored leader, white men who were few in number. And here was Silver Tongue—young Silver Tongue—doing tricks. Were they tricks? Or was it magic? Was Silver Tongue to be feared? Or laughed at. While they hesitated another Indian stepped forward and faced his companions. H wa middle-aged, thick-set, fierce—and he spoke in a rapid, vehment way. Silver-Tongue had been to the Government School and was not, therefore, one of them. He was not justified in assuming the leadership. He was not qualified to speak orders to them all. He was a raitor. It was he who had shielded the white girl that knew too much. He was an outsider. He was on the side of the whites. Therefore, he was no longer one of them. Let them tak no heed of his words. Let them not believe him or his devil box, which was only a white man's trick. Let them make war—as Scarface would have them make war—first against the treacherous Silver Tongue and then against the white men.

There were mutterings and murmurings of approval throughout this spe ch and at its conclusion some one sounded the war cry. But, before they could gather together for a fresh attack, there came from far below on the desert, the challenging sound of a bugle. Louder and louder it came, accompanied by a good American cheer and, soon the clattering sound of many horses' hooves was heard on the stony trail. The Indians stood paralyzed. Silver Tongue faced them smiling proudly.

"Silver Tongue's devil box speaks the truth. Silver Tongue also aspek the truth. Now will my brothers give their ears to my words?"

"Better late than never," Powell muttered to Dan.

In silence the Indians melted into the blackness of the night. Soon only Silver Tongue was left. Behind him up the trail came, loudly now and clearly, the sound of approaching cavalry. Powell went to meet them, holding a handkerchief to his cheek. Rockwell bent over Hines and, with Red Jim's help, administered first aid. Ashton was tending Minor. But Senator Kent stepped up to the statuesque Indian.

"Where are they?"

Silver Tongue met the white man's eye steadily.

"Silver Tongue has kept his word to the white man. Will the white man keep his word to Silver Tongue?"

"Certainly," Kent replied. "You saved their lives—and ours too. But I can't dig into my pocket yet because my right wrist is broken. Take me to them and Lorraine will give you your money herself."

Silver Tongue nodded.

Following the soft, light tread Kent came upon them far back among the trees, where the still brilliant glow of light from the fire cast a fitful light upon their faces. They wer by a spring, Lorraine flat upon the ground and Dirk kneeling beside her. He wet his handkerchief and gently washed the stain from her face but as Kent and the Indian came noiselessly up he lifted her gently in his arms, cupping her face in his hand with a passionate tenderness that brought tears o the father's eyes.

"Lorraine! Lorraine—my dear—my darling——"

"Dirk——" Her hand strayed to his hair and caressed it softly. "It was an adventure, wasn't it?"

He nodded.

"Beautiful and terrible. But it's over now, dearest. The troops are here. You must forget it."

"I don't want to forget it—entirely, Dirk." She lifted eyes filled with a lovely shy light. "Only I don't like adventures where I keep losing you, man dear! Let's go home—and—and—try another where we'll alway be together."

THE END

What To-day Means To You

"ARIES"

If April 1st is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 8:30 a.m. to 11 a.m., from 2 p.m. to 3:30 p.m. and from 7:45 p.m. to 9 p.m. The danger hours are from noon to 1:30 p.m. and from 5:30 p.m. to 7 p.m.

The astrological signs of April 1st denote exceptionally favorable conditions for all those interested in finances, and whilst values may improve, losses, from unexpected causes, may be changed into profits. All social activities, too, will be crowned with success.

A child born on this April 1st will, and not without reason have exalted ideas about what t can accomplish. It should not be thwarted in its ambitions, as, if permitted to follow its bent, a very successful and meritorious career can be anticipated for it.

You, if born on April 1st, are gentle and kind, but resolute and firm. Force is not your method, and by forbearance, diplomacy and tact you achieve victory, whereas harshness and severity would only spell defeat. Of course, you are persistent, and never let go until you have won out.

Your mannerisms are extremely cordial, and your personality, although not of magnetic force, seeps in and leaves an indelible impression. In you tastes you are artistic, although you rarely lose sight of the practical side of things. You are a lover of sports—though not an active participant—and are well informed on all questions of a social or political character.

Your presence livens up any gathering, and your companionship is always eagerly sought. Deservedly popular, you yet are modest and never suffer from a swollen head. You get all the enjoyment you can out of life, and earnestly try to give pleasure to others. You are much attracted by the opposite sex, and your style will be temporarily cramped by one or more infatuations. These will run their race, and when you finally settle down to married life, your former experiences will teach you to steer a safe course, thereby ensuring domestic felicity.

WHAT IS THE AMORC?

Editor of The Examiner,

Dear Sir,—May I be permitted in asking the readers of The Examiner what any may know of the Rosicrucian Order (Amorc) located on the Pacific Coast? I understand it is not a religious society, that is, non-sectarian. I would indeed appreciate further information from the readers pertaining to this philosophical organization which one hears of quite frequently referred to by the unusual name of Amorc, and also referred to as an unique fraternal order.

Thanking you for the opportunity of the use of this valuable space, I am,

DEER HUNTING WITH DOGS

To The Editor of The Examiner,

Dear Sir,—In your paper of Thursday, March 26, 1931, I came across an article on page one under the heading, "Deer Hunters Oppose any Change in Laws to Prohibit Use of Dogs."

I am a hunter, not a butcher, so I'd like very much to say something about the use of hounds. I wonder if Mayor Robson, of Guelph, considers it sportsmanlike to chase deer off a point or island into the water where a hunter is waiting to butcher the deer, or to be sitting beside a runway and have the hounds bring the deer right past him where it can't be missed.

It takes a hunter to hunt a deer by following its track to where it is lying down and get a shot at it before it sees him. Three years ago a party of fifteen American hunters were hunting in the vicinity of the Pickerel River. They pulled out with fifteen bucks and the same day eight does came floating down the river. You may form your own conclusions.

I have seen American tourists hunting ducks and partridges during the month of August with silencers. What is wrong with our game wardens? I know of dozens of lakes that are netted out by Finlanders.

These are the real wolves that are killing off our deer and not the four-legged kind. I had my eye on six deer all winter and although there were lots of wolves around them, they were not bothered.

Thanking you,

Sudbury Hunter.

A REPLY TO MR. BURNHAM.

Editor of The Examiner.

Sir,—According to some economists our present ills are caused by overproduction. This is true in regard to the almost daily contributions of J. H. Burnham, whose latest effort headed "The Reconciliation" is the silliest of a long list of similar nonsense. Mr. Burnham either does not take enough time off from his letter writing to read the daily papers or he assumes other people don't read them, or else he reads into the news just what he wants to find. Then he hails the Baldwin-Beaverbrook reconciliation as a sign that Canadian agricultural products will be shut out from the British market, whereas as a matter of fact it means a policy of barring foreign products from the British markets with a quota plan or preference for Empire products.

And then he goes on to say that Canada does not appear at the World Grain Conference in Italy. Everybody else but Mr. Burnham knows that Hon. G. Howard Ferguson was at the head of the Canadian delegation that represented this country at Rome. Why waste valuable space in your paper with stuff as unreliable as this typical specimen of Burnham bunk?

SIGNS OF SUMMER.

"Behold the fig tree, and all the trees; when they now shoot forth, ye see and know of your own selves that summer is now nigh at hand." Luke 21.29 and 30. (Read Luke 21:5-9 and 28:33.)

Meditation

Dr. Howard Bliss said that nowhere in the world does spring come with such a rush of splendor as in Syria. It was now thi Syrian spring. Jesus pointed to the trees breaking into leaf as a sign that summer was at hand. By like signs the disciples were to know the approach of the great summer of the Kingdom of God. We have heard often enough "Lo, here" and "Lo, there" as though some man or some sect had the secret of the Kingdom in its keeping. "Go ye not after them." When summer is near we won't need to be told. It will not be local or secret but "every eye shall see." So through the long winter of the world we wait and watch and work and pray. But it is surely coming, that great springtime of reviving rushing life, heralding the summer which will follow after.

Prayer

O Thou Who art the Light of the world, the De ire of all nations and the Shepherd of our souls, let Thy light shine in the darkness that all the ends of the earth may see the salvation of our God. Amen.

Famous Old House In Wreckers' Hands

ST. CATHARINES, April 1 (C.P.)—Workmen to-day started to wreck the old Stephenson house, a famous summer resort for southerners after the American Civil War, but which ceased operating as a hotel 32 years ago. For a few years it was used as the home of De Mill Ladies' College, but when Ridley College was burned 27 years ago it was taken over and was used as temporary quarters until the new Ridley College was erected on its present site. For several years later it was operated as a macaroni factory. The site is to be cut up into building lots.

CANADA BISCUIT PROFITS INCREASE 40% DURING 1930

Bond Interest Earned Before Depreciation in Year—1931 Starts Well.

DOLLAR VOLUME OFF

Canada Biscuit Company has called its annual meeting for March 31. No financial statement is likely to be made public. Since the merger of the constituent companies in 1926, no earnings figures have been issued to the public. The Financial Post understands, however, that despite the depressed business conditions of 1930 the company continued to show earnings gains. Profits were approximately 40 per cent. ahead of 1929 and, before charging depreciation, the company earned an amount slightly in excess of bond interest requirements. Thus, for the first time since the merger, bond interest did not prove a drain upon the company's working capital. This substantial improvement in the company's position was effected chiefly through greater efficiency in merchandising and economy in manufacturing, as the dollar volume of sales was reduced by reason of lower selling prices and a considerable cut in Western business.

Eastern Business Holds.

Eastern Canada business held up approximately to the 1929 level despite lower average prices but the agricultural crisis in the West was reflected both in sales and profits in the prairie province sales districts. Two of the large Eastern units, McCormick Manufacturing Company and Montreal Biscuit Company are understood to have shown higher profits than in any year since the merger and higher than the average of the last three pre-merger years. Gains in profits of the Eastern units alone was about 60 per cent.

Bonded indebtedness of the company was reduced during the year by about $80,000 though the purchase of outstanding bonds with sinking fund moneys. As bond purchases were effected at below par, the company's surplus account was the beneficiary by a substantial sum.

Sir Joseph Stamp To Visit Dominion

LONDON, April 1 (C.P. Cable). — Sir Josiah Stamp, great economist and financier, sailed for Canada today to head the enquiry into grain marketing in the Dominion. He expects to remain in Canada until the early part of May.

"I am going partly for an Easter holiday," Sir Josiah told the Canadian Press before leaving London, "and also at the request of the Canadian Prime Minister and Government to assist them with advice concerning wheat questions."

LIGHT DECLINES TORONTO LIST

Slight Trading Volume Due to Lack of Public Participation on Market.

OIL SECTION RAGGED.

TORONTO, April 1 (CP). — Prices were inclined to follow the line of least resistance on Toronto Stock Exchange this forenoon. This was due more to the lack of public participation, however, than a concerted drive to depress the list. Volume throughout the entire board at a low ebb. Price fluctuations were confined for the most part to small fractions.

Golds were firm throughout with the majority showing fractional advances over the close last night. International Nickel slipped slightly and Noranda added a small amount to the last close. The former sold at 17 5-8 and Noranda went at $24.75 nearing noon.

Oils presented a ragged front with British American, Supertest, International Pete and Crown Dominion showing losses, and British American held around 12.

Interlisted shares were lower with Bell Telephone, Ford of Canada, Walkers, Brazilian and C.P.R. dropping small fractions.

Liquor were firm. Steels failed to move either way with any deliberation.

Martial law was in operation. A lack of water through a break in the water system handicapped the fire fighting. A scarcity of foodstuffs brought about by the demolition of the business section added to the privation. A scarcity of medical supplies existed.

Red Cross Formed

A Nicaraguan Red Cross was formed to aid relief work. Thirty Nicaraguan doctors came from Corinto, Chinandega and Leon to assist.

The only buildings of importance left standing were new structures reinforced by concrete. The front of the Presidential Palace was intact, but the rear part of the building was sliding downwards. Two of the three Managua banks were completely destroyed. The Anglo-South American Bank was dynamited by soldiers before the fire reached it, and the Anglo-Central American Commercial Bank was burned to the ground.

The Hotel Lupone, headquarters of Pan-American Airways was one of the first structures to go. Airport Manager Harry Rammer was in the office when the tremor was felt and rushed outside as the walls caved in. The United States Legation was burned and its entire files destroyed.

All communications were severed except those of the Tropical Radio, operating from a plant outside the city. Railroad tracks circling the town were suspended in air at places due to landslides, but the railroad was open from Corinto to Asosoca station, about eight miles from the city.

RAILS DECLINE TO NEW RECORDS

Balance of New York List Groups Following Railroad Lead Turn Heavy.

FOUR POINT LOSSES.

NEW YORK, N.Y., April 1.—(CP)—The stock market greeted the new month and the second quarter with a slow decline. Renewed selling of the rails, putting half a dozen prominent carriers into new low ground for the year, found other groups heavy, but trading throughout the list was very dull.

Losses in the rails ran from 1 to 4 points. Industrials and utilities, as a rule, yielded more grudgingly, although the chemicals were weak. Steels did not like the reduction in ingot output during the past week and showed general recessions from the previous close. Oils found little comfort in another gain in crude production. Coppers were dull.

Rails making new minimums for the year or longer included New York Central, Delaware and Hudson, Southern Railway, Illinois Central Common and preferred and Southern Pacific. New Haven lost 4 points and Reading, Union Pacific and Southern Pacific about 3.

LEADING GOLDS STEADY TO-DAY

Kirkland Lake Advances Six Points at 90 in Heavy Demand.

NORANDA STRONG.

TORONTO, April 1 (CP).—Higher-priced gold stocks retained yesterday's advances in the forenoon session of the mining market to-day, but chief interest was displayed in the cheaper golds which enjoyed several significant advances.

Kirkland Lake gold met heavy demand and was up 6 at 90 by noon. Northern Canada advanced 5 to 49, and Columario, Big Missouri, Premier and Sisco were up two or three cents apiece. Teck Hughes and McIntyre lost a little ground but Dome was 10 higher and balance of the dividend-payers steady with last night. Eldorado softened to below $1 around mid-day. Arno firmed a fraction but Barry, Murphy, Central Pat and Brownlee were easy in the penny section.

Noranda displayed renewed strength, price moving up nearly a point to $25.50. International Nickel was off 20 to $17.55. Pend Oreille and Ventures gained 4 apiece to $1.49 and 69, respectively.

Cheaper oils were a quiet group with Homestead, off another 19 to $1.25 under profit-taking showing the only important change.

WHEAT MARKET DROPS IN CHINA

Lower Price of Australian Cereal Practically Shuts Canada Out.

TOKYO, Japan, April 1 (By Percy Whiteing, C.P. Staff Correspondent). —Australia has so far this year proved to be a formidable competitor of Canada in selling wheat to China, owing to the extraordinary depreciation of Australian currency. In fact, Canada has been practically shut out of the Chinase market in this commodity, for the reason that the Australian cereal can be delivered in Shanghai at from $2 to $3 per ton c.i.f. cheaper than Canadian wheat.

It is learned from a source of unquestioned authenticity that in January and early February Australian shippers contracted to ship in the neighborhood of 100,000 tons of wheat

MINING BRIEFS.

TORONTO, Ont., April 1.—(Special to Examiner.)—Profit-taking and decrease in demand was reflected to-day in some irregularity among yesterday's features in the gold and allied groups on the mining market but the major part of advances were retained with a firm background and a few of the lower priced stocks continued to display strength.

That a good portion of the accumulation which has been responsible for the latest action in gold stocks is attributable to interest in New York is clearly shown by the tone of brokers letters from across the border which go so far as to call the current movement "gold stock craze." Lack of buoyancy in industrials has undoubtedly sponsored this renewed attention to the gold mining industry, though professional interest also gets considerable credit for exciting the demand.

This is evidence clost study of the situation with regard to Canadian gold producers has been made in many quarters, but the tenor of some dispatches circulated in the United States indicates some of the news has been secured from careless sources. A sample of the rather broad statements is contained in a survey of mining market conditions sent out over the week end which states "the discoveries at Noranda at depth have encouraged the belief that rich deposits of gold exist below the 1500 foot level all the way from Kirkland Lake camp in Ontario to the Rouyn area over the Quebec border. While a number of companies have sought to develop mines in the country between these two camps even the most sanguine operators hardly hoped for a development as favorable as this.

Legislation to conserve the natural gas wasted in large quantities in the Turner Valley is being seriously considered by the Alberta government. At a conference recently held in Edmonton between Premier Brownlee and representatives of various oil companies plans for adequate restrictive measures were discussed. The government is reluctant to inflict undue hardships, but feels some steps should be taken to stop a daily waste of gas which amounts, in round figures to 400,000 000 subic feet or more per day. Sapawe Lake gold has outlined a lenticular vein about eight feet wide with a northeast strike, according to officials. The vein has been traced by trenching for about 800 feet, formation on the north side being quartz porphyry and on the South Keewatin Greenstone. It occurs in a shear zone and gave an assay of $10 per ton in gold, it is stated. The company, now negotiating for an option, intends to do about 5,000 feet of diamond drilling as soon as the snow has gone.

BRITISH PRESS NOT SATISFIED

wind than was expected. The enquiry, added the News-Chronicle, refrained from expressing an opinion on whether the experiment of airship travel should be continued. "What it might have said was that this specific experiment ought not to have been tried, and that some experiments are too costly for any nation to try twice" the newspaper added.

The Daily Mail expressed the presumption that no more money will be "wasted" on building such craft, "which are perilous to their crews and entirely useless for commercial traffic."

The Manchester Guardian commented: "The experience of both this and other countries suggests strongly that conflict between atmospheric conditions and the airship is full of unsuspected problems, and that as fast as one danger is realized, and, as is hoped, circumvented, another is discovered. It becomes doubtful whether we must not now reconsider our policy."

The R-100, sister ship of the ill-fatel vessel, has been lying dismantled at Cardington since shortly after her successful flight to Canada and back, last July-August.

CANADA PAYS TO-DAY

OTTAWA, April 1 (C.P.)—While there are many rumors of government financing to provide for large maturities within the next few years, no decision as to the plan to be adopted has been reached. Canada will pay off her $25,000,000 maturity to New York out of money raised last year. This loan was on of the first war loans, and was floated in 1916.

Montreal Power Firm In To-day's Trading

MONTREAL, Que., April 1.—(CP)—The list of stocks traded in shows a mixture of changes of small range for the greater part but most of the more active leaders were off slightly. The chief exception was Montreal Power which was fractionally firmer at 63⅛.

On the other hand Brazilian Traction was off ⅛ to 22¼ after opening at 5-8 while Shawinigan was under more active selling than for several days down to 64⅜ from 65 but later recovering to ¾. Quebec Power was unchanged at 45⅛ but Power Corporation yielded to 60, off ¾.

Nickel was unaffected by the remarks of the president at the annual meeting yesterday indicating that the company had been transformed into more of a manufacturing concern than a mining one. The range was narrow at 17 7-8 to ¾, down ⅛. C.P.R. was also easier, going to 40⅜ before recovering ¼.

GOODYEAR CUTS DIVIDEND

NEW YORK, April 1—Directors of Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company yesterday reduced the annual dividend of the common stock $3 from $5 by declaring a quarterly payment of 75 cents a share.

Wheat Prices Lower On Monthly Estimates

CHICAGO, Ill., April 1.—(CP)—With April monthly private crop estimates expected to make a bearish showing, grain prices averaged lower early to-day. It was expected that the figures of the condition of domestic winter wheat would range from 91 to 92.5 per cent as against a ten year average of 79.2. Wheat opened at 1-8 cent off to ½ up, and subsequently underwent additional downturns. Corn started 1-8-½ lower, and afterward declined further.

DEFICIT SOLUTION DIFFICULT TASK

Probable Outcome Seen as Increase in Tobacco, Liquor, Tea Duties.

LARGEST SINCE 1926-27.

LONDON, April 1. (By Thos. T. Champion, C. P. Staff Correspondent).—How the Chancellor proposes to meet the deficit of $116,000,000 disclosed at the end of the treasury financial year last night is naturally a matter for conjecture. The supply service estimates already published proclaim af urther expenditure of $35,000,000 and the gross deficit is accordingly increased to that extent.

There is little prospect of the Government adopting revenue tariffs. At the present the most likely developments appear to be an increase in the tobacco duties, and perhaps an increase on the liquor duties. The tea duties are probably to be restored and there are apprehensions of an increase in the gasoline tax.

Probably, too, Rt. Hon. Philip Snowden has a hungry eye upon the estate duties and surtax.

The deficit was the largest since the deficit of $183,000,000 in the financial year 1926-27.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE.

NEW YORK, N.Y., April 1.—(AP) Prime mercantile paper 2¼-2½ per cent.

Foreign exchanges steady; demand rates (Great Britain in dollars, others in cents):—Great Britain 4.85 11-16; France, 3.91¼; Italy, 5.23 3-8; Germany 23.80; Canadian dollars at 1-32 of one per cent discount.

B.C. PACKERS LIMITED

VANCOUVER, April 1.—Richard J. Gosse has resigned as managing director of the British Columbia Packers, Ltd., and has also retired from the directorate of the company. He has been succeeded in office by his brother, Robert C. Gosse, who has been general superintendent of the firm's operations.

Rumors of a pending change in the direction of affairs of the big salmon packing company have been rife in coast fishing circles for some weeks. It is reported that Richard J. Gosse sometime ago privately announced his intention to resign the managing directorship in order to devote his full attention to other personal interests.

LANG AND SCULLIN DEFEND ACTION AT AGRICULTURE SHOW BANQUET

Bid For Former's Support Made By N. S. Wales Premier Explaining Interest Default.

SCULLIN'S VIEW DIFFERS.

SYDNEY, Australia, April 1 (C.P. Cable via Reuters).—Federal Prime Minister James Scullin and Premier J. T. Lang of New South Wales sat on the same platform, at the luncheon of the agricultural show here, to-day—the day on which the State of New South Wales defaulted interest payments of more than $3,000,000 due in London on State bonds.

Premier Lang made a bid to capture the farmers' support by declaring the withdrawal of the necessary funds to pay the interest would have injured the farming community. He made a spirited defense of his decision to default.

The Prime Minister of the Commonwealth, however, spoke with considerable emotion of the decision of the Commonwealth to meet New South Wales' default. He spoke of the moral and material results that would have followed dishonoring of Government obligations.

When he entered office in 1929, said Prime Minister Scullin, the Government was confronted with a most serious position in the shape of an adverse trade balance. It would not be too much to assume that correction of the adverse balance had saved Australia from bankruptcy and financial ruin.

Premier Scullin announced that a conference on the organized marketing of wool, following the suggestion of Hon. Parker Moloney, Minister of Markets, at the Imperial Conference, would meet at Melbourne in June. South Africa, Australia and New Zealand would all be represented, he added.

Lindsay Hotelkeeper is Fined $25 for Permitting Drunkenness.

OLD SCHOOLMATES WED

LINDSAY, April 1 (Examiner Correspondence). — Charles Edward Clarke, of Kirkfield, was yesterday given suspended sentence by Police Magistrate Jordan on the charge that he did unlawfully administer or cause to be administered to or cause to be taken by Rose Clarke, his wife, a poison, namely, strychnine. The conditions laid down by the magistrate were, that Clarke secure the necessary doctor's certificate to enable him to discharge the necessary insurance regulations and get his old position back; he must report to the local Provincial police every two months; he must give half of his salary for the maintenance of his wife. It was suggested by the magistrate to Mrs. Clarke that it would be advisable for her to not take up housekeeping with her husband for four months at least to give him a chance to re-establish himself. Clarke is to provide his own bond of $1000 as surety that he would live up to the conditions imposed upon him.

County Crown Attorney in reviewing the case said that an informal commision of two local doctors, which had examined Clarke expressed the opinion that while the man was subnormal mentally and somewhat afflicted mentally he could not be committed for insaniyt. Mr. Anderson further declared that Clarke knew the difference between right and wrong. While the plea of the wife for suspension of sentence might be considered consideration must be given the safety of the wife and the safety of society. He would not take the responsibility of recommending suspended sentence to the court, but if the court in its wisdom did decide to suspend sentence, he would formally consent, but with misgivings.

Remanded Until Saturday

John Kellett, of Haliburton, who was charged with having two permits under two different names, and of having liquor illegally, was remanded until Saturday for sentence at the session of yesterday's police court.

Gives Man a Chance

George English, proprietor of the Central Hotel, which has closed its doors following the cancellation of the license by the Provincial authorities, faced Police Magistrate Jordan yesterday on the charge of permitting drunkenness about the hotel. This was the second offence, and a fine of $25.00 was imposed. The Magistrate gave the accused a severe reprimand. Anonymous letters had been sent the magistrate by parties posing as Mr. English's friends in which Mr. Jordan's judgment in the first case was criticized. In passing sentence on the second charge, the magistrate remarked, "I am going to show you that everybody is not trying to get back at you, and I will give you a chance."

Old Schoolmates Wed

An interesting nuptial was solemnized here Saturday night at the Presbyterian manse when Mr. Thomas Hodgson, manager of the Industrial Alcohols Limited plant, at Lindsay, was married to Mrs. W. M. Jones, of Rolland, Man. An interesting sidelight in connection with the marriage is that the couple were old schoolmates many years ago. Mrs. Jones returned to Lindsay to visit her brother, Mr. Wm. Cook, when the two met again and renewed the acquaintanceship of their youth. They will reside in Lindsay.

SOVIETS ACHIEVE PETROLEUM AIM

All Russian Press Boasts of Filling Five-year Plan in Two and Half Years.

72,000 WORKERS IN FIELD.

MOSCOW, Apr. 1. —(AP)— The nations which make up the Soviet Union today celebrated the completion of the five-year plan in petroleum production in two and one half years.

There was no recognition in the celegration and the newspaper articles and speeches which accompanied it, of the tremendous problem of over-production in other petroleum producing countries which has all but demoralized the world's oil market.

The newspapers devoted screaming headlines and most of their space to boasting of the achievements of the Socialistic system and featuring the Government claim to be second to the United States in point of petroleum production.

The Government announced that its production cost had decreased 39 per cent and the quality of the product greatly improved. There are more than 72,000 oil workers at present in the fields with the expectation that there will be more than 81,000 before the end of the year.

SICKNESS FORCES GANDHI TO BED

Nationalist Leader Had Only One Hours Sleep a Day in Past Ten Days.

UNDER HARD STRAIN.

KARACHI, India, April 1 (A.P.) — Succumbing to the terrific strain of the last eight weeks of political activity, Mahatma Gandhi took to his bed to-day against his wishes.

While not serious, his conditions is aggravated by a severe cold and utter physical and nervous exhaustion. His physicians and advisers say that only rest will rehabilitate him. In the last ten days the aged leader has had only one hour's sleep a day.

Petition of Mercy

To those seeking India's "great soul," the Cabinet of the All-India National Congress issued the follow "petition of mercy":—

"We hope those arranging receptions after Gandhi leaves Karachi will have some mercy on his overstrained limbs. We appeal especially to crowds at railroad stations who shout day and night to see the Mahatma, thus destroying what little rest he may be able to get on the train.

"Gandhi has been going through this program for the last ten years. Must he go on with it until the end of his days which are sure to come a few years too soon if we persist in paying him homage which lacks all consideration for his health and which, bluntly speaking, becomes nothing more than an exacting price for his leadership."

AWARDS TO SEAMEN FOR BRAVE RESCUE OF NEWFOUNDLANDERS

Members of Crew of "British Valor" Receive Royal Recognition.

RESCUE CREW "D. BAIRD"

LONDON, April 1.—(By the Canadian Press.)—His Majesty has been pleased, upon the ecommendation of the President of the Board of Trade, t award the Bronze Medal for Gallantry in Saving Life at Sea to Frank John Goodchild, First Mate; Harry James Smith, Boatswain; Harold Bernard Ammonsen, Peter Charles Donovan, John Albert Kilvert, Walter Skeggs, and James Skelly, A.M.'s., of the British m.v. "British Valor" of London. These medals have been awarded in recognition of services rendered in rescuing the shipwrecked crew of the Newfoundland schooner "Dorothy Baird." The Newfoundland Government have also awarded a formal letter of thanks t Captain H. Hopper, Master of the "British Valor."

The Newfoundland schooner "Dorothy Baird" of St. John's, with a crew of seven hands, was in distress in the Atlantic Ocean in January-February, 1930. Owing to stress of weather, her main and mizzen top-masts had been carried away and she had sprung a leak. The pumps were started, but they became choked and the water gradually gained on the vessel. For 15 days the schooner drifted in this condition until on February 10, she was sighted flying a distress signal by the "British Valor" which went at once to her assistance.

At the time the sea was very rough with a heavy swell, and a strong wind was blowing. Despite these difficult conditions, a steel lifeboat was launched from the "British Valor" in charge of Goodchild, Chief Officer, with a crew consisting of Smith, Ammonsen, Donovan, Kilvert, Skeggs, and Skelly, and the crew of the "Dorothy Baird" were safely taken off and transferred to the steamship.

Considerable risk was incurred in effecting this rescue. During the operations the lifeboat was severely damaged.

When the two men boarded the car and demanded his money, Fyfe put up a plucky fight, grappling with one man managing to put him down, but was struck over the head by the other. He relaxed his hold and the two men escaped.

First White Man Settled in Cobourg in 1798

FIRST STORE WAS OPENED IN 1802; VILLAGE INCORPPORATED IN 1837

Town Has Been Known Under Several Names—First Called Amherst.

FIRST MAYOR, WM. MELLOR

(By Bessie G. French)

TRENT RIVER, April 1.—(Examiner Correspondence)—With a present population of some five thousand people; a fine deep water harbour open all the year and with steamship connections with the principal United States and Canadian ports; and having a wide appeal as a summer and tourist resort, Cobourg the county town of Northumberland has a fine record of progression since its incorporation as a town in the year 1850.

Turning back the pages of time, some one hundred and thirty-three years, brings one to the period when the site now occupied by the town of Cobourg was an almost intraversable swamp—a swamp which was destined to be reclaimed by United Empire Loyalists, who were the original settlers.

Some time in the year 1798, Elias Nicholson took up his abode within the limits of the present town plot, and built a small cabin, which is believed to have been the first house erected in the district. This house has long since disappeared and it is not now possible to ascertain the precise spot where it stood.

The first store was opened in 1802 by Elias Jones on the road which afterwards became King street.

First Called Amherst

In the early years of its history the place was called Amherst, after Jeffry, Lord Amherst, one of the commanders of the British Army in America during the French War. The name of the village was subsequently changed to Hamilton after the township in which it is situated. The more homely name of Hardscrabble was applied to it for many years, owing it is said, to the difficulty experienced by the settlers in gaining a livelihood. This name does not seem to have been sanctioned by authority, however, and in the course of time ceased to be used.

The village was incorporated under a Board of Police, in the year 1837, by which its affairs were managed during the succeeding thirteen years. In January, 1850, the place was incorporated as a town. Nine years later Cobourg, like Port Hope, became a unit in the United Counties of Northumberland and Durham and has ever since paid an annual levy to the county treasurer.

The late Hon. George Bolton practiced law in Cobourg at an early date, and in his office students were articled who subsequently became known to fame—Chief Justice Draper and Sir John A. Macdonald being of the number. The late James Bethune, Robert Henry, Colonel Covert, the Hon. Zaccheus Burnham are also remembered by old residents as men who did their share to promote the interests of the district.

The first Mayor of the town was William Mellor, the well-known stage proprietor, and to the efforts of men of such calibre Cobourg was indebted to its early progress. At this period the town boasted a number of fine buildings, the most conspicuous of which was the Town Hall—called Victoria Hall—whose foundation was laid in the year 1856. The building was opened during the visit of the Prince of Wales in Canada in 1860, and the cost of its erection was about $100,000. It contains a commodious court house, and a large public hall with a seating capacity for nearly 1,000 people. The University of Victoria College was the most important establishment in Cobourg.

The principal industrial establishments of the town were woollen mills, car shops, a matting factory, foundries ,machine shops, knitting factory, and breweries. A considerable quantity of iron ore, pine lumber and grain was annually exported.

Some Early Settlers

The families of Colonel Bolton, the Rattans, Perrys, Boswells, McCallums, and Dumbies were among the early settlers, while Elijah Buck, made the first wagon ever to run through the township of Hamilton.

At one time it is believed the old place went by the name of Buckville. The McAllisters, Ephriam Powell, Kerrs, James King Cameron are also pioneers of the town and district. The Camerons came from Scotland in 1833, one of them shortly afterwards marrying a Miss Drean, then the belle of Toronto. Some years after his marriage Mr. Cameron fell heir to property in Scotland and assumed the name of Cameron-King.

The Cobourg-Peterborough Railway was opened to Rice Lake in 1854, but train services were discontinued by a Government inspector shortly afterwards, on account of the dangerous situation caused by the ice which each winter carried the trestle bridge away. The Marmora Iron Company bought out the railroad and kept it open during a few months in the summer in connection with a steamer on Rice Lake. The names of John Fowler and Mr. Covert are remembered in connection with this road as well as with the Millbrook branch.

Christopher Hagerman, a descendant of the first setler of that name farmed on the front road. He was warden during the year 1863.

The families of Goheen and Maybee have descendants north of the gravel road. Mr. D. McAllister who was born in the township published the Cobourg Sentinel.

JOKERS FULL OF FUN

"Poisson d'Avril," though there is no doubt that they felt like "un pauvre poisson."

The modern habit of youth on April Fool's day in asking foolish questions, and playing foolish pranks, seems to have been started in England, (which country gets blamed for a lot of nasty things). For instance, it was considered a great joke in the old country, when the male sex started to wear pockets in their pants, to tell some proud and perfumed dandy strutting merrily along Bond street, that there was something hanging out of his pocket.

The aforesaid gentleman, of course, little suspecting the customs of the day, would guilelessly look to his pockets, discover nothing untoward, and query his critics with a bland air of nonchalance.

Imagine his embarrassment when he was told that it was his hand that was out of his pocket! If they had had cigarettes in those days, that would have been the time of all times, to nonchalantly light some kind of a funny named fag.

The hardened business executive who arrives in the office with one of those "morning after" heads, sits down to his desk, and finds on the top of his correspondence, a note requesting that he call a certain telephone number, and speak to a certain Mr. Stiff, or a Mr. Fish, etc. What can a poor executive do when he discovers that he is calling the morgue or the aquarium, or the zoo, or some equally ridiculous place?

Or the hardened grocer who answers another call on the phone, only to be asked to please send four yards of bologna, or the busy housewife who is called to the door by the small boy who asks sweetly if he may cut the grass.

All this calls to mind, that one must be mighty careful on April Fool's Day. For instance, always look before you sit down; never accept a candy from a friend; keep an eye peeled on the back of your coat for bits of paper, signs, etc.; don't kick anything on the street—it might have a brick in it.

Perhaps the best plan to follow is to stay in bed all morning, looking carefully first, of course, to see if it is well bolted, and in good condition, and that no pins, needles, bricks, sand, crumbs, etc., have been placed between the sheets.

Relief Speeded Up

Relief work from without the city was speeded during the night. The U.S.S. Rochester left Panama at 7 p.m. for Corinto, and the Salians will leave to-day with a cargo of food and supplies. Twenty-four army planes were expected at daybreak from Panama, and five planes of the Pan-American Airways, which suspended regular operations to aid in the relief, are due here.

M. E. Hanna, the United States Minister, who has been in Guatemala City for the past week, is taking an airplane from there to-day for Managua to take charge of the civil relief work until a representative of the Red Cross can arrive.

In an effort to prevent spread of the blaze, which was started when short circuits developed in the wiring of several fallen buildings, army officers from the Nicaraguan Canal Survey at Granada took over the task of demolition of several structures in the path of the flames one such ordered destroyed being the Anglo-South American Bank building.

There was $500,000 in coin and currency in the bank vaults, but it was believed impossible to reach it. The National Bank building was damaged but not severely. The Nicaraguan Brewery is practically intact and is furnishing water and other beverage to victims and marines. Willard Leon Beaulac, United States Charge d'Affaires, stated that it was not safe to enter the ruins of the United States Legations.

All communications were severed except those afforded by the Tropical Radio, its Managua office was demolished by the quake, but the employees repaired to the power station three miles outside city, and transmitted thousands of words of press and urgent matter from there

"That tastes great!" said Jack • age 7 years

● Good news! Children don't dread cod-liver oil in this emulsified form

If you've ever tried to make youngsters take plain cod-liver oil, you'll enjoy reading this:

The Scott's Emulsion reporter snapped the above picture of Jack White just as this youthful boxer was getting ready to spar with his brother in front of their home, 219 Jarvis Street, Toronto. His mother, Mrs. Jean White, had told us that Jack disliked plain cod-liver oil thoroughly. And she was curious to see if her boy would like Scott's Emulsion of Cod-Liver Oil any better.

So Jack tried a spoonful for us. Then he looked up . . .

"Why, that tastes great," smiled Jack.

Pleasanter to take—but that isn't all!

Pale, thin, run-down children need cod-liver oil. Give them the pleasantest form—Scott's Emulsion.

It hasn't that strong "fishy" taste. It doesn't upset even delicate stomachs. It brings you purest, Norwegian cod-liver oil in a perfect emulsion. Easier to take—easier to digest. Assimilation is complete. So you get more good out of Scott's Emulsion and you feel the benefits quicker.

Scott's Emulsion contains no alcohol. It is rich in vitamin A, the growth-promoting vitamin that helps guard against disease. It is rich in vitamin D, the sunshine vitamin that prevents rickets. It also contains minerals that help form sound bones and teeth. So Scott's Emulsion is good for growing children, infants, nursing and expectant mothers.

Get Scott's Emulsion of Cod-Liver Oil to-day. See youngsters gain new weight and vigor. At your druggist, in large home size and small travelingsize bottles. Sales Agents: Harold F. Ritchie & Co., Ltd., Toronto.

MONTREAL PRODUCE

MONTREAL, April 1.—Butter and potato prices advanced, cheese quotations were lower, and egg prices were unchanged on the produce and dairy market here yesterday.

Regraded Eastern Townships and fresh Western No. 1 butter gained three-quarters of a cent at 32½c to 32¾c a pound. The increase in prices, it was said, was due to the decrease in the creamery stocks held here compared with last month. Stocks at the end of this month totalled 37,720 packages compared with 76,723 at the end of last month, and 33,467 on the corresponding date of last year. To retailers solids and prints were unchanged, 33c and 34c a pound, respectively. Receipts to-day were 449 boxes.

New Brunswick Green Mountain potatoes, in carlots, due to light offerings, gained 2½c at 85c per 80-pound bag, and to retailers, prices were quoted 5c higher at $1 per 80-pound bag.

Winter colored cheese lost one-quarter to one-half of a cent at 13¼c to 13¾c a pound. Stocks held here at the end of this month were 63,031 boxes, compared with 79,500 at the end of last month, and 41,343 on the corresponding date of last year. Receipts yesterday were 34 boxes.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, April 1.—Suddenly enlarged demand for May delivery of wheat turned all grains upward yesterday. The increased buying of May wheat was attributed to speculators who previously had been sellers, and who were apprehensive that supplies to fill May and June contracts might hereafter become more difficult to obtain. In this connection significance was attached to the fact, beginning to-day the Grain Stabilization Corporation would start successive ½-cent a bushel advances every ten days on No. 2 hard winter wheat until the end of the present crop season, July 1.

Wheat closed nervously unchanged to ¾c higher; corn ¼c to 1 3-8c up; oats 3-8c to 7-8c advance; and provisions varying from 5c decline to 5c gain.

The Government report on interior mill and elevator stocks of wheat came after the close, and was not a factor in yesterday's market but was generally construed as bearish concerning prices to-day. It indicated that total domestic supplies in all positions were 451,000,000 bushels, against 391,000,000 bushels a year ago.

WINNIPEG WHEAT.

WINNIPEG, April 1. — Inspired by improved export demand and a broader foreign trade wheat prices came back here yesterday to record gains of from ¾c to 1c over Mondays closing dgures.

May closed at 57⅝c and July at 59, each up ¾c, while October gained an even cent at 61¼.

Export sales overnight and yesterday were estimated at 500,000 bushels.

Some local buying augmented the seaboard house support and minor spreading operations added to a somewhat limited volume of trade.

Improvement was noted in cash wheat trading. Spreads, however, continued unchanged. Light trading featured coarse grains with prices showing little change.

TORONTO PRODUCE

TORONTO, April 1. — The local butter market continued to show strength yesterday, and prices were ¼c to ½c higher than on Monday. Trading was good, and many lots changed hands at the advance, with holders of Western supplies asking 32½c. Some poorer offerings sold slightly below the new level, but high-scoring butter commanded even higher prices than the ½c increase. Brokers quoted Ontario No. 1 at 32c, and No. 2 at 31c, with an exceptionally good demand for the lower grade, and not very much on hand. Real choice lots, is mentioned previously, were in an even higher range of prices. Brokers reported that creameries were now in the nice position of selling their churnings when packed, and gave as their opinion that Canadian creameries would be increasing their manufacture from now on.

Cream Up

Cream buyers also increased their prices to country shippers, the new range calling for 1c more on all grades. They quoted 32c for specials, 31c for No. 1, and 28c for No. 2, f.o.b. country points. With the butter market on the advance, much good cream is in demand, and there is every possibility of prices following butter to higher levels before very long.

Don't Be Skinny

Gain pounds of weight in few weeks with new IRONIZED YEAST—a special combination of dried brewer's yeast plus iron—or pay nothing

It seems almost unbelievable how fast new Ironized Yeast has added pounds of good firm flesh—on men and women, children and old people. Nervousness, tired feeling changed quick to new strength and pep; constipation, indigestion vanished.

People ask—what is the wonderful power in Ironized Yeast that has transformed sallow, lifeless, blemished complexions into fresh, smooth, lovely skin. No wonder thousands of women pour in letters praising the youthifying effects of Ironized Yeast.

Yet the answer is simple. Ironized Yeast is two tonics in one—special weight-building dried brewer's Yeast and blood-enriching, strengthening Iron. The yeast is the same used in making malt and which makes malt so beneficial. It is specially cultured and concentrated to give the utmost in flesh-producing value. Double-tested for strength, purity and potency. Used by doctors and big hospitals.

To this concentrated dried brewer's Yeast is added three kinds of easily assimilated Iron to quickly make rich, red blood and tone up nerves and muscles. By this special process Ironized Yeast is made more effective than yeast or iron taken separately. Contains no starches, flours or gas-forming fillers. That's why Ironized Yeast works so quickly. Pleasant little tablets — no nasty taste, no gas or bloating. Never spoil, safe for all.

Go to any drug store today, get a full size treatment of Ironized Yeast, and take the little tablets as directed. If after this generous trial you are not delighted with quick results, your money refunded by manufacturer.

If inconvenient to buy from druggist, send $1.25 direct to Canadian Ironized Yeast, Co., Ltd., Box 1323, Montreal, Que., Desk 2104.

A very enjoyable evening was held on Friday, when Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Sherwin opened their home to the members of the Mission Band and those who had helped with the entertainment in aid of the Mission Band held recently. The evening was spent in music, song and playing games along with progressive euchre. Mrs. Delbert Brisbin and Master Earl Radley were the winners of the game while Miss Hildred Taylor and Rozella Taylor received the consolation prizes. A box of dainty handkerchiefs and a pretty necktie were donated to the winners. A delicious luncheon was served by Mrs. Sherwin assisted by a few young ladies.

Sunday School Class Takes Charge of Regular Quarterly Review.

ABLY PRESENTED

MILLBROOK, April 1 (Examiner Correspondence) — The Boethian Bible Class, Miss Estelle Hetherington teacher, took charge of the quarterly review on Sunday afternoon, in the Saint Andrew's Church Sunday School, presenting the lessons of the past three months in a very comprehensive manner, covering them in the form of 'steps' in the life of Christ.

The 'steps' were written on a large blackboard as a guide for the members of the school generally, and the teacher, after having as a preliminary step instructed everyone present in the singing of, "Follow, Follow, We Will Follow Jesus All The Way," had this appropriate chorus sung after each speaker had completed her section of the review, with the exception of the opening part by Miss Phyllis Kidd.

Miss Kidd introduced the review with an interesting story which made an apt comparison of the daily life of Christians to a mountain enwrapped in mist. Following this introduction the review continued a consecutive story, with each member of the class taking an allotted part.

Miss Bertha Lang followed with a brief and exceptionally well presented account of the lessons on "Overcoming Temptations," and "Public Confession." Miss Ethel Davey had as her section, "Healing the Sick," and Miss Beatrice Jones, "Teaching the People," and "Fostering Good-Will."

The outline of the lesson on "Saving Sinners," was taken by Miss Anna Rowland, and Miss Francis Jones had the synopsis of, "Bearing Good Tidings," and "Enlisting Others," Miss Rena Guthrie following with "Ministering to the Needy."

"Meeting Friends and Foes" was ably covered by the teacher, Miss Hetherington, and the review closed with a chorus, "Sing His Praise," by the class.

FLORENCE McCARTHY FIRST BABY BORN IN THE TOWNSHIP OF CAVAN

John Deyell Played Prominent Part in Pioneering Township.

CAME FROM IRELAND

It was men like John Deyell, John Stewart, Arthur Graham, John Swain and Robert McCamus, all pioneers of Cavan, who shaped the history of the present township. The records left by these men give a deep insight into the conditions of the times, and the difficulties under which the early settlers had to exist.

John Deyell came from the county of Monaghan, Ireland, and settled on what is now Lot 23, Concession 3, in 1816. He brought his wife, formerly Margaret Lancashire, to Canada with him and four sons and four daughters by her. Among his descendants are 74 grandchildren and 56 great grandchildren. Mr. Deyell assisted Mr. Wilmot in making a survey of Cavan and a part of South Monaghan.

Mr. Deyell's experience was that of most early settlers—a life of toil and hardship. He has recorded that the first person born in the township was Florence McCarthy, and the first to be buried was John Hyland. The first marriage took place between Mr. McGuire and Miss McNeill. Rev. Mr. Thompson performed the ceremony and received the fee of one shilling.

Millbrook Grist Mill

The first grist and saw mill was erected by Deyell in the present town of Millbrook. The owner procured a boulder from a field, and hired a stone-cutter to dress it down to a millstone. The first church in the vicinity was erected on lot 12, concession 5, where Rev. Thompson, who had been sent out as a missionary, first preached. The district's first hotel was built by Deyell on his farm, and his famous sign which graced the front of the building for 19 years bore the motto, "Live and Let Live." Deyell also gave a grant of an acre of land, and accordingly the first schoolhouse was erected.

John Stewart was another of the pioneers of Cavan township. He was born in Ireland in 1785 and came out to Canada in his 32nd year. Stewart's recollections of the hardships of early pioneer life are very interesting. He was often obliged to walk nine miles to bring home a bag of flour on his back over a rough pathway through the woods. The old homestead passed into the hands of his son, Johnston, who possessed the first chair made in the district.

Arthur Graham, also an early settler in the district, came from Ireland in 1818 and settled on the present Yonge street, then north of Toronto. In the following year he moved to Cavan, and finally settled in Manvers in 1835.

John Swain was born in Ireland in 1788 and settled in the 7th concession of Cavan in 1820. He was a member of the Municipal Council for 26 years. He retired from public life following his long years of service, enjoying the confidence of the public and the friendship of his neighbors.

In the same year Robert McCamus came from Ireland to settle in the township, taking his opportionment of 100 acres of land. He realized an independent fortune by industry and economy, and was able to provide liberally for his children. He relates that farmers taking wheat to Smith's Creek in 1820 were told by the merchants that they could not exchange tea and groceries for wheat; that tea, etc., were cash articles; and that the grain was a drug on the market at 25 cents a bushel.

By 1850 the population of the township numbered 4,196 and in 1861, it totalled 4,901. Of these 495 were natives of England and Wales, 73 were from Scotland, and 1,181 were from Ireland. The axes of the hardy pioneers wrought a mighty change in a short space of time. All the wheat they could grow on their splendid 200, 300 and 400-acre farms was bought up at markets by keen competitors at the highest cash prices, and the sons of these early settlers, with their horses, carriages and comfortable surroundings, were the most independent men in the country.

District Churches

FENELLA UNITED CHURCH

FENELLA, April 1.—(Examiner Correspondence).—At Fenella United Church on Sunday, the pastor preached from the words, "And Isaac digged again the wells of water, which they had digged in the days of Abraham, his father; for the Philistines had stopped them after the death of Abraham; and he called their names after the names by which his father had called them." Genesis 26:18.

Rev. Mr. Paton said: "These wells had been dug by Abraham but after his death they were filled with stones by the Philistines. Later on Isaac became wealthy and he needed these wells for his flock and herds, so he had them opened. This text has spiritual worth. Very often wells meet with a similar fate, time, change or malicious mischief cause them to be sealed up and the water ceases to flow. But it is a tragic spectacle to see a human soul, no longer giving any evidence or sign of its source in God.

"Souls in touch with God have been described in His word as a 'living well of water.' But when the soul becomes isolated and estranged from God it is as a well without water. As wells may cease to flow from want of use, so those God-given capacities and capabilities within us recede and d. if they are not in use. Man is made to work, to worship, to believe in and aspire after God and nothing is so ruinous to man's soul as neglect from want of use.

"A well may cease to flow because something very offensive has been cast into it; so a human soul may be blasted and ruined by the positive evil-doing of one individual. It is possible to roll a stone against the door of some life. There are ways of avoiding these tragedies—do not neglect the soul—keep in close touch with God by regular seasons of prayer; find something active and useful to do in the Church of Christ.

"Jesus never deceived or betrayed anyone. Sometimes as springs freeze over in cold weather, so a human soul can be frozen by the coldness and indifference of the world. Jesus' mission was the one of letting loose the well of God's love in human hearts. To such a task we, His followers, are called. Just as Isaac found in the valley of Gerar the wells of his father Abraham, even so Jesus Christ found in the barren hearts of men the well of His Father, God. Although choked with sin Jesus found them and let in the mercy and love of God and set the water of life flowing in these cold hearts of ours."

MONTREAL WOMEN TO THE RESCUE

To Contest Quebec Law Which Debars Natural Child and Parents From Compensation.

MONTREAL, April 1 (By The Canadian Press)—Plaything of the Law, an aged widow waits and wonders whether the highest court in the British Empire is going to grant her compensation for the death of her son David—her natural child who throughout his life supported her. She is Mrs. Sarah Barnes.

The Supreme Court of Canada ruled that she had no right to compensation for David's death after the Superior Court and the Court of Appeal had both ruled that the Town of Montreal West was responsible and had fixed damages.

Article 1056 of the Quebec Civil Code, according to Chief Justice Anglin, debars the illegitimate child and its parents from any right to sue for damages in the event of accidental death, even where the responsibility is clearly established.

T. E. Walsh, K.C., Montreal lawyer, is at present preparing to assail that judgment and to make of the widow's claim a "cause celebre" which will be followed with interest by men of law and feminist leaders throughout the world.

It was Mr. Walsh who convinced the Superior Court and the Court of Appeal that the Town of Montreal West was responsible for death of the plaintiff's son while in its employ and secured successive awards which were later nullified by the judgment of the Supreme Court.

In carrying the fight to London he is acting at the request of a group of prominent Montreal ladies—all of them interested in feminist activities or social work—who were deeply stirred when Mrs. Barnes plight became known.

Leaders in this movement are Mrs. John Scott, Miss Idola St. Jean, Mrs. Owen Campbell and Mrs. George Preston. They have already carried their campaign overseas by writing to leading British women, including Lady Astor, Lady Hamilton and Miss Margaret Bondfield, the last-named herself a member of the Privy Council. It is felt that the support of these prominent leaders will raise strong sympathy for the plea in Great Britain.

Let's take the "fiction" out of dentifrice advertising

Do you rely on your toothpaste to do the work of your dentist?

The claims made by certain dentifrices, according to highest authorities, work great harm. Millions of persons endanger teeth and gums simply because they believe in the power of a toothpaste to cure this or that disorder.

A few visits to a dentist would undoubtedly banish the trouble. Yet months of "toothpaste treatment" can accomplish nothing.

A toothpaste is not a medicine. It is a mechanical agent and should be used for only one purpose—that of cleansing teeth. Its merit lies in the thoroughness with which it performs this single duty.

Colgate's, we claim, cleans better than any other dentifrice, because it possesses a unique property (low "surface tension"). That's how it penetrates into the tiniest crevices which ordinarily block "heavy" dentifrices.

In these minute fissures, invisible to the naked eye, food particles lodge. If allowed to remain they cause decay. Colgate's floats them away in a foaming, hygienic bath; in this manner providing the full protection of complete and thorough cleansing.

Just Between Us Women

A daily chat with Examiner neighbors conducted by Anne Wilcox

A few days ago we were discussing attractive homes and planting gardens about the home and to-day we will talk about just one room in the home.

* * * * * * *

Beautiful furniture and carpets on the floir aren't enough to make a room beautiful. There are many little details that you will want to consider, before you can look around you with self-satisfaction, and feel that everything is perfect.

* * * * * * *

Get a definite picture of the basic colors in your room and when you select the accessories and novelties that will liven it up, have as much contrast as you like, but be sure that it is harmonious contrast.

* * * * * * *

For as many tables as you have in your living room and bedroom, choose an equal number of lamps. There are so many types and so many sizes that you will find it a delightful job to make your selection, and you're sure to be fascinated by the modern types of shades and bases.

* * * * * * *

Your floor lamps should not be so generously used and should be carefully posed near chairs where reading will be done, or where you usually set up your bridge tables.

* * * * * * *

Pictures have increased in importance as home decorations, because we have learned so much about art through magazines and radio talks within the past few years.

* * * * * * *

When you are choosing your pictures, if you can't have worthwhile originals, remember that it is far wiser to have good reproductions of them than to have your walls deluged with cheap originals which have no other merit than the artist's signature.

* * * * * * *

For your dining room have one of the beautiful English sporting prints or a colorful modern still-life. For your living room, etching in black and white and color if you like, varying from portrait heads to landscapes and interesting interior scenes.

* * * * * * *

For the bedroom, French miniatures, colored etchings, and reproductions of some of the famous Old Masters are all appropriate.

* * * * * * *

You want to have plenty of ash trays around for those who smoke, and books supported by book-ends for those who read. These decorative pieces are made in so many interesting modern forms that even if your home is entirely in a conservative period style you can add cheer and interest to any corner in which you use the quaint animals, bird, fish and other motifs.

* * * * * * *

A form of very decorative and useful household accessory, particularly adaptable to the dining room is that of pewter which presents added advantages insofar as it is easy to keep clean and very inexpensive.

* * * * * * *

Pewter can easily take the place of sterling silver for effect, and decorators have gone so far as to accept it as correct for vases and flower bowls that may be used in the living room.

SERVICES HELD GEORGE STREET UNITED CHURCH

Devotional Exercises Conducted By Representatives of Y.P.S.

FOR YOUNG PEOPLE.

Rev. D. N. McLaughlin, D.D., of Toronto, Again Delivers Inspirational Sermon.

Continuing the Passion Week services, a large congregation from the six United Churches of this city, assembled last night in George Street Church for worship.

This service was especially one for young people, and the opening devotional exercises were conducted by representatives from the various Young People's Societies of the city. Homer Borland, as president of George Street Y.P.S., presided.

Opening with the Doxology, the pastor, Rev. J. E. J. Millyard, offered prayer, and a brief service of song followed.

The ensemble of the evening was built around the theme of the Prodigal Son, which story was read in the scripture lesson from St. Luke's Gospel 15: 11-32, by Charles English of Mark Street Y.P.S., and prayer was offered by Miss Constance Wagar representing St. James'.

Rev. D. N. McLaughlin, D.D., of Toronto again delivered an inspirational sermon, bringing a new interpretation to the old story of the Prodigal Son. With many personal experiences recalled from his wide social service activities, he brought a challenge to the fathers and to the youth of today.

"This passage is becoming more and more the great chapter of atonement and men are finding in it the thing that satisfies the soul. We recall the circumstances in which this parable was told by Jesus. The church of His day criticized Him for mingling with the Publicans and sinners, and this was His reply to them, but even yet we have not learned the lesson Jesus meant for us.

"The period between fifteen and twenty-five years of age is the most serious and important in life. At this time every normal boy is a rebel against social and civic conditions, and against religious conditions. But the rebellion of reflective youth will save us; for it was through such that the emancipation of slaves was brought about in England.

"The modern tendency is to find out the cause of juvenile delinquency and when this is removed the delinquency very often disappears. Here the speaker delved into his store of reminiscences to illustrate this truth. "There is no joy," he continued, "like being the secondary force behind some boy, in helping him to achieve his rightful success. This was exemplified in the life of Lloyd George, whose benefactor was his uncle.

"No boy can grow up in a city without taking on the attributes of its citizens, and any bad habits he may acquire are a reflection on these men. God help the boy who cannot go to his father for guidance in trouble during this formative period, and God pity the father who has not found the way himself.

"The boy in the parable was an unreflective sensualist, and when he had spent his all, he had no moral or spiritual support left, and was sunk in deepest degradation? What brought him to himself? The story is told that there was a third brother who pleaded with him to return to his father. At any rate, God has His own way of bringing men face to face with himself. In this case His weapon was hunger, and the boy thought first of his father's servants. We are the servants of God. When people turn to Him, do they think of us?

"Speaking of the elder brother, Dr. McLaughlin declared that a man might be in a far country, yet never leave home. This brother in his narrow mindedness, believes there is no possibility of a second chance.

"Not every story of the prodigal ends as does this parable. In some homes the memory of the prodigal is entirely blotted out except in the heart of his mother.

"If the father in this story represents God, there He is waiting to receive us, and to give to us the robe of righteousness, the ring of sonship and the kiss of forgiveness "if we but arise and go to Him."

The celebrated guest soloist, Mr. Albert E. Greenlaw, in his beautiful solo, "I Will Arise and Go Back to My Father," completed in song, this word picture of the prodigal son, while his introductory number, "The Sinner and the Song," was an appropriate prelude to the whole service.

Mr. David R. Howat, the organist, accompanied the singing throughout, and the choir was also in attendance.

The service to-night will be held in St. James' United Church with Rev. Dr. McLaughlin as speaker and Mr. Greenlaw as soloist.

SLIGHT FOOD CHANGES AFFECT THE BODY TREMENDOUSLY.

My grand niece weighed less at eight months than at birth, due to "Infantile eczema." Was plastered with ointments and unbathed for seven months—entire household exhausted from lack of sleep. I added vegetable juice to each bottle feeding, nothing more. After two days she slept fourteen hours without waking. Ointments then discontinued, baths resumed. No rash, no itching in four years since. Why? Vegetable juice alkalinized her blood, killing the acid-caused eczema. Alkaline Roman Meal has kept her blood alkaline since.

Alkaline Roman Meal also saved my life when the great Osler told me twenty-two years ago I could not live four months. Now at 72 not two per cent. of men 30 have muscles, strength or endurance equal to mine, built up out of alkaline Roman Meal. I'll send you a free booklet, "HOW TO KEEP WELL," and other literature, also sample of Roman Meal and Kofy-sub, the new alkaline beverage, if you'll write for them to ROBT. G. "I Robbed Your Dresser Drawer"

"This My Signature"

A certain city had an epidemic of house robberies in daytime. The robbers would ring doorbells and if anyone answered, they would make some excuse and depart. But, if no one answered, they would break in through a window or a skylight. One such robber left his finger print on a broken piece of glass. The police had that print on file. They knew the robber, his gang and their records. The crooks were all picked up and convicted.

All because one of them had left his finger print.

Germs in Every Print

This is told to remind you that we all leave finger prints on everything we touch. Most of these prints are germ-laden. We pick them up from others — by handshakes—by touching things they have touched. Then we convey them to the mouth, where they breed and so get into the system.

Life Extension Institute lists 27 diseases which may be conveyed in this way. The most common is a cold. A hand used to check a sneeze or a cough may convey germs to others.

We cannot escape these germs. Every hand-shake, every touch conveys them. The best we can do is to kill these germs before they reach our food.

Lifebuoy Soap is made to do this. Millions of people, in all countries of the world, protect themselves in this way. No perfume, but a scent of safety which tells you it purifies and yet disappears in a few minutes. And Lifebuoy contains a germicide. Countless laboratory tests have proved that Lifebuoy kills germs or makes them inactive.

Wash your hands with Lifebuoy often. Wash them always before eating. No ordinary soap kills germs.

Stops Body Odour, Too

Lifebuoy is a beauty soap, made from two palm oils. No soap is better for your skin and complexion. Yet it offers you supreme protection against germ infection.

Also against body odour. A bath with Lifebuoy, before you go on a party or before you start the day's work, insures you against bodily odours for many hours.

You will learn to love Lifebuoy's extra-clean scent which tells you it purifies — and protects.

Keep Lifebuoy handy on your wash basin and bath so the family can use it. Get some Lifebuoy from your grocer today.

Winnipegs Win Out In First Of Allan Cup Finals

HAMILTON TIGERS LOSE TO WINNIPEG CLUB 2-1

Western Champions Finish Second Period With Two-Goal Lead.

GOAL IN EACH PERIOD.

WINNIPEG, April 1 .— Speeding skates sounded a paean of victory last night as the red-clad Winnipeg hockey team, best in the West, outscored the Eastern champions, Hamilton Tigers, 2 to 1, in the opener of the Allan Cup finals. The battle for Canada's hockey title and the right to wear the Maple Leaf at the 1932 Olympics is a two-of-three-game series.

A rousing rally in the last half of the final period threatened to snatch impressive triumph from the wilting Manitobans. The Tigers arose from lethargic cautiousness of fifty minutes and fought ten minutes of pressing, daring, go-getting hockey. They cut down Peg's lead from two to one, but could not notch the equalizing goal.

Until disorganized by an unlooked-for recovery of the Tigers in the last period, Winnipeggers held sway by speed alone. They sent "Hawse" Marsh, Hamilton netman, sprawling to the ice time and again to save from flourishing attacks. And their back-checking speed held Tigers in their own end for most of the game, unable to attack three abreast.

'Pegs scored once in the first period, again in the second, and Tigers counted their lone goal in the third period. Studry Romeo Rivers, left winger, sent the 'Pegs ahead when he hoisted a shot into the net after Vic Lindquist had threaded through the Tigers, only to be foiled by Marsh. "Tick" Garbutt, wiry relief centre, hooked the next goal from behind the net as Marsh was flattened in a scramble.

Goal Is Protested

Protest on Garbutt's goal delayed the game for several minutes. The two officials were in disagreement. Harry Watson, Toronto, believed, with the goal judge, that the puck had not entered the cage. But Referee Alex. Irvin, Winnipeg, contended the goal was legal and overruled the adverse decision.

Gonie McGowan, clever Hamilton centre, counted the Tigers' goal with less than three minutes to go. He batted his own rebound into the cage after a scramble following a three-man Tiger sally. The second game of the series is slated for Thursday, with the third, if necessary, on Saturday.

Before the game opened, the finalists took the Olympic oath. The puck was faced off by Mayor Ralph H. Webb, Winnipeg.

Berlenbach Earns $40 by Knockout

NEW YORK, N.Y., April 1 (C. P.). — Paul Berlenbach, one-time light heavyweight champion of the world, has opened a comeback campaign with a knockout victory and earned $40 for himself.

"Oom Paul," once one of the most devastating punchers in the business, showed little in the first two rounds of his four-round match with Eddie Clark, Harlem negro, last night by a glancing left hook off the negro's chin in the third round sent Clark down for the count. Clark made no effort to rise until after "ten" had been tolled.

CIMARRON COMING

"Cimarron" at the Capital next Thursday, Friday and Saturday has been widely acclaimed as one of the season's acknowledged successes of the screen. It is the picturization of Edna Ferber's novel which for months was a leading best seller. It is the dramatic story of Yancey Cravat, editor, lawyer and adventurer in the pioneer days of Oklahoma.

Inspired, undoubtedly, by the magnificent theme of "Cimarron," the cast of this new Radio picture rises to great heights. First there is Richard Dix, giving the best performance of his career, as Yancey Cravat. No need to say more of Dix's performance, for that is something, if you see "Cimarron," you can surely attest to. Yancey Cravat's lovely, patient and courageous wife is portrayed with sympathetic skill by a newcomer to the screen. Her name is Irene Dunne and if her work in "Cimarron" is any criterion, you will see her often on the talking screen. Admirable character roles are contributed by Estelle Taylor, George Stone, Edna May Oliver, Stanley Fields, Roscoe Ates and William Collier, Jr.

Walter Huston will play the lead in "Blue Moon Murder," the S. S. Van Dine screen mystery which goes into production soon. For a time it was thought that William Powell, the Philo Vance of other Van Dine novels on the screen, would play the part, that actor recently having joined First National. Philo Vance, by the way, does not figure in "Blue Moon Murder" at all.

Sir Gilbert Parker's novel, "The Right of Way" in a screen version features Loretta Young and Conrad Nagel. Mr. Nagel, as Charles "Beauty" Steele, is the man that insidiously fascinating personality which gives him the right of way with women. Fred Kohler, William Janney, Olive Tell and Yola D'Avril are among those in the cast.

KNUTE ROCKNE WAS ON HIS WAY TO CALIFORNIA

When Famous U. S. Football Coach Killed in Airplane Crash.

MISSED SEEING SONS.

Weather Not Good as Mail Plane Starts on Eventful Trip.

COTTONWOOD FALLS, Kas. April 1. (CP)—In twisted wreckage and from cowboys who heard the dirge of faltering airplane motors, airmen and the state sought to-day the cause underlying the death of eight persons against a rocky promontory of the Flint Hills.

Cattle browsed near the debris as a coroner's jury was called into session at this city, 11 miles from the pasture where tragedy hurtled out of the sky yesterday.

Flying through murky weather on a trip that would have placed them last night in California, the two pilots and six passengers met instant death. There was no fire, indicating the transcontinental and western air pilot, Robert Fry, had switched off the engines in the last moments of despair.

Jess Mathias of Los Angeles, the co-pilot, signaled by radio a few minutes before the crash that he did not have "time to talk."

"What are you going to do?" he was asked by an operator at Wichita municipal airport.

"I don't know" Mathias answered.

Three bodies were found in the wreckage. The other five were thrown free. Knute Rockne, famous football coach. H. J. Christen and J. H. Happer of Chicago; W. B. Miller, Hartford, Conn.; Spencer Goldthwaite, New York, and O. A. Robrecht, Wheeling, W. Va., were the others killed.

A half mile from the wreckage was found a wing of the plane. H. G. Edgerton of Wichita, a representative of the air line, informed Dr. Jacob Hinden, county coroner, there was a possibility ice had weighed down the wing, causing its severance from the plane.

Residents of the vicinity, however, said ground temperatures were above freezing, and cowboys who scanned the clouds said the plane was not flying high.

Arrangements were made to take to-day to South Bend, Ind., the body of Rockne, for whom funeral services will be held Saturday or Sunday.

The 43-year-old football coach, enroute to California moving picture studios, had missed seeing by a few minutes in Kansas City two of his sons, Knute Rockne, Jr., 14, and Billy, 11. They were returning from Coral Gables, Fla., where they had visited their mother.

Afoot, horseback, and by motor car curious Kansans came from miles away to view the wreckage and to carry away pieces of the plane's fabric.

Pilot Fry, a former marine corps pilot with 4,500 hours of flying behind him, was held captive by rebels in Southern China three years ago. The crash yesterday was the third in a year in the family of his wife. Her sister, Mrs. Claire Fahy, and her brother-in-law, Herbert J. Fahy, were killed in 1930.

BELLEVILLE WILL HAVE STRONG ENTRY IN CENTRAL ONTARIO LOOP

Efforts Being Made to Re-organize Group With Oshawa, Kingston and Local Seniors.

OLD REGULARS BACK.

BELLEVILLE, April 1.— Baseball fans of this city are anxiously awaiting the outcome of the Central Ontario Baseball League meeting in Peterborough on Saturday, which will be held in conjunction with the annual O.B.A.A. meeting. Peterborough has signified its intention of again becoming a member of the loop, and if Oshawa and Kingston line up, a compact four-team group will be formed. Belleville will again have a good team, with many former players ready for duty with a mixture of youth that have shown considerable class. Point Anne, who played in the Intermediate League last year, will not have a team this year, and there are two or three men who would fit into the plans laid out by Walter Gerow. The Quinte City has won two Provincial titles, also seven C.O.B.L. pennants, and with the incentive that the winner of the Provincial title this year will be sent to Los Angeles in 1932, an extra effort will be made to land the gonfalon. The manager will have "Peeney" Mills for backstop duty, and he is one of the best amateur catchers in the Province. His brother Harry will be at firs tbase, with Vern Weir at the keystone station. Bob Scott is available again for third base duty, while a good short-stop has promised to turn out. Harold Buck, Wilfrid Cretney, Alex Weir, Johnny Leachman, formerly of St. George's in Toronto, with several youngsters, will try for the outfield berths, while the hurling corps will be composed of Alex. Weir, 'Hoot" Gibson, who pitched the Nationals to a championship in 1928; Tommy Pointer, and an Indian youth, the exact replica of Johnny Williams, who was one of the best hurlers ever turned out in the Province. The team will start practicing early next month, and it is confidently expected that four teams will face the barrier at the official opening of the league on May 24.

INDIANS ELIMINATE YELLOW JACKETS 3-1

Cleveland Sextet Score Third Victory in Play-off Series.

PITTSBURG, April 1.—The champions from Cleveland put the Pittsburg Yellow Jackets out of the title race in the International Hockey League to-night, handing the locals their fourth straight defeat in the play-offs, 3 to 1. Incidentlly, Pittsburg has not won a game in the championship play.

The Indians up to date have won three games and lost one in the play-offs, placing them at the top of the heap in the standings. The defeat handed the Jackets last night was the second at the hands of the Indians in the play-offs. Pittsburg made its lone tally in the first period this evening and the Indians scored two in that session. Cleveland added its third in the middle stanza.

Mr. Archie Campbell, who played on the Tweed hockey team during the winter season, has moved his wife and family from Smiths Falls and will reside in Tweed.

WINDSOR BULLDOGS TAKE CLOSE GAME

Keep Pace With Bisons By Beating Them 2-1 at Buffalo.

WINDSOR, April 1. — Windsor Bulldogs nosed out the Buffalo Bisons here last night, 2 to 1, in their first meeting of the International Hockey League play-offs. The result left Bulldogs and Bisons tied, with two wins and one defeat each, while the Cleveland Indians lead the parade with three victories against one reverse.

Staged before more than 5,500 fans, taxing the capacity of the Border City Arena, it was a ding-dong struggle all the way. Only two penalties were served, both of them called on the home club and neither squad could take command of the play for more than a minute or two at any stage of the proceedings. One goal was tallied in each period, with a Robinson-Brown effort breaking the tie.

Kansas City Suffers First Play-Off Loss

KANSAS CITY, Mo., April 1 (C.P.) —Kansas City Pla-Mors last night accepted their first defeat in the play-offs with Duluth Hornets for the right to meet Tulsa Oilers, leaders of the American Hockey League at the close of the season's schedule. The score, 3 to 2, left the teams tied at five goals all after three games, one of which was a tie. The two wins were split.

Decisive game of the series is carded at Kansas City, Thursday night.

WINDY CITY SEXTET BLANKS RANGERS 1-0 TO WIN ROUND

Tommy Cook Scores Only Goal of Spectacular Game at New York.

WINNERS ON ROUND 3-0.

TORONTO, Ont., April 1 (By George Maguire, Canadian Press Sports Writer). — The Black-shirted puck chasers from Chicago stand on the threshold of professional hockey supremacy to-day. Last night they vanquished New York Rangers 1 to 0, to qualify for the final series for possession of the coveted Stanley Cup against either Boston Bruins or Montreal Canadiens.

The latter two teams meet at the Forum in Montreal to-night in the fifth and deciding game for the championship of the National Hockey League, and the right to contest the cup final with Chicago. The teams have won two games apiece to date, the Bruins winning the first and fourth matches and the present cup holders, the second and third.

Setting up a record unequalled in modern hockey, black, curly-haired "Chuck" Gardner, youthful Chicago goal guardian, has proved his selection as the N.H.L.'s all-star netminder was no mistake. He blanked the Rangers in two successive games, even though he was bombarded with a fusilade of 45 shots last night compared with 16 aimed at his rival in the Ranger net.

The Hawks won the first tilt of this series, 2 to 0, and previously they eliminated Toronto Maple Leafs by 4 to 3 on the round, and in these games Gardner again stood out. ...

Shooting three sets of speedy, close checking forwards over the boards at frequent intervals, Coach Dick Irvin adopted the same tactics against the Gotham blue shirts which had been so successful against the speedy Leafs.

The famed front line of Frankie Boucher and Bill and Bunny Cook were held in complete subjection through both games. Tommy Cook notched the lone marker of last night's hard fought display when he broke away with Adams and Wentworth early in the last frame.

Rangers didn't give up then, but maintained a four and five man attack on the Chicago cage. The systemized the backchecking of the Hawks, however, frustrated their efforts.

Canadiens Injured.

Considerable doubt prevails in the Canadien camp concerning the condition of several players who were injured in the previous matches with the rugged Bostonians. Albert Leduc, rotund defence player, suffered a slight concussion in a collision with "Dit" Clapper, hard-hitting Bruin wingman, during the second game at Boston. He was injured in the game at Montreal on Monday when "Red" Beattie cross-checked him over the head and an examination revealed his jaw had been injured. Marty Burke, regular defence star, Aurel Joliat, and Pete Lepine are other red shirts on the ailing list.

The Bruin camp reports no injuries and the team in fine shape for the decisive tilt.

PICK PIRATES TO PLACE 5TH

Pittsburgh Club Looks Good But Lacks Sufficient Strength in Pitching.

PAUL WANER HAS BAD LEG.

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, April 1.—Paradoxically, there are five first-division clubs in the National League. It happens that there are only four places in the first division, so it looks as if the Pirates of 1931 will be pushed down into fifth position.

In ordinary years the Buccaneers would be up there among the money winners, but this is not an ordinary year. There is an overproduction of high-grade teams, which naturally means a fervent pennant race and a lot of feverish activity among the turnstiles.

The chief strength of the Pirates lies in the outfield. The two Waner brothers, Paul and Lloyd, aided by Adam Comorosky, form the best all-round outfield combination in the National League. They can all hit, they can all field, and they are all fast, particularly Brother Lloyd, who is a nuisance in the field and on the bases.

Paul Has Bad Leg.

Brother Paul, the elder brother, is not likely to be up to form in the early part of the campaign. He was bitten on the leg by an alligator, or a goldfish or something, in Florida, and landed in a hospital suffering from blood poisoning. He is back on the job now, doing his daily chores, but is bound to favor his sore leg for a while.

While the Buccaneer outfield is all that could be desired, the infield is something else again. Pie Traynor at third base is a great athlete and a noble influence on the team, even though he does read a five-foot shelf of books. It would be a remarkably strong infield if the rest of the boys were equal to Pie Traynor, but the sad fact remains that they are not.

Gus Suhr at first base showed flashes of greatness in the early part of the 1930 campaign and then subsided. A fair fielder and a fair hitter, and that is all.

'NEATH SUNNY SKIES

Spicy Bits of Baseball Gossip From Majors' Camps.

Joe McCarthy of the New York Yankees just about has made up his mind what he's going to do about his one outfield problem this year. At Birminghm, Ala., he has Babe Ruth and Earle Combs, of course, for two places and the other probably will be divided by Dusty Cooke and Myril Hoag, one against right handed pitching and the other against southpaw serving. If Cooke and Hoag both fail, Joe still can fall back upon Sam Byrd.

Marty McManus, veteran third baseman of the Detroit Tigers, was back in the line-up at San Francisco, Cal., yesterday after weeks spent in favoring a game leg which was injured last summer. He underwent an operation for the injury during the winter. His performance at the hot corner indicated he will be in shape to start the regular playing season.

The Chicago White Sox who have trained at Fort Worth, Tex., to-day were headed out of Texas and Manager Donie Bush, for one, was glad of it. Weather conditions which hampered practice sessions and caused cancellation of training games, have left the Sox behind in conditioning, and Bush is hopeful that the climate at Little Rock, Ark., the next port of call, will produce improvement.

Two former gridiron stars apparently have won outfield jobs with the St. Louis Browns now at Birmingham, Ala. Frank Waddey, once a football star at Georgia Tech, is certain to be retained, probably as a regular in right field, and Larry Bettencourt, who played with St. Mary's of California, although handicapped by injuries this spring, likely will be retained because of his ability to hit for extra bases.

Bad luck seems to be following Wally Tauscher of the Senators at Biloxi, Miss.

In last Sunday's exhibition game a line drive struck his foot. He took to slippers and developed a limp. Then yesterday while he was pitching to batters another hot one smashed into the injured member. He will be idle for a day or two.

Soccer gets off to a start on Good Friday with a couple of exhibition games. Switchgear Department and Machine Shop play off that C.G.E. challenge game at ten in the morning at King Edward Park.

And Caledonians and Britons get it out of their systems in the afternoon at Brinton Field. There'll likely be a bunch of stiff-legged pedestrians around town Saturday.

* * * * * * *

Max Swanston, chairman of the goodwill committee at the O.B.A.A. convention next Saturday, was observed trying to outwit a pickerel down at the old dam the other night, before the season closed for that sort of fish. We didn't hear how he made out.

The All Saints' Boys' Club is holding boxing lessons twice a week now. They've got an instructor engaged and hold classes in the club hall That's fine if they keep at it.

* * * * * * *

The same club may enter a team in the City Baseball League this summer, but just which division we haven't heard yet. More of that after April 8th City League meeting.

* * * * * * *

Efforts were made to get the Honorable George Henry to attend the O.B.A.A. banquet here and to speak to the executive and delegates, but J. F. Strickland wired that Mr. Henry could not get away at this time.

* * * * * * *

To-night the Reception and Entertainment Committee meets at Duffus' at eight o'clock to check up on everything in connection with the convention and make final plans.

* * * * * * *

There has been plenty of work done so far by the members and they'll be kept stepping the rest of the week too, but are confident the delegates and other visitors will have the time of their lives while in Peterborough.

* * * * * * *

We understand the Lock Works has promised to make a huge key with the wording on it "O.B.A.A., Peterborough," for the Entertainment Committee before the convention begins. Not a bad idea at all.

* * * * * * *

And now it looks like the East Peterborough League will soon be re-organizing again. They will operate as Intermediates the same as last year. And the Rays will likely go in with them.

* * * * * * *

Last night's meeting of those interested in the baseball situation here showed clearly that the idea of running a senior league in Peterborough was out of the question. At least for this year.

* * * * * * *

Freddie Cripps, speaking for the Cogs, said they would not consider entering as a senior team this summer. "Cack" Rogers, Raybestos representative, said that was how the Rays felt. Art Primeau of the C.G.E. team maintained the Electrics were willing to go senior or remain Intermediate, it made no difference.

* * * * * * *

"Shiner" Johnston pointed out that one senior team representing Peterborough had some show in the Provincial play-offs, whereas four or five teams here would mean there would not be a good one in the bunch.

* * * * * * *

Joe Ranger said that if all the players who promised to play senior ball for him were available throughout the summer, the Petes could field as strong a team as any other town in the Province.

* * * * * * *

While there were a few at the meeting who argued for the local senior league idea, they were outnumbered at least two to one. The big majority present were strongly in favor of having the Rangers put in the senior team in the Central Ontario League, and the E.P.L. to continue to be run as an Intermediate League.

* * * * * * *

That is likely what will be done, and it seems to be about the best thing all around. After the East Peterborough League is re-organized, the different interests may get together again, as the season is still early.

AT THE CAPITOL

"THE SILVER HORDE."

This is an entertaining picture, with lots of action and romance and emotion. It pictures Rex Beach's story of Alaska, but the silver horde has nothing to do with ore, but rather with fish. It is the silver rush of the mighty salmon, making its way swiftly over current and stream in its annual race to the spawning grounds, that makes the title of the picture and it is over fish, rather than silver, that two men battle. A very interesting portion of the picture is the delineation of methods of catching the fish, while the interior of a canning factory is shown, and all the processes that progress from the cutting off of the heads to the final completed operation, when the labelled can rolls forth.

The characterizations are immense. Louis Wolheim is as ferocious as ever, Evelyn Brent makes a wonderful heroine, Jean Arthur is her blonde rival, Joel McCrea is the hero and Raymond Hatton has one of his characteristically sneaky parts that suits him down to the ground.

The story revolves about the efforts of Cherry Malotte to put Boyd Emerson on his feet, after he drifts into Alaska—broke. The girl he left behind intervenes. She is a perfectly good girl with a nasty mind and a lovely face, while Cherry has a past and a very large heart. The story, contrary to accepted notions along this line, sees the triumph of the lady with the past. Boyd decided the future is the only thing that matters and allows his golden-haired love to slide into obscurity. It is an entertaining finale, but not especially convincing.

INTERMEDIATE PILOTS DECLINE TO ADVANCE INTO FASTER BALL

City Would Not Be Fairly Represented by Strongest Possible Team in Ontario Play-downs.

RAYS MAY ENTER E.P.L.

It was definitely decided last night that the East Peterborough League would remain intermediate instead of entering as a senior loop this summer. This was the result of the committee conference with "Shiner" Johnston and Joe Ranger of the newly-organized senior team. The latter team will be the only senior outfit here, and it will play in the Central Ontario League as in former years.

It was found at last night's meeting that most of the local managers of intermediate teams were against the idea of raising their aggregations to a senior standing. While those in charge of the present entry were also against it.

Freddie Cripps maintained that the Cogs woul play intermediate ball this summer, but no senior. The same situation existed with the Rays team, entered last year in the Lakeshore League, Wilf. (Cack) Rogers said. The C.G.E. outfit, according to Art Primeau, were willing to play either as intermediates or seniors, depending on how the others went. He claimed, and many of those present agreed with him, that it seldom happened that the strongest possible team here represented Peterborough as a senior team. However, it was pointed out to him that the same thing would be true in any case, to some extent.

Few Favor Idea

There were a few of those sitting in on the meeting who advanced arguments for the senior league idea but the majority were strongly opposed to it. "Shiner" Johnston thought the senior team could field a good strong squad without really hurting the East Peterborough League.

Joe Ranger spoke at length on why he decided to back a senior team this year, on what he hoped to do, and he finished by offering to help any Peterborough team or league in any way he could and at any time.

It was thought that after the E.P.L. re-organized, the different interests would get together again before the season started for a general talk on baseball in Peterborough this year. Any further suggestions will be taken care of at this time. So the meeting ended.

Baseball Moguls Will Pay Johnson Tribute

SPENCER, Ind., April 1. (CP) The body of Byron Bancroft Johnson, former president of the American baseball league, will rest in a cemetery on the banks of White River here, following funeral services this afternoon when the baseball world pays its final tribute.

A number of baseball executives who yesterday attended the funeral at Cleveland of Ernest S. Barnard, Johnsons' successor as American league president, were expected to attend the services here. Barnard preceded Johnson in death by a few hours.

TIGERS HAVE SLIGHT CHANCE

Uncertain Pitching and Weak Hitting Chief Drawbacks to Detroit Team.

ALL SLUGGERS GONE.

JACKSONVILLE, April 1.—The Detroit Tigers had an easy time finishing fifth last season. They were so far ahead of all other occupants of the second division that it was no contest, and for a time they gave signs of crowding into the first quartet, only to fall back again. As the Tigers stand to-day they should easily outstep the three clubs which trailed them last season, and at the same time it is difficult to figure them winning a first division berth.

They appear likely to finish fifth again, with a bare possibility of finishing fourth, but not likely to do any better than that.

Uncertain pitching has been the drawback of Detroit teams for some years past. There has not been a real pennant threat in fifteen years and they have not finished above fourth place since 1924, when the team closed the season in third place. The pitching is better now than it has been, but with the improvement in this department there has been a decline in hitting, which has brought about the same result.

Sluggers Gone

For years one thought of hard hitting outfielders whenever the Detroit team was mentioned. Cobb, Crawford and then Veach held sway for a long time. As Crawford faded out Heilmann came on to uphold the reputation. Manush came later. Fothergill, too, was a hitter to be feared, though not a brilliant defensive player. To-day Bucky Harris is trying to select an outfield from a group of fair hitting veterans and some slugging recruits from the minors.

Harris has a first class infield, or one that may be rated as above the average. It is a good defensive unit and carries plenty of hitting power. In Charley Gehringer the Tigers have one of the best all-around ball players in the game to-day. Alexander at first base, Akers at short and McManus at third are the other regulars with Mark Koenig, Joe Dugan and Marvin Owen, the last named from Seattle and an all-around performer, completing the group. Koenig has abandoned the idea of becoming a pitcher.

NOVEL WRITING CONTEST LAURELS CAPTURED BY PORT DOVER AUTHOR

Work By Adrian MacDonald, Peterboro', is Recommended For Publication.

MANY PROMISING WRITERS.

MONTREAL, Que., April 1 (C.P.)—A Dominion-wide contest in novel writing came to an end to-day with the announcement that Raymond Minister of Port Dover, Ont., has been awarded first prize of $2,500 for his winning manuscript. The book will be published by the sponsors of the contest, an Ottawa Publishing Company.

Second prize of $1,500 went to Marcus Adaney of Toronto, and Ella M. Wallis of Calgary, won the third prize of $1,000. All three books will be published in the near future.

Honorably Mentioned

Several manuscripts were thought to be of such merit that the contest judges recommended that they be published also. Included in this latter group were books by Laura Goodman Salverson, Port Arthur, Ontario; Francis Owen, Edmonton; Adrian Macdonald, Peterborough, Ontario; John J. Hodson, Montreal; Howe Martyn, Oxford England, and Isobel E. Henderson, Winnipeg.

The object of the contest was to demonstrate to Canadian readers that 100 per cent. Canadian books rank as high as those published anywhere, and that there are many potential authors in the Dominion.

TRADE PLANS ARE BEING STUDIED

Free Trade Pact With West Indies Boost Canadian Trade $13,000,000.

CONFERENCE IN SUMMER

NASSAU, Bahamas, April 1. — (Special Cable to The Examiner). — Canada's plan for a free trade pact with the British West Indies, which, it is estimated, would boost Canadian trade by $13,000,000 and West Indian trade by $31,000,000, is being carefully studied here from every angle.

The proposals are being discussed in official circles, and it is fully anticipated that the Bahamas will be represented at the conference of Canadian and British West Indian delegates which the Canadian Government will hold at Ottawa shortly.

Canada Stands to Benefit.

Canada would stand to benefit greatly in her trade with the Bahamas under commercial union, or customs union as the proposed free trade pact is sometimes called, as only 26.7 per cent. of Bahamian imports come from Canada, according to the latest available figures.

The Bahamas, favored already with free entry of their winter fruits and vegetables into Canada, would benefit from commercial union in various other ways. It would guarantee an all-time market for Bahamian produce in the Dominion and would attract Canadian capital and enterprise to the Bahamas which would be very welcome here.

The Nassau Guardian, in an editorial commenting on the proposed customs union, says:

"In view of what has been accomplished under reciprocal preference, it is not surprising that Canadian business men are looking for other means of expanding trade, and when the proposed conference meets in Ottawa during the coming summer it is probable that some further extension of preferences will be discussed. Whether any of the West Indian colonies, which are more or less dependent upon their tariffs for revenue, will be in a position to accept unreservedly the free trade scheme at the present time remains to be seen, but it is likely that sympathetic consideration will be given to any proposals emanating from the Canadian Government.

"The proposal has much to commend it, and would probably lead to free trade between the West Indian Colonies themselves, which is highly desirable, but a general readjustment of tariffs, which may take some time, would have to be undertaken before the island colonies can speak with a united voice. At all events, the scheme is worthy of consideration, and will, we hope, be received by the various colonies in the same spirit in which it is presented."

Higgins Opposes Cut In General's Powers

LONDON, April 1 (A.P.)—General E. J. Higgins, head of the Salvation Army, told the committee of the House of Commons which is considering a bill for democratizing the Army's organization, that he was against any curtailment of the administrative powers of the general.

He added, however, that when he was nominated he had made it clear that if he was elected he would endeavor to bring about changes similar to those outlined in the bill. He referred to the time when there was a distinct cleavage of opinion concerning the proposed changes between the late General Bramwell Booth and Evangeline Booth, leader of the Army in America. He said dissensions in the organization had increased during the last few years of the life of General Bramwell Booth led made great inroads upon that the strenuous life General Booth led made great inreads upon his health and strength. He carried a heavy burden of responsibility.

McGill As Centre Of Bird Life Study

MONTREAL, April 1 (Canadian Press).—Possessing as it does a wonderful library on ornithology, combined with the intense interest that Canadians have towards bird life, McGill University has a wonderful opportunity for the study of bird life in America, Dr. Arthur A. Allen, professor of ornithology, Cornell University, Ithaca, N.Y., stated during an illustrated address, "The Courtship and Home-Life of Birds," at an annual lecture meeting of The Province of Quebec Society for the Protection of Birds held here recently.

The speaker's remarks were most significant as the establishment of a chair of ornithology at one of the Canadian universities is being urged on certain quarters as an intelligent means of aiding the conservation of bird life in the Dominion.

Golf courses in New York State are being utilized for bird sanctuaries, the speaker said. Certain colored slides of Dr. Allen showed birds of different species perched on golf clubs and even golf balls, placed at vantage points used by them to broadcast their message of possession of a certain nesting area. Every bird has some characteristic method of appearing bigger and better than he really is, the speaker said. He added that steps were being taken to have other states adopt the principle of providing more sanctuaries for the conservation of bird life.

Doctors pretty well agree that (barring germ diseases) most drowsiness, lack of pep and ambition, are due to failure to keep "clean inside."

In blaming this condition for much of our sickness, so they also agree that the Nujol type of treatment is the safest way to relieve it. Nujol can't possibly hurt you. It isn't a medicine at all. It has no drugs in it. It is colorless — tasteless — and children love it.

Remember two things if you want to enjoy "Nujol health."

One: Don't expect results overnight. This is nature's own method, and nature is never violent.

Two: Don't accept any substitute. Your druggist has Nujol—always in a sealed package — always trademarked "Nujol" so you will be sure to get it.

Here's a way to get a result you know is good for you, without using drugs which you know are bad for you. Don't you think it's worth trying? Begin Nujol today!

Chautauqua Play Given In Marmora

(Examiner Correspondence)

MARMORA, April 1.—The opening of the local Chautauqua season took place on Tuesday evening and despite the disadvantages presented in Holy week, was patronized by a good sized crowd who well applauded the Peerless Players for their able presentation of "Turn to the Right."

THE SON OF TARZAN No. 27 (Metropolitan Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.) By Edgar Rice Burroughs

After weeks of exposure came a toughening and hardening of his smooth, white skin, browning now beneath the sun and wind. He had removed his pajama jacket one day to bathe in a little stream too small to harbor crocodiles. While he and Akut were disporting themselves in the cool water, a monkey dropped down from the overhanging trees and scampered away with the boy's single remaining article of civilization.

For a time he was angry, but soon realized being half-naked is more uncomfortable than being entirely naked, and he came to revel in the freedom of his unhampered state. Sometimes he would smile to imagine the surprise of his schoolmates could they but see him now. How they would envy him! He felt sorry for them even amid the comforts and luxuries of their English homes and happy with their mothers and fathers.

A most uncomfortable lump arose in the boy's throat as he thought of home and he saw a vision of his mother's face through a blur of mist that came unbidden to his eyes. Then it was that he urged Akut onward, for now they were headed westward for the coast. The old ape thought they were searching for a tribe of his kind, and the boy did not enlighten him as to his real plans when they would come to civilization.

One day as they were moving slowly along the banks of a river they came unexpectedly upon a native village. Some children were playing beside the water. The boy's heart leaped at sight of them—for over a month he had seen no human being. Even if they were black-skinned, were they not fellow creatures? He started toward them. Akut laid a warning hand upon his arm to hold him back, but he shook himself free and ran forward with a shout of greeting.

French Mine Strike Takes Serious Turn

ARRAS, France, April 1.—(A.P.)—The miners' strike in the Pas de Calais Basin assumed graver proportions to-day with over 2,000 men out in that region.

A movement was on foot to suspend from office the Communist Mayor of Montigny for leading a strikers' procession. At Dechy the miners stoned a platoon of guards, injuring a lieutenant. Several miners were hurt in the clash.

Foreign agitators were being sternly handled by the police. Eight Polish miners were arrested.

The situation in the southern mines was said to be more calm.

Fleetwood Farmer Suffers Fire Loss

LINDSAY, Ont., April 1 (Special to The Examiner).—A destructive fire occurred on the farm of Arthur L. Mayes, of Fleetwood, last night when his barn was destroyed, together with contents which included implements, two cars and a quantity of hay. Mr. Mayes was up in the loft with a lantern when he fell through a trap with the lantern in his hand. He was stunned by the fall but recovered sufficiently to enable him to rescue the stock. There was some insurance on the barn, but it will not nearly cover the loss.

Seek Higher Bounty On Young Wolf Pups

TORONTO, Ont., April 1 (C.P.).—An increase in the bounty on wolf pups under three months of age from $5 to $10 was recommended by the Fish and Game Committee of the Ontario Legislature to-day. The bounty on adult wolves is now $25, and William Newman (Liberal, North Victoria) urged the same figure for pups.

A closed season on edible frogs from May 1 to June 30 was also recommended by the committee. It was the last meeting of the year and the end of all committee sessions. Among the matters to be referred to the special committee on game laws to be appointed during the summer is the license fee charged fur dealers.

COMMUNISTS ROUNDED UP

TOKYO, April 1. (CP)—Sixty-eight men and three women were indicted at Osaka to-day in connection with a county-wide roundup of Communists. Twenty others were held for further investigation.

Hon. W. D. Ross Dissolves 1931 Legislature

HENRY PASSES FIRST MILESTONE AS GOV'T LEADER

Lieutenant-Governor Reviews Work of Session in Speech From Throne.

PREMIER CONGRATULATED.

Beautifully Gowned Women, Notables From Many Walks of Life Crowd Chamber.

TORONTO, Ont., April 2 (C.P.). — Fifteen guns fired by the Third Brigade, Royal Field Artillery, boomed out a salute to-day as Lieutenant-Governor W. D. Ross with a military escort arrived at the Parliament Buildings to dissolve the 1931 session of the Legislative Assembly of the Province of Ontario. With the close of the session the new Premier, George S. Henry, has passed the first milestone of his term of office.

To-day the Prime Minister was being showered with congratulations on his leadership of the House during the seven weeks it has been in operation.

In the Speech from the Throne read by Mr. Ross to-day, he reviewed the work of the session, congratulated the members on the earnest attention they had paid to the public business and thanked them for the money voted to the Government to carry on its work during the coming year.

Chamber Crowded

The usual group of beautifully-dressed women crowded the Assembly Chamber to-day when the House was prorogued. Seats of honor on the floor were occupied by distinguished members of the bench, representatives of the church, the city and the university and consuls of foreign countries. Members of the House who remained for the formal closing were crowded into the background by their wives and daughters who took over their workday seats.

The attention given agricultural problems during the session does not escape comment in the speech from the throne.

"While the farmer is encouraged by the prospect of an early growing season" the speech reads, "He is conscious that the whole situation of agriculture requires careful investigation and study. For this reason provision has been made for the appointing of the Ontario marketing board to consider and devise methods of improvement.

"Besides dealing with the problems of marketing it is intended to institute a general survey of the province so that production may be encouraged in the various localities along the special lines which are most likely to lead to advantageous results."

Public opinion will approve the measure to provide a quota to encourage the showing of British films in the Province, the Governor states. The re-organization of the Supreme Court of Ontario, he adds, will facilitate the administration of justice.

Frauds Act Commission

"Provision is made," the speech continues, "for the appointment of a commission to administer and enforce the Security Frauds Prevention Act. By setting up an independent and impartial tribunal for this purpose it is expected that the operation of the law will be finally removed from the arena of public controversy.

"Nearly ten years have elapsed since the law respecting municipal institutions was revised and codified. It is proposed, therefore, during the coming recess to resume this work, and to give all interested an opportunity to present their views on the subject. A commission will be appointed to study the Assessment Act and report its finding to this Legislature for consideration at a future session."

To Wed Herridge

A despatch from Ottawa to-day says: Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett, Prime Minister, announces the engagement of his sister, Mildred Marian, to William Duncan Herridge, of Ottawa, and recently appointed Canadian Minister to the Unite States. The ceremony will take place at an early date.

Bennett Announces Sir J. Stamp Will Lead Probe Into Sale of Grain Futures.

OTTAWA Ont., April 2. (CP) — Parliament Hill is deserted to-day. Members and Senators are speeding to all parts of the country to be at their homes for the Easter season. They will reassemble April 13.

The two Houses of Parliament yesterday took only about an hour to clear up the tag-ends of business remaining on the agenda. Finishing touches were placed on the supply bills and royal assent was given by Mr. Justice Newcombe, deputy administrator. It was said to be the second constitutional precedent of the session in this regard.

Royal Assent Given

Not only did a Canadian, Mr. Justice Duff of the Supreme Court of Canada, open Parliament thereby setting precedent, but his colleagues on the bench, Mr. Justice Newcombe, as Deputy administrator, gave royal assent to the bills passed. In the absence of a Governor-General, Mr. Justice Duff acted as Administrator until illness forced him into hospital. This necessitated the appointment of a Deputy Administrator.

Premier R. B. Bennett, in the short sitting of the House, made two important announcements. A conference of all the wheat exporting countries will discuss marketing problems at Canada House, London, Eng., on May 18. Hon. G. H. Ferguson, Canadian High Commissioner in Great Britain, will be chairman and it was at his suggestion the con-

DR. BANNISTER GUEST SPEAKER TO KIWANIANS

Education and Its Development in Ontario Traced by Speaker,

TWO YEAR NORMAL COURSE.

Standard of Training For Teachers Has Steadily Advanced.

Tracing the growth of teacher training as it has affected this Province, and showing in masterly fashion how the methods have changed from what they were in the early days, Dr. J. A. Bannister, B.A., Principal of Peterborough Normal School addressed the members of the Kiwanis Club at the noon luncheon at the Empress Hotel to-day.

President John I. Allen called upon L. J. Pettitt, B.A., to introduce the speaker.

Dr. Bannister, who has been engaged in educational pursuits since the age of five years, either as a student or teacher, confined his address to the work of teacher training, taking his audience back to the year 1791, when the Constitutional Act divided the Province of Quebec into Upper and Lower Canada.

At that time Upper Canada was almost entirely populated by soldiers and educational instruction was afforded to the children of the various garrisons, by the chaplain. New set-The parents themselves in some cases made for education is three ways. tiers came and further provision was instructed their children in the rudiments of reading, writing and a few other subjects; certain men who considered themselves capable and qualified started private schools as a venture; while in some communities parents clubbed together and obtained the services of a teacher, each parent paying according to the number of children they sent to school and the length of time they were at school.

As yet, the State had made no provision for education, but with the coming of Governor Simcoe an effort was made to foster education along more satisfactory lines, although Governor Simcoe had strange ideas of education.

He believed in establishing a University and utilizing the grammar schools as feeders. These schools made provision for men who were to become servants of the state, but entirely neglected the masses.

"To-day" said Dr. Bannister, "we begin with the child and build up to university."

After Governor Simcoe left the country a provision was made for the appropriation of half a million acres of land to create a fund for schools, such as the Governor had outlined, but the plan did not create any revenue for schools.

Provide for Public Schools

In the year 1807 the Provincial Schools Act was passed with provided for Public Schools, this continued until 1816. Shortly after 1812 the first Common School Act passed £6,000 was voted by the legislature, which considering the revenue at that time was a very handsome appropriation.

Up to that time no provision had been made for the training of teachers, but in 1843 at the time Dr. Ryerson was the leading spirit in education in Upper Canada model schools were established in each district. The model school was simply

NAVAL EXPERTS' HOPES RUN HIGH DESPITE HITCH

Efforts of British, French and Italian Representatives Continue After Easter.

ASSEMBLE IN LONDON.

Difficulty Occurs Over Dates of Replacement of Old Warships.

LONDON, April 2. — (A.P.)—The British Foreign Office spokesman said to-day that British, French and Italian naval experts would re-assemble in London after Easter to continue efforts which were being made to continue to complete the draft of a tri-partite naval agreement.

Despite problems which have arisen it was stated at N. 10 Downing street, efforts to iron the difficulties will be persisted and ultimate success is expected.

NO SURPRISE IN FRANCE.

PARIS, April 2 (C.P.) — London reports of a serious hitch threatening Franco-Italian naval negotiations occasioned no surprise to-day in diplomatic and parliamentary circles.

The hitch is understood to have arisen in elaboration of the text of the accord reached on March 1 in that part which concerns dates of replacements of old warships. There was wide expectation that a solution would be found for the difficulty some time after Easter.

ITALY HOPEFUL.

ROME, April 2 (C.P.). — Italian Government officials commenting upon London reports of a threatened breakdown in Franco-Italian naval negotiations, were hopeful to-day that the difficulty would be ironed out and further complications averted.

The difficulty is said to concern France's allotment of superannuated tonnage until 1935 and a number of lesser points, the exact nature of which was not disclosed.

Two Children Die After Eating Sauce

BAIE DE BACONS, Que., April 2 (C.P.). — The two children of Israel Martel, aged 6 and 15 months, respectively, were dead here to-day shortly after eating a meal of fish and sauce. Mr. and Mrs. Martel were also made ill by the food, which was thought to have been made poisonous by some ingredient in the home-made sauce.

MAJOR HERRIDGE TO WED SISTER OF THE PREMIER

Premier Bennett Announces Engagement of His Sister to Canadian Commissioner.

STOOD BY BROTHER.

Wedding Ceremony is Announced to Take Place at an Early Date.

OTTAWA, Ont., April 2. (CP)—Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett prime minister announced to-day the engagement of his sister, Mildred Marian, to William Duncan Herridge of Ottawa and recently appointed Canadian Commissioner to the United States. The ceremony will take place at an early date.

Announcement of the engagement of Miss Bennett to Major Herridge will be received with great interest by the people of Canada as well as outside the dominion.

No information was forthcoming to-day as to the exact date of the wedding. The impression here is that "early date" may possibly mean sometime this month. Major Herridge has arranged for a trip to England before he takes over duties at the Canadian legation at Washington. It is believed the wedding will take place here previous to the time fixed for his sailing and the bridal couple will go to England on their honeymoon. Major Herridge and his bridge will likely go to Washington in May or June where she will be chatelaine of the Canadian legation.

Beautiful, tall and graceful, with a charming personality, Miss Bennett has been almost constantly by the side of her brother from the day of the opening of the Winnipeg Conservative convention, in the fall of 1927, at which he was selected chieftain of his party. Miss Bennett accompanied her brother through his summer-speaking tour of the eastern townships of Quebec and the Maritime provinces in 1928. In the summer of 1925, Miss Bennett again was with her brother in his six weeks' itinerary of British Columbia; and later at other points in Canada. Again, she was the recipient of many tokens of appreciation wherever she spoke.

When the Conservative leader launched his successful election campaign in Winnipeg last June, Miss Bennett was on the platform of the auditorium where three years previously she had seen him elected to lead his party. Throughout the six weeks' hectic battle, in a 14,000 mile trans-Canada tour, Miss Bennett was a charming participant and often spoke at the meetings which the present Prime Minister addressed. Gifts of flowers any many other tokens were showered upon her by women friends during the campaign.

Taking her place as official hostess to her brother on his assumption of the office of Prime Minister, Miss Bennett has endeared herself not only to the people of Ottawa, but to every person with whom she had come into contact.

Born at Hopewell, N.B., Miss Bennett is a graduate of Mount Allison University. Following the death of her mother, she spent considerable time with her brother when he was conducting his law practice at Calgary, and with her sister, the late Mrs. H. W. Coates, at Vancouver. On a number of occasions, Miss Bennett has visited the British Isles and the Continent.

Major Herridge is the son of the late Rt. Rev. Dr. Herridge, noted clergyman, who at one time was Moderator of the Presbyterian General Assembly of Canada. Major Herridge has had a brilliant international legal career and distinguished military service during the Great War. Mentioned several times in despatches, Major Herridge was awarded the Distinguished Service Order and military Cross with bar.

April Fool Joke Causes Bad Crash

CHICAGO, Ill., April 2 (C.P.). —It was shortly beofre midnight, and All Fools' Day jesters had a few minutes left to play. ... .

One of them, laughing perhaps as he acted, turned in a false alarm for a joke on the firemen. On their way to the supposed fire a small automobile got in the way of their truck and the driver swerved to one side to save the lives of three persons in the passenger car. The truck hit a trolley pole.

Six firemen were injurrd. Three of them may die.

Tired Workman Comes Off Second Best As Wildcat Resents Sharing Same Bed

WATERLOO, N. Y., Apr. 2.—It will probably be a long time before Byron Smith will retire in a dark room without looking carefully under the bed, and more particularly in it.

Smith was exhibiting a face and hands swathed in bandages today as proof of the unwelcome bed-mate he found after he had undressed in the kitchen of his home at Dublin, near here, and clambered into bed with a sigh after a hard day's work.

It was probably the shortest sigh on record, for it had hardly begun when twenty pounds of animal dynamite in the form of a wildcat went into action with all four claws and a good set of teeth.

The melee was fast and soon over, Smith reaching the kitchen just a little ahead of the wildcat, which escaped where it had entered, through a hole in the kitchen door Smith had cut for his house cat to enter when he was at work.

Forrest Jensen Doing Good Work For Pirates

No recruit in the Pittsburgh Pirate squad this spring has attracted more attention at San Francisco, Cal., than Forrest Jensen, the fleet young outfielder from Seattle, Wash. His hitting and speed on the base paths have been particularly brilliant. Everybody in the party today was talking about what happened after his triple against the Chicago Cubs yesterday. He was waiting at third when Lloyd Waner hit a short one to Cuyler. Jensen knows all about Cuyler's throwing arm, but he made a dash for the plate at the catch and beat Kiki's beautiful heave by an inch.

Crash During Fog In Mediterranean, Both Reach Port

French Liner Florida Piling Into British Aircraft Carrier Glorious 60 Miles Off Gibraltar Suffers Badly Damaged Bow —Gunboat and Five Destroyers Act as Ecort to Harbor.

FIVE INJURED AND ALL PASSENGERS TRANSFERRED TO GLORIOUS ARE RUSHED TO MALAGA AND PUT ASHORE

Planes From Aircraft Carrier Flying Ovehead as Crash Comes Forced to Head For Mainland as Debris Litters Deck—Four Fail to Reach Land and Sink—Crews Saved.

MALAGA, Spain, April 2 (C.P.). — The French Consul here reported to-day that thirty persons had been killed and five seriously injured when the French liner Florida collided with the British aircraft carrier Glorious during a fog in the Mediterranean yesterday.

The dead and injured are all steerage passengers, Italian, Spanish, French, or Greek, returning to Europe from the Argentine. Passengers of the first and second classes escaped unhurt.

The Florida, badly damaged in the bow, was brought to Malaga this morning accompanied by a British gunboat and five British destroyers. Both the Florida and the Glorious are now at Malaga, the Glorious bringing with her all first and second class passengers and the injured steerage passengers of the Florida.

The dead and injured of the Florida will be transferred to the Glorious and then put ashore

Reports Vary

LONDON, April 2. (AP—A British Admiralty message from H.M.S. Glorious to-day said that 23 emigrant passengers aboard the French liner Florida were missing and one unidentified Syrian passenger dead as a consquence of collision of the Florida and Glorious in a dense fog sixty miles off Gibraltar yesterday.

The message from the Glorious said that the body of the dead man had been brought aboard the aircraft carrier, as also had several of the Florida's passengers who were severely injured.

Arrangements were being made, the message said, for landing the passengers and injured.

The Glorious reported that she was seaworthy and would proceed from Gibraltar, arriving there tomorrow. A complete survey of the damage to the Glorious would be made at Gibraltar it was said.

The Florida was struck between the bow and ridge. It was here that the majority of the casualties occurred. This section of the steerage was occupied chiefly by Italian emigres who were returning to the homeland.

As many of them were crushed, their horrifying cries rent the fog-laden air.

4 Planes Sink

In spite of mist, planes from the aircraft carrier flew overhead and witnessed the accident. The flying deck of the carrier was littered with debris following the crash so that the planes were forced to alight on the mainland. Four of them failed to reach the shore and sank in the sea but their crews were saved.

31 BODIES FOUND.

Thirty-one bodies were recovered late to-day from the wreckage of the French steamer.

Authorities were continuing the search for additional bodies, but because of the confusion it could not be definitely established whether or not others were missing.

The bodies which were identified included 17 Italians, five Syrians four Poles, one Russian, three Slavs and one Spaniard. All of them were steerage passengers, chiefly emigres returning to their native countries.

Famous Britisher Sets New Record For Speed Boats

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, April 2 (A.P.).—The gunboat Parana this afternoon wirelessed the Ministry of Marine that Kaye Don, British speed boat driver, had broken the world motor boat speed record with his boat, Miss England II.

The famous British speed boat driver set out to-day to better marks established by Gar Wood, United States driver, March 21 at Miami Beach, Fla. Gar Wood set the mark at 101.154 miles per hour for the statute mile.

His speed, pending compilation of official figures, was calculated at 103 73 miles an hour.

MARINE GUARDS ONLY RESIDENTS OF RUINED CITY

600 DEAD REMOVED

Doctors Start Vaccination Campaign to Prevent Spread of Typhoid Fever.

(By William H. Ewing, A.P. Staff Writer, Copyright, 1931, by the A.P.)

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, April 2 (A.P.).—Razed by earthquake, gutted by fire, Managua to-day is an almost deserted city of smouldering, crumpled ruins, its debris littered streets peopled largely by grim, silent Marines and Nicaraguan National Guards.

On the hills about the city stand tents, made in some cases from bedclothes, and other hastily erected temporary shelters in which more than 30,000 of the stricken city's population are camped, fearful of return to Managua's ruins and uncertain of the future.

Fissure used as Grave

On one hill, overlooking the city, a giant fissure opened by the 'quakes of Tuesday, is being used as an improvised crematorium to which most of the bodies recovered are being taken as soon as they are extricated from the fallen masonry of the ruined city.

About 600 dead have been actually accounted for and it seemed probable to-day that the total would reach the initial estimate of 1,000. There probably will be more dead than injured, Marine Corps officers believed, commenting that most of those caught indoors at all by the 'quake were killed outright.

More than 300 serious injuries have been treated at the Marine Barracks at Campo de Marte, and more than 70 persons are confined there with injuries which in many cases will prove fatal. Some, too old to undergo

CRONAN IS GIVEN TERM OF 3 YEARS

Northup of Defunct Insurance Investments Gets 18 Months.

CONVICTED OF THEFT.

TORONTO, Ont., April 2 (C.P.) — Convicted on numerous charges of theft and fraud of clients' stock involving thousands of dollars in cash and property, Gerald F. Cronan and Arthur W. Northup, former officials of the now defunct Insurance Investments, Ltd., appeared to-day before Judge Denton in the Court of the General Sessions for sentence. Cronan who was president of defunct Investment Company, was sentenced to three years in Portsmouth Penitentiary, while Northup was sentenced to 18 months determinate and six months indeterminate in the Ontario Reformatory.

The trial of the two men occupied the first two days of this week, His Lordship reserving judgment and directing the accused be confined in custody until to-day, when he declared he would pass sentence.

Both men had formerly served penitentiary sentences in Halifax. It transpired when they were convicted on charges of conspiracy, the Crown stated.

BRIGHT FUTURE HASTENED BY TAX BILL IS APPROVED IN DYING HOURS

Opposition Members Force Division After Stubborn Fight.

LEGISLATION CLEANED UP.

Barbers' Bill and Rented Battery Bill Are Withdrawn in Legislature.

TORONTO, Ont., April 2 (C.P.).—Sitting until the small hours of the morning to-day the Ontario Legislature wound up its business for 1931 and the members will now be able to go home for Easter. Final approval was given many pieces of legislation including the corporation tax law, and the perhaps more contentious law forbidding the use of dogs in deer hunting in the northern and western part of the Province.

Ends in Atmosphere of Good Humor.

The usual protests came from the Opposition about important legislation being hurried through in the dying hours, but the session broke up in a general atmosphere of good humor, and as the sitting came to a close, Liberals, Progressives and Conservatives were gathering together in the lobbies and crossing the floor twitting one another about the battles of the past month and a half.

Fighting stubbornly to the end on the Corporation Tax law of Hon. E. A. Dunlop, the Opposition forced a division and the Government was sustained by a vote of 62 to 14. The ban on dogs north of the French and Mattawa Rivers was seen as the thin edge of the wedge to ban them all over the Province, by Hon. Harry Nixon, Progressive Leader, and Hon. Charles McCrea, Minister of Game and Fisheries, frankly admitted he would like to see the ban made Province-wide. In deference to widespread opposition he had limited the ban to the northern section of the Province.

Bills Are Withdrawn

The bill to give battery service stations protection against absent minded motorists who forget to return rented batteries was withdrawn by Hon. Leopold MacAuley, Provincial Secretary in deference to feeling against it in different sections of the house. It may be re-introduced next year. Another bill to be withdrawn was that of G. McBrien, Cons., Brockton, Toronto, which would regulate the operation of barber shops.

Premier Henry requested the withdrawal of the bill and E. J. Murphy (Cons., St. Patrick, Toronto) in a witty speech condemned it as silly legislation.

A good part of yesterday's and this morning's proceedings were taken up with the passage of the remainder of the estimates. In the course of the passage of the highway department estimates Premier Henry announced the highways advisory committee would study the whole question of taxation or highway purposes as it affects both rural and urban districts.

Formal prorogation took place this afternoon when the Lieutenant-Governor, Hon. W. D. Ross, arrived at the parliament buildings with a military escort to declare the session ended.

Three thousand attended the funeral of Canon W. Murmane, at the Camberwell, England, Catholic Church, recently, and 1,000 recited prayers outside.

Bridgenorth Couple Honored By Friends

BRIDGENORTH, April 2 (Examiner Correspondence)—Members of Gilmour Church and friends met on Friday evening last in the basement of the church for a presentation and social evening in honor of Mrs. Wigg (nee Betty Edgar).

Mr. Charlie Moore acted as chairman for the evening during which every one joined in and sang heartily some old favorite songs led by Mrs. Joe Mann. After the program which consisted of recitations and duets, Mr. and Mrs. Wigg were called to the front of the church, when Miss Margaret Mann read an address and Mr. Gordon McGregor presented the young couple with a lovely wicker chair.

Mrs. Wigg replied in a few well chosen words thanking her friends for the beautiful gift. The remainder of the evening was spent at games and refreshments were served.

YOUNG HUNTER SERIOUSLY HURT

Bowmanville Boy Struck By Bullet From Rear While Out Hunting.

OPERATION PERFORMED.

BOWMANVILLE, Apr. 2.—Following a mysterious shooting affair at the lake front, last night, William Gray, 17-year-old son of Mrs. Joseph Davis, Bowmanville, is in the hospital with a bullet wound in his stomach, and his condition is critical.

Nothing is known of the shooting save the story told to the police by the boy. Previous to an operation performed by Dr. J. Clarke Bell, later in the evening, Gray told Chief of Police Sydney Venton that he was in the marshes near the lake shore, before dusk, with a rifle and had been shooting. He started to walk home, he said, a distance of a mile and a half, when a shot from the rear went through his body.

Although bleeding profusely, he walked a mile to the home of William Barrable, a Canadian National Railways sectionhand, where he told his story and where the doctor was summoned. He was removed to the hospital, where he told police his story.

Gray said that others were shooting in the marshes. Although he did not see them, he heard their guns. He said also that the shot entered his back. An examination, however, has not revealed which way the shot entered his body.

About 8 o'clock last evening it was decided that an operation was necessary, and his mother was sent for. His father was killed in France in 1916, when the boy was young.

Gray had been placed on suspended sentence when arraigned on charges before Magistrate Floyd of Cobourg. He was placed in the custody of the Bowmanville Rotary Club which was to care for him, and see that he returned to school. This shooting took place after school hours and previous to the lad's supper time.

COMMISSIONER HEADS PARLEY CANADA HOUSE

Exporting Nations of World to Study Problem of Wheat Marketing.

MEET ON MAY 18TH.

Hon. Howard G. Ferguson Objects to Word "Committee" as Regards Gathering.

ROME, April 2 (By George Hambleton, Canadian Press Staff Correspondent). — The World Wheat Conference closed to-day, its chief concrete result — reached outside the Conference proper and on the initiative of Canada — lies in clearing way towards understanding between the wheat exporting countries of the world for orderly marketing of the next wheat crop.

The exporting countries will endeavor to reach this agreement at a conference to be called in Canada House, London, on May 18, with Hon G. Howard Ferguson, Canadian High Commissioner to London, as chairman.

And in the final plenary session with the Conference wading through draft reports there was another snappy exchange over a reference to the coming London Conference. A report spoke of the Rome Conference as having appointed a committee of the exporting countries.

Hon. Mr. Ferguson objected to the word "committee." "The London Conference is not a committee of anybody," Mr Ferguson held. "We are a substantive body, not responsible either to the International Institute of Agriculture or to the League of Nations. We are not restricted. Our report will go to the governments represented at the London Conference."

Delegates from Hungary, the Argentine and other wheat exporting nations supported Mr. Ferguson's contention.

But Senator De Micheles of Italy, president of the international institute who last night described the London conference as a sort of secession movement, again to-day heatedly argued the draft report merely repeated the minutes of the committee in which the suggestion of the London conference was put forward by Mr. Ferguson.

The exporting countries still pressed for an unfettered conference the Argentine also suggested the London meeting should deal with existing stocks of wheat, as well as the next crop.

The conference resolution, as finally adopted, noted the London conference with satisfaction, and outlined the scope of its work as "formulating a plan" for the marketing of the next crop, and to consider methods of disposal of existing stocks.

In other resolutions the conference recommended that agricultural credits should be made available to farmers, particularly wheat growers, at low rates.

Preferential Tariffs

A resolution on preferential tariffs which was finally passed, brought an objection from the Soviet.

The preference resolution said that any negotiations for tariff preferences should be conducted through the ordinary diplomatic channels. This had been the contention of Canada through Dr. W. A. Riddell, who yesterday argued the world conference was not the proper place for discussion of the claims of European exporting countries for preferential tariffs in European importing countries.

Stamp to Head Commission

Sir Josiah Stamp, noted British economist, will come to Canada about April 9 to head a Government commission to investigate the sale of grain futures. Does the sale of grain futures operate to the detriment of the producer; will be the sole question to be probed. Premiers of the Western provinces will name a representative on the Commission, while the Grain Exchanges will nominate the third member.

There was a sharp cleavage of opinion in Canada on the effect of future selling on the grain-producing industry, the Premier said. In an effort to settle the question authoratively, Sir Josiah Stamp had been invited to head the Commission, and, at some personal inconvenience he had accepted. He is chairman of the London, Scottish and Midland Railway.

When Parliament adjourned yesterday there was none of the color of the opening day or when prorogation takes place. After the Commons had passed the supply bills, there was the usual wait while it was dealt with by the Senate. This interval was filled in with the time-honored custom of singing. Old-time favorites were the rule, with French and English-speaking members vieing with one another for harmony and volume.

The ceremonies in the Senate, when royal assent was given the bills, were short and almost drab in comparison with prorogation. Neither the Senate nor the House galleries contained many spectators.

The supply bills voted $6,146,655 for general Governmental purposes and $13,694,008 for the Canadian National Railways. The money applied to the fiscal year ending the last day in March.

In answer to a question, Hon. W. A. Gordon, representing the Department of Labor in the House of Commons, said relief grants passed at the emergency session last Fall had not lapsed with the close of the fiscal year on March 31.

SMALL CHILD STRANGLED BY CORD OF SLEEPING BAG

NEW YORK, N.Y., April 2 (C.P.).—Raymond Staines, 15-month-old son of a British Consular worker at Tampico, Mex., was accidentally strangled by the neck cord of a sleeping bag in a hotel last night while his parents attended a theatre.

The parents were Mr. and Mrs. D. E. Staines of Cambridge, Eng. They arrived from Mexico yesterday and planned to sail for England Saturday.

The child was found by a floor maid, who had been asked to look in at intervals, just before the parents returned.

PLANES SEEKING RACING YACHTS OVERDUE 3 DAYS

Coastguard Cutters Combing 289 Miles of Sea From St. Petersburg to Havana.

13 MEN IN CREWS.

Hopes Held Craft May Have Sought Shelter on Some Isolated Key.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., April 2.—Both the Coastguard and Pan-American airplanes were mustered into service to-day to search for the yachts Cynosure of this city, and Virginian of Mobile, now nearly three days overdue in a race from here to Havana.

Three Coastguard cutters, under command of Commander L. C. Mueller, pointed their bows over 289 mile route to seek clues of the missing craft.

Hope was held they may have landed on some isolated key or made some outlying shore during the heavy weather experienced by the other yachts which have reached Havana.

13 Men in Two Craft

On the Cynosure were Gidge Gandy, Captain; W. T. Davies, Charles Schminke, Bid Mabry and Harold Park, all of St. Petersburg. Captain Harold A. Walker, commanding the Virginian, 100-year-old craft, was accompanied by H. S. Walker, Jr., Jim Pendle, R. V. Hansen, P. Betencourt, Leo Diermert, A. S. Puckett and Lester Meyers, all of Mobile.

The Scimitar III, of Deland, also overdue, staggered into Havana yesterday after a rough passage. Beside the captain and crew of this craft was Mrs. William A. Hart, wife of the skipper. She suffered a breakdown due to the rough weather.

Airplanes flying over any parts of the route have been asked to aid in the search, and it was considered possible naval seaplanes from Pensacola might be asked to join the hunt.

BUS LINE TO BE RUN FOR PUPILS

Campbellford Board of Education Calls for Tenders—Caused by New Train Schedule.

COME FROM KEENE

CAMPBELLORD, April 2 (By Examiner Staff Correspondent)—Failing to receive satisfaction from the Canadian National Railway in connection with the change of train schedule on the Lindsay-Belleville line, the Campbellford Board of Education are calling for tenders for a bus service between Keene and Campbellford to accommodate the High School pupils coming from points outside the town.

This decision was reached after the delegation which interviewed railway officials at Belleville following a special School Board meeting to deal with the matter. The placing of the ten o'clock train on this line to four in the afternoon and the setting back of the evening train one hour, which the new schedule calls for, stops all out of town pupils from attending the Campbellford High School and will prove a serious loss.

To eliminate this difficulty the Board will establish a bus line between Keene and Campbellford, tenders being called for to carry thirty-five pupils from April 27, 1931 to June 30, 1932. The School Board had hopped that the C.N.R. would see fit to run a special motor train for the accommodation of the High School pupils.

WOLVES ARE SEEN OUTSIDE GELERT

Trio Spotted on Ice by C.N.R. Engineer Evidently Seeking Beaver.

INSPECTOR SURPRISES PACK

LINDSAY, April 2 (Examiner Correspondence)—Milton Blair, C.N.R. engineer on the Haliburton train, noticed three wolves near the tracks yesterday morning as the train was passing Dutch Line, near Gelert. The animals were on the ice and were evidently after beaver as the haunts of the latter animal are quite close to this point. Northern hunters declare that great inroads are made on beaver, which the wolves devour with eagerness.

A few days ago Fish and Game Overseer Davidson, of Haliburton, came across three wolves, two young ones and an old one, devouring a mangled deer, which was quite warm when examined.

FORTY YEARS AS JUDGE; TRIED 200,000 CASES

Judge F. M. Moran of York County is Retiring After Long Service.

IN TORONTO COURTS

TORONTO, Ont., April 2 (C.P.).—Two hundred thousand cases have come before County Judge Frederick Montye Morson, during his nearly 40 years of service, mostly in the division courts of the County of York. His Honor's retirement, in his 76th year, was recently announced from Ottawa.

"I would have been 40 years on the bench next June," he said when the papers published despatches telling of his retirement on full pension.

"They might have let me stay till then," the Judge went on regretfully. "I should like to have completed the 40 years, but the powers that be think otherwise. I don't know what I'll do now. I don't even play golf." If he had a hobby, he said, it was the sea. It had been his ambition to take a trip around the world. Perhaps he would be able to now.

Asked what case in his long career he remembered most, he said:

"Oh, there are many, especially when I heard appeals from the police court. There was the case where I held that a cigar was a medicine, when a druggist appealed a fine for selling cigars on Sunday. Then there was the appeal of a man convicted for putting on an immoral play called 'Deborah' in 1913. There was a committee of forty looking after the morals of Toronto then. I'm afraid

HOW TO GET RELIEF FROM CATARRH

If you have catarrh, catarrhal deafness, or head noises, go to your druggist and get 1 oz. of Parmint (Double Strength); take this home, add to it ¼ pint of hot water and a little sugar. Take a tablespoonful four times a day.

This will often bring quick relief from the distressing head noises. Clogged nostrils should open, breathing become easy and the mucous stop dropping into the throat. It is easy to make, tastes pleasant and costs little. Every one who has catarrh should give this treatment a trial. You will probably find it is just what you need.

GANDHI OUTLINES RECIPE OF LIFE

Clean Heart, Strict Vegetable Diet, Love for Fellow Man Essentials.

HOPES TO LIVE 100 YEARS.

KARACHI, India, April 2 (A.P.)—Mahatma Gandhi to-day gave his recipe for the prodigious health and energy which mark his life, even at well past 60 years of age:

"A clean heart, a clear conscience, a cool head, regular communion with God, abstention from carnal food and pleasure, no alcohol, smoking or condiments, a strict vegetable diet, and love for my fellow man."

Although he is temporarily indisposed and was put to bed yesterday, Gandhi's capacity to work without seeming ill effects has been a source of constant wonder to Europeans who have watched the progress of the All India National Congress here.

Up very morning at four, there has not been a night when he has slept more than four hours, and in many of them he has rested only one hour. He has been actually busy with sessions of the Congress and Congress committees for eighteen hours each day.

In the course of each day Gandhi receives in the neighborhood of 500 visitors, participates in endless councils, attends to voluminous correspondence, directs policy and actions of the Nationalist organization, edits "Young India," translates Christian scriptural writings into Hindustani, makes speeches, gives interviews, and yet finds time to pray, spin, fast, and meditate, and he has even invented a new type of spinning wheel.

He says that he expects to live to be 100 years old.

MARINE GUARDS

necessary operations, amputations and the like, are almost certain to die of their injuries.

The patients are of all races and both sexes. Some have broken legs and arms, some fractured skulls and other internal injuries. The Marine doctors are greatly handicapped by lack of operating rooms and are doing their work in tents.

Medical operations are in charge of Lieutenant Commander W. B. Hatfield, who during the night organized a corps of doctors and surgeons for vaccinations against typhoid. A blanket vaccination order has been issued covering all residents of the city who cannot show proper previous inoculation.

Seven physicians have been assigned to the work, and it is believed that 10,000 persons, willing or no, will be vaccinated to-day. There are sufficient supplies on hand for the first hours of the work and others are expected by seroplane from Panama.

A water supply to-day was still the city's most serious immediate problem which may be solved by bringing in pumping machinery from Granada. There probably will be enough food for the emergency period, with additional supplies arriving by plane and the U. S. S. Rochester which is coming to Corinto from Balboa.

Supplies reaching Corinto can be brought by railroad to within eight broke the rail lines. Hundreds of broke the rail lines. Hundreds of Managuans have walked the eight miles to reach the railway in order to secure transportation to liveable quarters until Managua can be cleaned up and rebuilt.

Practically nowhere in the city was there a building left standing which was fit for habitation. Five of the city's three banks are total ruins; in one of these, the Anglo South American bank, half million dollars in gold reposed, but the walls were left by the quake in such dangerous condition that no one has ventured inside.

The Philippines have appropriated $6,000,000 for highway improvement.

BRIGHT FUTURE HASTINGS PLANT

Braithwaite Leather Company Will Be Running at Full Capacity Within Week.

LAVOIE COMPANY BUSY.

HASTINGS, April 2 (Examiner Correspondence). — The industrial situation in Hastings is the brightest at the present time it has looked in some time. L. O. Braithwaite, of the Braithwaite Leather Company, who was in town on Tuesday of this week informed The Examiner that their local plant would be running to full capacity in the course of a few days. Hastings is very fortunate in having an industry of this type, as during the winter months, when depression has been felt in almost all lines of industrials throughout the country, the plant kept on a good portion of their men, doing a great deal to relieve the unemployment situation, which fortunately Hastings escaped to an appreciable extent during the winter months. The plant machine shops are busy at present on rush orders. This along with the saw mill requires a large number of men.

For women workers L. G. Lanon & Company are entering on their busiest times, after running day and night for some months.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, April 2.—Corn collapsed 3c a bushel yesterday, outdoing all previous bottom price records this season. Heavy selling to stop losses put the corn market under a strain, and caused sympathetic weakness in wheat and oats. Unofficial April estimates that the 1931 domestic winter wheat production would total possibly 642,000,000 bushels, against 550,000,000 indicated a year ago, had a bearish effect that was intensified by unusual slowness of corn shipping demand here.

Corn closed unstable, 1¾ to 2¾ cents down; wheat 1¼ off to ⅛ up; oats at 1 to 1¼ setback, and provisions unchanged to 5 cents decline.

MUSICAL PROGRAM TREAT IN MARMORA

Chautauqua Patrons Given Splendid Concert by Lowell Patton Artists.

MARMORA, April 2 (Examiner Correspondent). — Chautauqua patrons who turned out in good numbers on Wednesday evening were royally entertained by the Lowell Patton artists who gave the second of two brilliant musical programs. These gifted artists form a combination such as is rarely heard in the smaller towns of the Province. Lowell Patton possesses a rare platform presence and besides being a talented elocutionist, is able to blend philosophy with anecdote in unrehearsed speech. As a pianist he is inimitable whether in accompaniment or in solo. Fenwick Newell, formerly tenor soloist with the famous Paulist Choir of New York, also made a great hit in his solo numbers. His voice is of fine lyric quality, and his choice of songs took exceedingly well with the audience. The audience was particularly delighted in having the privilege of hearing the gifted contralto of the party, Gloria Robinson. The ease with which the most exacting airs were sung by this young lady was a source of wonderment and pleasure to all. Groups of duets by the two soloists were also greatly relished. From start to finish the program maintained a very high standard.

my judgment shocked some of the goody-goody people.

"I didn't know the play in its uncensored form, but as it was censored, it was not immoral under the Code. I said in my judgment: 'Public opinion has changed very much in the last ten years due to Ibsen and other writers'."

Fellow judges, court officials and members of the bar flocked around to voice their regrets at Judge Morson's retirement and pay tribute to his long service.

"There has been no better friend of the profession than your Honor," said Edward Smilie, representing the bar. "Out of the goodness of your heart you have even been willing to assist the younger members of the profession. We hope you may not completely sever your ties with us."

Expressing appreciation of members of bench and bar, Judge Morson said: "The chaps who plead before me are mostly young fellows, students and young lawyers. They are my boys—one of the greatest pelasures in my life. They've always been kind and good to me. Their esteem is a great comfort now. I couldn't help making many enemies on the bench. But I hope they have all forgiven me. I have no enemies personally."
